The term, however, is but a feeble expression of my appreciation of its value, based upon personal observation. I have, while witnessing its positive results in the special diseases indicated to the organism of woman, singled it out as the climax or crowning gem of my medical career. On its merits, as a positive, safe, and delicious cordial for all the class of diseases, and one that will, at all times and under all circumstances, act kindly, I am willing to stake my reputation as a physician; and so confident am I that it will not disappoint, I am prepared to refund the entire price paid by any lady who uses it for any of the ailments for which I recommend it, that I offer and sell it under A POSITIVE GUARANTEE. (For conditions, see pamphlet wrapped around bottle.)
The following are among those diseases in which my Favorite Prescription has worked cures, as if by magic, and with a certainty never before attained by any medicine: Leucorrhœa, Excessive Flowing, Painful Monthly Periods, Suppressions when from unnatural causes, Irregularities, Weak Back, Prolapsus, or Falling of the Uterus, Anteversion and Retroversion, Bearing-down Sensations, Internal Heat, Nervous Depression, Debility, Despondency, Threatened Miscarriage, Chronic Congestion, Inflammation and Ulceration of the Uterus, Impotency, Barrenness, or Sterility, and Female Weakness. I do not extol this medicine as a "cure-all," but it admirably fulfills a single purpose, being, I believe, the most perfect specific in all chronic diseases of the sexual system of woman. It will not disappoint, nor will it do harm, in any state or condition.
Those who desire further information on these subjects can obtain it in THE PEOPLE'S COMMON SENSE MEDICAL ADVISER, a book of 900 pages, sent, post-paid, on receipt of $1.50. It treats minutely of those diseases peculiar to females, and gives much valuable advice in regard to the management of those affections.

Political.

The United States supervisor at the poll in Charleston, S. C., where ex-Congressman Mackey asserted that Daggett, the foreman of the News office, put 2,500 fraudulent ballots into one box during an hour that he was there, confirms the statement of the former. The supervisor says that 2,454 tissue tickets were put into the box at this particular poll.

As will be recollected, the result in Florida in 1876 hinged on the vote of Alachua county, which both parties claimed to have carried, and which was finally given to the Hayes electors. At the late election in that county, the republican candidate for Congress had 550 majority. In Archer precinct, concerning which there was the most dispute in 1876, the democrats then claimed 230 votes while the returning board credited them with only 136. At the election there on the 5th instant the democratic vote was just forty-two! These facts go along way towards showing that the democratic claim of '76 was entirely bogus.

Already the unrestrained violations of law in the election of South Carolina have been followed by similar violence in other respects. The United States revenue officers, who have been previously resisted, but who had reassorted their authority, are again driven away, and forced to flee for their lives. The authorities look on approvingly at the violence exerted to force democratic majorities in republican districts, and indifferently at similar violence against United States revenue officers; but it will not stop here; the spirit of lawlessness once unchained cannot be restrained in the direction of its outrages. It will soon manifest itself against the State authorities, and against personal rights and private property. The men who think that they can control the agencies of the mob, and direct them to the objects of their own dislike, will find themselves grievously mistaken. The evil which they have commenced or countenanced will return upon themselves, and will plunge the State into anarchy and ruin. Property, liberty, life placed in jeopardy in one bad cause, are not safe anywhere.—Providence Journal.

The largest safe in the world has just been completed for the United States Sub-Treasury in New York. It is as large as an average farm house.

A "Capital" Joke.

The Concord Monitor suggests that it would be a neat thing for the State to step in and assume a little debt of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars incurred by the city of Concord to secure the retention of the State Capital within her borders. The Monitor invites the delegation from Manchester to come forward and take the initiative in the good work. The Mirror says "Nay." The Concord people secured the benefits of the State House by the acceptance of an offer for a small sum compared with the liberal outlay Manchester was ready to make, although every one knew that the corporate tax payers who rule Manchester, when it came to a case in hand, would not have permitted the extravagant outlay. But, as we understood it at the time, and presume the rest of the State did, the matter was set to rest by Concord retaining the State House and incidental patronage, while Manchester was ever after to name, for each party, the man who should be governor. As a part of the programme our rotund friend of the Mirror now enjoys the emoluments of the State printing, and the opportunity of announcing through his columns bienially who shall be next governor, while the Concord people have the incidental benefit of the State House, the lobby and the political conventions. Let us have peace between the sister cities on the Merrimack.

Shocking Marine Disaster.

The steamship Pomerania, of the Hamburg-American line, was in collision off Dungeness, England, shortly before midnight on Monday, and sank in a short time—one account says in ten minutes. She had a large number of people on board, of whom 162 were saved, and 58 lost, the captain and second and third officers being among the latter. The steamer was a fine one of 3382 tons register. At the time of the collision there was a dense fog. The vessel with which the steamer collided was a Welsh barque, supposed to be the Noel Ellian, in ballast, which struck the steamer amidships. The survivors of the disaster were picked up by the steamer Glengarry. The barque had her bows stove in and her forward compartment filled, and was towed into port on Tuesday, disabled. The captain of the Pomerania refused to leave his ship in a boat, and went down with her.

The Life-Saving Stations.

The completion of the new life-saving stations has made the renumbering of all the districts necessary. The orders of Superintendent Kimball have been issued, and will go into effect December 10th. After that date the several districts will be divided and numbered as follows:

Dist.		No. Stations.
1	Maine and New Hampshire coast	7
2	Massachusetts coast	15
3	Rhode Island and Long Island coasts	26
4	New Jersey coast	41
5	From Cape Henlopen to Cape Charles	11
6	From Cape Henry to Cape Fear	25
7	Florida coast	8
8	The Gulf coast	6
9	Lakes Erie and Ontario	9
10	Lakes Huron and Superior	13
11	Lake Michigan	18
12	The Pacific coast	6
	Total	196

The work of establishing new stations during the summer has been a most arduous and trying one, and Superintendent Kimball and his assistants have been putting forth every effort to bring about the completion of the work in time to be of service this winter.

Around the World.

A striking illustration of the extent and excellence of the arrangements for international mail service, which have resulted from the postal union, is given in an official publication received by the superintendent of foreign mails from the Berne (Switzerland) central bureau. A resident of Chemnitz, Saxony, mailed at that place at seven o'clock P. M. on the 24th of May last, a postal card addressed to himself, carrying a request to all postmasters to despatch it successively and without loss of time to Alexandria, (Egypt,) Singapore, Yokohama, San Francisco and New York, and then to Chemnitz, his object being to win a wager that, with the existing postal arrangements, the circuit of the world could thus be made by postal matter within 120 days. The request was complied with, and the card arrived in Chemnitz from New York on the 117th day after the date of original mailing. The Postmaster-General of Germany has caused this card to be photographed, and transmitted a copy to the Berne international bureau, with the remark that, had it been posted one hour earlier, it would have accomplished its journey in ninety-six days instead of 117.

News and Notes.

Dr. Daniel Pierson, a physician of Augusta, Hancock county, Ill., was called out of his house Saturday night and murdered with an iron bar. Dr. Pierson had been very active in suppressing lawlessness in his county, and is supposed to have been murdered through revenge.

A sudden visit of a committee of the supervisors of Syracuse, N. Y., to the Asylum for Insane Paupers, revealed the fact that five human beings were kept in underground cells, naked, filthy beyond belief, and evidently without any care except the furnishing of food through a hole in the doors.

Mrs. Mary A. LaBau, daughter of Commodore Vanderbilt and contestant of his will, is soon to be married to Francis Berger, Consul-General at New York from the Duchy of Luxembourg.

F. L. Bartlett, the State Assayer of Maine, writes to the Portland Transcript that in a recent trip to the mineral regions of Maine he has been much impressed with the value and richness of the ores found in different localities of the Sullivan silver mine, owned and controlled by Boston parties. He says that this is the only one in the eastern States where silver is found in its native state. The ore vein is seven feet wide, and is pronounced a true fissure vein by experts. The ore assays from $40 to $8000 per ton. Three hundred tons are now ready for shipment, and the experts and mining men who have visited the mine pronounce it wonderful.

Robert Lopaz, of Ashville, N. Y., was cleaning an unloaded gun on Monday, when his little son asked him to snap a cap on it. Lopaz did so, and the unloaded gun went off, after the usual custom of guns in that state when pointed at any person, and sent the ramrod through the body of Lopaz's eight-year-old daughter, who died in a few minutes.

A despatch from Cascades, Columbia river, says that an expedition sent out by Gen. Howard for the purpose of capturing renegade Indians, has met with complete success. Capt. Boyle, with Lieuts. Cornman and Shaffner, surrounded their camp at night in John Day Valley and captured the whole outfit. Eight of the principal chiefs are en route to Vancouver, and the remainder were sent to Warm Spring reservation.

Edison claims that his invention for producing electric light is to be a perfect success.

The British steamer John Bramall, before reported ashore on Little Gull island, has broken in two and become a total loss. All her cargo has been or will be saved, in a badly damaged condition.

A descent was made by the police on Saturday night upon all houses of ill repute in Bridgeport, Conn. Twenty-eight captures were made, including several very prominent young men.

Adelaide Howarth, a New Haven, Conn., school-girl who sued Joseph Gile, principal of the Eaton school, over a year ago for $300 for assault, when he punished her for obscene language and insolence, has just been arrested in a house of ill-fame. The case gained considerable notoriety at the time, but was never settled, proceedings being dropped when the girl's mother found that she could not mulct Mr. Gile.

On account of a slight error in the indictment of Jason B. Scribner, recently convicted in the court of Kennebec county, Me., of the murder of two of his children, he will have a new trial, as the former one has come to naught. The trial will come off in January before Judge Libbey.

Warren Tate, the murderer of William Love, was fined $10,000 for contempt of court, Monday, by Judge Burns of the Indianapolis court. Love at the time of the shooting was a witness in court, and had not concluded his evidence. Tate's counsel appealed.

Major William H. Dobb, who was bitten by a small dog some weeks ago, died at Wilmington, Del., of hydrophobia, on Monday.

The British advance in Afghanistan meets hardly any opposition, the Afghan armies flying in all directions.

The trial of Hannah Hall, in Brooklyn, Conn., last week, for the killing of her husband last September, in Hampton, filled the court room with an interested crowd of spectators. The prisoner, a white woman, being mad drunk, stamped and jumped upon her husband, a colored man, who was dead drunk, inflicting upon him injuries which caused his death in a few hours. She was sentenced to seven years imprisonment in the State prison. In pronouncing sentence the judge made a remark which deserves to be recorded and remembered, viz.: "When intoxication leads to such results as this homicide, getting intoxicated is a crime."

The fall term of Dartmouth college closed Tuesday noon, with four weeks' vacation. These will be a smaller attendance next term, owing to the numbers teaching.

A Reliable Life Insurance Policy.

We take pleasure in commending to our readers a thoroughly safe and reliable life insurance agency, whose funds or assets are inexhaustible. It is a stock company operating under the joint title —Health. Life policies are issued in the form of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Purgative Pellets (which, if taken as directed, insure the system against disease) upon payment of a very small fee. All the principal druggists are constituted agents.

The Physiology of the Liver.

The liver is the largest secreting organ in the human body, and the bile which it secretes is more liable to vitiation and misdirection from its proper channels than any other of the animal fluids. Luckily for the bilious, however, there is an unfailing source of relief from liver complaint, namely, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a medicine which for over a quarter of a century has been achieving thorough cures of the above mentioned ailments, fever and ague, dyspepsia, bowel complaints, rheumatic and kiney affections, and disorders involving loss of nervous vigor. It is, moreover, a preventive of malarial disease, and affords protection to thousands of persons residing in districts of country where that dire scourge is prevalent. As a remedy adapted to the medicinal requirement of families, it is supremely desirable, and as a means of fortifying a debilitated system, it is thoroughly to be depended upon.

Last June a coal dealer of respectability and prominence, W. S. Campbell, doing business in New Orleans, invested ten dollars in the purchase from M. A. Dauphin (P. O. Box 692, New Orleans, La.,) of a ticket in the Extraordinary Semi-annual Drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery, and drew $100,000. The next drawing takes place on December 10th, and the scheme presented by the Company is so attractive that it is not unlikely some one of our readers will win the grand prize, after he resolves that he who ventures nothing wins nothing, and believing that Generals G. T. Beauregard, of Louisiana, and Jubal A. Early, of Virginia, are honest men, and that the distribution under their sole care is an honest one.

Whooping cough, asthma, croup and racking coughs cured by Adamson's Balsam. It never fails to cure. Price 25 cts. Sample free.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

CONSUMERS should bear in mind that the incomparable "Royal" is now the only Baking Powder in the market made from pure Grape Cream Tartar, imported exclusively for this powder direct from the wine-growing districts of France. An old experienced housekeeper writes that, although she has to pay a few cents more for the "Royal," finds that it goes so much further and works so much better, that it is economy to use it. Another says she uses the powder in puddings, cakes, and all sorts of pastry, without eggs. An old lady writes that it makes the only biscuit her dyspeptic husband can eat. This is because the best and most wholesome materials are used. Approved by the New York Board of Health, and by such eminent chemists as Dr. MOTT, New York; Dr. HAYES, Boston; Prof. GENTH, Philadelphia, etc. Sold in tin cans only. d3mp&10'79

THE CITY.

Union Thanksgiving services at the Methodist church on Thursday at 10:30 A. M. Sermon by Rev. Mr. Pitblado.

It was Mr. Thomas Tredick senior, and not Thomas Tredick junior, who broke his wrist by a fall in his cellar on Sunday evening last.

Hon. Frank Jones leaves for Washington on Friday morning. He will occupy his former quarters at the Riggs house the coming winter.

Thanksgiving services at the North church, Thursday at 10:30 o'clock A. M. Rev. J. W. Hubbell will preach; subject, "Lessons for the hour."

Hon. Ichabod Goodwin has been chosen Treasurer pro tem of the Board of Trustees of the Rice Public Library of Kittery, Me., in place of Hon. William H. Y. Hackett, deceased.

The police have arrested Oscar Gabarino, Albert Weeks, James Salmon, John Foley and Edward Burns, all boys, for an assault with stones on Jeremiah Spinney, last Sunday. They will be taken before the police court.

Schooner Addie, Goodwin master, bound from this port for Boston with a cargo of bricks, sprung a leak off Thatcher's island on Saturday night, and notwithstanding the pumps were worked to their utmost, the leak gained rapidly upon them. The captain decided to beach her, which he did on Long beach, near Salt island.

A considerable number of citizens assembled in the Common Council room Tuesday forenoon, on the occasion of the hearing relative to the reduction of tolls at Portsmouth bridge. George A. Ramsdell of Nashua, clerk of the court of Hillsborough county, was chosen referee in the case. Hon. John S. H. Frink appeared for the general public, Walter C. Harriman, Esq., for the city, and Hon. Albert R. Hatch and Col. William H. Hackett for the bridge company. A number of documents were read, and several persons told what they thought of the matter.

Commenting on a statement of Commander Luce, of the U. S. S. Minnesota, that he would "be perfectly willing to remain all winter" at anchor in Newport, R. I., harbor, so far as the safety of the ship was concerned, the Providence Journal says: "There is no doubt that the anchorage in Newport harbor is not excelled in any harbor on the coast." We are aware that Newport harbor is an excellent one for holding ground, but from information gathered from coasting and fishing captains we think the lower harbor at this place is superior to it for safety in gales of wind from all quarters; and we belive that the official records of wrecks in the various harbors on the New England coast show very largely in favor of this harbor as being the safest on the coast, without exception.

Concerning the presentation of the play "Won at last" by the Blanche Meda combination, the Syracuse (N. Y.) Standard says: "The entertainment ranks among the best we have ever had the pleasure of attending. Not only was the leading role admirably executed, but every individual in the combination was good. The play is justly considered one of the best, and is one of the purest American dramas. The positions are strong, and the climaxes very effective. Miss Meda seems admirably adapted to her role and met with the favor of her audience throughout the entire play." The Utica Herald says: "The star had the good fortune to be supported by an unusually strong company, each member doing his and her part handsomely, and thus the audience was treated to one of the best entertainments that we have had for a long time." This combination appears at Music hall this evening; see advertisement.

"Charming, quaint, and eagerly sought for by the little ones." Little Stay-At-Home and Her Friends. By L. Clarkson, author of "Violet," and "Gathering of the Lilies." Illustrated by the author. The pictures are handsomely lithographed in delicate colors, and the verses are charmingly adapted to baby memories. The book is issued in small quarto form, thus being easy for little hands to hold, and is beautifully bound. It cannot fail to be popular among the little "Stay-at-Homes" of the great United States. Cloth, original binding, $2.50. F. W. Robinson & Co., Publishers, 1309 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia. For sale by Willis G. Myers, No. 1 Congress block.

THE VICINITY.

The Times says Harlow's band gave the second entertainment in the Greenland lyceum course, Monday evening.

A man named Temple, employed in the shoe factory at Kennebunk, had one of his heels caught in the elevator on Saturday, and actually torn off.

A three-years-old daughter of William B. Durrell of Kennebunk fell from a rocking chair on Saturday, receiving injuries from which she died on Monday.

James Martin, an old and respected citizen of Epping, died suddenly on Thursday night of last week. He got up to light a lamp, and on getting into bed again dropped dead. It was his 81st birthday that day.

Mr. Leander White, of Newcastle, for several years assistant keeper of Boon island light, has been appointed keeper of Whale's-back light house, vice Mr. Charles E. Martin, resigned. Mr. White assumes the duties of his new position this week.

The new iron fog-house tower at Whale's-back, included new engines and fog-horn, was completed last week, and the first blast from the new horn was given on Friday. Landing at Whale's-back has always been risky during a heavy sea, but is now doubly dangerous, as the seas either send the boat against the fog-horn tower or wedge it between that and the light-house.

About a month ago the farm buildings of Granville F. Wells, of Kennebunk, were burned. Last week he disappeared, and it is said he had good cause for his departure, having forged the name of his aunt to a note of twelve hundred dollars which became due on the day he cleared out. This note was given to D. F. Wells. It is said Wells had previously forged a note, but it was settled without his being arrested.

G. Harrison Jenness, Esq., of Rye beach, has left for Washington, D. C., to go into training for his arduous duties as assistant enrolling clerk of the House of Representatives. He leaves "the cause of gospel temperance, good morals, etc.," at the beach, in our care; and promises that if we look after our trust faithfully he will "think of us when the patent office report is issued." We are afraid G. Harrison considers our new appointment a sinecure.

John McKillopp and John Cummings, two young fellows hailing from Fall River, Mass., were held in $200 each at Dover on Monday for their appearance at the supreme court to answer to a charge of aggravated assault on Mr. J. F. Chase, proprietor of Chase's hotel. The fellows called at the hotel at about two o'clock Sunday morning, rapped up Mr. Chase and were admitted to the office, but it appearing that they only wanted rum, and not lodgings, they were ordered out of the house. Refusing to go, Mr. Chase and his son put them out; after which they pelted the house with stones, burst in the door, and struck Mr. Chase a violent blow in the abdomen with one of the missiles. Mr. Chase fired a shot at them from his revolver, without doing any good, and as he was about firing a second shot the revolver was knocked from his hand by a stone. Better try 'em under the tramp law.

"DRIFT-WEED"

Is the title of the little book of poems by Mrs. Celia Thaxter, published by Houghton, Osgood & Company, of Boston, making a neat little volume of one hundred and fifty pages, and sold so low that every one can afford a copy. The latter part of the volume contains a selection of poems for children, among which the Flock of Doves and others, properly read to the little folk, will be enjoyed.

We of Portsmouth, who are so apt to believe that in our atmosphere there is something which develops poetic genius, and that of those born in and around us all who write poetry are true poets, find ourselves ever more eager to commend than to criticise the efforts of our local celebrities. Mrs. Thaxter's poems are sui generis. They have a peculiar flavor of salt water. They have the musical sound of the sea beating upon the rocks of the headlands. Fancy the poets of modern Athens commencing

"See how the wind is hauling point by point to the south."

No Boston female poet would dare to write thus, without first consulting the Morning Advertiser or the Evening Transcript, as to the probabilities. But the resident of the sea-girth isles is at the same time original, accurate and poetic. The cheerful, buoyant tone of the poems, the portrayal in verse of the sights by the sparkling sea, and the attractive subjects for her lines, induce us to peruse with renewed pleasure Mrs. Thaxter's last book, and we read one poem in the belief that another will not so much attract us, only to be happily surprised as we go through the book. It will be an excellent selection for a Christmas gift. It may be found at Goodrich's book store.

IKE PARTINGTON.

We have received from the publishers, Messrs. Lee & Shepard, of Boston, a copy of "Ike Partington and His Friends," by our former townsman, B. P. Shillaber.

Ike, like the genial and kindly Ben himself, belongs to Portsmouth—though Ike belongs to the whole human race, being a real boy, who never even by accident omits doing what is wrong, and is eternally in mischief of one kind or another. It is not merely the boys of today who will relish the story of Ike's doings and mishaps—for he was always in some kind of a scrape, as a genuine boy is sure to be—but the old boys of Portsmouth, whose heads are now silvered with the frosts of fifty or sixty winters, will find themselves carried back to the times when they played in "rock pastere," slid down Mason's hill, or laid up ancient eggs in readiness for the regular fight with the north or south-enders (according to where the then boy lived) on the 4th of July.

There never was a trace of ill-nature in the humor of Mrs. Partington; it was always genial and cheering, and the reader always felt himself refreshed by the kind-hearted old lady's ready sympathy with the trials and troubles of others. She has for many years been a favorite of the American people, and Ike has been next after her; but in this volume the gentle old lady is in the background, and Ike is "to the fore"—as the Portsmouth boy is very apt to be, and ditto the real boy of every other place.

The book is not merely for Portsmouth readers. It is a "breezy" portrait of the irrepressible boy wherever found, and as such will be widely read and admired. It is of course nicely printed, and is profusely and appropriately illustrated; price $1.25; for sale at the book-stores.

Naval Matters.

The U. S. S. Ticonderoga, from this port bound for Norfolk, Va., ran into the Vineyard sound on Friday for shelter from the heavy gale of that day, and anchored between West Chop and Nobska. She sailed for her destination on Saturday.

The U. S. S. Plymouth, from Norfolk, Va., for this naval station, passed out by Fortress Monroe on Sunday.

Commodore Shufeldt arrived at Norfolk on the 23d inst., to await the arrival of the Ticonderoga, on the way there from this port. He was received with a salute of eleven guns from the Franklin.

Medical Inspector C. J. Cleborne is ordered to special duty in attending officers at this navy yard.

Lieut. Comdr. Charles H. Davis and Lieut. Charles A. Norris are detached from the supply ship Guard, now on the way to this naval station to go out of commission, and ordered to the Hydrographic Office.

C. Irving Dittu, the republican candidate for Congress in the fifth Maryland district against Hentle, the successful democratic candidate, is going to make a contest for the seat, and has a large amount of evidence of fraud in the election. He may as well spare himself the trouble; the "democratic House" would retain Hentle in the seat though it should be proved beyond question that he had not received a single vote.

The south has gone almost solidly democratic, and there is no power but Congress to review this result or reverse it. That body will decide when it meets who are to compose its membership, as well from the south as from the north, and nothing that the President or his party can do will affect the purpose or decision of that body. "And what are you going to do about it?"—Richmond (Va.) State, dem.

No. 18 Congress St.

The democratic bull-dozers in South Carolina are resorting to the plan of arresting, on a charge of perjury, all witnesses who give evidence before the United States officers of the late violations of the Acts of Congress regarding elections. It does not appear that any action has yet been taken for the protection of such witnesses from these outrages. It is, however, clearly in the power of the United States courts, and as clearly their duty, summarily to discharge upon habeas corpus all witnesses so arrested. It is to be hoped that instructions have already been given to the southern district-attorneys to take the proper proceedings to this end. Those South Carolina ruffians, who once plunged the nation into war, have evidently not yet learned that they are not almighty.

Commissioner Raum says that it is a remarkable fact that while the authorities of the southern States are all ready to proceed vigorously against revenue officers who commit any offence against State laws, no hand is raised to punish crimes of the most outrageous character against the persons of United States officials. He says that between twenty-five and thirty revenue officers have been murdered or wounded in the discharge of their duty in the southern States during the last two years. With only a single exception, and that in a republican district in east Tennessee, no indictment or arrest of the offenders has followed. In the canvass of 1878 Governor Hampton openly took the side of the violators of the United States laws, and in North Carolina Governor Vance has pursued the same course. Several Congressmen have also made this a leading feature of their canvasses.

It contains full accounts of all of importance that transpires in Portsmouth and its vicinity, and a condensed summary of NEWS, foreign and domestic; editorials upon current topics; New Hampshire items; carefully prepared marine news, containing reports of vessels owned at this port, or officered by men from Portsmouth or its neighborhood; and is just the paper for residents desiring to be posted on all that takes place at home, while to those living in the vicinity of Portsmouth, or to former residents who retain their interest in the "old home by the sea," it is the best means of keeping informed of what transpires in this city.

THE N. H. GAZETTE
Presents an excellent opportunity for a WEEKLY INVITATION TO CUSTOMERS, at a reasonable rate, and all those who desire to reach patrons in Rockingham and York counties will find it an economical medium. PENNSYLVANIA
RAILROAD.
GREAT THROUGH LINE
AND
UNITED STATES MAIL ROUTE
The attention of the travelling public is respectfully invited to some of the merits of this great highway, in the confident assertion and belief that no other line can offer equal inducements as a route of through travel. In
Construction AND Equipment
THE
PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD
stands confessedly at the head of American railways. The track is double the entire length of the line, of steel rails laid on heavy oak ties, which are embedded in a foundation of rock ballast eighteen inches in depth. All bridges are of iron or stone, and built upon the most approved plans. Passenger cars, while eminently safe and substantial, are at the same time models of comfort and elegance.
The Safety Appliances
in use on this line well illustrates the far-seeing and liberal policy of its management, in accordance with which the utility only of an improvement and not its cost has been the question of consideration. Among many may be noticed
THE BLOCK SYSTEM OF SAFETY SIGNALS,
JANNEY COUPLER, BUFFER AND PLATFORM,
THE WHARTON PATENT SWITCH,
AND THE
WESTINGHOUSE AIR-BRAKE,
forming in conjunction with a perfect double track and roadbed, a combination of safeguards against accidents which have rendered them practically impossible.
Pullman Palace Cars
Are run on all Express Trains
From New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington,
To Chicago, Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, and St. Louis,
WITHOUT CHANGE,
and to all principal points in the far West and South with but one change of cars. Connections are made in Union Depots, and are assured to all important points.
The Scenery
OF THE
PENNSYLVANIA ROUTE
is admitted to be unsurpassed in the world for grandeur, beauty and variety. Superior refreshment facilities are provided. Employees are courteous and attentive, and it is an inevitable result that a trip by the Pennsylvania Railroad must form
A PLEASING AND MEMORABLE EXPERIENCE.
Tickets for sale at the lowest rates at the Ticket Offices of the Company in all important cities and towns. 1feb30 79

ANTI-FAT

ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT is the great remedy for Corpulency. It is purely vegetable and perfectly harmless. It acts on the food in the stomach, preventing its conversion into fat. Takes according to directions, it will reduce a fat person from 2 to 5 pounds a week.
In placing this remedy before the public as a positive cure for obesity, we do so knowing its ability to cure, as attested by hundreds of testimonials, of which the following from a lady in Columbus, Ohio, is a sample: "Gentlemen—Your Anti-Fat was duly received. I took it according to directions and it reduced me five pounds. I was so elated over the result that I immediately sent to ACKERMAN'S drug-store for the second bottle." Another, a physician, writes from Providence, Providence, R. I., says: "Four bottles have reduced her weight from 199 pounds to 131 pounds, and there is a general improvement in health." A gentleman writing from Boston, says: "Without special change or attention to diet, two bottles of Allan's Anti-Fat have lost me four and one-quarter pounds." The well-known Wholesale Druggists, SMITH, DOLLITTLE & CO., of Boston, Mass., write as follows: "Allan's Anti-Fat has reduced a lady in our city seven pounds in three weeks." A gentleman in St. Louis writes: "Allan's Anti-Fat reduced me twelve pounds in three weeks, and altogether I have lost twenty-five pounds since commencing its use." Messrs. POWELL & PLUMPTON, Wholesale Druggists, of Buffalo, N. Y., write: "TO THE PROPRIETORS OF ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT: Gentlemen—The following report is from the lady to send Allan's Anti-Fat. 'It (the Anti-Fat) had the desired effect, reducing me fifteen pounds in five weeks and I had lost twenty-five pounds.' I hope never to regain what I have lost." Anti-Fat is an unexcelled blood-purifier. It promotes digestion, curing dyspepsia, and is also a potent remedy for rheumatism. Sold by druggists. Pamphlet on Obesity sent on receipt of stamp.
BOTANIC MEDICINE CO., PROP'RS, Buffalo, N.Y.

WOMAN
By an immense practice at the World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, long treated many thousand cases of those diseases peculiar to woman. I have been enabled to perfect a most potent and positive remedy for these diseases.
To designate this natural specific, I have named it
Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription
The term, however, is but a feeble expression of my high appreciation of its value, based upon personal observation. I have, while witnessed its curative results in the special diseases incident to the organism of woman, singled it out as the climax or crowning glory of my medical career. Its merits, as a positive, safe, and effectual remedy for this class of diseases, and one that will, at all times and under all circumstances, act kindly, I am willing to stake my reputation as a physician upon. Its merits claim for it that it will not disappoint the most sanguine expectation and a single trial will convince the fearer of the efficacy of which I recommend it, that I offer and sell it under A PERFECT GUARANTEE. (For conditions, see pamphlet wrapping bottle.)
The following are among those diseases in which my Favorite Prescription has worked cures, as if by magic, and with a certainty never before attained by any medicine: Leucorrhœa, Excessive Flowing, Painful Monthly Periods, Suppressions when from unnatural causes, Irregularities, Weak Back, Prolapsus, or Falling of the Uterus, Anteversion and Retroversion, Bearing-down Sensations, Internal Heat, Nervous Depression, Debility, Despondency, Threatening Miscarriage, Consequent Congestion, Inflammation and Ulceration of the Uterus, Impotency, Barrenness, or Sterility, and Female Weakness. I do not call this medicine as a "cure-all," but it admirably fulfills a singleness of purpose, being a most perfect specific in all chronic diseases of the sexual system of woman. It will not disappoint, nor will it do harm, in any state or condition.
Those who desire further information on these subjects can obtain it in THE PEOPLE'S COMMON SENSE MEDICAL ADVISER, a book of over 900 pages, sent, post-paid, on receipt of $1.50. It treats fully of all those diseases peculiar to Females, and gives much valuable advice in regard to the management of those affections.
Favorite Prescription sold by Druggists.

MY FRIEND TOM.

Of all the boys who were the companions of my youthful days in the pleasant little city on the New England seacoast that was my place of birth, the memory of none comes back to me more pleasantly, though not unmingled with a little of sadness, than that of Tom Smith. A more guileless spirit or a kindlier nature than his I have never known in my life's experience. In the years that I was familiar with him, I never saw a frown upon his brow, or heard an unkind word from his lips. He had but one fault, and that cast a shadow over his whole life; he had no ambition. It was manifested at first in carelessness of dress. The same clothes that gave other boys an air of neatness and respectability, from the way he put them on, and his want of pride in not keeping them well brushed and neat, were a different sort of thing to him His mother said it was no use giving him new clothes, as they looked no better in a little time than the old ones; he never would, she said, look like other boys with the same advantages of being well provided for in the matter of dress. A new hat, fresh from the store, looked no better than its predecessor in a month from the time he first placed it upon his head; the rim would turn up behind or before, and a ton weight, seemingly, would have failed to keep it down. With all his short comings in this respect, so different from my own habit and that of the boys with whom I associated, I could not help liking him for the reason that he was so thoroughly good-tempered. If others of my playfellows were at times rude and unkind, he was ever gentle-hearted, and I would turn away from them to find quiet and rest in his peaceful companionship.

Among the rural features that remained at the time in our birthplace, before it had arisen to the dignity of a city, the keeping of a cow was a very common one, and it was a pleasure of mine to accompany Tom often on the half-holiday of Wednesday or Saturday afternoon, to the delightful region, a mile from town, where the family cow of the Smiths was pastured. The way thither, after emerging from town into the country, was altogether a pleasant one, lined as it was on each side by meadow and cultivated lands; and adjoining the pasture land where "Cherry," the name of the gentle animal of which we went in pursuit, found her daily fare, was a piece of woods, where an abundance of berries of the various kinds could be had in their several seasons. Tom always knew where the largest and best where to be gathered, and as few other boys were aware of their existence in the locality, we enjoyed an almost entire monopoly of the fruit. Another attraction, my friend Tom had for me was, that being my senior by five years, he could tell me of events that occurred when I was but a very little child. Especially did I love to listen to his stories of "the great fire" that devastated nearly a third of the place where we dwelt the year before I was born. He was so thoroughly truthful, I could always rely on what he told me upon any subject, and as he never indulged in profane or otherwise improper language, my mother always felt the assurance that I was perfectly safe from harm when in his company.

The residence of the Smiths, which had been in the family for more than a century, was very old-fashioned in its construction, and occupied ground, large though it was, sufficient for half a dozen fair-sized modern dwellings; its furniture, also, being of the most antique description, strangely contrasted with the modern structure, and its appropriate furnishings, that constituted my own home; yet I liked the old mansion, and the spacious attic had for me an especial attraction. Among other curiosities of old-time date collected there that I had never seen elsewhere, was a pair of Indian snow-shoes, composed of wooden frames netted over with thongs of raw-hide, and having strings attached for tying them upon the feet. There were, besides, a large number of newspapers bearing date fifty to sixty years previously, in which we found plenty of good reading on rainy Wednesday or Saturday afternoons. Tom, naturally intelligent, was very fond of books, and when he had exhausted the family stock of literature, I was allowed to supply him with others, as he took the best of care of them, from the many volumes in my father's bookcase. The garden and grounds connected with the residence of the Smiths, afforded me in addition much of enjoyment; in one portion being a green spot overhung by large apple-trees, with seats beneath them, furnishing a most pleasant retreat for chat. The fruit was of excellent quality, and as it ripened, enough could be had, picked up from the ground, to supply our wants. Tom always had in store for me when I made my appearance, some choice specimen of the produce of the trees that had fallen in my absence, and I repaid the courtesy when my father, who was a shipmaster, returned from a foreign voyage with cocoanuts, oranges, etc., among his cargo. We had at home a spacious garden, well-cultivated by one of the best of gardeners, but its fruit-trees were young and not numerous.

As Tom grew older, while never wanting in neatness of appearance, he had none of the aspirations of most boys, as their years increase, for smartness of dress; and as for having his garments of the prevailing fashion, he had as lief they had been, as any other, of the style worn by his grandfather in revolutionary days. It was ever the same with him whether clad in his week-day or Sabbath garments; his Sunday hat had the same inclination for turning up where the custom required it should not do so, and his Sunday coat looked as if he had slept in it. An episode there was in his life when he had reached the age of sixteen and was well-grown, that imparted to it the only thread of romance, so far as my knowledge extends, ever interwoven in its tissue. Like most of Adam's race, at some period in their history, he fell in love. He was very fond of the water, and on a summer evening, just as the sun was setting, while preparing for an excursion upon the river in a little sailboat that was his father's property, two girls of fifteen to sixteen in years, and not wanting in good looks, strolled down to the wharf from their homes in a pleasant locality not far away, and as they looked on while he was getting ready for his departure, he asked if they would not like to accompany him, saying that he was going but a little distance and would soon return. Neither of the pair han ever exchanged a word with him before, but they knew enough of him to be aware that they were perfectly safe in his company, and tying their handkerchiefs upon their heads in the absence of any better covering, they descended the steps leading to the water, and entered the boat. One of the girls, bearing the name of Mary, was fair enough at "sweet sixteen" to have won a heart less impressible to female loveliness than that of Tom, and he might well have been excused if he fell a victim to her charms as they glided over the water of their native river. The air was soft and balmy after a day of excessive heat, and the moon soon taking the place of the sun when it had departed, they kept on until, leaving the Piscataqua and its lower harbor, they found themselves upon the broad bosom of the Atlantic. His fair companions evincing no disposition to return, my friend Tom proposed that they should land upon a little green isle in the ocean, with a fine beach, and where plenty of whortleberries were to be had, and while gathering the latter, after a stroll by the shore, in the clear moonlight, the nine o'clock bell in ringing out the hour from the tower of the "old North," three miles away, made them aware how rapid had been the flight of time. Such happy moments as those he spent that night poor Tom had never known before. It was long ere his eyes were closed in sleep after retiring to rest, and then it was to dream of the "blue-eyed Mary" who was ever after to live in his memory until the final slumber from which he was never more in this life to awaken.

A few evenings subsequent, the fair friends, while taking their sunset stroll by the river, again accepted Tom's invitation to accompany him in his sail, and so much was it enjoyed by them, as on the previous occasion, the excursion was often repeated by them during the warm evenings of July and August that succeeded. Blissful seasons they were to Tom, such as he was never again to know, as he stole glances at the beautiful face and graceful form of Mary, during moments when her look was half averted from him as she gazed upon a distant sail, or the picturesque shores they were leaving behind them or while he listened to the rich music of her voice in some sweet air of the time that lives now but in memories of the past.

In the pleasant month of September, a week after their last sail together, Mary left home to visit friends in Boston, and after an absence of a year, returned more beautiful than ever. In addition to her enhanced personal loveliness, a more frequent mingling in society while away than that to which she had been accustomed at home, had so matured her in other ways, she was a dangerous companion to any young man in the least susceptible to feminine charms, and sad havoc she made among the sex as she renewed her intercourse with her former companions, or was again seen at her accustomed place in church on the Sabbath. Tom had no more opportunities for inviting her to share in his aquatic excursions, as she had given up, with other things, her school-girl propensity for sunset rambles by the riverside; but it was a heaven of happiness to him when he obtained glimpses of her at church, or a kindly recognition by a pleasant word or smile when he chanced to pass her in the street. He had been accustomed to speak of her to me with the utmost freedom from the time of their first sail on that to him well remembered summer night; but from the period of her marriage, which took place a year after her return from Boston, he never again referred to her, although I doubt not she was the one bright dream of his life to his dying hour.

Long after others of his age were acquiring some pursuit that was to be their future life-long means of subsistence, or had gone to the larger cities for a like motive, Tom still lingered about home, dreaming away most of the time beneath the trees in the garden. A sad event occurred to him at the age of eighteen in the death of his mother, when the household became broken up by his father and younger sister taking up their abode with his married brother, Tom was left without a home. He seemed utterly heart-broken at the loss of a parent to whom he was tenderly attached, and who had regarded his failings with a mother's gentle charity; nor could he bear the thought of the dear old homestead, where all his life had been passed, becoming the dwelling place of strangers. The only pursuit for which he had any inclination, from a natural love he possessed for the sea, was that of a sailor, and he adopted it as it seemed his only resource. It was a hard and sad experience to him, as he had never known any of the rough knocks an inexperienced youth is apt to meet with in going out into the world, and besides, the rude language and profanity often of his companions of the forecastle, were to him most distasteful. Their desecration of the Sabbath, too, when relieved from duty, pained him greatly, and he would steal away aloft into some snug retreat to read the bible that had been his mother's in her youth, and think of the happy days of the past that would return to him no more. Regretting his earlier want of ambition to make himself a place in the world, he set about performing his duties with cheerfulness and alacrity, hoping by good conduct and skill in his profession, to reach some higher post of duty, and finally that of commander of a ship, as others, with no better advantages, had done before him. But he was not destined to see that time. On a night when the ship in which he sailed had returned to port from a foreign voyage, after passing the evening at his home with one of his early friends, he lost his footing in attempting to go on board amid the ice of winter and the darkness of the hour, and being injured in his fall, was drowned in the deep water between the vessel and the wharf.

Poor Tom! He lives in my memory still the same gentle-hearted being that I knew him in his boyhood; and when the dark waters of death closed over him, I doubt not but that he found peace and rest in a happier world.

News and Notes.

A woman named Frances Bournashi has been arrested for obtaining sums of money under false pretences from various Cleveland parties. The largest sufferer is Cashier Eucbar of Cleveland, whom she swindled out of over $20,000 by representing herself as heir to a large property in Germany, and inducing him to advance her money.

Capt. B. S. Osborn, formerly editor of the Nautical Gazette of New York, was arrested in New Haven some days since for stealing a yacht. He hired a yacht of F. W. Strickland of Brooklyn, in which to cruise in the Sound, and did not return it at the date agreed. Hence he was arrested in New Haven harbor, and is now in jail in that city.

Three young men, Moses Adams of Grape island, and Charles Perkins and William Gellins of Newburyport, while fishing for herring in Ipswich river Monday night, 25th inst., were drowned. Their boat was picked up next morning.

A San Francisco despatch says J. H. Snow, first mate of the barque D. C. Whitemore, has been indicted by the United States grand jury for the murder of Charles Elwood, second mate of the vessel. The vessel meant is probably the barque O. C. Whitmore; it will be remembered that a year or two ago great excitement was occasioned in Hong Kong by the statements of the seamen of that vessel that the second mate had been tortured to death in the most devilishly inhuman manner by the master and mate, and that the accused only escaped arrest by hiding, the barque being taken to sea by other officers to avoid the U. S. S. Kearsage, which laid off Hong Kong to intercept her and arrest the alleged murderers. Indignation meetings of citizens were held in Hong Kong, but owing to the extradition-treaty muddle, which had not then been settled, the master and mate of the barque could not be arrested on shore at that time, and before the matter was arranged they had cleared out.

John Armstrong, who plays Uriah Heep in George Fawcett Rowe's dramatic company, assaulted one of the editors of the Portland Argus in the street at Portland on the afternoon of Nov. 26th, in revenge for what he considered an unfavorable criticism on his acting. Armstrong was arrested. He may be a good actor, but he is evidently one very big fool.

It is said that the Pope has issued an order to his bishops and the Catholic clergy and to watch circumvent the wiles of the impious and godless men of the Order of the American Union in the United States.

Frank Turner, twenty years of age, called at the house of William Judd, near Williamstown, Ky., Nov. 25th, and invited Judd to drink from a bottle. Judd refused, whereupon Turner drew a revolver and forced him to kneel, and then cut his throat so that he died instantly. The people of the district are much incensed, and it is thought quite likely that Turner will be arrested.

At North Edgefield, Tenn., Nov. 26th, Sam Langham murdered Pat McAndrews and Julius Keister by beating out their brains. Langham was arrested.

Gas stocks in New York have fallen largely, and the price of shares in the Edison company has gone up to 260. Mr. Edison says he is certain of success with his electric light.

Gov. and Mrs. Prescott dine at Concord to-day and will leave there this evening for Montreal to attend a ball given in honor of Her Royal Highness and the Marquis of Lorne on Monday evening.

John Q. A. Mudgett, a wealthy and respected farmer of Meredith village, was instantly killed by the accidental discharge of his gun, Nov. 25th, while shooting on the edge of Squam lake in East Holderness. He leaves an aged mother and a young wife and child. He was an active Mason, and a prominent man in his district.

Calvin Edgerly was killed almost instantly on Tuesday morning, Nov. 26th, by the breaking of a planer-knife in Natt and W. F. Head's saw-mill at Hooksett. A piece of the knife struck him in the neck and cut it half off, causing almost instant death. Mr. Edgerly was forty-one years of age, and leaves a wife and six children.

—It's all very well to poke fun at those giant intellects among us who part their names in the middle; but that's just what the ancient Romans did. There was C. Julius Cæsar, and M. Tullius Cicero, and I. Horatius Flaccus, who never thought of spelling their first names out full. How would "Caius J. Cæsar" sound? How many people would recognize our old friend Ovid in "Publius O. Naso?" The man who writes his middle name out full is entitled to stick his hat on one side of his head, brace up and confound the scoffers by the assertion that it is high old Roman style.—Lynn Transcript

The Physiology of the Liver.

The liver is the largest secreting organ in the human body, and the bile which it secretes is more liable to vitiation and misdirection from its proper channels than any other of the animal fluids. Luckily for the bilious, however, there is an unfailing source of relief from liver complaint, namely, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a medicine which for over a quarter of a century has been achieving thorough cures of the above mentioned ailments, fever and ague, dyspepsia, bowel complaints, rheumatic and kinsy affections, and disorders involving loss of nervous vigor. It is, moreover, a preventive of malarial disease, and affords protection to thousands of persons residing in districts of country where that dire scourge is prevalent. As a remedy adapted to the medicinal requirement of families, it is supremely desirable, and as a means of fortifying a debilitated system, it is thoroughly to be depended upon.

Last June a coal dealer of respectability and prominence, W. S. Campbell, doing business in New Orleans, invested ten dollars in the purchase from M. A. Dauphin (P. O. Box 692, New Orleans, La.,) of a ticket in the Extraordinary Semi-annual Drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery, and drew $100,000. The next drawing takes place on December 10th, and the scheme presented by the Company is so attractive that it is not unlikely some one of our readers will win the grand prize, after he resolves that he who ventures nothing wins nothing, and believing that Generals G. T. Beauregard, of Louisiana, and Jubal A. Early, of Virginia, are honest men, and that the distribution under their sole care is an honest one.

Whooping cough, asthma, croup and racking coughs cured by Adamson's Balsam. It never fails to cure. Price 55 cts. Sample free.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

THANKSGIVING.

In accordance with an ancient custom long in vogue in New England, the people of this and the adjoining States will observe this day nominally as a Day of Thanksgiving and Praise, but really as the occasion of enjoying an annual good dinner. Around the festive board as the farmer calls attention to the quality of his cider, the housewife deprecates the customary ill luck in her mince pies that liberal encomiums may follow; the young folk gather at the homestead; the newly-married man dines with the family; the Boston clerk comes home for a taste of the good things in the home of his childhood; and every one inclines in some way to observe "the day we celebrate."

The poor will fare better to-day; with their wants relieved to some degree they will be able in a measure to enjoy the feeling of thanksgiving which is inspired in the hearts of others in this season of plenty. Even the time-honored grumbler will have something to appreciate to-day, and with his legs under the mahogany of a cheerful host will forget his chronic troubles. To our readers we extend the hope uttered by the late William Shakespeare,

"Now, good digestion wait on appetite,
And health on both!"—

And may the day be enjoyed by all in every respect.

Post-office hours, to-day: General delivery from 8 to 11 o'clock A. M. and from 5 to 6:15 P. M.; box-office open from 7 A. M. to 7 P. M.

Thanksgiving services this forenoon at the North church, where Rev. Mr. Hubbell will preach on the "Lessons of the hour," and at the Methodist church, where there will be a union service, with a sermon by Rev. Mr. Pitblado. Services commence at 10:30.

Services at the Unitarian church this forenoon at the regular hour.

Services at St. John's church at 10:30 A. M. Singing by the quartette choir.

THE CITY.

No paper will be issued from this office to-morrow.

Schooner John Bracewell, Chatfield master, sailed from this port for Baltimore on the 27th inst., with 2000 barrels of apples, loaded at Dover.

Mr. John P. Cooper notifies pensioners that he will be at the office of Wm. H. Rollins, Esq., on the 4th of December and for eight or ten days thereafter, to attend to the executing and forwarding of vouchers.

One of the best mince pies we have lately tasted was made from prepared mince-meat manufactured by Gordon & Dillworth, and for sale by Butler & Laighton. This mince-meat it is asserted will keep good for years in any climate.

Major Butler, commanding the marine guard at the navy yard, gives to the corps under his command a Thanksgiving dinner. He intends to personally superintend all the arrangements, and judging from the quantities of good things ordered by him the dinner will be a first-class affair.

Schooner Addie, Goodwin master, which was run ashore near Rockport, Mass., on the night of Nov. 24th, to prevent her sinking, she having sprung a leak on the passage from this port to Boston with a cargo of brick, was towed off next day and taken into Gloucester harbor. The damage is not large.

An idea of the magnitude of the boat traffic between the up river district and this city may be gathered from the number of skiffs which make use of the boat-landing at Pray's wharf; sixty boats were recently counted there at one time, and thirty a day is about the average, nearly all of them coming from up the river.

By the docket of the Supreme Court for the law term which has been presented at Manchester, it appears that the law term of the court for this county will be held at Concord on Dec. 3d. There are but nineteen cases on the docket, two of which will be dismissed at the call, having been disposed of at the late trial term in this city.

At an adjourned meeting of the Mechanics' Association, on the evening of Nov. 26th, it was resolved to appropriately celebrate the 76th anniversary of the organization on Tuesday evening, Dec. 10th, and to have social gatherings semi-annually thereafter. Messrs. Frank W. Miller, John M. Davis, Charles H. Downs, Joseph H. Gardiner, Joseph Pettigrew, Thomas E. O. Marvin and William A. Hodgdon were appointed a committee with full power to make all necessary arrangements.

"The Rag Fair," by L. Clarkson, author of "Gathering of the Lilies," and "Violet with Eyes of Blue;" illustrated by the Author. The illustrations are from wood, executed by some of the best artists and engravers of this country, and nothing has been spared which could add to the beauty and completeness of the work. The book is quarto in size, and is elegantly and uniquely bound, making one of the handsomest and richest gift books that have been produced in America, and one that cannot fail to suit the cultivated taste. Cloth, full gilt, $5; full morocco, $10. F. W. Robinson & Co., Philadelphia, publishers; for sale in this city by W. G. Myers.

THE VICINITY.

The ship McLaurin, named for the senior partner of the firm of M. F. Pickering & Co., of Boston, formerly a resident of Greenland, was successfully launched on Monday, 25th inst., from the yard of Atkinson & Fillmore at Newburyport. The new ship Frank M. Thayer, 1648 tons register built by John Currier of Newburyport for Capt. Andrew Mack and others, was lying at Cushing's wharf in Newburyport on the 25th, all ready for sea; she will be commanded by Capt. Mack, who was formerly master of the ship Yosemite of this port, since sold to parties in San Francisco and now employed in the local trade of the Pacific coast.

The Dover Democrat of the 26th inst. says: "As one of the employees in the press room of the Morning Star office was recently picking up the cotton waste that had been used for cleaning the presses, and was more or less saturated with oil, he was called away to do other work, and left it for a time in a wooden pail, and did not think of it again. After standing there a few days, the smell of something burning was noticed by those who first entered the office this morning, and it was found that spontaneous combustion had taken place, the pail was nearly consumed, and the fire almost gone out. There cannot be too much care exercised in looking after the old waste used in cleaning machinery."

Mr. D. F. Littlefield has now in operation near the Eastern railroad depot in Saco an "Automatic Evaporator" for the curing of apples—the only one in New England. He employs ten day hands and eight night ones, and occupies the whole of a large building; he proposes to convert ten thousand bushels of the best Baldwin apples into merchantable dried apples this year, and has already made a good beginning on the job, having had the establishment in running order for about a month. He has in operation three machines, each of which peel, core and slice the apples, one person tending each machine; the sliced fruit is dried by furnace heat in the "evaporator," and packed in boxes and barrels for the market, the best quality being boxed.

POLICE COURT.

TUESDAY, Nov. 26; Batchelder, J.

Oscar Garbarino, Albert Weeks, James Salmon, John Foley and Edmund Burns, all boys, were under examination for throwing stones at Jeremiah Spinney. Weeks was discharged; the others were found guilty, sentence being suspended.

WEDNESDAY, Nov. 27; Batchelder, J.

Jerry Murphy and Frank Watson were found guilty of having been drunk. Murphy was sentenced to thirty days at the county farm, and to pay costs taxed at $6.90; Watson was fined $3, costs $6.90, and will work it out at Brentwood.

SUPREME COURT.

WEDNESDAY, Nov. 27; Smith, J.

The court came in at half-past ten o'clock A. M., and proceeded to hear the case of Sanborn vs. Chesley, on the civil docket, an action of debt. Bartlett and Hatch for plaintiff; Frink and Towle for defendant.

On the equity docket was heard the case of Pierce and others, administrators of A. R. P. Burroughs, vs. Henry Burroughs, executor of the will of Charles Burroughs. Bill in equity brought to charge the deft. with certain sums claimed to be due as income to Mrs. Burroughs during her life, under the will of Dr. Burroughs. Case heard; decision reserved. Hatch for plffs.; Hackett for deft.

Currier vs. Janvrin and trustees; question of costs; heard. Towle for Currier; Hatch for deft. and trustees.

Ayer vs. Merrin was postponed, to be heard after the law term. Bartlett for plff.; Hatch and C. Upham for deft.

DOVER CITY ELECTION.

The republican mayoralty caucus of Dover was held Saturday, 23d inst. The whole number of votes cast was 882, of which Charles H. Horton had one, James E. Lothrop 428, Joseph E. Guppy 453—and Mr. Guppy having a majority of twenty-four was declared the nominee of the republican party for Mayor of Dover.

The Dover Democrat of Monday says "it was a lot of intrusive democrats who nominated Mr. Guppy. We don't know as it is any of our business. If the republicans who wanted another man nominated and worked hard to accomplish it are satisfied to have democrats go into their convention and beat them, probably nobody ought to complain. But if republicans should thus play with a democratic convention, we should say the nomination would be a fraud and binding on nobody. At the very outset we should go for kicking the interlopers out of doors. It is a very dirty trick for either political party, or men of either party, to interfere with the other party in that way. It is ballot-box stuffing with illegal votes, to all intents and purposes, and under its practice an honest expression of the legal voters is simply impossible. In Massachusetts it is called Ben Butlerism, and it was repudiated at the polls by the decent and respectable men of all parties. But from what we have heard from good authority, more democrats voted in that convention Saturday than the twenty-five plurality for Mr. Guppy."

The democratic caucus was held Monday evening, the 25th, when Mr. George W. Tash was unanimously nominated as the democratic candidate.

The election was held on the 26th, and resulted in the choice of Mr. Guppy for mayor by a majority of sixty-seven, he having 971 votes to 904 for Mr. Tash. Total vote of the city, 1875.

This shows a considerable change in the voting since Nov. 5th, when the total vote of Dover for governor was 1842, divided as follows: Head 1140, McKean 673, greenback candidate (we forget who he was) twenty-nine; Head's plurality over the combined opposition, 438. From this it appears that while there were thirty-three more votes cast in Dover on the 26th of November for mayor than were cast for governor in the same city on the 5th of the same month, the republican vote fell off 169 and the democratic vote increased 231, the plurality of the republicans over the democrats falling off just 400. Evidently Mr. Guppy was not a very strong candidate.

The board of aldermen stands eight republicans and two democrats, and the common council twelve republicans and three democrats.

It was voted by a large majority not to prohibit the sale of lager beer.

U. S. Commissioner's Court.

WEDNESDAY, Nov. 27; Hackett, Com.

Edward F. Batchelder of Centre Harbor was brought before Commissioner Hackett at Concord on Wednesday, charged with fraudulently and unlawfully voting for a candidate for member of Congress at the late election, at Centre Harbor. The defendent claimed a right thus to vote, though a witness testified that Batchelder stated just before election that he should not claim to vote in Centre Harbor, as he had no right to vote there. He was held in $500 bonds for the May term of the Circuit Court of the United States.

A Reliable Life Insurance Policy.

We take pleasure in commending to our readers a thoroughly safe and reliable life insurance agency, whose funds or assets are inexhaustible. It is a stock company operating under the joint title —Health. Life policies are issued in the form of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Purgative Pellets (which, if taken as directed, insure the system against disease) upon payment of a very small fee. All the principal druggists are constituted agents.

THE NEW HAMPSHIRE

GAZETTE

Established 1756.

The Gazette is published every Thursday, and sent to Subscribers at the low price of

$1.50 per year, paid in advance, or

$2 at the end of the year.

It contains full accounts of all of importance that transpires in Portsmouth and its vicinity, and a condensed summary of NEWS, foreign and domestic; editorials upon current topics; New Hampshire items; carefully prepared marine news, containing reports of vessels owned at this port, or officered by men from Portsmouth or its neighborhood; and is just the paper for residents desiring to be posted on all that takes place at home, while to those living in the vicinity of Portsmouth, or to former residents who retain their interest in the "old home by the sea," it is the best means of keeping informed of what transpires in this city.

— THE —

NEW HAMPSHIRE GAZETTE

Contains more original matter

Than any other paper of its size in the State, the editors working more with their pens than with their scissors.

TO ADVERTISERS

THE N. H. GAZETTE

Presents an excellent opportunity for a WEEKLY INVITATION TO CUSTOMERS, at a reasonable rate, and all those who desire to reach patrons in Rockingham and York counties will find it an economical medium. THE GAZETTE is in many instances the only paper taken by families, and it is read to a large extent in localities whence is derived much of the trade of Portsmouth, a fact which our merchants should not fail to bear in mind.

PENNSYLVANIA

RAILROAD.

GREAT THROUGH LINE

AND

UNITED STATES MAIL ROUTE

The attention of the travelling public is respectfully invited to some of the merits of this great highway, in the confident assertion and belief that no other line can offer equal inducements as a route of through travel. In

Construction AND Equipment

OF THE

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

stands confessedly at the head of American railways. The track is double the entire length of the line, of steel rails laid on heavy oak ties, which are enclosed in a foundation of rock ballast eighteen inches in depth. All bridges are of iron or stone, and built upon the most approved plans. Its passenger cars, while eminently safe and substantial, are at the same time models of comfort and elegance.

The Safety Appliances

in use on this line well illustrates the far-seeing and liberal policy of its management, in accordance with which the safety only of an improvement and not its cost has been the question of consideration. Among many may be noticed

THE BLOCK SYSTEM OF SAFETY SIGNALS,

JANNEY COUPLER, BUFFER AND PLATFORM,

THE WHARTON PATENT SWITCH,

AND THE

WESTINGHOUSE AIR-BRAKE,

forming in conjunction with a perfect double track and road-bed a combination of safeguards against accidents which have rendered them practically impossible.

Pullman Palace Cars

Are run on all Express Trains

From New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington,

To Chicago, Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, and St. Louis,

WITHOUT CHANGE,

and to all principal points in the far West and South with but one change of cars. Connections are made in Union Depots, and are assured to all important points.

The Scenery

OF THE

is admitted to be unsurpassed in the world for grandeur, beauty and variety. Superior refreshment facilities are provided. Employees are courteous and attentive, and it is an inevitable result that a trip by the Pennsylvania Railroad must form

ANTI-FAT

ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT is the great remedy for Corpulency. It is purely vegetable and perfectly harmless. It acts on the food in the stomach, preventing its conversion into fat. Taken according to directions, it will reduce a fat person from 3 to 5 pounds a week.

In placing this remedy before the public as a positive cure for obesity, we do so from the ability to cure, as attested by hundreds of testimonials, of which the following from a lady in Columbus, Ohio, is a sample: "Gentlemen:—Your Anti-Fat was duly received. I took it according to directions and it reduced me five pounds. I was so elated over the result that I immediately sent to ACKERMAN'S drug-store for the second bottle." Another, a physician, writing for a patient from Providence, R. I., says: "Your bottles of Allan's Anti-Fat (per order) reduced 12 pounds in 12 pounds, and there is a general improvement in health." A gentleman writing from Boston, says: "Without special change or attention to diet, two bottles of Allan's Anti-Fat reduced me four and one-quarter pounds." The well-known Wholesale Druggists, SEARS, BOURNE & SMITH, of Boston, Mass., write as follows: "Allan's Anti-Fat has reduced a lady in our city seven pounds in three weeks." A gentleman in St. Louis writes: "Allan's Anti-Fat reduced me twelve pounds in three weeks, and better I have lost twenty-five pounds since commencing its use." Messrs. POWELL & PLIMPTON, Wholesale Druggists, of Buffalo, N. Y., write: "TO THE PROPRIETORS OF ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT: Gentlemen.—The following report is from the lady who used Allan's Anti-Fat. 'I (the Anti-Fat) had the desired effect, reducing the fat from my face to ten pounds a week until I had lost twenty-five pounds. I hope never to regain what I have lost.'" Anti-Fat is an unexcelled blood-purifier. It promotes digestion, curing dyspepsia, and is also a potent remedy for rheumatism. Sold by druggists. Pamphlet on Obesity sent on receipt of stamp.

BOTANIC MEDICINE CO., PROP'RS, Buffalo, N.Y.

WOMAN

By an immense practice at the World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, having treated many thousand cases of those diseases peculiar to woman, I have been enabled to perfect a most potent and positive remedy for these diseases.

To designate this natural specific, I have named it

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

The term, however, is but a feeble expression of my high appreciation of its value, based upon personal observation. I have, while witnessing its positive results in the special disease intended to the organism of woman, singled it out as the climax or crowning glory of my medical practice, and recommend it as a positive, safe, and effectual remedy for this class of diseases, and one that will, at all times and under all circumstances, act kindly. I am willing to stake my reputation as a physician, and my patients and friends, if I do not disappoint the most sanguine expectations of a single invalid lady who uses three of the ailments for which I recommend it, that I offer and sell it under A POSITIVE GUARANTEE. (For conditions, see pamphlet wrapping bottle.)

The following are among those diseases in which my Favorite Prescription has worked cures, as if by magic, and with a certainty never before attained by any medicine: Leucorrhœa, Excessive Flowing, Painful Monthly Periods, Suppressions when from unnatural causes, Irregularities, Weak Back, Prolapsus, or Falling of the Uterus, Anteversion and Retroversion, Bearing-down Sensations, Internal Heat, Nervous Depression, Debility, Suspension, Threatened Miscarriage, Cerebic Congestion, Inflammation and Ulceration of the Uterus, Spinal Irritation, Barrenness, or Sterility, and Female Weakness. I do not call this medicine as a "cure-all," but it admirably fulfills a singleness of purpose, being a most perfect specific in all chronic diseases of the sexual system of woman. It will not disappoint, nor will it do harm, in any state or condition.

Those who desire further information on these subjects can obtain it in THE PEOPLE'S COMMON SENSE MEDICAL ADVISER, a book of 680 pages, mailed, post-paid, on receipt of $1.50. It treats minutely of those diseases peculiar to females, and gives much valuable advice in regard to the management of those affections.

Favorite Prescription sold by Druggists.

Mistletoe at Christmas-Tide.

The hanging of the mistletoe is a cause of much frolic and laughter in the house. It is the rule that whoever is passing under the mistletoe-bough must submit to being kissed then and there by whoever chooses to take that liberty. As a bough usually hangs from the center of the ceiling, spreading over a large space, it follows that there must be much dodging or much kissing; I am inclined to think there are both.

The origin of this use of the mistletoe is not known; but we do know that more than eighteen hundred years ago, when the glad stars sang together over the manger in Bethlehem, and wise men brought gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh to a young child in the peasant mother's arms, England was a chill, mist-covered island, inhabited only by savages, who wore garments of skins and lived in huts of mud and stone. Among these savage Britons there were pagan priests called Druids. These priests were a mysterious folk, who lived in dense woods far away from other men, and who, in the gloomy solitudes of the forest, performed strange secret ceremonies. The "sacred groves," as they were called, were of oak; for the oak was a divine tree, according to the Druidical religion. Within these sacred groves, the priests, it is recorded in history, offered their sacrifices and in some manner not now known, they employed the mistletoe. But all mistletoe was not sacred to the Druids. They would have none but that which clung to the trunk and was nourished by sap of the divine oak. To them, the apple tree mistletoe, which modern England uses so freely in her holiday festivities, would be a worthless and common thing.

When, in later centuries, England was taught the Christian religion by priests who went thither from Rome, the people, though professing a belief in Christ, retained many of their heathen rites and customs, changed from their original meaning and purpose. At any rate from the Druids has come the modern usage of the mistletoe-bough, strangely preserved in festivities which commemorate the birth of Him whose pure worship destroys all heathen superstitions.—St. Nicholas for December.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1878.

Our Navy.

The annual report of the Secretary of the Navy states the number of ships now in commission at twenty-eight steam cruisers, one steamboat and five sailing vessels; thirty-four in all. Six vessels, including one monitor, can be made ready for sea in a few months, and thirteen need more extensive repairs, but all can be put in a thorough condition with the present appropriations and those asked for the next fiscal year. Thirteen monitors are ready for service, and two others can be quickly repaired, which would raise, with the means under the control of the department, the total fighting force to sixty-eight ships. Five other monitors and six cruising ships could soon be put in condition for service if necessity required, and two other steam and sailing vessels could be added on imminent necessity. Two torpedo boats are now ready for use. Many other vessels, of which four have been built sixty years, fifteen built before the war and sixteen built or purchased during the war should be sold or broken up.

The Secretary says that rifled cannon should be substituted for the fifteen-inch guns on monitors; rifled cannon of ten inches bore, of about the same weight, would penetrate the side of any vessel likely to be employed on our coast. The extension of the torpedo system is advocated, and Ericsson's invention is reported; a board has been ordered by the department at his request for an official trial when ready for service; the same torpedo can be effectively employed from any vessel fitted with a tube above or below the water, and the machinery for ejecting the torpedo.

Further legislation authorizing the enlistment of 750 boys annually for the navy at an expense not exceeding $90,000 annually is urged, as is also the appointment of warrant officers from the most intelligent of these boys.

They Want a Friend At Court.

It is announced from Washington that as soon as Congress meets the democrats of the House will pass a resolution instructing the Potter fraud committee to investigate the cipher despatch business. This action will be taken merely to head off any investigation by a republican committee of the Senate; the leading democrats have given up all hope of being able to stifle, sneer down or laugh down the matter of the great reformer's attempt to buy electoral votes, and prefer that if the investigation must come—and they do not see how it can be avoided—that the tribunal shall be just such a recklessly partisan democratic concern as the Potter committee has shown itself to be; thus they will be able to suppress considerable matter unfavorable to the reform democracy, and put the best possible construction upon those acts which they are unable to conceal.

A New Idea.

A new idea, and one which will undoubtedly be appreciated by thousands of people in New England, is just being carried into practical operation by Mr. F. A. Kennedy of Cambridgeport, Mass. The ability and enterprise which this gentleman has shown in the manufacture of crackers and biscuit of all kinds are best demonstrated by his constantly-increasing trade and the size of the mammoth establishment in Cambridgeport, where his goods are made. Mr. Kennedy has now purchased the "Holmes Jumble and Cake Machine," with the exclusive right of the New England States, and proposes to put into every first-class grocery store in New England a variety of rich cake goods (in addition to crackers and biscuit), which will achieve an immediate sale and popularity. These cakes, jumbles, etc., will be found more uniform, much lighter and more delicate than can possibly be produced by hand, and the prices will be so low that all people can buy them freely. The varieties, as will be seen by the list elsewhere, are very choice, but numerous enough to meet all the varied tastes of the people. A sample box will be placed in every first-class grocery store and the public will have a chance to test them thoroughly. Mr. Kennedy's large experience, well-known energy and wide business connections will enable him to carry out this new idea on a broad and successful scale; and that it will result, under these auspices, in an immense trade of mutual benefit to all interested, manufacturer, grocers and the public, there is not a reasonable doubt.

By a collision between a ferryboat and a ship at anchor in the river Mersey at Liverpool, Eng., Nov. 26th, fifteen persons were drowned.

At Port Gibson, La., Nov. 27th, the sheriff of Clairbone county went with a posse to arrest Harrison Page, a colored desperado who two years ago assassinated the chancery clerk of that county. One of the posse was shot dead from a window of Page's house, the sheriff was mortally wounded on forcing the door, a deputy sheriff was knocked into an old cistern and left for dead, but subsequently revived and escaped, and another member of the posse was fatally shot as the party was leaving the place. Page escaped, though several of his accomplices were killed.

Information from the Rio Grande shows the affairs on both sides of the river more quiet now than any time within the last five years. Gen. Trevino of Mexico, whose force was recently increased, has already rendered efficient service in restraining raiders, and in several instances overtook and punished marauders.

The schooner William Carroll, Capt. Higgins, from Bangor for Salisbury, Mass., with lumber and potatoes, struck on North island shoal on the evening of Nov. 27th while trying to make the harbor, and became a total wreck. The crew of four men, and a pilot, were saved and taken into Newburyport by steamer Mattie Sargeant.

Schooner Charley Cobb, Capt. Metcalf, bound from Rockland for Providence with a cargo of 1600 barrels of lime, struck a ledge three miles off the beach at Manchester, Mass., on the evening of Nov. 27th, and the mate, whose name is unknown, was knocked overboard and drowned. The schooner afterward drifted ashore, and the lime taking fire she will be a total loss.

F. E. Little, a grocer of Merrimac, Mass., has issued paper to the amount of $15,000 bearing the forged signature of J. S. Foster, his father-in-law, as endorser.

Capt. Schwensen, of the sunken steamship Pomerania, was saved after all. The steamship City of Amsterdam steamed close by the scene of the collision, in the dark, heard cries of men in the water, stopped, lowered her boats and picked up Capt. Schwensen and landed him at a little port in Holland.

By a boiler explosion at Dunbar, Pa., Thursday, three men were killed, one mortally wounded, and ten seriously hurt; some of the latter will die.

Robert Heller, the noted sleight-of-hand performer, died in Philadelphia Nov. 27th.

Abraham Ketchum of Middleville, Conn., went gunning recently. While driving along the road his dog, which was in the wagon, jumped over the seat, and in doing so discharged a gun, the contents of which shot off Mr. Ketchum's right ear. Mr. Ketchum immediately gave up his gunning excursion for that day.

Senator Bayard is something of a democrat, and he makes the following observation respecting the proposition to revolutionize the monetary system of the country: "The conversion of national bank notes into greenbacks is the conversion of taxable into untaxable property."

The Law-Abiding South.

The report of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue makes the most favorable showing of efficiency in the various collection districts, presented since the organization of the bureau. The collections for the past year amount to about $113,000,000, or $1,000,000 more than during the previous year. The losses from defalcations are trifling. Commissioner Raum opposes a decrease of the tobacco tax and does not recommend any change in the tax on spirits. To avoid trouble with the small distillers south he recommends that where the capacity is only twenty gallons or less the owners of these stills be permitted to manufacture in the old way without the use of the numerous contrivances and methods ordered by law. The report refers to the violation and general defiance of the revenue laws in the south, and sets forth in a strong light the official records of resistance to law. During the year five revenue officers have been killed and thirteen wounded in the south. The Commissioner says the officers of the United States government have been treated there as if they were the emissaries of a foreign and hostile nation, sent to impose and collect tribute. He says he feels compelled to say it is not only robbers and outlaws who resist and attack federal officers, but that those claiming to be among the best citizens sometimes take part in a resistance by force, and are constantly extending sympathy. This support has even manifested itself among judges in the State courts. The killing of revenue officers or deputy marshals excites little attention, and seldom stirs the State officers to action. The murderers go free from arrest. If the revenue officers when attacked while in the discharge of their duty defend themselves and kill any of their armed assailants, whole communities rise against the officers, and the entire machinery of the State government is employed to punish the officers. The Commissioner recommends that Congress pass a law making all who participate in resisting revenue officers guilty of murder in case the resistance results in the killing an officer.

New Hampshire Items.

The Manchester police have arrested Patrick Shea and John Moriarty for highway robbery. Wednesday night they knocked down and robbed Mr. Henry P. Moore on Central street, securing but $8 in silver. Shea and Moriarty have been bound over in $1000 each.

The house and barn, together with two horses, owned by Mr. Jasper Hall of Westmoreland, were burned on the afternoon of Nov. 27th.

The bank expert has concluded his investigation into the Call rascalitics at Ashland, and finds that the only forged paper is held by the bank of Meredith village to the amount of about $400. Suits have been commenced against the endorsers on notes to the amount of $4000, held by the Ashland bank. No warrants have been yet taken out for the arrest of the fugitives.

—It is never too late to mend. Even the devil has his darning needle.

—The late Clement Laurier once got into conversation in a cafe with a very excitable individual, who getting rather the worst of the argument, said to his opponent hotly:—"Well, young man, if you are so positive in your statements, perhaps you won't object to defending them in another position. We will meet to-morrow with such weapons as you prefer." "Oh, I'm not a duelist," said Laurier; "I won't fight." "I knew you wouldn't—I knew you wouldn't," said the bully, triumphantly. "And that was why you challenged, me, eh?"

The Physiology of the Liver.

The liver is the largest secreting organ in the human body, and the bile which it secretes is more liable to vitiation and misdirection from its proper channels than any other of the animal fluids. Luckily for the bilious, however, there is an unfailing source of relief from liver complaint, namely, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a medicine which for over a quarter of a century has been achieving thorough cures of the above mentioned ailments, fever and ague, dyspepsia, bowel complaints, rheumatic and kiney affections, and disorders involving loss of nervous vigor. It is, moreover, a preventive of malarial disease, and affords protection to thousands of persons residing in districts of country where that dire scourge is prevalent. As a remedy adapted to the medicinal requirement of families, it is supremely desirable, and as a means of fortifying a debilitated system, it is thoroughly to be depended upon.

MADE BY MACHINERY!

Having purchased the "HOLMES JUMBLE AND CAKE MACHINE," with the exclusive right of the New England States, I now propose to place in every first-class Grocery a variety of rich Cake Goods in addition to the 144 kinds of Crackers and Biscuit now manufactured by me, at a price that will enable them to be used freely, and which is far below what the same class of goods can be made for by hand as at present. At the same time we will be found much superior, being uniform, and much lighter and more delicate than can possibly be produced by hand.

The following are some of the varieties now produced by the machine:

THE CITY.

See notice of real estate for sale by auction to-day.

The Women's Temperance League fair at the Court house is postponed to the third week in December.

Charles H. Mendum, Esq., of this city, presented to each of his tenants a barrel of choice apples, just before Thanksgiving.

Faith Home was the recipient of seven fine turkeys to "keep Thanksgiving" on. A good quantity of apples, poultry, potatoes and other vegetables was also left at the Children's Home—enough to last some weeks.

On Monday evening next Dollie Bidwell will appear at Music hall in the great play of "East Lynne: or the Elopement," supported by a full company. The price of admission is very low, being only 35 cts. for the lower floor and 25 cts. for the gallery.

All singers, members of the Portsmouth Philharmonic society and others, who can read church psalmody, are invited to meet at Mercantile and Grange hall on Tuesday evening, Dec. 3d, at seven o'clock, to consider the subject of rehearsals for the winter.

The members of the Mechanics' Association, with their ladies, are to have a social levee on Tuesday evening, Dec. 10th. The exercifes will consist of the installation of the officers for the ensuing year, speeches by some of the members, and supper in Mechanics' hall.

The team of Alexander Thompson, of York, ran away on the afternoon of Nov. 27th, and was stopped at the toll-gate of Postsmouth bridge without any serious damage having been done to either team or person on Market street, up which the frightened horse ran, though the pedestrians made lively time in getting out of the way.

The schooner Lizzie Morris, bound from Windsor, N. S., for Boston, with a cargo of moulding sand, put into the lower harbor for shelter, and while lying at anchor there on the night of the 27th inst. was run into by the schooner Mary Jane Lee, of Ellsworth, Me., which vessel was also making a harbor, and cut down to the water's edge forward, besides having her sails torn and rigging damaged. The Lizzie Morris was towed up to Adams & Co.'s wharf for repairs, Thursday.

The Blanche Meda dramatic combination gave one of the best entertainments of the season at Music hall on the evening before Thanksgiving day, to an audience ridiculously small. The weather was unfavorable, for one thing, and then Thanksgiving eve is a poor time for a show, though Thanksgiving evening is one of the best in the whole year. The play, "Won at last," is far better than the average drama, and the company very much superior to the average travelling combination.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Eastern railroad (the Massachusetts corporation) and the holders of certificates of indebtedness will be held in Tremont Temple, Boston, on the eleventh day of December, when and where the report of the directors will be presented, and nine new directors chosen—six by the certificate holders and three by the holders of stock. Stock of the Eastern railroad in New Hampshire will not secure a free ride that day, unless things are changed from last year.

The Journal says: "The lighthouses at Fort Constitution, Whale's-back, White and Wood islands, all burn kerosene instead of lard oil." This is not exactly correct; the lighthouses at the fort and Whale's-back, and also all the other lighthouses of the fourth, fifth and sixth orders in the district, have been fitted to burn kerosene; but none of the first, second or third orders have yet been so fitted, and it is said they will not be, as better results are attained with lard oil in the large lamps. White and Boon island lights, both being of the second order, will continue to burn lard oil.

The steamer Cambridge, Capt. Ingraham, left Boston for Bangor at eleven o'clock in the forenoon on Wednesday, Nov. 27th, but found the sea so rough that she had to put into Gloucester for a harbor for the night. She left Gloucester at seven o'clock next morning, and at eleven o'clock arrived in Portsmouth lower harbor, where she anchored to wait for clearer weather and smoother water before proceeding on her trip. The sea was very heavy outside—heavier than the boat had experienced for several years with one exception—and the passengers were glad enough when the captain headed her for this port.

The Secretary of the Navy, in his annual report, in referring to this navy yard, says that only the most urgent work has been done, and much that could have been profitably done, if the appropriation had been sufficient, has been omitted. The amount expended during the year under this branch of service was $54,630.13. "While this yard is in good condition, and is one of the best in the country on account of its admirable location and the skill of its mechanics, yet there are several frame buildings in a dilapidated condition and subject to be destroyed by fire, for which more substantial ones should be substituted. Besides this, a flow of water has been secured, which with the proper appliances may be connected throughout the yard so that any fire that might occur could be readily extinguished. But these improvements cannot be made without increasing the appropriations."

POLICE COURT.

FRIDAY, Nov, 26; Batchelder, J,

George O'Donnel was arraigned for an assault on Daniel Falvey on the night before Thanksgiving; case continued to Saturday forenoon at ten o'clock.

John O'Donnell; assault on Michael Quinn, Thanksgiving day; discharged.

Joseph Quinn; assault on Geo. O'Donnell, Thanksgiving day; discharged.

Michael Quinn, Daniel Falvey, and William Falvey, assault on Peter O'Donnell, Thanksgiving day. Wm. Falvey was held in $100 for trial at a higher court; the other two were discharged.

Daniel Falvey and William Falvey, charged with assaulting George O'Donnell on Thanksgiving day, were each held in $100 to answer at a higher court.

All the above cases grew out of what was virtually one affair—a Water street faction fight. From the evidence offered it appears that Daniel Falvey and George O'Donnell had a fight the night before Thanksgiving. Next day the two O'Donnells went down river, and on returning were met on the wharf by Falvey, who after some words pitched into George O'Donnell, and before the affair was settled the Falveys, O'Donnells and Quinns all got into the fight, (and also into the police court,) and George O'Donnell was somewhat seriously injured. The Quinns said they interfered only to stop the fight; and neither of them having ever been before the court before, and both being well spoken of by their employers and others as being industrious and peaceable persons, they were dismissed.

WHICH IS WHICH?

In the Times of Friday evening we find the following items:

Lieutenant-Commander George H. Wadleigh is ordered to duty in the navigation department at this navy yard.

Commander Wadleigh has been ordered from duty in the navigation department at this navy yard to duty in the bureau of equipment at Washington.

THE VICINITY.

Horace Main of Kittery, whose house near the York line was burned some months ago, is putting up a two-story frame dwelling on the old site.

There is a hog of the Chester White breed on the Whitcomb stock farm in Stratham, (formerly the "Abednego Robinson farm,") which it is estimated by good judges would at the present time dress over nine hundred pounds.

The new church at Spruce Creek, Kittery, on the site of the old one which was sold and moved away, is nearly completed, and will be ready for occupany about February. It has a very graceful steeple, surmounted by a handsome gilded arrow for a vane.

A Kittery man who has occasion to often cross Portsmouth bridge with a team at night complains that the pile-driver is left on the bridge in such a way as to be dangerous to travel; that the bridge itself is insufficiently lighted, and the pile-driver not at all.

The York and Eliot Christian church, at Beech Ridge, York, gave their pastor a pound party on the evening of Nov. 21st, at the residence of Mr. Alsbury Goodwin. The contributions "pounded" up to a half hundred weight of serviceable and desirable articles.

Mr. Frank M. Hoyt, of Newington, will teach the school in the eastern district of Rye this winter. Mr. Valentine M. Coleman of Newington has been engaged as teacher of the school in district number five at Eliot, Me. The school board of Newington have prohibited the use of tobacco at school, under penalty of expulsion.

The Cutts place, so-called, at Spruce Creek, Kittery, has been purchased by Mr. Leonard C. Cook of Beech Ridge, York; Mr. Cook is now moving to his new place, and will take up his residence there instead of rebuilding at Beech Ridge, where his house and outbuildings were destroyed by fire last summer.

The notorious Titus-Dickey scandal case at Cincinnati has been settled, Miss Dickey receiving about $4000 as damages for breach of promise by Titus. This was the case in which Titus, then a student at Phillips Academy at Exeter, betrayed Miss Dickey, who was several years his senior, under a promise of marriage which he subsequently refused to fulfill.

The American barque Devonshire, previously referred to as having been captured by the Chilian corvette Magellenes while engaged in loading guano from a desolate island in the Straits of Magellan, the island being claimed by the Argentine Republic and by Chili, was built in Biddeford in 1856, and registered at the port of Saco, to which port she now belongs. She is of six hundred and forty-three tons burthen, and owned by Capt. R. F. C. Hartley of Saco and others, and was formerly commanded by Capt. Hartley. Capt. Falker, who commanded her at the time of her seizure, belongs in Biddeford. It is said he was warned by a consular official of the United States government that he would get into trouble if he attempted to load from the island under a permit from the Argentine government, but considering that he had a right to he went ahead, with the result already noted. The Argentine Republic has sent a strong remonstrance to the government of Chili, and Chili at last advices was waiting an official report of the barque's seizure before replying to the foreign note regarding it.

At the South Parish the pastor will give to-morrow evening the first of a few sermons upon "The life, journeys, epistles and missionary labors of St. Paul."

Naval Matters.

Lieut. Emery H. Taunt is detached from the navy yard, and ordered to duty in the bureau of equipment at Washington.

Lieut. Comdr. George H. Wadleigh is ordered to duty in the navigation department at this navy yard.

The despatch boat Tallapoosa, from Norfolk, having on board among other things the boilers from the Antietam to be placed in the Lancaster, arrived at this navy yard on the evening of Nov. 27th.

The Army and Navy Journal says: "It is reported that the Enterprise, which recently sailed from New York for the European station, did not pass a very creditable inspection when inspected by the board just before her departure."

Commodore William F. Spicer, commandant of the Boston navy yard, died Friday morning. He was on duty at Portsmouth navy yard in 1865, at which time he was a commander.

The U. S. S. Ticonderoga, Capt. Cromwell, from this port, arrived at Norfolk, Va., Nov. 27th. A Norfolk despatch of the 27th says: "On Friday morning the Ticonderoga will go up to the navy yard and be placed in the dry dock for the purpose of having her bottom inspected and repaired and her machinery overhauled. On her trip down the coast she ran aground on Gloucester point, and her bottom was somewhat injured. She will drop down to the farewell buoy next week, when Commodore Shufeldt will hoist his flag, and Commodore Cooper's inspection board will formally pass upon her seageing condition. She goes direct to the Canaries under sail."

Medical Inspector Albert L. Gihon has not been ordered "to temporary duty" at certain navy yards, as reported, but has been ordered as "inspector of recruiting and recruiting stations," the object being to establish a uniform system of examinations, etc., for admission into the navy, whether as cadet at naval academy, apprentice on board training ship, sailor at rendezvous, or marine at recruiting office. He has been engaged for some time in the work of organizing a system of this sort, and the orders referred to are simply a formal appointment to this duty and to the future supervision of its details.

PIANO-FORTE TUNING.

HAVING REMOVED to the new and spacious store No. 6 Pleasant Street, near Post Office, and intending to keep a larger assortment of goods in my line, including Artists' Materials, I have deemed it advisable to give my whole attention to business in the store, and have secured the service of Mr. CHAS. H. SARGENT, a Competent and Reliable Tuner, who has been connected for the last ten years with prominent Music Houses in Boston and other places. I would therefore give notice that all orders for Tuning and Repairing Pianos, left at my store, will be promptly and faithfully attended to on the first of each month by Mr. Sargent, and perfect satisfaction guaranteed.

A Reliable Life Insurance Policy.

We take pleasure in commending to our readers a thoroughly safe and reliable life insurance agency, whose funds or assets are inexhaustible. It is a stock company operating under the joint title —Health. Life policies are issued in the form of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Purgative Pellets (which, if taken as directed, insure the system against disease) upon payment of a very small fee. All the principal druggists are constituted agents.

Established 1756.

The Gazette is published every Thursday, and sent to Subscribers at the low price of $1.50 per year, paid in advance, or $2 at the end of the year.

It contains full accounts of all of importance that transpires in Portsmouth and its vicinity, and a condensed summary of NEWS, foreign and domestic; editorials upon current topics; New Hampshire items; carefully prepared marine news, containing reports of vessels owned at this port, or officered by men from Portsmouth or its neighborhood; and is just the paper for residents desiring to be posted on all that takes place at home, while to those living in the vicinity of Portsmouth, or to former residents who retain their interest in the "old home by the sea," it is the best means of keeping informed of what transpires in this city.

NEW HAMPSHIRE GAZETTE

Contains more original matter

Than any other paper of its size in the State, the editors working more with their pens than with their scissors.

TO ADVERTISERS

THE N. H. GAZETTE

Presents an excellent opportunity for a WEEKLY INVITATION TO CUSTOMERS, at a reasonable rate, and all those who desire to reach patrons in Rockingham and York counties will find it an economical medium. THE GAZETTE is in many instances the only paper taken by families, and it is read to a large extent in localities whence is derived much of the trade of Portsmouth, a fact which our merchants should not fail to bear in mind.

PENNSYLVANIA

RAILROAD.

GREAT THROUGH LINE

AND

UNITED STATES MAIL ROUTE

The attention of the travelling public is respectfully invited to some of the merits of this great highway, in the confident assertion and belief that no other line can offer equal inducements as a route of through travel. In

Construction AND Equipment

THE

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

stands confessedly at the head of American railways. The track is double the entire length of the line, of steel rails laid on heavy oak ties, which are embedded in a foundation of rock ballast eighteen inches in depth. All bridges are of iron or stone, and built upon the most approved plans. Its passenger cars, while eminently safe and substantial, are at the same time models of comfort and elegance.

The Safety Appliances

in use on this line well illustrates the far-seeing and liberal policy of its management, in accordance with which the utility only of an improvement and not its novelty has been the question of consideration. Among many may be noticed

THE BLOCK SYSTEM OF SAFETY SIGNALS,

JANNEY COUPLER, BUFFER AND PLATFORM,

THE WHARTON PATENT SWITCH,

AND THE

WESTINGHOUSE AIR-BRAKE,

forming in conjunction with a perfect double track and road-bed a combination of safeguards against accidents which have rendered them practically impossible.

Pullman Palace Cars

Are run on all Express Trains

From New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington,

To Chicago, Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, and St. Louis,

WITHOUT CHANGE,

and to all principal points in the far West and South with but one change of cars. Connections are made in Union Depots, and are assured to all important points.

The Scenery

OF THE

is admitted to be unsurpassed in the world for grandeur, beauty and variety. Superior refreshment facilities are provided. Employees are courteous and attentive, and it is an inevitable result that a trip by the Pennsylvania Railroad must form

A PLEASING AND MEMORABLE EXPERIENCE.

ANTI-FAT

ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT is the great remedy for Corpulency. It is purely vegetable and perfectly harmless. It acts on the food in the stomach, preventing its conversion into fat. Taken according to directions, it will reduce a fat person from 8 to 5 pounds a week.

In placing this remedy before the public as a positive cure for obesity, we do so knowing its ability to cure, as attested by hundreds of testimonials, of which the following from a lady in Columbus, Ohio, is a sample: "Gentlemen—Your Anti-Fat was duly received. I took it according to directions and it reduced me five pounds. I was elated over the result that I immediately sent to ACKERMAN'S drugstore for the second bottle." Another, a physician, writes for a patient from Providence, R. I., says: "Four bottles have reduced her weight from 199 pounds to 161 pounds, and her health is generally improved in health." A gentleman writing from Boston, says: "Without spending much time or attention to diet, two bottles of Allan's Anti-Fat reduced me four and one-half pounds." The well-known Wholesale Druggists, SMITH, DOLITTLE & SMITH, of Boston, Mass., write as follows: "Allan's Anti-Fat has reduced a lady in our city seven pounds in three weeks." A gentleman in St. Louis writes: "Allan's Anti-Fat reduced me twenty pounds in three weeks and altogether I have lost twenty-five pounds since commencing its use." Messrs. POWER & PARKER, Wholesale Druggists, of Buffalo, N. Y., write: "TO THE PROPRIETORS OF ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT: Gentlemen.—The following report is from the lady who used Allan's Anti-Fat. 'I have used Allan's Anti-Fat with the desired effect, reducing the fat from two to five pounds a week until I had lost twenty-five pounds, and hope never to regain what I have lost. Anti-Fat is an unexcelled blood-purifier. It promotes digestion, curing dyspepsia, and is also a potent remedy for rheumatism. Sold by druggists. Pamphlet on Obesity sent on receipt of stamp.

BOTANIC MEDICINE CO., PROP'RS, Buffalo, N.Y.

WOMAN

By an immense practice at the World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, having treated many thousand cases of those diseases peculiar to woman, I have been enabled to perfect a most potent and positive remedy for those diseases.

To designate this natural specific, I have named it

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

The term, however, is but a feeble expression of my high appreciation of its value, based upon personal observation. I have, while witnessing the curative results in the special diseases included in the category of woman, singled it out as the chief ornament or crowning gem of my medical career. On its merits, as a positive, safe, and speedy specific for the class of diseases, and one that will, at all times and under all circumstances, act kindly, I am willing to stake my reputation as a physician; and so confident am I that it will not disappoint the most sanguine expectations of a single invalid lady who uses it for any of the ailments for which I recommend it. I offer and sell it under A POSITIVE GUARANTEE. Its conditions, see pamphlet wrapping bottle.

The following are among those diseases in which my Favorite Prescription has worked cures, as if by magic, and with a certainty never before attained by any medicine: Leucorrhœa, Excessive Flowing, Painful Monthly Periods, Suppressions when from unnatural causes, Irregularities, Weak Back, Prolapsus, or Falling of the Uterus, Anteversion and Retroversion, Bearing-down Sensations, Internal Heat, Nervous Depression, Debility, Despondency, Threatened Miscarriage, Chronic Congestion, Inflammation and Ulceration of the Uterus, Impotency, Sterility, or Barrenness in Married Women. I do not extol this medicine as a "cure-all," but it admirably fulfils a single end of purpose, being a most perfect specific in all chronic diseases of the sexual system of women. It will not disappoint, nor will it do harm, in any state or condition.

Those who desire further information on these subjects can obtain it in the PEOPLE'S COMMON SENSE MEDICAL ADVISER, a book of over 300 pages, sent, post-paid, on receipt of $1.50. It treats minutely of those diseases peculiar to females, and gives much valuable advice in regard to the management of those affections.

Favorite Prescription sold by Druggists.

THE DOVES.

Pretty doves, so blithely ranging
Up and down the street;
Glossy throats all bright hues changing,
Little scarlet feet.

Pretty doves! among the daisies
They should coo and flit!
All these toilsome, noisy places
Seem for them unfit.

Yet amidst our human plodding,
They must love to be;
With their little heads a-nodding,
Busier than we.

Close to hoof and wheel they hover,
Sure some treasure to discover;
Rapid, shy, and deft.

Friendliest of feathered creatures,
In their timid guise;
Wisdom's little silent teachers,
Praying us be wise.

Fluttering at footsteps careless,
Danger swift to flee,
Lowly, trusting, faithful, fearless,—
O, that such were we!

In the world and yet not of it,
Ready to take wing,—
By this lesson could we profit
It were everything!

—Harriet McEwen Kimball, in Dec. Wide Awake.

Washington Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 27th.

Another convention of business men, similar to that held in Chicago, is to be held in New Orleans on the third of December, to consider what can be done to aid the improvement of the Mississippi for navigation, the construction of the Texas & Pacific railway, and the establishment of steamship lines to develope trade with Mexico and the South American ports. The latter object will receive some impetus from a report just made by a government commission sent to Mexico and South America. This report shows that the British merchants monopolize trade almost everywhere, even in products of the United States. They are enabled to do this because the British government gives aid to steamship lines in all directions, and thus furnishes its merchants facilities which our own people do not have. A measure is pending in Congress to aid a mail steamship line between the United States ports and South America, which meets with great favor by commercial people as the entering wedge in a system which is calculated to restore commerce and find markets for our natural products and manufactures. One of the other objects of consideration by the New Orleans meeting, the Texas & Pacific railway, is also before Congress, and will come up in the Senate the first week in the session. The pending bill provides for the guarantee of the interest on the construction bonds of the railroad company, provided the company will return to the government as security its large land grant, and put its property and its management entirely in government hands. It is thought that if the company will accept these rigid terms the road can be finished in three years, to the great relief of transcontinental commerce in general and to the south in particular. The Mississippi improvement matter is not in as good shape as the other matters, and the New Orleans convention is expected to give it form.

It is announced that the President's message will make the outrages and violations of law in the south during the late Congressional elections a prominent topic of comment. These violations will be condemned as depriving a large number of citizens of rights conferred by both National and State authority, thus preventing results expressive of their will in the administration of public affairs. Such proceedings will be further deprecated, because they indicate that the pacification of the south is not yet complete, and because they cast reproach upon and endanger the integrity of free institutions. The subject will be earnestly urged upon the consideration of Congress for such action as the circumstances demand, with a view to preventing a recurrence of such wrongs, and to secure an absolute exercise of the right of suffrage. Although this announcement appears to be official, yet there are many persons who doubt the earnestness of the President in this direction. Many democrats profess to ridicule it, and many stalwart republicans still doubt the courage of the President to take hold of the subject zealously. Probably both these classes will be disappointed, for it is said by many of President Hayes' friends that the late elections have convinced him that the country is ready for pretty radical measures. It is quite safe to say that there will be some lively times in Congress shortly as the result of this "going back on the policy."

Congress is rapidly gathering itself together, and the caterers are happy again. Many of the committees are here attending to preliminary work. Several branches of appropriations will be ready to report during the first week, and it is hoped that the whole of the appropriation bills will be in the House early in January. If so, there will be less haste in the legislation of the "last hours," and consequently more propriety and less jobbery. It is certainly desirable.

I observe that some of the correspondents are predicting an extra session of the new Congress in March. Why is this? If the appropriation bills are disposed of, what need of another session? These predictions are evidently made by persons who are interested in big jobs, and whose wish for a special session is father to the thought. There is no call for a special session, so far as we can see now, and the country will be better off without it.

KNOX.

Portsmouth Chronicle

MONDAY, DECEMBER 2, 1878.

Mob Law in Kentucky.

The town of Jackson, in Breathitt county, Kentucky, was on Saturday in the hands of two factions of a mob. Jason Little, a wife murderer, was taken from Lexington jail to Jackson for trial on Monday, Nov. 26th; on the afternoon of that day an armed gang under one John Aikman rode into town and attacked another gang under one Bill Strong, and two men were killed, the Strong gang then barricading themselves in a log house, the fight being kept up all night. Next day the judge, Burnett, headed a posse of fifteen men, and aided to place Little in jail. Soon after a brother of Little with a gang attacked the judge's party, and the judge was riddled with bullets. Subsequently Little's brother was shot dead by a gang that attempted to get the murderer out of jail to hang him. At last accounts the sheriff with a posse of forty men, armed with revolvers and magazine rifles, were at bay in the court house yard in a position to command the jail; and the country people did not dare to enter the town even to attend Judge Burnett's funeral. The other county judge had fled for his life. The governor of the State had been appealed to for aid.

Frank Turner, a murderer, was removed Friday from the jail in Grant county, Ky., to the jail at Covington, to prevent the excited citizens from lynching him. He is said to have murdered four people within three years.

Norway's Merchant Navy.

The Norwegian nation is the smallest of all European nations, but its commercial fleet is the third largest in the world. The Norwegian flag is, of all foreign flags, that which is most frequently seen in the harbor of New York; and through the sound which connects the Baltic with the North sea, and forms the highway from London to St. Petersburg, often from three to four hundred Norwegian craft of every description pass during one single day. In Norway, although not every man is a sailor, every person is, nevertheless, more or less directly connected with the shipping interest. To build ships or to sail them, to own ships or to have part in them, is a point in everybody's life all along those thousand fjords which fringe the coasts of Norway, and to the inland farmer the most common manner of placing his savings is to go down to the sea and buy a part in a ship. Many a Norwegian vessel, carrying timber to England and coal back to Denmark, or dried fish to Naples and oranges back to St. Petersburg, represents the fortune of a whole village or parish, in which even the servant girl may have a share, and to many a well-to-do Norwegian farmer the only source from which he draws, and can draw, ready money is his ship-part. It may easily be understood, then, with what feelings the Norwegian people have seen their vessels come home this year in the middle of September and lay up for the winter before the fall had fairly set in. They used to come about Christmas, and there they are, three months in advance, lying idle though the sun still stands high in the heavens. Neither the timber, nor the coal, nor the dried fish, nor the oranges want to be moved.

The Old Man Defeated.

Fred Smith and Mary Gaines, a smart appearing young couple, were married at the city marshal's office in Providence, R. I., Friday forenoon, by Rev. T. E. St. John, and the happy couple can now return to the irate father and ask his forgiveness for not heeding his commands. The two belong in Manchester, and Smith has been devoted to Mary for some time, but her father did not like the young man and ordered him away. Mary was true to him, however, and Thursday the pair started away from Manchester, determined to get the matrimonial knot tied. They went to Providence, and were detained in accordance with a despatch from the girl's father. Fred went to a hotel, and Mary was taken to the house of Marshal Washburn. Friday morning the young fellow saw a lawyer and found that he could lawfully marry the girl he loved, and he hastened to get the needed papers from the city clerk, which done the ceremony was performed, and the couple said their trouble was at an end.

But the lawyers then put in their bills for legal advice, and before the newly-made bridegroom could settle their demands Mr. Gaines and the city marshal of Manchester arrived, and Smith was soon after arrested on a charge of bigamy. It is claimed that he has a wife and two children in Manchester. The parties all returned home on the five o'clock train.

The School-Boy.

When the alumni of Phillips academy at Andover, Mass., announced the centennial celebration in the early part of last summer, it came out that all through the land were many distinguished men who had spent school days at this ancient and honored institution for learning. When Oliver Wendell Holmes was announced as the poet of the occasion, we of the outer world knew that a treat was in store, and much was it enjoyed by the old boys present. Now the happy efforts of the celebrated poet are given to the rest of mankind in a beautiful *volume published by Houghton, Osgood & Company of Boston, and issued in the unexceptionable good taste which such a work demands. The book contains seventy-nine pages, with profuse illustrations of suggestive character. It is a treasure to be enjoyed not only by the students of this widely known academy, but by every one, teacher or taught, who will peruse its pages. The future poet's advent to Andover is pleasantly and graphically described, when—

"Slow rolls the coach along the dusty road,
Big with its filial and parental load;
The frequent hills, the lonely woods are past,
The school-boy's chosen home is reached at last."

His homesickness when—

"Too old to let his watery grief appear—
And what so bitter as a swallowed tear?"

His advent into the schoolroom is described very much as Goldsmith would have rendered it. The head master's grave look, his wrinkled forehead:

"Uneasy lie the heads of all that rule,
His most of all whose kingdom is a school."

All these and the succeeding events of school-boy days appear in that natural and graceful style which reproduces the scenes of boyhood in a manner true to life. To the students of Andover who met on that rare day in June, every line of the student of fifty years ago was rich in its associations and happy in its memories. To us who are favored with the perusal of the book, with its elegant accompaniments, there is a fascination in reading the lines and re-reading them with renewed enjoyment. It is one of the poems of our day and generation which will long survive. The book is sold at Goodrich's book store at $1.50, and is one of the most enjoyable publications that has come to our table for many a day.

* The School-Boy: By Oliver Wendell Holmes.

"They Laugh That Win."

It will surprise our New Hampshire readers to know how little regard is paid to the principle of rotation in Rhode Island. Hon. Thos. A. Doyle, of Providence, has just been elected mayor of that city for the fifteenth term. This, too, in face of the fact that during his administration a new city hall, costing a round million of money, has been erected, at which outlay, of course, the descendants of Roger Williams growl periodically. Yet Mayor Doyle is happily re-elected, and doubtless "Behind a frowning Providence,

He hides a smiling face."

He was highly respected by the officers of the road, and the citizens of Concord. He was a native of Pembroke, and had lived in Concord twenty years.

The Machester & Keene railroad was completed on the afternoon of Nov. 29th, the last spike being driven by S. W. Hale, a director of the road. ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure.
CONSUMERS should bear in mind that the incomparable "Royal" is now the only Baking Powder in the market made from pure Grape Cream Tartar, imported exclusively for this powder direct from the wine-growing district of France. An old experienced housekeeper writes that, although she has to pay a few cents more for the "Royal," finds that it goes so much further and works so much better, that it is economy to use it. Another says she uses the powder in puddings, cakes, and all sorts of pastry, without eggs. An old lady writes that it makes the only biscuit her dyspeptic husband can eat. This is because the best and most wholesome materials are used. Approved by the New York Board of Health, and by such eminent chemists as Dr. MOTT, New York; Dr. HAYES, Boston; Prof. GENTH, Philadelphia, etc. Sold in tin cans only. dtsep18 79

THE CITY.

The schooner Mary E. Caswell, owned by the Laighton Brothers of Appledore, Isles of Shoals, has been let to the Ingerbredsens of Preble's island for winter fishing.

The dredging machine came down the river on Saturday, having finished its work on the Cocheco for the season, and is now negotiable for duty in the south mill-pond.

The schooner John D. Williams, Pearce master, which arrived at Concord railroad wharf on Wednesday of last week from Philadelphia, had the biggest freight of the season, 803 tons of coal at $2.35 a ton.

Mr. Alexander Robinson has erected a substantial brick building on Islington street, near the Creek, thirty-two by twenty-two feet on the ground and two stories high, to be used for a grocery store.

The schooner Lizzie Morris, whose running down by another vessel while at anchor in the lower harbor has been already reported, is a new vessel, launched, as we are informed, only three or four months ago, and is owned by her captain and mate, who built her.

Dollie Bidwell appears this evening at Music hall in "East Lynne," supported by J. C. Myers' New York company. She needs no introduction to a Portsmouth audience, and the price of admission being low there will probably be a full house. See advertisement.

A county business directory for Rockingham county is now being canvassed for. We do not know the exact plan of the work, but are requested by the firm that has for some years issued the Portsmouth City Directory so satisfactorily, to say that the canvass for their publication will commence in April, 1879.

Messrs. Pitkin and Kidder, of Boston, arrived in this city on bicycles at 5:30 o'clock P. M. on Saturday, having wheeled it from Salem, which city they left at half-past nine o'clock in the forenooon. They reported the travelling good between Salem and Newburyport, but from the latter place to this city the roads were rather soft for easy locomotion. The gentlemen took passage in the last train for Boston, with their "teams."

At the annual communication of St. Andrew's Lodge, No. 56, F. and A. M., held Saturday evening, Nov. 30th, the following officers were elected: John Pender, W. M.; William A. Hodgdon, S. W.; William A. Ashe, J. W.; Wingate N. Insley, Treasurer; Alfred F. Howard, Secretary; Harry G. Tanton, Representative to Grand Lodge; Samuel C. Whittier and William P. Walker, Standing Committee.

The schooner Koret, Capt. Babbage, of and from Bangor for Boston with a cargo of potatoes, anchored in the lower harbor last week, and in the sharp northwest blow of Thursday night dragged her anchors, and at about eleven o'clock went on one of the Fishing islands. She was hauled off by her crew at three o'clock Friday afternoon, leaking badly, and was beached near Fisbree's wharf at Kittery point. Her cargo is insured; it consists of Jackson White potatoes, purchased at sixty cents a bushel, and Early Rose potatoes for which eighty cents a bushel was paid.

Residents in the vicinity of the Creek are greatly exercised concerning the utterly reckless way a rifle club do their practicing thereabouts. Many very narrow escapes from flying bullets have recently occurred, the latest dangerous shot being on Thanksgiving forenoon, when a member of the club again showed his "dexterity" by heedlessly firing his well charged rifle. A ball went through a window in the house occupied by Mr. Pendergast, at the corner of Spinney's and Islington roads, passed between two little children, and, striking the wall opposite, rebounded to the other side of the room. Such reckless firing should consign any person to the severest penalties of the law.—Times.

Duprez and Benedict's Minstrels, including Billy Arlington, Charles H. Duprez, Harry Pierson and many other popular favorites, will give an entertainment in Music hall on Wednesday evening. Reserved seat tickets, if purchased at Preston's before Tuesday night, only 50 cents each. Mr. Duprez is we believe the oldest minstrel troupe manager in the country, and is certainly one of the most successful ones, his reputation for always giving a good show being worth lots of money to him, and enabling him to secure an audience where other entertainments fail; the lovers of minstrel performances everywhere confidently expect something first-class in that line from Duprez and Benedict's Minstrels. The company have not played in this city for three years, and will probably have a large audience to greet them.

Samuel Blatchford, a "simple drunk," was assessed $9.90, fine and costs. Paid.

THE VICINITY.

The United States District Court comes in at Exeter on Tuesday, the 17th inst. A jury has been summoned for the trial of civil causes.

A boy three years of age, the son of Mr. Fred Lamprey of Hampton, was fatally scalded on Thursday night by the overturning of an urn containing boiling tea.

Mr. John T. Gibbs, for nearly half a century proprietor and editor of the Gazette formerly published in Dover, died in that city Saturday night, at the age of eighty years.

Gunners off the Nubble at York report large numbers of ice-birds on the coast now—supposed to be an indication of the prevalence of unusually severe weather in high northern latitudes.

The freight train down over the Concord & Portsmouth railroad, Saturday morning, ran off the track this side of Greenland. Little damage was done, beyond delaying the noon freight train north.

We are informed that diphtheria is becoming so prevalent at the navy yard village in Kittery as to lead to talk of temporarily closing the schools; the bad sanitary condition of the pretty little village is credited with this state of affairs.

Miss Mary Sherman, of Portland, a new candidate for honors as a pedestrian, on Thursday walked fifty miles in eleven hours, thirty-five minutes and twenty-six seconds, including one hour, twenty-seven minutes and twenty seconds expended in rests, at Biddeford city hall.

The vote of Dover on the question of prohibiting the sale of lager beer was: For prohibiting, 478; against, 1152; majority for beer, 674. Many person voted the ballots as they found them, with both "Yes" and "No" printed on them, and of course these were not counted.

Mr. Charles T. Pellerrin of Saco, who for seven years past has been engineer of Gov. Fairfield steam fire engine of that city, left his home last Friday to take a position on a mail boat running between Galveston and Indianola, Texas. On Thursday he was presented with a very handsome ring by the members of his old fire company.

The trustees of the Rice Public Library of Kittery had a meeting on Saturday, at which the treasurer reported that the entire fund given by Miss Rice is invested and drawing interest, and that in addition to this the trustees have invested two thousand dollars of the accrued income, to be used hereafter in the construction of a building for the library.

Joseph H. Hanson, of Dover, has been held in $500 for his appearance at the supreme court on each of two charges—one for setting fire to his house and the other for setting fire to his barn, on the night of Nov 24th. Mr. Hanson has borne a good name, but suspicion was aroused from the fact that three fires had occurred on his premises within three months, and an investigation took place with the result above noted.

There was a large discharge of workmen in the construction department at the navy yard, Saturday, owing to a lack of funds. Twenty-eight joiners, three boat-builders and eight reamers were discharged; and in addition thirty-five shipwrights and twenty fasteners were suspended until such time as the men now engaged on the Kearsarge are through, when the suspended men will take their place in working on the Lancaster. The laborers in the construction department are placed on half time.

The Biddeford Times says that "Thanksgiving day was celebrated on the 'Sea road,' Kennebunk, by a pigeon shooting which was participated in by a large number of marksmen. Some pigeons were shot, some flew away, and some would not fly until driven to; some flew and lit on a barn near, when some of the gunners went and shot them. Charles H. McColluch went over from the landing to see the fun, and just as he arrived on the scene George C. Lord discharged his gun in the same direction, and the result was that the calf of Mr. McColluch's leg received most of the shot, instead of the pigeon. The distance was such that Mr. McColluch was not dangerously, although he is seriously, wounded. He walked home. This manner of shooting pigeons is a manly sport, truly."

The church of the First Parish of Dover, Rev. Dr. Spalding's, was re-dedicated on Thanksgiving evening with appropriate ceremonies, after extensive repairs and improvements. A dedication hymn containing some beautiful lines, written for the occasion by Carrie A. Spalding, was sung by the congregation to the tune "Hamburg" as a closing exercise, Rev. Mr. DeBuchananne then pronouncing the benediction. The first meeting house was built by the society in 1633. The present edifice, which is the fifth one, was originally dedicated Dec. 3d, 1829. The Dover Democrat says: "The First Parish now have one of the most beautiful houses of worship that we know of anywhere outside the very large and wealthy societies of Boston, New York, Philadelphia and similar places. The interior decorations are examples of the finest fresco work we ever saw. It is elaborate and in excellent taste throughout. The pews are of solid black walnut, large and roomy, and furnished with easy cushions of appropriate tint. The windows are of highly ornamented glass, many of the figures being really splendid. The pulpit is neat and tasty, and the new organ is of exquisite tone and workmanship. All in all it is as fine a structure, and as neat and appropriate in all its appointments as the most devout worshiper and the best cultivated taste could desire."

Naval Matters.

The U. S. S. Plymouth, which sailed from this port for Santa Cruz, West Indies, on Sunday, Oct. 6th, arrived in the lower harbor from Norfolk, Va., at nine o'clock Saturday morning. We published the list of her officers when she was here before, and the only change is, we believe, that Stevenson B. Mallory and Anthony M. Rollins, midshipmen, are not now in her, having been taken sick at Santa Cruz with yellow fever, and since died.

Surgeon Charles H. Burbank reported for duty at this navy yard on Saturday, relieving Medical Inspector Chris. J. Cleborne, who is ordered to special duty in attendance on the officers attached to this station.

Constructor Wilson has sent to Washington by the Tallapoosa a model of a 3500-ton ship, agreeably to orders sent to all the naval constructors to furnish such models for the inspection of the department.

There is now being made by Mr. E. H. Brooks, of Boston, a topographical survey of Seavey's island at this navy yard, the work being done under the superintendence of Civil Engineer B. F. Chandler. Mr. Chandler has also recommended (and submitted to the authorities at Washington plans for) the building of a new machine shop, blacksmith shop and foundry for the department of steam engineering; the placing of steam heating apparatus in all buildings where steam is used; the enlarging of timber sheds; the improving and extending of the yard water-works; and the paving of all the gutters and drains. The sum asked for to make these improvements is $29,000.

Naval Constructor Samuel M. Pook was stricken by paralysis on Tuesday of last week, at Brooklyn, and on Saturday was reported very low, with little chance of recovery. Mr. Pook is one of the oldest constructors in the service, having entered it in 1841, and has for some years been on the retired list.

The Contagion of Diphtheria.

A few weeks ago a little girl in St. Albans, who had just recovered from diphtheria, was taken by her parents to visit a family in a neighboring town. She slept with the children in that family and shortly afterward three or four of them were taken with the malady and some have since died. The family permitted relatives and neighbors to visit them and the result is several cases in the neighborhood. They had public funerals, even keeping the remains of one child an unusual time waiting for another to die so as to bury them together, and this also spread the contagion. The physician was not powerfully impressed, as some physicians are not, with the contagious character of the disease; therefore he did not take the necessary precautions for the protection of the neighborhood or of his own family, and the result is that one of his own children has died and another is dangerously ill.- St. Albans (Vt.) Messenger.

The Physiology of the Liver.

The liver is the largest secreting organ in the human body, and the bile which it secretes is more liable to vitiation and misdirection from its proper channels than any other of the animal fluids. Luckily for the bilious, however, there is an unfailing source of relief from liver complaint, namely, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a medicine which for over a quarter of a century has been achieving thorough cures of the above mentioned ailments, fever and ague, dyspepsia, bowel complaints, rheumatic and kiney affections, and disorders involving loss of nervous vigor. It is, moreover, a preventive of malarial disease, and affords protection to thousands of persons residing in districts of country where that dire scourge is prevalent. As a remedy adapted to the medicinal requirement of families, it is supremely desirable, and as a means of fortifying a debilitated system, it is thoroughly to be depended upon.

Whooping cough, asthma, croup and racking coughs cured by Adamson's Balsam. It never fails to cure. Price 55 cts. Sample free.

"It seems as if I should cough my head off" is sometimes the impatient exclamation of a sufferer from a severe Cough. Quell the paroxysms with Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar. The relief is immediate and the cure certain. Sold by all Druggists. tdec28

A NEW IDEA!

KENNEDY'S

Cakes and Jumbles

ETC., ETC.

MADE BY MACHINERY!

Having purchased the "HOLMES JUMBLE AND CAKE MACHINE," with the exclusive right of the New England States, I now propose to place in every first-class Grocery a variety of rich Cake Goods in addition to the 144 kinds of Crackers and Biscuit now manufactured by me, at a price that will enable them to be used freely, and which is far below what the same class of goods can be made for by hand as at present. At the same time they will be found much superior, being uniform, and much lighter and more delicate than can possibly be produced by hand.

The following are some of the varieties now produced by the machine:

Confectioner's Jumbles,		Sugar Plum Drops,
Cinnamon	"	Variegated	"
Marble Top	"	Drop Pound Cake,
Spice	"	Kisses,
Fruit	"	Vanilla Cakes,
Common	"	Spice	"
Almond Maccarons,		Molasses Drop Cakes,
Cocoanut	"	Cinnamon Wafers,
Almond Drops,		Lady Fingers,
Fruit	"	Sponge Drop Cakes,
Cocoanut	"	Half Fingers,
Chocolate	"	Spice	"

I propose to place in every Store a Sample Box, and a trial of them will prove all this advertisement calls for. If your Grocer has not already these goods in stock, ask him to order from the Sole Mart in the New England States. tj14

Something New in Labels.

An old newspaper man from Ohio has started a drug store in the city of Detroit; and a local paper commenting on his innovations, remarks that he will either be a millionaire during the next three years or "bust" in less than six months. His store is very cheerful. "Skulls, crutches, forceps, false teeth, chromos, bones, almanacs, parrots and sticks of licorice are scattered around in delightful confusion, and there is not a drawer or bottle without an original label. On one drawer he has: "Glue; she sticks right by you, no matter what the weather." On another: "Copperas—Eat slowly and chew fine." On another: "Paris green—Sure in its operation — lasting in its effects." The label on one of the bottles reads: "Buy some of me and stop that blamed cough." On others; "I'm sal. petre;" "Prussic acid—Don't fool around with a revolver." Hanging against a wall is a beautiful sign which reads, "If you don't want to ask for a fine comb, just point your finger at me!" At the back end of the store is a still larger sign and it bears the tender sentiment, "There is no flock without its missing lamb. Sometimes you find him in the bedstead. I keep the stuff to make him wary of life. Don't ask for bed-bug poison, but call it 'The Lost Lamb Restorative;' I shall know what you mean." The front of the store bears several happy thoughts. Among them is one reading: "Walk right in here if you had buckwheat for breakfast last winter." Another says: "I can cure that red nose in just fourteen days;" a third, "You man with the catarrh—please step this way."

The South Carolina gentlemen have knocked the colored voter senseless and are now sitting on his head. When the constable bids them get up their great southern hearts are stirred, and they exclaim, "You ought to be ashamed of yourself to come here and disturb the quiet of the family, just as we are beginning to feel good. Go away, you sectional and oppressive person, and don't reopen the wounds of the war."—N. Y. Tribune.

It contains full accounts of all of importance that transpires in Portsmouth and its vicinity, and a condensed summary of NEWS, foreign and domestic; editorials upon current topics; New Hampshire items; carefully prepared marine news, containing reports of vessels owned at this port, or officered by men from Portsmouth or its neighborhood; and is just the paper for residents desiring to be posted on all that takes place at home, while to those living in the vicinity of Portsmouth, or to former residents who retain their interest in the "old home by the sea," it is the best means of keeping informed of what transpires in this city.

PENNSYLVANIA
RAILROAD.
GREAT THROUGH LINE
AND
UNITED STATES MAIL ROUTE
The attention of the travelling public is respectfully invited to some of the merits of this great highway, in the confident assertion and belief that no other line can offer equal inducements as a route of through travel. Its
Construction AND Equipment
THE
PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD
stands confessedly at the head of American railways. The track is double the entire length of the line, of steel rails laid on heavy oak ties, which are ballasted with a foundation of rock ballast eighteen inches in depth. All bridges are of iron or stone, and built upon the most approved plans. Its passenger cars, while eminently safe and substantial, are at the same time models of comfort and elegance.
The Safety Appliances
in use on this line well illustrates the far-seeing and liberal policy of its management, in accordance with which the utility only of an improvement and not its cost has been the question of consideration. Among many may be noticed
THE BLOCK SYSTEM OF SAFETY SIGNALS,
JANNEY COUPLER, BUFFER AND PLATFORM,
THE WHARTON PATENT SWITCH,
AND THE
WESTINGHOUSE AIR-BRAKE,
forming in conjunction with a perfect double track and road-bed a combination of safeguards against accidents which have rendered them practically impossible.
Pullman Palace Cars
Are run on all Express Trains
From New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington,
To Chicago, Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, and St. Louis,
WITHOUT CHANGE,
and to all principal points in the far West and South with but one change of cars. Connections are made in Union Depots, and are assured to all important points.
The Scenery
OF THE
PENNSYLVANIA ROUTE
is admitted to be unsurpassed in the world for grandeur, beauty and variety. Superior refreshment facilities are provided. Employees are courteous and attentive, and it is an inevitable result that a trip by the Pennsylvania Railroad insures
A PLEASING AND MEMORABLE EXPERIENCE.

ANTI-FAT

ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT is the great remedy for Corpulency. It is purely vegetable and perfectly harmless. It acts on the food in the stomach, preventing its conversion into fat. Taken according to directions, it will reduce a fat person from 5 to 5 pounds a week.
In placing this remedy before the public as a positive cure for obesity, we do so knowing its ability to cure, as attested by hundreds of testimonials, of which follows one from a lady in Columbus, Ohio, is a sample: "Gentlemen:—Your Anti-Fat was duly received. I took it according to directions and it reduced me five pounds. I was so elated over the result that I immediately sent to ACKERMAN'S drug store for another bottle." Another, a physician, writing for a patient from Providence, R. I., says: "Four bottles have reduced her weight from 190 pounds to 192 pounds, and there is a general improvement in health." A gentleman writes from Boston, says: "Without special change or attention to diet, I've lost of Allan's Anti-Fat reducing me four and one-quarter pounds." The well-known Wholesale Druggists, SMITH, DOUGLITTE & SMITH, of Boston, Mass., write as follows: "Allan's Anti-Fat has reduced a lady in our city seven pounds in three weeks." A gentleman in St. Louis writes: "Allan's Anti-Fat reduced me twelve pounds in three weeks, and altogether I have lost twenty-five pounds since commencing its use." Messrs. POWELL & PLIMPTON, Wholesale Druggists, of Buffalo, N. Y., write: "To THE PROPRIETORS OF ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT: Gentlemen.—The following report is from the lady who uses Allan's Anti-Fat. "It (the Anti-Fat) had the desired effect, reducing the fat physician to five pounds a week until I had lost twenty-five pounds." I hope never to regain what I have lost." Anti-Fat is an unerring blood-purifier. It promotes digestion, curing dyspepsia, and is also a potent remedy for rheumatism. Sold by druggists. Pamphlets on Obesity free on receipt of stamp.
BOTANIC MEDICINE CO., PROP'RS, Buffalo, N.Y.

WOMAN
By an immense practice at the World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, having treated many thousand cases of those diseases peculiar to woman, I have been enabled to perfect a most potent and positive remedy for these diseases.
To designate this natural specific, I have named it
Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription
The term, however, is but a feeble expression of my high appreciation of its value, based upon personal observation. I have, while witnessing its positive results in the special diseases incident to the organism of woman, singled it out as the climax or crowning gem of my medication, for its merits, as a positive, safe, and effectual remedy for this class of diseases, and one that will, at all times and under all circumstances, act kindly. I am willing to stake my reputation as a physician upon it and so confident I that it will not disappoint the most sanguine expectations of a single individual lady who uses it for any of the diseases for which I recommend it, that I offer and sell it under A POSITIVE GUARANTEE. (For conditions, see pamphlet wrapping bottle.)
The following are among those diseases in which my Favorite Prescription has worked cures, as by magic, and with a certainty never before attained by any medicine: Leucorrhœa, Excessive Flowing, Painful Monthly Periods, Suppressions when from unnatural causes, Irregularities, Weak Back, Prolapsus, or Falling of the Uterus, Anteversion and Retroversion, Bearing-down Sensations, Internal Heat, Nervous Depression, Debility

—The unregenerate mind is struggling with the problem, "Why does the Governor always appoint Thanksgiving day so late in the year that a fellow can't go fishing?"

—It is related that in a gambling trial out west it was thought best that the jury should be instructed in the practical working of a faro table, and the judge ordered the necessary apparatus to be brought in, and directed the defendands to give an exhibition. All hands became so interested in the game that the sheriff, seeing how things were going, went outside, summoned a posse and arrested the whole room full, including the court itself.

Last June a coal dealer of respectability and prominence, W. S. Campbell, doing business in New Orleans, invested ten dollars in the purchase from M. A. Dauphin (P. O. Box 692, New Orleans, La.,) of a ticket in the Extraordinary Semi annual Drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery, and drew $100,000. The next drawing takes place on December 10th, and the scheme presented by the Company is so attractive that it is not unlikely some one of our readers will win the grand prize, after he resolves that he who ventures nothing wins nothing, and believing that Generals G. T. Beauregard, of Louisiana, and Jubal A. Early, of Virginia, are honest men, and that the distribution under their sole care is an honest one.

The Portsmouth Chronicle

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 3, 1878.

South Carolina Justice.

The New York Tribune correspondent, "Z. L. W.," who has the reputation of being one of the most accurate and careful of writers, is now in South Carolina making inquiries into the election irregularities in that State. At Orangeburg he attended a trial of three republicans charged with attempting to interfere with the count of the vote. One of the accused was Mr. Webster, a graduate of a northern college and a son of Rev. Dr. Webster, Presiding Elder of the Charlestown Conference of the Methodist church; the second was Mr. Livingston, Sheriff of the county, a native and a man of wealth and character, who served sixteen months in the Confederate army; the third was a colored Deputy United States Marshal. The evidence showed that the two former merely requested to be allowed to go into the polling place to keep tally, and that they were afterwards seen in consultation with the third, who was a Deputy Marshall, who subsequently appeared at the polling place and demanded admission and also expressed a determination to go in. The Marshal was arrested and immediately locked up in jail.

On this testimony the two white men first named were ordered to give bonds in $500 to appear for trial at the county court! A democratic lawyer at the polls when the United States officer was arrested expressed his indignation thereat, and was told to "stop his gab or he would be served the same way." In that county the republicans put upon their ticket four of the best conservatives in the section, who agreed to accept the positions, but they were subsequently obliged to withdraw because of the threats of the democratic managers.

Another republican, who gave evidence against democratic ballot-box stuffers, was instantly put in jail for stealing some tobacco—the facts being that in his capacity as assistant collector of internal revenue he seized the tobacco for frauds of its owner, and the tobacco is now in possession of the government!

All accounts show that the entire machinery of the State courts is being used to protect the democratic bull-dozers and tissue-ballot users.

Rev. E. M. Pinckney, of the Methodist church in South Carolina, writes a letter to a Washington paper which contains some startling revelations. At the time of writing he was a fugitive from his town and congregation, having been warned away because he testified against some violators of the law, and he asserts that every man who tells the truth will lose his property and finally his life, unless he leaves the State. At the same time that this letter is printed comes the news that Mr. Pinckney is arrested by the Hampton State officers on a charge of slander and perjury in making these charges.

The facts in these and other cases of a similar nature will probably be the subject of inquiry by Congress, and until the result of that is known things cannot be changed—if they can be at all. The condition of affairs there is deplorable, among other reasons because it prevents immigration and the investment of capital in the south, where so much is needed in that line.

The Indian Policy Fight.

A lively fight is going on between the Interior Department and the officers of the army, preliminary to another fight before Congress relative to the proposed transfer of the Indian Bureau to the War Department. Mr. Schurz will find it pretty hard in convincing the public that he is right in accepting the advice of his Indian Commissioner and Indian agents against that of officers experienced in Indian affairs, like Generals Sherman, Sheridan and Pope, who criticise and oppose with spirit certain removals of Indian tribes as jobs to feed Indian agents and speculators. These officers say that the change from Fort Sill will cost the War Department $100,000, and they intimate that the change is the result of demagogism, as it will save the Interior Department a small sum of money, and give the Indian officials a chance to boast of economy, where there is involved bare-faced extravagance, shifted upon another department.

Landseer.

The latest number of the art of Artist Biographies, a series of publications by Messrs. Houghton, Osgood & Co., contains a sketch of Sir Edwin Landseer, an artist who was able not only to perceive the unknown or unnoticed traits in the canine species, but to so successfully paint them that an appreciating world has since admired the results of his genius. The biographer gives us a very interesting account of this great artist whose name is now so familiarly known to the many who prize his pictures.

It is related of him that at a party given by one of the leaders of London society the artist was one of the lions of the evening. The conversation, perhaps led purposely by some one present who knew his dexterous draughtsmanship, turned upon the subject of facility with the hands, and many instances of wonderful skill in this direction were mentioned. At last a lady, seemingly anxious to defer a theme to her dull and unenjoyable, exclaimed as if to dismiss it, "Well, there, one thing nobody has ever done, and that is to draw with two hands at the same time." Landseer would not allow the conversation to be thus summarily disposed of, and answered: "Oh, I can do that; lend me two pencils and will show you;" whereupon with a pencil in each hand, and not hesitating a moment, he drew with one hand a stag's head and antlers, and with the other, a horse's head. The sketches were equally good, indeed as finely done as if drawn at different times and under the most favorable circumstances. The acts of draughtsmanship were perfectly simultaneous and not alternate, and showed that the controlling brain was capable of directing, at the same time, two distinct limbs in similar but different operations attended with distinct mental processes. How this rare result can have been accomplished is an interesting question for students of the action of the brain and of the nerve forces.

The little book is full of information concerning the pictures of this artist from which the familiar engravings of to-day have been copied, and is interspersed with pleasant anecdotes. It can be found at Goodrich's bookstore, where every one for the moderate price of fifty cents may learn all about Landseer. This is the fifteenth volume of the series, and the inviting manner in which these works are produced must continue to stimulate a healthful taste for a knowledge of the lives and habits of these celebrities, the results of whose genius all the world is now permitted to admire.

News and Notes.

Congress assembled on Monday. The Vice President officiated as chairman of the Senate. The President's message was sent to the House; it is of moderate length, and speaks quite plainly for a State paper on the subject of election frauds and bull-dozing in South Carolina and Louisiana.

Schooner Elm City was run down and sunk in Long Island sound, Saturday night, by an unknown schooner which immediately sailed away, not waiting to see how much the Elm City was damaged, though the crew of the latter called out for aid and announced their vessel to be sinking. The Elm City's men saved themselves in their yawl boat, after being out in her all night.

The New Orleans board of health reports that the dumping of kitchen garbage in the middle of the streets of New Orleans, which so intensified the malignity of the fever last summer, is being persisted in by the recently installed city administration. By-and-bye that city will have another "visitation of Providence."

Since the cessation of hostilities between Russia and Turkey, twenty-nine vessels have arrived at Constantinople, mostly from the United States, with large cargoes of rifles and cannon. The Turkish troops are now as well furnished with arms as before the war.

The barque Belle Stewart, Capt. Harper, from Ireland, arrived at Vineyard Haven last week and reported that on the 14th ult. she was struck by a waterspout, and had her foretopmast and all its hamper carried away, head-stays parted, and bowsprit and foremast sprung.

John McDaniels, the lessee of Marysville park at Marysville, Cal., was murdered by a Chinaman whom he caught burglarizing the premises. The murderer was overpowered and secured by Mrs. McDaniels and a Chinese servant.

Steamers Charles Morgan and Cotton Valley had a collision when rounding a point of the Mississippi river some distance above New Orleans, Sunday, and the latter was sunk, three passengers and between fifteen and twenty roustabouts losing their lives. The sunken steamer was valued at about $18,000, and her cargo of cotton at $75,000.

A fair which has been open in the Catholic cathedral in New York for the past six weeks closed Saturday night, having netted $175,000.

Mr. W. B. Metcalf of Lisbon, Me., died from asphyxia at the New England house in Boston on Friday night, and his son nearly lost his life, they having blown out the gas in their room on retiring.

The latest testimony in regard to the loss of the Pommerania indicates that the credit given at first to the officers and crew for maintaining discipline and assisting in the preservation of life was premature. Captain Schwensen, like a hero, remained aboard and went down with his vessel, his life having been saved by good fortune. But the sailors and most of the officers are said not only to have sought each one his own safety, but to have been more anxious to secure their own personal effects than to assist in the rescue of the passengers.

Political.

Russell of North Carolina, the "independent" candidate for Congress, who defeated Waddell, democrat, can hardly be considered a republican. He announces that he will go into the democratic caucus and abide by its dictation, and that he is in favor of the payment of all southern claims growing out of the war, and of the pensioning of rebel soldiers on the same terms as the Union soldiers.

A New Orleans despatch says that Dave Douglas, a negro politician, testified in reference to the election frauds in that city, that on the morning of the election he carried to one of the polls on Gentilly road a ballot box previously filled with as many democratic tickets as there are voters in the precinct. The ballots voted that day were not put in the box, as the whole number to be voted were in there before the election commenced. Douglas refused any compensation for his services.

—A new town in Idaho has been named Onegibia, because there is only one girl there.

—A French paper acquaints us at this late day with an invention which it says was exhibited at the Centennial. This was a patent music-stool containing in the seat a concealed pin and a strong spring worked by clock-work. When a performer is asked to play the hostess calculates how many minutes the audience will listen to him, winds up the clock-work and sets it at "10," "15" or "20," and if the artist exceeds his time by a second the spring and pin are released, greatly to the surprise of the performer. As the paper says, this is "cruel but practical."

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

CONSUMERS should bear in mind that the incomparable "Royal" is now the only Baking Powder in the market made from pure Grape Cream Tartar, imported exclusively for this powder direct from the wine-growing district of France. An old experienced housekeeper writes that, although she has to pay a few cents more for the "Royal," finds that it goes so much further and works so much better, that it is economy to use it. Another says she uses the powder in puddings, cakes, and all sorts of pastry, without eggs. An old lady writes that it makes the only biscuit her dyspeptic husband can eat. This is because the best and most wholesome materials are used. Approved by the New York Board of Health, and by such eminent chemists as Dr. MOTT, New York; Dr. HAYES, Boston; Prof. GENTH, Philadelphia, etc. Sold in tin cans only. dtwp1079

THE CITY.

The alarm of fire just at dusk on Monday evening was occasioned by the burning out of the chimney of the house No. 2 South Mill street, occupied by Mr. Meloon.

The directors of the Eastern railroad have voted to the president of that corporation a yearly salary of $10,000, but as he casts the decisive vote he declines to accept more than $7500, for one year at least.

Duprez & Benedict's Minstrels at Music hall to-morrow evening. Tickets entitling the holders to reserved seats can be procured at fifty cents each, if purchased at Dr. Preston's to-day. This is the oldest minstrel troupe travelling, and has the enviable reputation of always giving a good show.

The schooner Brunette arrived at this port on Monday morning from Prince Edward's island, with thirty-six hundred bushels of potatoes for C. L. Brown & Co. She was fourteen days coming, having encountered severe weather. When off Cape Sable she carried away her jibboom and foretopmast.

On Monday afternoon Mr. John Johnson had his ankle broken in such a manner as to cause the bone to protude, by his horse running away; he having found all efforts to control the animal useless, jumped from his carriage. Dr. Potter, who attended Mr. Johnson, informs us that he will suffer from a stiff joint during his life.

City Marshal Entwistle requests us to say that a letter published in the Boston Express of Nov. 30th, purporting to have been addressed to him by Mr. Henry Faxon of Quincy, Mass., is a fabrication from beginning to end. To oblige the Marshal we do so, though we consider it an absurdity to notice anything said by such a paper, and the letter referred to is simply ridiculous in its transparent falsehood.

The schooner Addie, of York, Goodwin master, before reported as beached near Rockport, Mass., on the passage from this port to Boston with a cargo of bricks, and subsequently got off the beach and taken into Gloucester, arrived at Boston on Monday, having repaired in Gloucester. Her cargo of bricks was sold for $47 on the beach as it was landed —about $1 a thousand, as she had 45,000 bricks on board when she went ashore.

At six o'clock Monday morning, as some of the female operatives of the Kearsarge mill were going to their work, when near the Methodist church on State street they were approached by a ruffian who used insulting language to them and attempted to seize them, but the girls by their cries frightened the villain away. The police were soon on the spot, but it being very dark at the time could not discern anything, and the rascal, who is unknown, escaped.

On Monday Mr. Joseph Davis of Eliot came to this city from that place with his boat loaded with corn and eggs, and landed at the of north mill steps for the purpose of leaving the corn. His boat, which had grounded on one of the steps, slid off and careened, throwing the bags of corn on one side of the boat, causing her to fill with water and throwing some of the boxes of eggs into the river. Mr. Davis could not move for fear of his boat sinking, but Asst. Marshal Cole, who happened to be in the vincity, went to his assistance and landed him safely.

Some surprise was occasioned in this section of the country when it was reported that the Ticonderoga, just extensively repaired at this navy yard, had gone into dry dock on her arrival at Norfolk, Va., to have her bottom examined; and something very like disbelief was expressed when the correspondent of a Boston paper telegraphed that the captain of the Ticonderoga said the vessel was unseaworthy. But it is now asserted that letters have been received in this city from persons on board the ship, stating that she put into the harbor of Gloucester, Mass., for shelter from the furious gale which raged just after she left this port, and that on going out, while running at full speed and in charge of a coast pilot, she struck on some rocks at the entrance to the harbor. The ship was never reported in any paper, so far as we know, as having made a harbor at Gloucester on her passage from this port to Norfolk, though she was reported as having "touched on Gloucester point."

Mr. G. W. Randall had for sale at his fish market on Monday a salmon weighing eight and a quarter pounds, said to have been caught on a trawl in Ipswich bay.

The schooner John D. Williams, Capt. Pearce, on Monday morning touched on Clark's island, her anchors failing to hold her. She came off on the flood tide without assistance, apparently unharmed, and brought up in the lower harbor to await more favorable weather for going to sea.

On Monday evening, just at dusk, as Mr. Edwin Underhill was passing along Congress street, when he was opposite the store of Mr. Joseph Pettigrew he was astonished by receiving a sharp blow on the leg from one-half of Mr. Pettigrew's sign, which had been loosened from its fastenings and thrown down by the high wind, and split lengthwise on striking the pavement. Only the distance of a single step saved Mr. Underhill from being struck on the head by the falling sign.

An item is now going the rounds of the press to the effect that a number of smokers having been questioned on the subject, all agreed that they had no pleasure in smoking in the dark. This is nothing new to old smokers, nearly all of whom will not only acknowledge that they do not enjoy smoking in the dark, but that under some circumstances they cannot tell in the dark whether the pipes they are smoking are lighted or not! There are not many old pipe-smokers who have not at some time or another burned the fore-fingers of their right hands in feeling to see if their pipes were going, when smoking on dark nights.

On Saturday night at half past ten o'clock, as some gentlemen were passing down Pleasant street they saw a man prowling around the premises of Dr. Langdon in a manner that excited their suspicions, and they gave chase to him, but by jumping the fences he managed to escape a closer interview. The gentlemen feel confident that the man was there for no good purpose, or he wouldn't have fled so hurriedly; but on the other hand it seems quite natural for a man to run away when he sees several unknown persons making for him in the dark, and the fugative may even now be congratulating himself on his supposed narrow escape from robbery or murder.

The Boston Herald of Sunday had brief sketches descriptive of the candidates for alderman nominated by the republicans of Boston last week, one of its notices being the following: "Thomas J. Whidden is a democrat of the liberal and independent class. He was born in Portsmouth, N. H., in 1807, and came to this city in 1837, since which time he has followed the business of mason, builder and contractor. He has erected some of the finest buildings in the city, and has a handsome competency. He was a member of the board of aldermen in 1876, and served on the committee on public buildings, and on the survey and inspection of buildings. Business men of both political parties speak well of Mr. Whidden, and say that he is capable and honest; while the members of the past year who have served with him in the board, give him credit for being one of the most faithful guardians of the city property in city hall."

From an article in the Journal we condense the following relative to the money order business at Portsmouth post-office: The first money order issued here was for $26.50, payable in New York city to Albert A. Dodge, and taken out by the late Lafayette Laighton. It was issued November 1st, 1864, and from that date to May 25th, 1878, the end of the last fiscal year, the orders issued amounted to $380,023. During the same time $382,088 were paid out on orders from other places. The largest amount of money sent by postal orders in any one year was in that ending May 23d, 1874, when 2685 orders footed up $48,662; the following year the number of orders was exactly the same, but the amount was but $45,924. The last year 2238 orders were issued, for $36,101; the total number of orders issued up to May 25th of the present year was 20,636. Average number of orders issued per year, 1474; per month, about 123; with a valuation of over $27,144 annually, or $2262 monthly. Of foreign orders this office has made out and transmitted 779 British, seventy-five Canadian, forty German and two Italian. The number of offices depositing at the Portsmouth office is twenty-five, Exter, Dover and Great Falls being the largest depositors.

THE VICINITY.

The schooner John Bracewell, of Dover, Chatfield master, left Dover for Baltimore on the 26th ult., with 2018 barrels of apple on board. This vessel commenced business on the 12th of June last, since which date she has taken two cargoes of ice from the Kennebec river to Baltimore, amounting to 606 tons; one miscellaneous cargo from New York to Baltimore, and one freight of 1200 barrels of apples from Dover to Baltimore. She has made five trips from Baltimore to Dover, with coal for the Cocheco Company, amounting to 1700 tons. She has made her last trip to Dover for this season, and now goes south seeking employment for the winter. She has paid her stockholders a ten per cent dividend for less than six months' business.

A Biddeford man concluded to kill some of his own poultry for a Thanksgiving dinner, but instead of holding the fowls by the legs and chopping their heads off with an axe he decided to hold them by their heads and do the amputation with a butcher-knife. He operated on the first fowl with such success as to cut off its head and the ends of three of his own fingers at the first slash. That was the only fowl he slew at that time.

Several important changes and improvements have been made on Star island at the Shoals this fall. The old Gosport house, the Brennan house and the Newton cottage have been moved on a line with the Oceanic, and a piazza has been built along the front of them, extending about four hundred feet. The ice-house has been moved, and placed near the reservoir. The Gosport house, which was originally built with an ell, has been made square and raised fifteen feet, which gives a billiard room, dining room and bar-room in the basement. The dining room of the Oceanic has been lengthened to ninety-eight and a half-feet, and a commodious dance hall provided and handsomely finished and furnished. All obstructions have been removed from in front of the houses, and a much finer view is now obtainable than formerly. Messrs. A. P. Hardy & Co., of Campello, Mass., are the contractors for the work.

The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts.

An alphabetical list of commanders of this celebrated and time-honored corps, extending from 1638 to 1878, has been printed. The company are desirous of obtaining the portraits of their past commanders, not only as ornaments to the walls of their armory, but more particularly to render their historical record more permanent and valuable. The company make a general appeal to all mankind for information and assistance in this work. Ex-Commander Albert A. Folsam, a prominent citizen of Boston and a native of this county, with the present clerk and commander of the company, have been constituted a committee for that purpose. Among the former commanders, of latter days, known in this region, are Brig. Gen. Caleb Cushing and Col. Ben. Perley Poore of Newburyport, Adj. Gen. Henry K. Oliver of Salem, and Lieut. Col. Geo. P. Sanger, formerly of Portsmouth. Hon. Natt Head, Governor-elect of New Hampshire, is a member of the Ancients. From the dates of the commands of some of the early officers one would infer that their portraits, if in existence, will be found to have been executed by some of the "Old Masters."

The Physiology of the Liver.

The liver is the largest secreting organ in the human body, and the bile which it secretes is more liable to vitiation and misdirection from its proper channels than any other of the animal fluids. Luckily for the bilious, however, there is an unfailing source of relief from liver complaint, namely, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a medicine which for over a quarter of a century has been achieving thorough cures of the above mentioned ailments, fever and ague, dyspepsia, bowel complaints, rheumatic and kiney affections, and disorders involving loss of nervous vigor. It is, moreover, a preventive of malarial disease, and affords protection to thousands of persons residing in districts of country where that dire scourge is prevalent. As a remedy adapted to the medicinal requirement of families, it is supremely desirable, and as a means of fortifying a debilitated system, it is thoroughly to be depended upon.

Whooping cough, asthma, croup and racking coughs cured by Adamson's Balsam. It never fails to cure. Price 55 cts. Sample free.

"It seems as if I should cough my head off" is sometimes the impatient exclamation of a sufferer from a severe Cough. Quell the paroxysms with Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar. The relief is immediate and the cure certain. Sold by all Druggists. tdec28

PENNSYLVANIA
RAILROAD.
GREAT THROUGH LINE
AND
UNITED STATES MAIL ROUTE
The attention of the travelling public is respectfully invited to some of the merits of this great highway, in the confident assertion and belief that no other line can offer equal inducements as a route of through travel. In
Construction AND Equipment
THE
PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD
stands confessedly at the head of American railways. The track is double the entire length of the line, of steel rails laid on heavy oak ties, which are embedded in a foundation of rock ballast eighteen inches in depth. All bridges are of iron or stone, and built upon the most approved plans. Its passenger cars, while eminently safe and substantial, are at the same time models of comfort and elegance.
The Safety Appliances
in use on this line well illustrates the far-seeing and liberal policy of its management, in accordance with which the utility only of an improvement and not its cost has been the question of consideration. Among many may be noticed
THE BLOCK SYSTEM OF SAFETY SIGNALS,
JANNEY COUPLER, BUFFER AND PLATFORM,
THE WHARTON PATENT SWITCH,
AND THE
WESTINGHOUSE AIR-BRAKE,
forming in conjunction with a perfect double track and road-bed a combination of safeguards against accidents which have rendered them practically impossible.
Pullman Palace Cars
Are run on all Express Trains
From New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington,
To Chicago, Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, and St. Louis,
WITHOUT CHANGE,
and to all principal points in the far West and South with but one change of cars. Connections are made in Union Depots, and are assured to all important points.
The Scenery
OF THE
PENNSYLVANIA ROUTE
is admitted to be unsurpassed in the world for grandeur, beauty and variety. Superior refreshment facilities are provided. Employees are courteous and attentive, and it is an inevitable result that a trip by the Pennsylvania Railroad must form

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY
By its great and thorough blood-purifying properties, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures all Humors, from the worst Scrofula to a common Blotch, Pimple, or Eruption, including Scrofulous Mineral Poisons, and their effects, are eradicated, and vigorous health and a sound constitution established. Brooklyn, Salt-Rheum, Fever Sores, Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood, are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine.
Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Rose Rash, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, White Swellings, Goitre or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands.
If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated, have a sallow color of skin, or yellowish-brown spots on face or body, frequent headache or dizziness, bad taste in mouth, internal heat or chills alternated with hot flushes, low spirits, and gloomy forebodings, irregular appetite, and tongue coated, you are suffering from Torpid Liver, or "Biliousness." In many cases of "Liver Complaint" only part of these symptoms are experienced. As a remedy for all such cases, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has no equal, as it effects perfect and radical cures.
In the cure of Bronchitis, Severe Cough, and the early stages of Consumption, it has astonished the medical faculty, and eminent physicians prognosticate the greatest medical discovery of the age. While it cures the severest Coughs, it strengthens the system and purifies the blood. Sold by druggists.
R. V. PIERCE, M. D., Proprietor, World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets
SIZE OF PELLETS.
THE "LITTLE GIANT" CATHARTIC.
No use of taking the large, repulsive, nauseous pills, composed of clean, crude, and bulky vegetable matter. These Pellets are scarcely larger than mustard seeds.
Being entirely vegetable, no particular care is required while using them. They operate without disturbance to the constitution, diet, or occupation. For Jaundice, Headache, Constipation, Impure Blood, Pain in the Shoulders, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations from the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious attacks, Pain in region of Kidneys, Internal Fever, Heated feeling about Stomach, Rush of Blood to Head, take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. In explanation of the remedial power of these Purgative Pellets over so great a variety of diseases, it may be said that their action upon the animal economy is universal, not a gland or tissue escaping their sanative impress. Age does not impair the properties of these Pellets. They are sugar-coated and inclosed in glass bottles, their virtues being thereby preserved unimpaired for any length of time, in any climate, so that they are always fresh and reliable. This is not the case with pills put up in cheap wooden or pasteboard boxes. For all diseases where a Laxative, Alterative, or Purgative, is indicated, these little Pellets will give the most perfect satisfaction. Sold by druggists.
R. V. PIERCE, M. D., Proprietor, World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

CATARRH
SYMPTOMS.—Frequent headache, discharge falling into throat, sometimes profuse, watery, thick, mucous, purulent, offensive, etc. In others, a dryness, dry, watery, weak, or inflamed eyes, stopping up, or obstruction, of the nasal passages, ringing in ears, deafness, hawking and coughing to clear the throat, ulcerations, scabs from ulcers, voice altered, nasal twang, offensive breath, impaired or total deprivation of sense of smell and taste, dizziness, mental depression, loss of appetite, indigestion, enlarged tonsils, tickling cough, etc. Only a few of these symptoms are likely to be present in any case at one time.
DR. SAGE'S CATARRH REMEDY
produces radical cures of the worst cases of Catarrh, no matter of how long standing. The liquid Catarrh may be snuffed, or better applied by the use of Dr. PIERCE'S Douche. This is the only form of instrument yet invented with which fluid medicine can be carried THROUGH AND THOROUGHLY APPLIED to all parts of the affected nasal passages, and the chambers or cavities communicating therewith, in which sores and ulcers frequently exist, and from which the catarrhal discharge generally proceeds. Its use is pleasant and easily understood, from directions accompanying each instrument. Dr. SAGE'S Catarrh Remedy cures recent attacks of "Cold in the Head" by a few applications. It is mild and pleasant to use, containing no strong or caustic drugs or poisons. Catarrh Remedy and Douche sold by druggists.

Chronicle Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 30th.

The prospect of a very lively fracas in Congress grows daily. The two parties are putting on their armor and putting themselves in battle array. The republicans threaten some more disclosures in the matter of cipher despatches, and some hard blows relating to the alleged outrages in the south, fortified by the difficulties in the way of enforcing the revenue laws in that section. The democrats threaten to "go for" the alleged extravagant expenditures in some of the departments and for the so-called "bulldozing" on the part of United States supervisors of election in certain districts, who, it is charged, prevented a free and full exercise of the elective franchise by certain timid democrats, thereby defeating several democratic candidates for Congress. Both sides are collecting testimony, and it is likely to result in some expensive investigations by which both sides hope to make capital for future use. But the democrats, it must be confessed, have the advantage in this fight, since they have a majority in the House now, and after the 4th of March will control both Houses. Therefore, they can stop the supplies for the supervisors and the officials, and they can control the investigations to a great extent, besides voting in or voting out members who were affected by the United States supervisors' law, or any other members they may choose. However unprofitable the contest may be, it promises a great deal of entertainment for sojourners in Washington, and it may affect largely the future of political parties. I should not neglect to say in this connection that the greenback element is "lying low" for developements of another nature. They hope for the failure of resumption in order to give them a new lease of life. Should Secretary Sherman fail in his pet scheme, they would leap into prominence at once, and assume an offensive attitude in the future. Butler, Voorhees, Pendleton, Ewing, and others of that class are watching the signs and taking hope from every adverse turn of the financial wheel; but the administration is confident, and so the greenbackers are in ambush yet.

A new political topic has already cropped out in view of the measures soon to be adopted for taking the census in 1880. It is reported by persons in the south that a scheme is already organized by the democrats there to "inflate" the population by false returns so as to entitle them to a larger relative strength in Congress. They are provoked to this method, it is said, by the fact that the western and north-western States have increased their population so rapidly that they will have an immense advantage after the next apportionment. Probably Kansas will be entitled to three or more members on the present ratio, Nebraska two, Minnesota one or two, Iowa two, and so on, while the eastern States, with the possible exception of gains in New York and New Jersey, will stand still, and the south will fall behind, except in Texas, where there would doubtless be a gain of two or three. But it is hardly probable that such a scheme could be successful in the south, for it would require more effort than would "pay" and more secrecy than could be maintained. The federal officers will be bound to see an honest census taken.

Notwithstanding it is fully a year and a half before the next national nominations will be made, slate makers are busy with their pencils. Several Pennsylvania and western newspapers have distinctly nominated Mr. Blaine, while Gen. Grant is also named by some, and Mr. Conkling comes in for a share of the honors. These three are all the prominent republican candidates. On the democratic side Messrs. Tilden, Hendricks and Thurman are most conspicuous, with straggling support for Mr. Bayard and others. The ensuing session of Congress may make or unmake many political fortunes in the future.

KNOX.

A Woman's Logic.

"It is useless to take medicine. I shall feel better to-morrow. Besides, I need the money to get that lovely new hat. My old one is such a fright, and people will look more at my bonnett than they will at my face. I will wait till I feel worse before I spend my money for medicine." The new bonnet is purchased and fifty other feminine necessaries in the form of ribbons, laces, brooches, etc. Meanwhile the lady's face becomes every day paler and thinner, and her body weaker, until disease has gained so firm a foothold in her system, that the most thorough, and oftimes a long and tedious, course of treatment is necessary to restore her to health. Ladies, attend to your health before you ever think of apparel. A fresh, blooming face in a plain bonnet is much handsomer and far more attractive to your gentlemen friends, than a pain-worn, diseased face in the most clair rate and elegant but your milliner could devise. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is everywhere acknowledged to be the standard remedy for female complaints and weaknesses. It is sold by all druggists.

Portsmouth Chronicle

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1878.

Congress.

In the Senate, Monday, Beck of Kentucky introduced a bill to provide for the recoinage of trade dollars into buzzard dollars; also a bill to aid the British shipbuilders by authorizing the purchase of foreign built ship by American citizens. Both bills were tabled.

Voorhees offered a resolution about making the trade dollar a legal tender for all debts; laid over.

Mr. Blaine submitted a resolution that the judiciary committee inquire and report to the Senate whether at the recent elections the constitutional rights of American citizens were violated in any of the States; whether the right of suffrage of citizens of the United States or any class of such citizens, was denied or abridged by the action of election officers of any State in refusing to receive their votes, failing to count them, or receiving and counting fraudulent ballots, in pursuance of a conspiracy to make the lawful votes of such citizens of no effect; and whether such citizens were prevented from exercising their elective franchise, or forced to use it against their wish by violence or threats, or hostile demonstrations of armed men or other organizations, or by any other unlawful means or practice. Laid over under the rules.

In the House, Fernando Wood defended the South Carolina and Louisiana bulldozers and ballot-box stuffers, and was backed up by Sunset Cox. Eugene Hale and Gen. Garfield spoke vigorously in favor of the right of the southern republicans to be protected in their constitutional rights.

The President's Message.

After recapitulating the blessings for which the country should be thankful in the preservation of peace, the abundant harvests and the reviving prospects of industry, the President considers the extraordinary devastation caused by the epidemic of yellow fever, and recommends more stringent regulations for internal quarantine and measures for the better co-operation of national, State and municipal authorities in case of a recurrence of the disease. It is evident, however, that preventive measures must extend much farther than this in order to be effectual and to avoid the great loss resulting from the quarantining of any section against internal as well as external commerce, and some system of international sanitary inspection and quarantine should be established as soon as possible by concurrence of the authorities of regions where the pestilence is germinated.

What will generally be regarded as the most important part of the message is what the President says in regard to the conduct of the dominant whites in South Carolina and Louisiana, and other sections of the southern States, at the recent elections, in depriving the negroes of their right of suffrage. In temperate language he remonstrates against the outrages upon the freedom of the ballot, and declares that no effort of the executive shall be wanting to discover and punish them. In order to do this he asks with apparent confidence that Congress will increase the appropriation for the Department of Justice. That this confidence will be justified by the action of Congress is to be hoped for rather than expected, but it is pleasing to note that the President is not deceived by the southern denials of the outrages nor inclined to pass them by as the necessities of "conciliation." He intimates that the responsibility of protecting the rights of citizens under the national constitution, shall not be shirked or avoided by the executive, if Congress will furnish it with the means. With Congress the people will reckon.

Our foreign relations are in general satisfactory. Mention is made of the payment of the Halifax award under protest, and a favorable recommendation given to the request of the government of Japan for a new commercial treaty. Of most importance, however, is the favorable condition of affairs upon the Rio Grande for the preservation of peace between this country and Mexico. The government of President Diaz is given credit for a sincere desire and an increasing ability to prevent the predatory excursions which have caused so much trouble.

In the various departments, the President recommends and endorses the propositions set forth in the reports of the different Secretaries at greater length. He is particularly emphatic in recommending that Congress abstain from farther legislation on financial matters, to which the country will heartily respond "amen," and expresses his confidence in the efficacy of resumption in restoring prosperity. The importance of the work done by the Department of Agriculture is strongly urged upon the attention of Congress, and the need of farther extending it; and the abuse of animals in freight transit is mentioned as demanding attention. New quarters for the Congressional library and the Smithsonian museum, and improvements in the District of Columbia, conclude the recommendations in the message, which will be accepted as wise as well as temperate, and practical as well as thoroughly plain.

Infant Dancers.

One day last week in New York the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children arrested Col. James H. Mapleson, impressario of the Italian Opera Troupe now singing at the Academy of Music in New York city, for violation a statute recently enacted which forbids children under the age of sixteen to dance or perform gymnastics or contortional feats on any stage or in any public place of amusement. The children in question were aged nine and twelve, years, respectively, being two of a corps de ballet of some twenty or more little girls whose duty consisted in appearing in a fairy dance called "The Butterflies." Mr. Mapleson gave bonds, and the case will be tried in a higher court; pending the disposing of the case the ballet will be omitted. It appeared from an interview with both parties that the children were compelled to sit up to a very late hour at night, and devote an hour every day to rehearsal; but this time was judiciously taken after school hours that the little butterflies might have the full benefit of their educational privileges. They stated that they were kindly treated, and thought it very nice. The patrons of the opera are considerably excited over what they regard as an indiscreet enforcement of a law that was aimed at an entirely different object. Still it is probable that they will survive even without this ballet performance, which is given in defiance of the best understood laws of physical growth and hygienic conditions. Besides, the minds of these several infants are distracted from their educational interests and poisoned by the exciting influences that surround them when engaged in such performances. We beg the New Yorkers to try and get along without the children in the corps de ballet, until they get their growth, and even after that they should do without such performances.

News and Notes.

Naval Constructor Samuel M. Pook died in Brooklyn on Monday, aged 74 years and three months.

On the evening of the 25th ult., the eight-years-old daughter of Wm. Howes, of Dixmont, Me., in the absence of her parents who had stepped out for a short time, seems to have undertaken to build a fire in the stove, as on their return they were horror-stricken to find their daughter burned to a crisp and dead, a kerosene lamp being by her side. A large hole was burned in the floor, but from some cause the fire had gone out.

Fishing schooners Alberta Story and Polly, of Swamscott, Mass., fishing fleet, were wrecked in the gale of Monday, being driven on shore from their anchors. The storm was very severe all along the New England coast, but no serious disasters were reported up to Tuesday evening.

The widely known Boston firm of Spalding & Wales, dry goods dealers, has suspended, with liabilities of $350,000.

Josiah Stoddard, of Pine Plains, Mich., murdered his wife and child and then blew his own head off, Saturday.

The British man-of-war Orontes, on a recent passage from Halifax to Bermuda, lost a [illegible] overboard. A boat's crew of thirteen men who went to the rescue, were all drowned by the upsetting of the boat.

Jos[illegible]nder, recently clerk of the age[illegible] the Nevada bank at Virginia City, was arrested in San Francisco, Monday, charged with embezzlement, estimated at from $50,000 to $100,000.

Great activity is reported at Philadelphia in getting the Russian ships of war ready for sea. Their crews are said to be on board and under rapid drill for active service.

A spoon, brought home last week by Capt. J. W. Buddington of the New London whaling schooner Simmons, from Repulse Bay, where an Esquimaux gave it to him, was taken to Hartford on Monday. It proves solid silver, and bears a faded crest, which at Watkinson library has been indentified as the crest of the Fracklyn family of England. This settles its genuineness as a relic of Sir John Franklin.

Mr. L. Clifford Wade, for the past seven years local editor of the Portland Advertiser, has taken charge of the local department of the Press of that city, made vacant by the resignation of Mr. Mayo.

The Lewiston Journal says: "At Music Hall ticket office, Thursday evening, a gentleman presented a Bland silver dollar with a ten-cent piece riveted to it, as pay for his tickets. There's honest money for you!"

Adelaide Mauran, a sister of Harry Bloodgood, the minstrel, has just died at Providence from injuries received by a fall some time ago.

The case of Dr. Tilton, alleged to have committed an abortion on a woman in Haverhill, Mass., came before the Newburyport police court Monday forenoon, and resulted in his being bound over to the January term of the superior court in $300 bonds.

A lad named named Nash died at Oak Lawn, near Providence, Sunday night, of hydrophobia. He was bitten by his father's dog three weeks ago.

Mrs. Julia Scott, wife of Chester F. Scott of Watertown, Conn., fell one evening week before last into an uncovered cellarway, breaking her neck. She lay where she fell through the night, the family supposing that she had retired.

Joseph Frielchle, a worthy young man of Providence, sought refuge from the rain Monday in the barn of William A. Knight in Cranston, R. I. As he entered a small cannon, arranged by the owner to shoot hen thieves, was discharged, taking off the visitor's hand.

Two gentlemen who were passing the Ethan Allen estate in Worcester, Mass., recently, were attracted by a large Newfoundland dog which was inside the fence and kept running towards them and then returning in the direction of the pond in the grove, where something was evidently wrong. The curiosity of the gentlemen was excited and they followed the dog to the pond, where they found another dog of the same breed in the water and unable to get out. His front paws were on the curb stone, but he could not get sufficient hold to draw himself out. He was nearly exhausted and would probably have drowned had not the gentlemen assisted him. The dogs showed their gratitude in unmistakable signs.

Hon. N. Butler's office safe at Fisherville was blown open Monday night, and robbed of a small sum of money and valuable papers. Mr. Butler is Judge of Probate for Merrimack county.

Political.

The Washington correspondent of the Boston Post says: "The democrats have hit upon a plan for instituting an investigation into the cipher despatches that will save introducing the subject in the House for the present at least. The democratic members of the Potter committee held a private meeting to-day and decided to call a meeting of the entire committee, Thursday, when a formal proposition will be made to summon Whitelaw Reid and Mr. Hazard of the Tribune for the purpose of procuring evidence as to the authenticity of the despatches. It is believed that the order constituting the committee is sufficiently broad to cover this inquiry, and unless the republican members of the committee object the inquiry will be instituted and conducted by this committee." The cipher despatches have troubled the democrats terribly, and they now only hope to be able to keep them off the floor of the House.

We warn the southern democrats of one thing—their States are now restored to local self-government; the responsibility of giving the colored men justice and fair play rests upon them. The old system of federal interference will not be reestablished, and it is even probable that the next Congress will repeal the federal election laws or many parts of them. But the northern public, feeling that full justice has now been done to the south, will henceforth watch the conduct of the democrats there with redoubled jealousy, and so long as public opinion in the south tolerates such a policy as that of these South Carolina democrats, so long the north will unite against the democratic party of the country. The recent events in South Carolina will be found to have decided the Presidential election in 1880 against the democratic party, unless public opinion in the south promptly and conspicuously condemns and disowns them. That is the moral of the whole matter, and it is worth while for northern democrats to consider it.—New York Herald.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

CONSUMERS should bear in mind that the incomparable "Royal" is now the only Baking Powder in the market made from pure Grape Cream Tartar, imported exclusively for this powder direct from the wine-growing district of France. An old experienced housekeeper writes this, although she has to pay a few pennies more for the "Royal," finds that it goes so much further and works so much better, that it is economy to use it. Another says she uses the powder in puddings, cakes, and all sorts of pastry without shortening, and without eggs. An old lady writes that it makes the only biscuit her dyspeptic husband can eat. This is because the best and most wholesome materials are used. Approved by the New York Board of Health, and by such eminent chemists as Dr. MOTT, New York; Dr. HAYES, Boston; Prof. GENTH, Philadelphia, etc. Sold in tin cans only. dtwsp10 79

Letters for the night mails [and no others] cast or west may be deposited in the box at the Eastern depot, every day except Sundays.

E. G. PIERCE, JR., P. M.

THE CITY.

The eastward bound train leaving this city at a few minutes past three o'clock, Tuesday afternoon, struck a man at Kittery, near the depot, and injured him so that he must die. He had not been recognized up to Tuesday night.

Some time Monday night a window in James Raitts' blacksmith shop was broken, and the shop entered. A bitt-stock and bit found in possession of a fellow giving the name of John Adams were subsequently recognized by Mr. Raitt as having been stolen from his shop.

The schooner Brunette, of Searsport, Me., Rich master, which arrived at this port on Monday from Summerside, Prince Edward's island, as before reported, brought, in addition to 5000 bushels of potatoes, 2000 dozen of eggs and one hundred and fifty live geese, to C. L. Brown & Co. The Brunette lost her jibboom and foretopmast in the gale of the 28th ult., off La Have bank.

Duprez & Benedict's Minstrels at Music hall this evening. The troupe played at Biddeford last week, and the Times of that city says: "Duprez & Benedict gave a fine entertainment Saturday evening to a fair audience. Fox and Ward in their specialties were especially worthy of mention. Their changes were all rapid and their singing and dancing took well with the audience. Tom Warfield was a whole team in his banjo solos. The 'Black Robinson Crusoe' and 'Helen's Babies' were good hits."

The Supreme Chancellor of the Supreme Lodge, Knights of Pythias, has authorized the promulgation of the uniform of the order. The uniform consists of black coat, cut military style, single breasted, standing collar, trimmed with silver or white metal buttons; pants of black cloth of uniform style; those of the officers to be trimmed with silver cord on the outer seam; sword and belt, the latter red, and white gloves; fatigue cap, black cloth, navy style, shield in front and silver band; helmet with scarlet plume.

Play-Days: a book of stories for children, by Sarah O. Jewett, is published by Houghton, Osgood & Co., of Boston. Miss Jewett is well known in this region as a young lady of South Berwick, whose entree into the field of literature was at once successful. Her "Deephaven" had many readers, who admired its freshness of style and delighted in its originality in description, and pleasing narration. The present volume, though designed to amuse children will at the same time afford a pleasant pastime for the young mothers, who while reading it to the little ones can but be interested in the agreeable pen-pictures of Miss Jewett, with here and there a keen saying which the elders will appreciate, even if the juniors do not comprehend. Miss Jewett in this department of literary labor sustains the expectations which the readers of Deephaven were led to form as to her future authorship. Play Days may be found at Mercer Goodrich's bookstore. It is a book of over two hundred pages, and sells at $1.50.

POLICE COURT.

TUESDAY, Dec. 3; Batchelder, J.

John McCarthy, Thomas Hawley, Peter Cassidy and George Baker, all drunks, were each assessed $9.90, fine and costs. Baker was fined a similar amount on Monday for a similar offence, and paid it; we were requested to suppress his name, and did so, as it was the first time he had been before the police court.

John Adams was arraigned on a charge of breaking and entering the store of N. F. Mathes & Co., and stealing therefrom about three dollars in change and some canned corned beef. Case continued to Wednesday.

John Adams was further examined on a charge of breaking and entering N. P. Bryant's shop, and stealing a bitt-stock and bits; case continued to Wednesday.

This man Adams answers the description of Lewis, the last "lost sheep" of the Concord, Mass., State prison, and will be returned to that institution to serve out his sentence if he proves to be the right man. He is in a fix, anyway.

City Marshall Entwistle on Tuesday afternoon received from the warden of the State prison at Concord, Mass., a telegram asking him to hold Adams until further advices.

THE VICINITY.

It is $129,000, and not $29,000 or $12,-900, as published in various papers, that is asked for by Civil Engineer B. F. Chandler for improvements at this navy yard.

About the middle of October last the gun store of Eugene Smart at Dover was entered by thieves, and several revolvers and a valuable gun stolen. On Saturday last one Joseph Niles, (or Naltch,) alias Rattlesnake Niles, was arrested in Pittsfield and the stolen revolvers recovered, and Azier Niles, the "Rattlesnake's" brother, was arrested in Rollinsford for complicity in the robbery.

A letter has been received in Biddeford from George Gordon of that city, mate of the barque Devonshire, recently seized by a Chilian corvette. Mr. Gordon was in charge of the barque when the war vessel seized her; Capt. Falker with a portion of the crew had gone up a river after provisions, and when he returned his vessel had been taken away. When the mate wrote the captain had not joined the barque, as he had an overland journey to make to get to the port to which the corvette had taken her.

A correspondent of the Dover Democrat, writing from New Durham, gives an account of a large animal that is disturbing the people of that town by catching their cats and chasing belated travellers, jumping fifteen feet at a bound, laterally, and as high as a man's head, and otherwise behaving in an objectionable manner. The beast is described as being of a greyish color, and is estimated to weigh about a hundred and fifty pounds; it is supposed to be a Canada lynx. The correspondent reported a large party of men getting ready to hunt down the creature, as no dogs would follow the track.

Virginia Before the War.

It is about time for Virginia to give up talking about the state of things "before the war." Charles Dickens, and every other traveler who visited the State before the war, testify that everything was going to rack and ruin. Dickens, especially, noted "the decayed appearance" of ante bellum Richmond, and it is certain that the State capital is now twice as large and ten times as beautiful and prosperous as it ever was "before the war." It is since the war that Norfolk has made giant strides, and become the second cotton port of the Union. It is since the war that Danville has risen from a city of 2000 to nearly 12,000 inhabitants. It is also since the war that Lynchburg, Farmville, Staunton, Ashland, and many other towns have increased their trade and multiplied their inhabitants. Doubtless the landed aristocracy were better off "before the war," but all other classes, including the small farmers, have no real reason for grumbling at the changed condition of affairs.—Farmville (Va.) Mercury.

—"Eugenia, Eugenia, why will you still insist on wearing the hair of another woman upon your head?" "Alphonse, Alphonse, why do you still insist upon wearing the skin of another calf upon your feet?"

A Problem Long Since Solved.

How to remedy those prolific causes of disease, an impoverished circulation and an impaired digestion, was a problem the solution of which had often baffled medical skill, but which was solved over a quarter of a century ago by the introduction of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters to public and professional notice. Since that time, which may well be said to have initiated a new epoch in the history of medicine, the remedy and preventive referred to has obtained a foothold in the confidence of the American people that each succeeding year has only served to strengthen. It is recognized throughout the Union as a tonic of the first order, a remedy for and sure means of preventing fever and ague, and disorders of the liver, and of counteracting a tendency to rheumatism, gout, urinary and uterine disorders.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure for consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive, and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send, free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and using, in German, French, or English. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. W. Sherar, 149 Powers' Block, Rochester, New York.

The old established house of Messrs. Horace Waters & Sons, New York, is meeting the public more than "half way" in their Holiday offer for pianos and organs. It seems incredible that such instruments can be sold at the prices named in their advertisement which appears in another column.

The time of sorrow in New Orleans has happily passed away, and wherever the sad tale of the ravages of pestilence the past summer is told the noble stand of the Charity Hospital as a sure relief to the afflicted will be also remembered, and that the existence of this worthy charity was maintained by the revenue derived from the reliable and well-managed institution known everywhere as the Louisiana State Lottery. The next Grand Semi-annual Drawing will take place on Monday, December 10th, under the immediate personal care and attention of Generals G. T. Beauregard, of Louisiana, and Jubal A. Early, of Virginia. For all information address M. A. Dauphin, P. O. Box 692, New Orleans.

Let that cough continue and die of consumption, or pay 25 cents and be cured by Adamson's Botanic Balsam. Free sample bottle at the druggists. Large bottles 75 cts.

"It seems as if I should cough my head off" is sometimes the impatient exclamation of a sufferer from a severe Cough. Quell the paroxysms with Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar. The relief is immediate and the cure certain. Sold by all Druggists. tdec28

are in a moment beautified by the operation of

CRISTADORO'S HAIR DYE

It is the most expeditious hair dye in the world, and the only one free from every poisonous ingredient, and that contains a nourishing and emollient vegetable principle.

Cristadoro's Hair Preservative,

A valuable adjunct to the Dye in dressing and promoting the growth and perfect health of the hair, and of itself, when used alone—a safe guard that protects the fibres from decay under all circumstances and under all climes. Manufactured by J. CRISTADORO, No. 63 William St., New York. Sold by all Druggists. Applied by all Hair Dressers. tdec15

—Professor Buttermann, the accomplished Hellenist, so says "An Old Berliner" in a recently published book of memoirs, irresistibly impressed every one who met him with the belief that he was a barber. Passing along the street one day he was hailed from an upper window by some one to him unknown, who beckoned to him to ascend, and when the wise man entered, said curtly, "Cut my hair." The professor meekly obeyed, and had about half concluded the operation when his victim, looking in the glass, discovered that he had been reduced to baldness on one side of the head, while, on the other, his hair looked as if it had been gnawed by an absent-minded horse. "Merciful heaven!" he yelled; "you don't know how to cut hair!" "You did not ask me whether I did or not. I am Professor Buttermann," replied, with a low bow, the learned man, and departed.

—A traveller who was telling a very wonderful story to a friend, said: "Why, my dear fellow, I never would have believed it if I hadn't seen it myself." "Ah! just so," replied the friend; "you must recollect that I did not see it."

GAZETTE

Established 1756.

The Gazette is published every Thursday, and sent to Subscribers at the low price of

$1.50 per year, paid in advance, or

$2 at the end of the year.

It contains full accounts of all of importance that transpires in Portsmouth and its vicinity, and a condensed summary of NEWS, foreign and domestic; editorials upon current topics; New Hampshire items; carefully prepared marine news, containing reports of vessels owned at this port, or offered by men from Portsmouth or its neighborhood; and is just the paper for residents desiring to be posted on all that takes place at home, while to those living in the vicinity of Portsmouth, or to former residents who retain their interest in the "old home by the sea," it is the best means of keeping informed of what transpires in this city.

—THE—

NEW HAMPSHIRE GAZETTE

Contains more original matter

Than any other paper of its size in the State, the editors working more with their pens than with their scissors.

TO ADVERTISERS

THE N. H. GAZETTE

Presents an excellent opportunity for a WEEKLY INVITATION TO CUSTOMERS, at a reasonable rate, and all those who desire to reach patrons in Rockingham and York counties will find it an economical medium. THE GAZETTE is in many instances the only paper taken by families, and is read to a large extent in localities whence is derived much of the trade of Portsmouth, a fact which our merchants should not fail to bear in mind.

PENNSYLVANIA

RAILROAD.

GREAT THROUGH LINE

AND

UNITED STATES MAIL ROUTE

The attention of the travelling public is respectfully invited to some of the merits of this great highway, in the confident assertion and belief that no other line can offer equal inducements as a route of through travel. In

Construction AND Equipment

THE

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

stands confessedly at the head of American railways. The track is double the entire length of the line, of steel rails laid on heavy oak ties, which are embedded in a foundation of rock ballast eighteen inches in depth. All bridges are of iron or stone, and built upon the most approved plans. Its passenger cars, while eminently safe and substantial, are at the same time models of comfort and elegance.

The Safety Appliances

in use on this line well illustrates the far-seeing and liberal policy of its management, in accordance with which the utility only of an improvement and not its cost has been the question of consideration. Among many may be noticed

THE BLOCK SYSTEM OF SAFETY SIGNALS,

JANNEY COUPLER, BUFFER AND PLATFORM,

THE WHARTON PATENT SWITCH,

AND THE

WESTINGHOUSE AIR-BRAKE,

forming in conjunction with a perfect double track and road-bed a combination of safeguards against accidents which have rendered them practically impossible.

Pullman Palace Cars

Are run on all Express Trains

From New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington,

To Chicago, Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, and St. Louis,

WITHOUT CHANGE,

and to all principal points in the far West and South with but one change of cars. Connections are made in Union Depots, and are assured to all important points.

The Scenery

OF THE

PENNSYLVANIA ROUTE

is admitted to be unsurpassed in the world for grandeur, beauty and variety. Superior refreshment facilities are provided. Employees are courteous and attentive, and it is an unfaitable result that a trip by the Pennsylvania Railroad must form

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY

By its great and thorough blood-purifying properties, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures all Humors, from the worst Scrofula to a common Blotch, Pimple, or Eruption. Mercurial disease, Mercurial Poisons, and their effects, are eradicated, and vigorous health and a sound constitution established. Scrofulous, Salt-rheum, Fever Sores, Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood, are conquered by this powerful, purifying and invigorating medicine.

Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Rose Rash, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, White Swellings, Goitre or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands.

If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated, have sallow color of skin, or yellowish brown spots on face or body, frequent headache or dizziness, bad taste in mouth, internal heat or chills alternated with hot flushes, low spirits, and gloomy forebodings, irregular appetite, and tongue coated, you are suffering from Torpid Liver, or "Biliousness." In many cases of "Liver Complaint" only part of these symptoms are experienced. As a remedy for all such cases, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has no equal, as it effects perfect and radical cures.

In the cure of Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, and the early stages of Consumption, it has unrivalled, and medical faculty, and eminent physicians pronounce it the greatest medical discovery of the age. While it cures the severest Coughs, it strengthens the system and purifies the blood. Sold by druggists.

R. V. PIERCE, M. D., Proprr. World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets

SIZE OF PELLETS.

THE "LITTLE GIANT" CATHARTIC.

No use of taking the large, repulsive, nauseous pills, composed of cheap, crude, and bulky ingredients. These Pellets are scarcely larger than mustard seeds. Being entirely vegetable, no particular care is required while using them. They operate without disturbance to the constitution, diet, or occupation. For Jaundice, Headache, Constipation, Dizziness, Blood, Pain in the Shoulders, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations from the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious attacks, Pain in region of Kidneys, Internal Fever, Blotched Feeling about Stomach, Rush of Blood to Head, take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. In explanation of the remedial power of these Purgative Pellets over so great a variety of diseases, it may be said that their action upon the animal economy is entirely local, not a gland or tissue escaping their sanative impress. Are they Pills? Yes, in the popular form of vegetable Pills. They are sugar-coated and inclosed in glass bottles, their virtues being thereby rendered impregnable to all climates of time, in any climate, so that they are always fresh and reliable. Unlike most other pills put up in cheap wooden or pasteboard boxes. For all diseases where a Laxative, Alterative, or Purgative is indicated, these Purgative Pellets are the most perfect satisfaction. Sold by druggists.

DR. SAGE'S CATARRH REMEDY

produces radical cures of the worst cases of Catarrh, no matter of how long standing. The Liquid Preparation may be snuffed, or better applied by the use of Dr. PIERCE'S Douche. This is the only form of douche ever invented with which fluid medicine can be carried HIGH UP and PERFECTLY APPLIED to all parts of the affected nasal passages, and the ulcerated or catarrhal discharges generally removed. Its use is pleasant and easily understood, being simple and accompanying each instrument. Dr. SAGE'S Catarrh Remedy cures recent attacks of "Cold in the Head" by a few applications. It is mild and pleasant to use, containing no strong or caustic drugs or poisons. Catarrh Remedy and Douche sold by druggists. R. V. PIERCE, M. D., Proprr. Chronicle Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 2d.

The meeting of Congress to-day draws a large number of people to the city. There are many points of unusual interest on this occasion, among them the remarks in the President's message relative to the enforcement of the laws in the south. The promised treatment of this subject by the administration will be differently interpreted to suit different minds, and the fulfillment of certain promises, public and private, will be looked for with some curiosity. The difficulties of this problem are but just begun, according to the observations of shrewd men in Washington.

Another attractive topic is the money question, or, more properly, the question of more financial legislation. This has drawn a large number of persons to town. To-day the greenback leaders, who held an informal caucus Saturday, are in formal conference relative to the future of the party. To hear them talk one would suppose that one fact was fixed for the future, namely, that the greenbackers are to control the destinies of the nation after 1880. Their conferences will be secret, but enough facts leak out to justify a statement of their plans. They will appoint representatives of their party to remain in Washington through the winter to keep the organization lively for the ensuing campaigns. They will bring a heavy pressure to bear upon the greenback members of the next Congress to hang together, claiming that thereby they may organize the House to suit themselves. If this should not "pan out" well they will demand that the democrats nominate for Speaker a prominent greenback democrat, like Ewing, and doubtless they can either carry that point or extract promises of favors through a democrat of another color, like Randall, in consideration of support. They want the control of the committees on banking and other subjects relating to finance, labor and the industrial questions, as well as a share of the plunder with the democrats. Of one point I may speak very positively; they will oppose every obstacle to the republican party, looking upon that as the organization peculiarly representing the hard-money interest. They will demand the abolition of the national banks, and various other measures in the same line. General Butler is the central figure of the party here, and apparently throughout the country, and so far nobody appears to contest the claim made for him by his friends that he must be the greenback presidential candidate in 1880. They point with satisfaction to his large vote for governor in Massachusetts as an indication of his personal strength.

The Pennsylvanians resident in Washington have organized a "Keystone Club," ostensibly for the purpose of attending the inaugural celebration of Gov. Hoyt at Harrisburg in January, but really, it is surmised, as a permanent society for the promotion of Pennsylvania's choice for the next president. As many of the members are office holders, it is supposed that the President's order regarding the participation of office holders in political movements is postponed indefinitely. This is the first movement of the republicans looking towards 1880, but who Pennsylvania's favorite will be nobody can tell. Senator Blaine has been nominated by a large number of Keystone newspapers; "but the main point to be gained," said one of the Pennsylvanians to your correspondent, "is that our State shall not throw away its influence in the result of the balloting, as in the last convention at Cincinnati.

Secretary Schurz replies with temper to the charge of Gen. Sheridan that recent changes of Indian reservations were made for corrupt purposes and involved wrong and extravagance. He asks that Gen. Sheridan be invited by the President to substantiate his charges.

A grand reception was given at Willard's hotel on Saturday night to Hon. Casey Young and Col. J. M. Keating of Memphis, two men whose action towards the yellow fever sufferers was most praiseworthy. The gathering was brilliant and enjoyable, and was also in celebration of the re-opening of Willard's. That hotel is one of the historical landmarks of Washington, and the grandeur of its reorganization and refitting are in keeping with the march of improvements. It may be said that the capital city is now equal to any other on the continent for its public house accommodations. KNOX.

A Woman's Logic.

"It is useless to take medicine. I shall feel better to-morrow. Besides, I need the money to get that lovely new hat. My old one is such a fright, and people will look more at my bonnett than they will at my face. I will wait till I feel worse before I spend my money for medicine." The new bonnet is purchased and fifty other feminine necessaries in the form of ribbons, laces, brooches, etc. Meanwhile the lady's face becomes every day paler and thinner, and her body weaker, until disease has gained so firm a foothold in her system, that the most thorough, and oftimes a long and tedious, course of treatment is necessary to restore her to health. Ladies, attend to your health before you ever think of apparel. A fresh, blooming face in a plain bonnet is much handsomer and far more attractive to your gentlemen friends, than a pain-worn, diseased face in the most elaborate and elegant hat your milliner could devise. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is everywhere acknowledged to be the standard remedy for female complaints and weaknesses. It is sold by all druggists.

Portsmouth Chronicle

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1878.

Congress.

The Senate did but little business on Tuesday, the 3d inst.

In the House the military and fortifications appropriation bills were passed. Numerous bills in relation to trade dollars and buzzard dollars were introduced and referred. Bell of Georgia introduced a bill to repeal the resumption act; Harris of Virginia one to abolish the requirement of the proof of loyalty as a condition precedent to obtaining pensions for services in the war of 1812.

Efforts to Save Murderers.

James A. Edgerly, counsel for John T. Pinkham, now in the State prison awaiting execution for the murder of Mrs. Berry of New Durham about a year ago, was in Concord on the 3d inst., and arranged with Attorney-General Tappan to make application to the Governor and Council for the commutation of Pinkham's sentence. The petition will be based on the grounds that Pinkham's mind was in such a condition when he committed the crime that he was not responsible for it; that he lost his faculties in consequence of long confinement in Libby and Salisbury prisons during the war.

During the trial of Joseph B. Buzzell of Ossipee for the murder of Susan Hanson, exceptions were filed by the counsel for the defence. Briefs were furnished by the State and defence, setting forth the points in favor of and against setting aside the verdict. The defence claim that the party once having been tried for the same crime, and acquitted, he cannot be put upon trial a second time for virtually the same offence. The State takes the opposite ground, viz: that his second trial was for a distinct crime; that he was first tried as a principal, and the second time as an accessory before the fact. A large number of authorities were cited. The matter was brought up before the full bench at Concord on the afternoon of the 3d inst., and was argued by the Attorney-General for the State, and William J. Copeland for the defence. The case was postponed till the third week of the term. Buzzell is now in prison awaiting execution.

A Handy Book.

The Descriptive Catalogue of Houghton, Osgood & Company's publications makes an octavo of 235 pages. It describes all of their books and periodicals in all external features, size, form, binding; and, besides giving the contents, either characterizes these so as to aid the reader in understanding their value, or, more frequently, quotes the estimate of the most competent critical authorities. The high literary standing of the persons and journals quoted is especially noteworthy.

This catalogue contains a quite remarkable array of notable names in literature, such as Agassiz, Aldrich, Anderson, Bacon, Dr. John Brown, Robert Browning, Bryant, Carlyle, Dr. E. H. Clarke, James Freeman Clarke, Joseph Cook, Cooper, Dana, DeQuincy, Dickens, Emerson, Fields, Fiske, Goethe, Bret Harte, Hawthorne, Hillard, Holmes, Howells, Hughes, James, Mrs. Jameson, Starr King, Miss Larcom, Lewis, Longfellow, Lowell, Macaulay, Harriet Martineau, Owen Meredith, Montaigne, Parton, Pascal, Miss Phelps, Miss Adelaide Proctor, Saxe, Scott, Scudder, Principal Shairp, Stedman, Stoddard, Mrs. Stowe, Bayard Taylor, Tennyson, Mrs. Thaxter, Dr. J. P. Thompson, Thoreau, Ticknor, Waring, Warner, Whipple, Mrs. Whitney, Whittier, and scores of others hardly less distinguished.

The arrangement of the catalogue is strictly alphabetical, which experience proves to be far the most convenient. The Index is very full, containing the names of all the authors and the distinctive titles of all the works included; also classified lists of works relating to Architecture, Art, Biography, Criticism, Education, Essays, Health, History, House and Home Books, Illustrated Gift Books, Juvenile Books, Law, Medicine, Novels, Philosophy, Poetry, Politics and Political Economy, Religion, Science, Short Stories, Travel and Description.

This catalogue will be of great value to all libraries and to all who buy and read books. It will be sent by Houghton, Osgood & Co., Boston, on receipt of ten cents.

News and Notes.

Samuel Snow, treasurer and collector of the town of Brunswick, Me., is a defaulter. The amount is estimated at from $900 to $2300.

James Taylor, a laboring man thirty-five years of age, committed suicide by hanging himself in Boston on the night of the 3d inst. Discouragement on account of not being able to procure work was the cause of the act.

Two men, while smearing a large iron tank at Belcher's sugar refinery at St. Louis with coal tar, were burned to death by the tar taking fire.

A Lexington (Ky.) special says the mob at Breathitt has been outwitted by the murderer Little being taken from jail by the officers by a circuitous route, and carried to Richmond jail.

A negro named Moustand, who was lodged in the lockup at Franklin, La., for two attempts to outrage white women, was taken from the lockup by the friends of the women on the night of the 2d inst., his throat cut, and his dead body thrown into Bayou Teche.

An investigation of the fire at Cape May, N. J., fastens upon Mr. S. R. Ludlam of the Ocean house a very strong suspicion of the crime of incendiarism. It turns out that his property was well insured, and that when he wept over the ruins of his hotel his tears were not real tears.

New Hampshire Items.

At a recent wedding in Tamworth, Paul Welch, aged sixty-eight years, was united in the bonds of matrimony to Phebe Williams, who has seen seventy-two years.

Bridget Lovett, of Nashua, was run over by a team in Boston on the evening of the 3d inst. She was taken to the city hospital.

Neal McCrillis was found dead in Plymouth on the 3d inst., from heart disease. He was eighty-seven years old, and a highly-respected citizen.

The trustees of the Pennacook savings bank at Fisherville have voted to suspend the payment of deposits, except on notice. The bank is understood to be considerably laden with the paper of D. Arthur Brown & Co. and H. H. Brown & Sons, whose property was placed in charge of an assignee two weeks ago.

H. S. Prescott, a leading grocer of Franklin, failed Tuesday, the 13th inst. The first attachment was made by his father-in-law for $7000.

Michael Curdy was run over and killed in the Cheshire railroad yard at Keene, on the night of the 2d inst. He had been at work on the Manchester & Keene railroad.

THE NEW YORK TIMES

ESTABLISHED 1851.

The position of the foremost republican newspaper in the United States will be maintained by The New York Times by the same policy in virtue of which that position has been attained.

The Times will continue to place fidelity in the interests of the Republican Party above the pursuit of personal aims or private ambition, and will steadfastly insist that the usefulness of any party must be measured by the extent of its devotion to the honor and welfare of the country. In the future, as in the past, the attitude of The Times will be that of independence within the Republican Party. The maintenance of the national credit, the purification of the public service; the advocacy of all seasonable projects of fiscal reform; rigid economy in public expenditures; opposition to annuities and corporate jobbery in all its forms, and the preservation of equal rights to all citizens, North and South, will be the salient points of the policy of The Times.

The Times will continue to be distinguished as an enterprising, accurate, and carefully edited newspaper. The acknowledged excellence and fullness of its correspondence by mail and telegraph from all parts of the world, will be adequately maintained, and its facilities for collecting domestic and foreign news will be expanded to meet the increasing demands of our time.

In the sphere of literary and artistic criticism, of scientific, social, and general discussion, The Times will address itself, as heretofore, to the appreciation of the educated and intelligent classes of the American people. It will be lively without being sensational, aggressive without being coarse; at all times it will strive to be fearless and independent in the championship of the right. No theoretic subversive of the principles on which the sacredness of family ties, and the existence of society alike repose will be promulgated in its columns.

The Times rejects all advertisements of lotteries, of quacks and medical pretenders, and of all other agencies by which the insidious poison of vice is disseminated throughout society. It will be in the future, as in the past, a newspaper especially adapted for family reading.

The Weekly Times, containing selected editorials on topics of national and general interest from the columns of the daily issue, as well as a concise summary of political, social, and foreign news, besides other features which recommend it to all classes of readers, is a paper admirably fitted to circulate in every portion of the United States. It will be the aim of its conductors to use every means, not only to maintain its well-earned supremacy, but to make its popularity still more decided.

A Problem Long Since Solved.

How to remedy those prolific causes of disease, an impoverished circulation and an impaired digestion, was a problem the solution of which had often baffled medical skill, but which was solved over a quarter of a century ago by the introduction of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters to public and professional notice. Since that time, which may well be said to have initiated a new epoch in the history of medicine, the remedy and preventive referred to has obtained a foothold in the confidence of the American people that each succeeding year has only served to strengthen. It is recognized throughout the Union as a tonic of the first order, a remedy for and sure means of preventing fever and ague, and disorders of the liver, and of counteracting a tendency to rheumatism, gout, urinary and uterine disorders.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure for consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive, and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send, free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and using, in German, French, or English. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. W. Sherar, 149 Powers' Block, Rochester, New York. tjan1

The old established house of Messrs. Horace Waters & Sons, New York, is meeting the public more than "half way" in their Holiday offer for pianos and organs. It seems incredible that such instruments can be sold at the prices named in their advertisement which appears in another column.

Let that cough continue and die of consumption, or pay 35 cents and be cured by Adamson's Botanic Balsam. Free sample bottle at the druggists. Large bottles 75 cts.

"It seems as if I should cough my head off" is sometimes the impatient exclamation of a sufferer from a severe Cough. Quell the paroxysms with Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar. The relief is immediate and the cure certain. Sold by all Druggists. tdec28

Unpresentable Heads

CONSUMERS should bear in mind that the incomparable "Royal" is now the only Baking Powder in the market made from pure Grape Cream Tartar, imported exclusively for this powder direct from the wine-growing district of France. An old experienced housekeeper writes that, although she has to pay a few cents more for the "Royal," finds that it goes so much further and works so much better, that it is economy to use it. Another says she uses the powder in puddings, cakes, and all sorts of pastry without eggs. An old lady writes that it makes the only biscuit her dyspeptic husband can eat. The following are some of the varieties now produced by the machine:

Confectioner's Jumbles,	Sugar Plum Drops,

THE CITY.

Duprez & Benedict's Minstrels had a large audience Wednesday night, and gave a big minstrel show.

The Philharmonic society meets at Grange hall each Friday evening. Singers are invited to attend and take part in the exercises.

Portsmouth Grange celebrated the Patrons' anniversary on Wednesday evening, Dec. 4th, with a Harvest Feast and social exercises. A goodly party was present, despite the moist weather.

No. 83 of Leavitt's Farmers' Almanac, improved for 1879, is issued by Edwin C. Eastman of Concord. It is a New Hampshire publication, and contains in addition to the usual almanac matter, information of value as to courts, etc.

An examination of the bottom of the U. S. S. Ticonderoga, now in the dry-dock at Norfolk, Va., shows that her keel was injured and a quantity of copper torn off by her striking the rocks when going out of the harbor of Gloucester, Mass., where she put in for shelter from a gale on her passage from this port to Norfolk.

The unknown man who was struck by the cars at Kittery depot on Tuesday afternoon, the 3d inst, died at about half-past seven o'clock the same evening. He was about sixty-five years of age, and was dressed in dark clothes. No blame is attached to the railroad men for the accident, as everything they could do to avoid it was done.

The marine, Lingard, who on the 28th of September stabbed Capt. Marden of the navy yard ferry-boat Emerald, assaulted Special Officer Anderson, and used insulting and disrespectful language to two marine officers who were on board the steamer, has been tried by general court martial at the navy yard, and is to be taken to Charlestown navy yard by Mate John Vennard and a sergeant and corporal of marines, and delivered to the commandant of that yard.

During the heavy gale of Monday, the 2d inst., the U. S. S. Plymouth, lying at the quarantine grounds anchorage, struck all her light spars and housed her topmasts, and steamed ahead slowly during the height of the blow. Some of the bum-boat men were obliged to remain on board the ship all night, and suffered somewhat from seasickness, not being used to being tossed about in such a manner; and glad enough they were to get home when the gale moderated. The Plymouth will come up to the navy yard the first fair day.

Messrs. Houghton, Osgood & Co. issue with rapid succession the Artists' Biographies, prepared by M. F. Sweetser. The latest received are "Leonardo Da Vinci," the famous artist who four centuries ago gave to the world his most important results in his conception of "The Last Supper," and "Washington Allston," who painted "Belshazzar's Feast." These little books give succinct but accurate accounts of their subjects, have conveniently arranged indexes, and are prepared in such an attractive form that many will be educated in matters of art by their perusal, who were before perhaps without either the taste for or knowledge of the subjects treated. These and the preceding uniform editions of Artist Biographies may be found at Goodrich's bookstore, at the modest price of fifty cents per volume.

POLICE COURT.

WEDNESDAY, Dec. 4; Batchelder, J.

Burleigh Tuttle was charged $9.90 for one drunk by him had and enjoyed. Paid.

The several complaints against John Adams, continued from the previous day, for breaking and entering, were quashed, Adams acknowledging himself to be Henry Lewis alias Charles Walker, whose last legal place of residence was the State prison at Concord, Mass., from whence he eloped on the 30th ult., and to which he consented to return without a requisition from the government of Massachusetts.

Everett White and Andrew Amazeen, of Newcastle, and Matthew Murphy (who says his name is Daniel Stevens) of this city, were arraigned for malicious mischief, exemplified by the throwing of stones through the windows of David Urch's residence at Newcastle bridge. It appears that stones were not only thrown into Major Urch's house, but into the next one to it, at a late hour Tuesday evening; and the major, who though a staunch temperance man is not deficient in temper when his toes are trodden on, at once like a good citizen appealed to the law for protection. White was discharged; the case against Amazeen was nol pros'd; and Murphy was ordered to give bonds in the sum of $100 for his appearance to answer at the April term of the supreme court.

MASONIC ELECTION.

At the annual meeting of St. John's Lodge, No. 1, F. and A. M., Wednesday evening, Dec. 4th, the following named brethren were elected officers for the ensuing year:

W. M., Thomas J. Mitchell;
S. W., William H. Lovell;
J. W., Howe Call;
Treasurer, Isaac Dow;
Secretary, John H. Cheever;
Representative to Grand Lodge, Thomas E. O. Marvin;
Standing committee, Samuel S. Fletcher, Oliver G. Fernald.

BOARD OF INSTRUCTION.

The regular meeting of the Board of Instruction was held Wednesday evening at half-past seven o'clock; present, Mayor Sise, Mrs. Wilson, and Messrs. Locke, Knight, Gardner, May, Hoyt, Shorburne, Wendell and Vaughan.

The masters asked for further time in the matter of re-arrangment of the course of studies.

Communication from several patrons of Miss Chesley's school, representing that the building was unfit for a school, was referred to the committee of district No. Two, to lay the same before the aldermen.

Application from Miss Carrie A. Craig for school was received and placed on file.

The committee on revision of the terms and vacations reported, recommending that the Christmas vacation and the spring vacation be shortened each one week, and the time added to the summer vacation; adopted.

Section 4 was amended by striking out all relating to graduates of Normal school, and inserting "and who are graduates of some normal or training school," —leaving the case so that graduates of our High school can be applicants and receive appointments as teachers in the future.

THOSE MUDDLED RETURNS.

Several persons have asked what was meant by the statement in the CHRONICLE of the 4th inst., about two wards in this city returning 553 votes for "John H. Kent," the rest of the county returning 5491 votes for "John Horace Kent." Well, that was just what it meant; we don't know how we can make it any plainer. John Horace Kent received 6044 votes, but owing to a blunder (entirely unintentional, as everybody knowing the officers will agree) of some of the election officers in wards one and four of this city, the 553 votes thrown in those wards for "John Horace Kent" were returned as for "John H. Kent." This of course does not alter the fact that the votes referred to were actually given for "John Horace Kent;" and it is absurd to suppose that such an error could have any influence on the election, for if this were allowed an unscrupulous official would be enabled to elect or defeat whom he pleased, entirely irrespective of the number of votes cast for or against any candidate. It may be of interest to some people to know that the ward officers in ward one are republicans, and that those of ward four are democrats—this fact being enough of itself to show that the incorrect returns were solely the result of inadvertence.

ROBERT BURNS.

The few who were able to brave the storm of Friday, Nov. 22d, and attend the second of Mr. Fields' lectures at Miss Morgan's seminary, were well rewarded by one of the lecturer's best efforts. The subject was Robert Burns; while of course the personal reminiscences were lacking, which make so pleasant a feature of some of Mr. Fields' other lectures, this was a charmingly written essay on the life and writings of the Scotch poet, by one who is his warm admirer, but yet has a just discrimination between the beauties of the bard and the faults of the man. It was illustrated by many passages from the poems, read in Mr. Fields' best style; the rendering of "A man's a man for a' that" should be especially mentioned. An autograph love letter of Burns' was exhibited.

The next lecture of this course will be to-morrow (Friday) evening; and will give the opportunity of hearing—after too long a silence—one of our most cultivated scholars, George W. Haven, Esq.

N. H. S. P. C. A.

The annual meeting of the New Hampshire Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals was held at the Common Council Room on Monday, Dec. 2d, at 7:30 o'clock P. M.

The treasurer reported the receipts for the past year to have been $390.88, and the expenses $275.01, leaving a balance of $115.87 on hand, to which is to be added $26.28 received from the proceeds of the lecture and concert at Music hall under the direction of Dr. Goodall.

Mrs. Pickering reported that $106 had been added to the permanent fund during the year. The fund now amounts to $518.25.

By the monthly report of the secretary it appeared that the following cases had been attended to during the last month: Failing to shelter horse, one; improper treatment of cow, one; using galled horse, one; whipping horse, one; using old and worn-out horse, one; neglecting to feed horse properly, one; acts of cruelty to small animals, two.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President, Thomas E. O. Marvin.

Vice Presidents, Mrs. Stanton Parker, Mrs. Albert L. Jones, Mrs. Ichabod Goodwin, Mrs. Ezra H. Winchester, Miss Annie F. Jenness, John S. H. Frink, Frank Jones, Alfred O. Larkin, Alexander H. Ladd.

Directors, Mrs. John J. Pickering, Mrs. Alfred W. Haven, Miss Eliza Rice, Miss Elizabeth H. Pearson, Mrs. H. C. Knight, Miss Carrie A. Morison, Mrs. F. W. Miller, Miss Mary E. Lyman, Miss Mary A. Foster, Miss Susan E. Christie, James R. May, Augustus W. Odiorne, Charles W. Gardner, Joseph B. Upham, Jr.

Secretary, Charles E. Batchelder.

Treasurer, Mary A. Foster.

Trustees of Permanent Fund, Mrs. John J. Pickering, Portsmouth; Frederick Smyth, Manchester; Josiah B. Sanborn, Concord.

Counsel, John S. H. Frink, Esq.

The thanks of the Society were tendered to Mrs. Goodall for the receipt of $26.28 for the funds of the Society, being one-third the net proceeds of the lecture and concert in Music hall under the direction of Dr. Goodall. Votes of thanks were also given to the City Marshal and to the President, Counsel and Secretary of the society for their services during the past year.

THE VICINITY.

The Free Baptist church and society of Biddeford have refused to accept the resignation of Rev. H. J. White.

On Monday, Dec. 2d, the first number of the Exeter Daily Gazette was issued, by Wingate & Dunton, who "two hundred and forty years from the settlement of Exeter give its people their first daily paper." It is an evening paper, sold at one cent per copy; subscription price, $1.25 per year, or twenty-five cents per month. It is needless to say that at this price a very large paper cannot be furnished; but if the Exeter people want a larger daily they can easily procure it—by liberally patronizing the one they already have, with advertisements and subscriptions.

The Simpson family, which started from Biddeford for a home in Aroostook county, Me., some weeks ago, in an emigrant wagon purchased for them by the contributions of the bystanders who one morning saw them about starting on their three-hundred-mile journey in an "unseaworthy" vehicle, passed through Bangor at two o'clock on the afternoon of Dec. 2d, all well and apparently happy, and with only seventy miles more to accomplish. The flag placed on the front of the wagon when it left Biddeford, bearing the proud legend "Aroostook or bust," was still flying when the establishment passed through Bangor.

AN OLD JAILBIRD.

The man John Adams, brought before the police court in this city on Tuesday, the 3d inst., on several charges of burglary and theft, turns out to be Henry Lewis alias Charles Walker, who was sent to the Massachusetts State prison at Concord for three years, some six months ago, for breaking and entering at Newburyport, and who escaped from that institution on the 30th ult. The way Adams came to get caught was as follows:

During the furious storm of Monday night the police generally exercised extra vigilance, knowing that the storm would deaden any ordinary sound. At about midnight Officers Besselievre and Pray, when passing the Eastern railroad depot, were informed that a suspicious looking man had been seen about there, so they made a search for him and found him hidden in a passenger car in the depot, and took him to the lockup. When on the corner of Fleet and Congress streets he was seen to throw something away, and when near the police station he broke away from them and ran, but was quickly caught. After locking him up the officers took a lantern and searched for what he had thrown away, and found on the street some scrip, and in the rear of the station a counterfeit half-dollar. On this evidence they decided to hold the prisoner, and at daylight they were notified of the places having been broken into during the night; and before the court came in Adams was pretty well identified as Lewis, the escaped convict from the Massachusetts State prison.

In conversation with our reporter, Adams fully explained the means by which he escaped. He said the chance offered was so good that he "couldn't help leaving." The way he got clear was as follows: The cars at times back into the prison yard from the junction, half a mile distant; some two weeks before making his escape, Adams (or Lewis) tried an experiment on a car loaded with cotton ties, (hoop-iron,) making a hole in the cargo large enough to enable him to hide away, and by watching the inspection of the car made by the officers of the prison he became satisfied that he could have then left the institution. On Saturday morning, Nov. 30th, he made another hole in a lot of the cotton-ties, and hid away in it with a suit of clothes he had stolen from the prison; the "inspection" failed to detect him, and the train moved off. When a quarter of a mile from the prison he jumped off, passed several of the train hands, changed his clothing, and started off, tramping fifty-five miles without stopping. He says if he had had any money he would never have been recaptured.

He leaves for Massachusetts in the seven o'clock train this morning.

The price of the New York Weekly Times has been reduced to one dollar per annum, postage paid. At no period in its history has the future of the party of equal rights and national honor depended more than now on the dissemination of sound political information among the people. No better public educator and no more complete newspaper need be asked than the Weekly Times, and every fresh subscriber added to its list is a gain to the republican party.

—A gentleman died not long ago who had been addicted to his cups. One who was not aware of his habits was making inquires of the family physician, in relation to his death, and among other matters asked about his spiritual condition. "It was excessive," replied the doctor; "that was what killed him."

—The New York city authorities are prosecuting the bill-posters who exceed their privileges in pasting their sheets over the bills of other parties, and who disfigure structures that their pastebrush is not entitled to besmear. Evidently, as one of the humorists of the day has said, "there has got to be less patent medicine or more fence."

—The little folks wanted the head of the family to spend the evening with them. Father said he thought of attending a meeting. Various measures were discussed for keeping father at home, when Tommy, aged five, addressed his brother, aged seven, as follows: "I'll tell you what we'll do. We'll put a sign on the front door—'No admittance to go out of this house nights.'"

GAZETTE
Established 1756.
The Gazette is published every Thursday, and sent to Subscribers at the low price of $1.50 per year, paid in advance, or
$2 at the end of the year.
It contains full accounts of all of importance that transpires in Portsmouth and its vicinity, and a condensed summary of NEWS, foreign and domestic; editorials upon current topics; New Hampshire items; carefully prepared marine news, containing reports of vessels owned at this port, or officered by men from Portsmouth or its neighborhood; and is just the paper for residents desiring to be posted on all that takes place at home, while to those living in the vicinity of Portsmouth, or to former residents who retain their interest in the "old home by the sea," it is the best means of keeping informed of what transpires in this old city.
— THE —
NEW HAMPSHIRE GAZETTE
Contains more original matter
Than any other paper of its size in the State, the editors working more with their pens than with their scissors.

TO ADVERTISERS
THE N. H. GAZETTE
Presents an excellent opportunity for a WEEKLY INVITATION TO CUSTOMERS, at a reasonable rate, and all those who desire to reach patrons in Rockingham and York counties will find it an economical medium. THE GAZETTE is in many instances the only paper taken by families, and it is read to a large extent in localities whence is derived much of the trade of Portsmouth, a fact which our merchants should not fail to bear in mind.

PENNSYLVANIA
RAILROAD.
GREAT THROUGH LINE
AND
UNITED STATES MAIL ROUTE
The attention of the travelling public is respectfully invited to some of the merits of this great highway, in the confident assertion and belief that no other line can offer equal inducements as a route of through travel. In
Construction AND Equipment
THE
PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD
stands confessedly at the head of American railways. The track is double the entire length of the line, of steel rails laid on heavy oak ties, which are embedded in a foundation of rock ballast eighteen inches in depth. All bridges are of iron or stone, and built upon the most approved plans. Its passenger cars, while eminently safe and substantial, are at the same time models of comfort and elegance.
The Safety Appliances
in use on this line well illustrates the far-seeing and liberal policy of its management, in accordance with which the utility only of an improvement and not its cost has been the question of consideration. Among many may be noticed:
THE BLOCK SYSTEM OF SAFETY SIGNALS,
JANNEY COUPLER, BUFFER AND PLATFORM,
THE WHARTON PATENT SWITCH,
AND THE
WESTINGHOUSE AIR-BRAKE,
forming in conjunction with a perfect double track and road-bed, a combination of safeguards against casualties which have rendered them practically impossible.
Pullman Palace Cars
Are run on all Express Trains
From New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington,
To Chicago, Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, and St. Louis,
WITHOUT CHANGE,
and to all principal points in the far West and South with but one change of cars. Connections are made in Union Depots, and are assured to all important points.
The Scenery
OF THE
PENNSYLVANIA ROUTE
is admitted to be unsurpassed in the world for grandeur, beauty and variety. Superior refreshment facilities are provided. Employees are courteous and attentive, and it is an inevitable result that a trip by the Pennsylvania Railroad must form

25 ELEGANT CARDS. No two alike. With name 10c. Post paid. Husted & Co., Nassau, N.Y.

By its great and thorough blood-purifying properties, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures all Humors from the worst Scrofula, or King's Evil, to a common Blotch, Pimple, or Eruption. Mercurial disease, Mineral Poisons, and their effects, are eradicated, and vigorous health and a sound constitution established. Erysipelas, Salt-Rheum, Fever-Sores, or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood, are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine.
Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Ring Blush, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, White Swellings, Coltre or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands.
If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated, have sallow color of skin, or yellowish blotches or spots on face or body, frequent headache or dizziness, bad taste in mouth, internal heat or chills alternated with hot flashes, low spirits, and loss of vitality, dyspepsia, irregular appetite, and tongue coated, you are suffering from Torpid Liver, or "Biliousness." In many cases of "Liver Complaint" only part of these symptoms are experienced. As a remedy for all such cases, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has no equal, as it effects perfect and permanent cures.
In the cure of Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, and the early stages of Consumption, it has established a medical faculty, and eminent physicians pronounce it the greatest medical discovery of the age. While it relieves severest Coughs, it strengthens the system and purifies the blood. Sold by druggists.
R. V. PIERCE, M. D., Proprr. World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets
SIZE OF PELLETS.
THE "LITTLE GIANT" CATHARTIC.
No use of taking the large, repulsive, nauseous pills, composed of cheap, crude, and bulky ingredients. These Pellets are scarcely larger than mustard seeds, being entirely vegetable, no particular care is required while using them. They operate without disturbance to the constitution, diet, or occupation. For Jaundice, Headache, Constipation, Impure Blood, Pain in the Shoulders, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations from the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious attacks, Pain in region of Kidneys, Internal Fever, Disagreeable feeling about the Heart, Dark or Flushed Color of the Face, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. In explanation of the remedial power of these Purgative Pellets over so great a variety of diseases, it may be said that their action upon the animal economy is universal, not confined to any one organ or tissue. Medicines not impair the properties of these Pellets. They are sugar-coated and hermetically sealed in glass bottles, their virtues being thereby preserved unimpaired for any length of time, in any climate, so that they are always fresh and reliable. This is not the case with pills put up in cheap wooden or pasteboard boxes. For all diseases where a Laxative, Alterative, or Purgative, is indicated, these little Pellets are unrivaled for prompt satisfaction. Sold by druggists.

Political.

At the city election in New Haven, Conn., on the 3d inst., the republican candidates were elected by large majorities over the combined democrats and greenbackers. New Haven has ordinarily gone democratic by 1500 majority.

A combination of democratic Congressmen has been formed in Washington to abolish the government printing office. The object is to give the work now done by that office to the Washington Post, the democratic organ at the capital, so that that paper can make a living.

The account of the ruffianism in Breathitt county, Ky., as at first reported was very imperfect. The fight it seems was between two factions of Kentucky democrats, and commenced as follows: At the last election, there was an angry contest between two candidates for county judge, Burnett and Strong. Burnett was elected, and afterward committed Jason Little, a member of the Strong party, for wife-murder. When Little was to be tried before the circuit court, the Strongs mustered in force; the Burnett party attacked them, and two men were killed. Later, the Strong party attempted to take Little out of jail, but were driven off. Judge Burnett was killed in the melee. The circuit judge then left town, without the formality of an adjournment. It is refreshing to read of one southern riot in which a dozen or so of the wretched colored republicans of that section have not been murdered in the interests of conciliation and reform.

—"Dinner aprons," quite large and prettily trimmed, to wear over handsome dresses at the dinner table, are among sensible novelties.

—An Irish agent having been instructed to raise rents called a meeting of the tenants and apprised them of the intention. "You can afford it," he said; "see how prices have risen." A silence was broken by an old farmer, who said, "Yes, there's no denying on that. It used to cost only a pound to get an agent shot, and now, be jabers, it can't be done under two." The rents have not yet been raised.

A Problem Long Since Solved.

How to remedy those prolific causes of disease, an impoverished circulation and an impaired digestion, was a problem the solution of which had often baffled medical skill, but which was solved over a quarter of a century ago by the introduction of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters to public and professional notice. Since that time, which may well be said to have initiated a new epoch in the history of medicine, the remedy and preventive referred to has obtained a foothold in the confidence of the American people that each succeeding year has only served to strengthen. It is recognized throughout the Union as a tonic of the first order, a remedy for and sure means of preventing fever and ague, and disorders of the liver, and of counteracting a tendency to rheumatism, gout, urinary and uterine disorders.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure for consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive, and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send, free of charge, to all who desire it, this receipe, with full directions for preparing and using, in German, French, or English. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. W. Sherar, 149 Powers' Block, Rochester, New York. 1jan1

The old established house of Messrs. Horace Waters & Sons, New York, is meeting the public more than "half way" in their Holiday offer for pianos and organs. It seems incredible that such instruments can be sold at the prices named in their advertisement which appears in another column.

Let that cough continue and die of consumption, or pay 35 cents and be cured by Adamson's Botanic Balsam. Free sample bottle at the druggists. Large bottles 75 cts.

Portsmouth Chronicle

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1878.

A Mixture of Cases.

The divorce suits of Hill vs. Hill are likely to give Bridgeport, Conn., lawyers plenty of work. In the first place, Charles E. Hill of Hong Kong was sued by his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Adams Hill, for divorce. He offered $75,000 as a settlement and to have the proceedings quiet. She demanded $100,000. Capt. McGilvery, Mr. Hill's friend, was then instructed to offer Mrs. Hill only $25,000, on the ground that she had given publicity to the proceedings. To make this offer he visited Bridgeport, and while making it the two persons quarrelled and Mrs. Hill beat the captain over the head with a water pitcher. The result of all this is these cases to date: Mrs. Elizabeth Adams Hill vs. Charles E. Hill, petition for divorce; Charles E. Hill vs. Mrs. Elizabeth Adams Hill, petition for divorce; Henry McGilvery, vs. Mrs. Elizabeth Adams Hill, assault, with $10,000 damages; Mrs. Elizabeth Adams Hill vs. Henry McGilvery, slander, with $15,000 damages. The trials of the divorce cases will necessitate a great deal of testimony. For Mr. Hill alone, probably twenty-five persons will testify in person and forty by deposition. Mrs. Hill charges Mr. Hill with adultery with two different persons, and Mr. Hill charges Mrs. Hill with the same offence, committed all over the world, from Maine to California, from Japan to New York, and from Shanghae to lake Como.

News and Notes.

The railroad officials of the Maine Central railroad are troubled a good deal with tramps, who resort to every kind of means to steal rides. One night recently seven stout and able-bodied specimens of this genus established themselves in the water-closets of the train before it left Bangor, and when found and ordered out by the conductor refused to go, and it was only after a lively fight that they were removed. Let Maine pass such a tramp law as New Hampshire rejoices in, and then enforce it; then there won't be any trouble from tramping bummers and thieves.

Charles E. Buell of New Haven, a telegrapher, is said to have devised an electric light which admits of use in either a single or divided current, requires no adjustment, avoids the employment of platinum or carbon electrodes, and may be said to be without expense for material consumed, and the light can be of any color known in pyrotechnics.

Boothe Northrup of Birmingham, Conn., was probably fatally shot, while coon-hunting the other night, by the accidental explosion of Samuel Hawkins' gun. The latter was walking in front of Northrup with his piece over his shoulder, when a twig snapped the trigger and the victim received the charge in the side of his head, carrying away his ear and part of the skull.

Buxton, Me., has a wonderful "ghost" haunting the house of Nathaniel Came. Hundreds of people have seen the mysterious visitation, which consists principally of a light which appears and disappears in the most eccentric manner, but no one has yet been able to explain it.

The number of vessels belonging to or bound to or from ports in the United States, reported totally lost and missing during the past month is 62, of which 26 were wrecked, 12 abandoned, 4 sunk by collision, 1 capsized, 7 foundered, and 12 are missing. The list comprises 3 steamers, 2 ships, 9 barks, 9 brigs and 39 schooners, and their total value, exclusive of cargoes, is estimated at $1,378,000.

In Rochester, N. Y., the other day, a boy of eighteen and a girl of eleven—small and puny-looking, were united in marriage by one of the city clergymen named Bristol. The mother of the girl seems to have been the chief mover in the misdemeanor.

Miss Mary W. Underhill, of Oyster Bay, L. I., who recently inherited a fortune of $300,000, was engaged to be married on the 12th inst. Last Wednesday she addressed two hundred invitations to her wedding. The next day she was taken ill and died.

Charles W. Bullard, alias "Piano Charley," the famous bank burglar who escaped from the Massachusetts State prison on the night of Sept. 13th, has been found in Toronto, Canada, and will be extradited.

A prohibitory law has been in existence one month in New Haven. On Tuesday the electors of that city voted—6088 to 2800—to license all properly recommended liquor dealers during the coming year.

Capt. Edward Pollard, of the wrecked British steamship John Bramhall, has been tried by a naval court in New York, under the presidency of the British consul, and his certificate has been suspended for six months. The court held that the captain exhibited a want of seamanship.

A Bristol (Eng.) ship owner says the English have not only beaten foreigners out of the carrying trade of the world, but cut their own throats by the overproduction of shipping. In no part of the world is any shipping concern, unless it has a specialty, making a profit. Idle ships are found everywhere.

A writer in the Maine Farmer says the State fair was "an encampment of cutthroats."

The British troops under Gen. Roberts have won a brilliant victory over the Afghans, capturing Piewar and Kotal (wherever they may be) and all the Afghan cannon. The British loss was eighty in killed and wounded.

Wm. H. Devlin, the Lowell, Mass., wife murderer, was on Thursday found guilty of murder in the first degree.

On Tuesday Mr. Case, a hotel keeper at Saratoga, N. Y., was horrified to find the head of a woman on the piazza of his hotel. A dog was eating the flesh from it. Following the trail of the dog to a spot in a grove about 200 feet from the hotel, the arms, legs and other portions of the woman's body were found all decayed. A small pistol was found near by. The head had a bullet hole in it. The remains were those of a seventeen-years-old-girl, Alice Relye, whose parents live in Saratoga. Several weeks ago she was employed as a servant in Case's hotel, but disappeared suddenly, and there was no trace of her until the horribly mutilated remains were found. The girl was betrayed some months ago, and no doubt she committed suicide.

New Hampshire Items.

Lillie Holden, sixteen years old, died in Raymond on Sunday, the 1st inst., from criminal malpractice by a woman from Haverhill, Mass.

George Stewart's saw mill at the Twin Mountain house, Carroll, was burned Wednesday night. The fire probably caught from the engine. Loss, $5000; insured $2000.

The Littleton woolen mill, owned by Jordan, Marsh & Co. of Boston, and which has been lying idle for several years, was sold on Friday to Ira Parker & Co., glove manufacturers of Littleton, for $7000 cash. The purchase includes mill, machinery, water privilege, boarding house, two acres of land at mill, and sixty-five acres of woodland about two miles from the village. Jordan, Marsh & Co. bought this property in 1862 for $92,000, and used it for the manufacture of woolen blankets until about 1870.

Boston Monday Lectures.

Boston Monday Lectures; by JOSEPH COOK: Conscience, with preludes on current events. Boston; Houghton, Osgood and Company; pp. 270.

Joseph Cook, Rev. Dr. A. P. Peabody tells us, is a phenomenon to be accounted for. It is to see and hear this phenomenon, we infer, that the great crowd we see pouring into Tremont Temple at high twelve whenever we go that way on Mondays, surges. Mr. Cook's audiences have included in large numbers representatives of the broadest scholarship, the profoundest philosophy, the acutest scientific research, and generally of that high standard of Boston and New England intellectual culture that can attend at this hour these weekly instruction lectures. But in the form of the publication of the series of lectures in Biology, Transcendentalism, and Orthodoxy, of which many editions have been published, and of Conscience, just issued, and Heredity and Marriage, now in type, an unlimited audience throughout the world can have the benefits of these efforts, which, according to Ex-President Hill, "are crowded so full of knowledge, of thought, of argument, illumined with such passages of eloquence and power, spiced so frequently with deep-cutting though good natured irony, that he could make no abstract without utterly mutilating them." The volume before us contains ten lectures, with as many preludes on current events.

The Boston Monday lectures began in 1875. These are reported by a stenographer for one of the Boston daily papers, and republished in full in London and New York. Probably if there is any subject the Boston people could bear being lectured upon it is conscience, and this remark, "though calculated for the meridian of Boston will answer for some of the adjoining States."

ECLECTIC MAGAZINE

OF

Foreign Literature, Science, and Art.

THIRTY-FIFTH YEAR.

The ECLECTIC MAGAZINE reproduces from foreign periodicals all those articles which are valuable to American readers. Its field of selection embraces all the leading Foreign Reviews, Magazines, and Journals; and while the tastes of all classes of readers are consulted to a degree, nothing of a trivial or merely transient interest is admitted to its pages. Its plan includes ESSAYS, REVIEWS, BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES, HISTORICAL PAPERS, TRAVELS, POETRY, NOVELS, and SHORT STORIES; and in the case of SCIENCE (to which much space and attention are given) no special prominence is allowed to any particular phase of opinion, but place is given impartially to the most valuable articles on both sides of the great themes of scientific discussion.

The following lists comprise the principal periodicals from which selections are made and the names of some of the leading writers who contribute to them:

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

CONSUMERS should bear in mind that the incomparable "Royal" is now the only Baking Powder in the market made from pure Grape Cream Tartar, imported exclusively for this powder direct from the wine-growing district of France. An old experienced housekeeper writes that, although she has to pay a few pennies more for the "Royal," finds that it goes so much further and works so much better, that it is economy to use it. Another says she uses the powder in puddings, cakes, and all sorts of pastry, without eggs. An old lady writes that it makes the only biscuit her dyspeptic husband can eat. This is because the best and most wholesome materials are used. Approved by the New York Board of Health, and by such eminent chemists as Dr. MOTT, New York; Dr. HAYES, Boston; Prof. GENTH, Philadelphia, etc. Sold in tin cans only. dtsept10 79

THE CITY.

Lecture at Miss Morgan's this evening by George W. Haven, Esq.

The Philharmonic society meets at Grange hall each Tuesday evening. Singers are invited to attend and take part in the exercises.

Osgood Lodge, No. 48, I. O. O. F., at their regular meeting, Thursday evening, unanimously voted to occupy the new hall in Jones' block, when completed.

The Blanche Meda Combination, which recently played "Won at last" in Music hall, giving an unusually good entertainment to a very small audience, has since broken up. The company dissolved at Portland.

We have received from the music publisher, Arthur P. Schmidt, No. 40 Winter street, Boston, Litholff's Musical World, containing four new compositions for the piano forte, entitled, "O, Believe that I love Thee," "La Retour a la ferme," "Tarantelle," and "First Meeting;" also from the same publishing house, four easy pieces for the piano, by George Philipp.

Henry Lewis, the escaped convict, was returned to the Massachusetts State prison at Concord by City Marshal Entwistle on Thursday morning, arriving there at half-past eight o'clock. Lewis, after being recognized, was set at work in his former place, on machinery; and when the Marshal left the prison he had adorned himself in the prison garb, and was at work as if nothing had happened.

A concert complimentary to Miss Edith Wendell will be given in Music hall at a date not far distant, when prominent talent from other places will appear. Miss Wendell has not only won an enviable reputation as a vocalist, remarkable for one so young, but has been cheerfully ready to assist any of our local charities by appearing at entertainments in their aid; and for these reasons combined she should certainly receive a bumper house by way of testimonial, as no doubt she will.

The United States ship Guard, recently engaged on special service at Brazil, and last from Norfolk, Va., arrived off this harbor Thursday morning and came to anchor, and in the afternoon was towed in to an anchorage in the lower harbor by the tug Mystic and the ferry steamer Emerald. The Guard is a fourth rate sailing vessel of 925 tons, and carries a battery consisting of two howitzers; as may be supposed, she is not intended for a fighting ship, her use being mainly to carry supplies for other vessels.

Thomas Bailey Aldrich has changed his muse. This may be a little stale as a joke, when we indicate that we mean that "the story of a cat," translated from the French of Emile De la Bidollierre by Mr. Aldrich, and adorned with very frequent designs in silhouette by Mr. Hopkins, comes to us just before the holidays in an inviting shape from Houghton, Osgood & Company. It is the story of Mother Michel and her Cat, originally written by Mons. Bedollierre for the entertainment of two little readers at his house, and subsequently produced as a juvenile publication. Mr. Aldrich very gracefully indicates the important work of Mr. Hopkins, who enriches the text by his lively silhouettes, while we of Portsmouth all know how well qualified Tom is to delineate all the piquant acts of his namesake, and render in jocund English the witty French author's extravagant story. The book can be found at Goodrich's, where it is sold at one dollar, and the familiar name of Aldrich on the title page is an abundant assurance of the good things that follow.

THE VICINITY.

John Huckins, of Newmarket, serving out in Exeter jail a sentence for stealing, absconded from that institution about a week ago.

Mrs. Lucy M. Hooper, wife of Rev. Josiah Hooper, died suddenly at Exeter on the evening of the 4th inst. She was greatly beloved, and a noble woman. Her age was seventy-two years.

Dr. Elbridge G. Stevens, one of the best known physicians in Maine, and who has practiced many years in Biddeford, has sold all his property in that city and removed to Newton Centre, Mass.

Leander White, of Newcastle, late first assistant keeper of Boon island light, has been transferred to Whales'-back and promoted to be keeper of that light, vice Chandler Martin, resigned. David R. Grogan, of Newcastle, second assistant keeper at Boon island, is promoted to first assistant, vice White, transferred and promoted. George O. Leavitt, of Hampton, is appointed second assistant keeper at Boon island, vice Grogan, promoted to first assistant.

The Dover Democrat is "now assured that Mr. Norris made no greenback speeches, but 'democratic speeches,'" during the recent campaign in which he was the democratic candidate for Congress from this district. We heard one of Mr. Norris' "democratic speeches" in Franklin hall, but did not hear a word or sentiment uttered by him that any greenbacker could object to; in fact, if the speech had not been duly labelled "democratic" we should have thought it one of the genuine flat articles.

A tramp giving the name of William Allen Fenton, a sailor, late of Halifax, N. S., was brought before Police Judge Bell of Exeter on Wednesday, 4th inst., under the tramp law of this State. He stated that landing a few weeks ago at Boston, from Fayal, he travelled eastward as far as Biddeford, and was returning to Boston when arrested. On examination he was committed to jail for trial at the next term of the supreme court. It was evident that whiskey had been the man's worst enemy. This is the first arrest in Exeter under the tramp law.

POLICE COURT.

THURSDAY, Dec. 5; Batchelder, J.

There was but one case before the court this morning, an ex-member of the marine corps, who paid $9.90 for having been found drunk.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

To the officers and members of the New Hampshire society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Ladies and Gentlemen: In submitting this my first annual report to the society, allow me to thank the directors for their assistance in performing the work incumbent upon me as secretary. The duties were new and untried at the beginning of the year, but through the kindness of the president and directors all have, I hope, been performed in a satisfactory manner.

It is twelve years since New York, at the instance of Henry Bergh, a name now known and honored throughout the land, passed a law to prevent cruelty to animals, and to-day nearly all the States and territories have a similar law upon their statute books. These laws were opposed to the ancient theory that every man could do what he pleased with his own property, and if that theory had not received a rude shock shortly before by the freeing of four millions of slaves many more difficulties would have existed in securing humane legislation. It is true that under the common law, brought with the New England colonists from England, cruelty could be punished in some cases. If the act was open and public it was held that the perpetrator might be punished; and we have had a statute of this State for many years which was intended to prevent cruelty to animals, and a few persons had been punished under that act, but in 1870 a much more effective and comprehensive law was passed, similar in its provisions to the laws in other States, and so well adapted to its purpose that little amendment has been required during the eight years of its existence.

The law in relation to the fighting of birds, dogs and other animals passed in 1877 has proved to be of great value. In cases where a conviction would be very doubtful under the general cruelty law the charges can often be sustained under this statute. The most severe fines for cruelty in this State during the past year were imposed under this act.

The humane sentiment of the community has also advanced rapidly within the past ten years. At first it was very difficult to convict even in the plainest cases of cruelty, and judges were disposed to be very lenient with the offender if one was convicted; but now it is not much more difficult to obtain conviction than in any other criminal cases, and sentences commensurate with the offences are readily imposed by our courts.

A stringent law is necessary to the success of our work, and must be frequently invoked, but I do not consider that invocation the most important part of our work. Our object is stated by our constitution to be "the prevention of all cruelty, whether to man, bird, fish or beast, by inculcating humane principles," and when necessary by "the enforcement of the New Hampshire statute, protecting dumb animals." Prosecutions can be instituted only when the offences come under the observation of other persons; but we desire to educate all so that their animals shall be treated with kindness at all times. If we can inspire a love of humanity in all, this can be done. Fear of prosecution at best can restrain only a portion of the cruelty in our midst. We have a great work before us. Our State has more than half a million horses, cattle, sheep and swine within its borders. All these are under our protection, together with almost innumerable smaller animals. We desire the co-operation of the railroads in our State to stop cruelties in transportation of cattle and swine. We desire the co-operation of stable keepers to prevent over-driving of horses by their customers. We desire the co-operation of drovers to prevent cruelties to cattle driven or transported through our State. We desire the co-operation of farmers to prevent cruelty to horses and cattle kept or used on the farm. We desire the co-operation of drivers and teamsters to stop overloading, beating, underfeeding and the working of worn out or galled horses. We desire the co-operation of cities and towns to furnish drinking fountains and watering troughs. We desire, in short, the co-operation of all persons to sustain us in preventing cruelty by their sympathy and kind words. This co-operation can be obtained by instruction and kindness and by appealing to man's better nature, more readily than by prosecuting every person who has become liable to law whether knowingly or ignorantly. Therefore, while using the law as a valuable auxiliary, let us endeavor to instruct all in the principles of kindness, especially the young, and a more humane spirit will arise in our midst, which will make the future work of the society much easier than the past. A large amount of educational work has been done this year. Many humane books and papers have been distributed in the schools throughout our State, through our committee on the distribution of literature. Many copies of the laws relating to cruelty have been sent to different cities and towns, and although our resources do not allow us to do all that we would wish in this way, yet a considerable amount of good work has been accomplished. The number of cases of alleged cruelty investigated during the year has been larger than last year. This is not due to increase of cruelty in our midst, but to the fact that our society has been able to cover a more extended field than before. Cases of severe cruelty are very rare where our society has been longest known. Some of the cases investigated have been found groundless, frequently arising from neighborly quarrels, and the larger portion of cases have been corrected without having recourse to law, but where the latter seemed the only way to teach humanity, prosecution has been commenced whenever the facts warranted it. And I am glad to say we have been successful in every case except one* this year.

*Two men at Franklin were convicted of dog fighting, and each fined $50 and costs. A young man at Hampton Falls was found guilty and fined $5 and costs for cruelly beating his horse. A man at Kensington was indicted for beating his horse, at the last term of our supreme court, and on his promise of good behavior in the future and on payment of $15 costs he was allowed to go, the indictment being placed on file as a pledge for his good behavior. A brickmaker at Dover was arrested, bound over and indicted for working half-starved horses. He has since unfortunately been burnt out four times, and having acknowledged that the law is stronger than he, and promised to do better if not further prosecuted, the indictment was placed on file. The only man who has escaped is Joseph Usher of Peterboro', who was arrested and bound over for cruelly beating and mutilating his horse. He was not indicted by the grand jury, for some reason or other. If the witnesses told the same story to the grand jury that they did to me, I cannot see how they could fail to indict. It was a most aggravated case of cruelty, and ought to be punished.

CITY COUNCILS.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, Thursday evening:

N. F. Mathes asked to have sidewalk corner of Bow and Ceres streets repaired; granted.

Adjourned.

Naval Matters.

The Ticonderoga had fifty feet of her false keel and a good deal of her copper knocked off when she struck the rocks at Gloucester. When the ship left Portsmouth her engines worked well, but after she got ashore the line of shafting seemed to be disarranged and ground like a coffee mill. After leaving Wood's Hole she encountered a severe blow during the night, shipped a heavy sea, carrying away the starboard fore bumpkin together with a portion of the head rail, smashing the Ammen bolsa stowed on the topgallant forecastle, unshipping the starboard light and putting out the port one, besides washing the lookouts and officer of the forecastle down on to the main deck.

Rear Admiral John C. Howell, commanding the North Atlantic squadron, arrived at Norfolk on the 3d inst. and took up his quarters on board the Powhatan, being received with the customary salutes from that vessel and the Franklin.

Chief Engineer B. F. Garvin is ordered on special duty at the Boston navy yard as a member of the board which is to inspect the boilers now in the U. S. S. Iowa.

The U. S. S. Guard, from Norfolk for this naval station via Vineyard Haven, arrived in Portsmouth lower harbor on Thursday morning.

Congressman Jones of this district on Thursday introduced in the House a bill regulating the rank of chaplains in the navy. The bill was referred to the proper committee.

—The Andrews brothers of Beverly, who crossed the Atlantic in a dory last summer, are at London, and will remain there till spring, when they will return in the same boat, and build another to sail to San Francisco, and from there across the Pacific.

—A temperance man called at a drug store, and after vainly searching his pockets said: "I believe I've lost that prescription." "I understand, sir," said the clerk. "Stop back of the door to the right, you'll find your medicine on the shelf." "But," —began the customer. "No danger, sir. You'll recognize the smell. Just leave a quarter on the shelf."

—A good story is told of the pious horse of a Chicopee Falls deacon who lives two miles from church. The animal was hitched up a recent Thursday night to take his master to the prayer-meeting, and happening to be left alone he started off on his own hook. Where he had gone to in the darkness couldn't be told, as the person who had been sitting in the wagon without the reins thought it prudent to jump out. A while later, however, the beast was seen trotting decorously along toward the village, and, resisting all efforts to check him, he didn't stop till he brought up safely in his proper place under the church shed. The deacon is receiving congratulations on his influence over his dumb beasts.

—Eugene O. Smith of Bath, Me., has in his possession a very valuable relic of the revolutionary times in the shape of a fluted button, on the base of which is inscribed the monogram "G. W.," around which is the inscription in raised letters, "Long Live the President." The button, which is a little larger than the old fashioned cent, is of copper, formerly probably silver plated, and bears marks of its great age. Mr. Smith received the relic from Mr. Charles Russel of Bath, who found it some feet below the surface of a field in which he was digging some fifteen years ago. A similar button was recently on exhibition at the Old South church in Boston, and was supposed to be the only one of the kind extant.

stands confessedly at the head of American railways. The track is double the entire length of the line, of steel rails laid on heavy oak ties, which are embedded in a foundation of rock ballast eighteen inches in depth. The Safety Appliances
in use on this line well illustrates the far-seeing and liberal policy of its management, in accordance with which the utility only of an improvement and not its cost has been the question of consideration. Among many may be noticed
THE BLOCK SYSTEM OF SAFETY SIGNALS,
JANNEY COUPLER, BUFFER AND PLATFORM,
THE WHARTON PATENT SWITCH,
AND THE
WESTINGHOUSE AIR-BRAKE,
forming in conjunction with a perfect double track and road-bed a combination of safeguards against accidents which have rendered them practically impossible.

By its great and thorough blood-purifying properties, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures all Humors, from the worst Scrofula to a common Blotch, Pimple, or Eruption. Mercurial disease, Mineral Poisons, and their effects, are eradicated, and vigorous health and a sound constitution established. Scrofulous, Salt-Rheum, Fever Sores, Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood, are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine.
Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Rose Rash, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, White Swellings, Goitre or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands.
If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated, have sallow color of skin, or yellowish-brown spots on face or body, frequent headache or dizziness, bad taste in mouth, internal heat or chills alternated with hot flashes, low spirits, and gloomy forebodings, irregular appetite, and tongue coated, you are suffering from Torpid Liver, or "Biliousness." In many cases of "Liver Complaint" only part of these symptoms are experienced. As a remedy for all such cases, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has no equal, as it effects perfect and radical cures.

While it cures the severest Coughs, it strengthens the system and purifies the blood. Sold by druggists.

THE "LITTLE GIANT" CATHARTIC.
No use of taking the large, repulsive, nauseous pills, compounded of drastic drugs, and the best selling purgatives. These Pellets are scarcely larger than mustard seeds.
Being entirely vegetable, no particular care is required while using them. They operate without disturbance to the constitution, diet, or occupation. For Jaundice, Headache, Constipation, Impure Blood, Pain in the Shoulders, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations from the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious attacks, Pain in region of Kidneys, Internal Fever, Heated flushing about Stomach, Rush of Blood to Head, take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. In explanation of the remedial power of these Purgative Pellets over so great a variety of diseases, it may be said that their action upon the animal economy is universal, not a gland or tissue escaping their sanative impress. Age does not impair the properties of these Pellets. They are sugar-coated and inclosed in glass bottles, thely virtues being thereby preserved unimpaired for any length of time, in any climate, so that they are always fresh and reliable. This is not the case with pills put up in cheap wooden or pasteboard boxes, for all diseases where a Laxative, Alterative, or Purgative, is indicated, these little Pellets will give the perfect satisfaction. Sold by druggists.

CATARRH
SYMPTOMS.—Frequent headache, discharges falling into throat, sometimes profuse, watery, thick mucous, purulent, offensive, etc. In others, a dryness, dry, watery, weak, or inflamed eyes, stopping up, or obstruction, of the nasal passages, ringing in ears, deafness, hawking and coughing to clear the throat, ulcerations, scabs from ulcers, voice altered, nasal twang, offensive breath, impaired or total deprivation of sense of smell and taste, dizziness, mental depression, loss of appetite, indigestion, enlarged tonsils, tickling cough, etc. Only a few of these symptoms are likely to be present in any case at one time.
DR. SAGE'S CATARRH REMEDY
produces radical cures of the worst cases of Catarrh, no matter of how long standing. The liquid remedy may be snuffed, or better applied by the use of Dr. SPERCE'S Douche. This is the only form of instrument yet invented with which fluid medicine can be carried from the nose and PERFECTLY APPLIED to all parts of the affected nasal passages, and the chambers or cavities communicating therewith, in which sores and ulcers frequently exist, and from which the catarrhal discharges generally proceeds. Its use is pleasant and easily understood, from directions accompanying each instrument. Dr. SAGE'S Catarrh Remedy cures recent attacks of "Cold in the Head" by a few applications. It is mild and pleasant to use, containing no strong or caustic drugs or poisons. Catarrh Remedy and Douche sold by druggists.

New Publications.

Messrs. Lee & Shepard, the well-known publishers of Boston, do not forget the little folk in the holiday season, and with Charles T. Dillingham of New York, publish the Young Folks' Opera, or Child-Life in Song, by Mrs. Elizabeth F. Goodrich of Boston, a series of delightful melodies for children, set to music, each song having an appropriate illustration of the subject of the verse, making a peculiarly happy seasonable gift.

They also publish "Rock of Ages," a finely illustrated poem, written a hundred years ago by Augustus Montague Toplady, a minister of the Church of England, who subsequently became pastor of the French Calvinist Reformed Church in London. This song, dear to so many Christians, so beautifully presented in the volume before us, seems with the appropriate designs by Miss Humphrey, even more impressive than ever, and the beautiful volume needs but to be seen to be admired by every lover of this ancient hymn, so rich in consolatory associations.

—To a sporting correspondent we would explain that in cheirs a solo for a deep voice is a "base bawl;" the person who starts the tune is the "pitcher;" the leader in rounds and catches is the "catcher;" the soprano is often "put out" about something or other, yet she makes the most "runs," as can be seen by looking at the "score."—Vox Humana.

—A spelling match in Peltonville, Miss., ended in a row. One contestant said that p-i-o-u-g-h was alone correct, and another as exclusively maintained p-l-o-w. The schoolmaster ruled that both were right, but in the absence of a dictionary, the prevailing sentiment was that there could not possibly be two correct ways of spelling one word. A book was thrown at the schoolmaster's head, and a general fight ensued.

—A gentleman at Southampton, England, has been held for stealing a letter, writen by him to another gentleman. In it he accepted an offer made by the prosecutor; who wished to buy a house of him, but, after writing it, he changed his mind, went to the prosecutor's house, and, obtaining the letter ere the person to whom it was addressed had seen it, substituted another declining the offer.

—A few friends, all "busted," were recently, says the Virginia, Nev., Chronicle, discussing the state of their financial affairs, when one, who had lost but $2000 or $3000, said to a friend who went under to the tune of about $150,000: "Well, I lost all I had, and neither you nor any other man could 'bust' any flatter than that." "Beg your pardon," said the other; "but I had sufficient credit to borrow money, and I am $20,000 in debt—$20,000 worse off than nothing." "Ah, I see," said the first speaker, "I only 'busted' down to a dead level, but in your 'bust' you made a hole in the ground."

—An old lady, armed with a big shopping bag, while walking down Lisbon street, Lewiston, Me., the other day, stopped before papier mache man which stands in a doorway, clothed in full suit, cap, ulster and rubber boots. "Will you please tell me, sir," she addressed the quiet individual, "where I can find Mr. Whittum's store?" The figure remained dumb as an oyster to the lady's very pleasantly spoken interrogation. The old lady carefully readjusted her spectacles, gave a searching look and then laughed and laughed again, till the tears rolled down her cheeks.

Consumption Cured.

Croaking is not confined to the Frog Ponds. At this season almost everybody is hoarse. The bleating of distressed lungs is heard everywhere. Why is this, when Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar will cure any cough, cold or hoarseness in 48 hours? Sold by all Druggists. 4jan1

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 minute.

Let that cough continue and die of consumption, or pay 35 cents and be cured by Adamson's Botanic Balsam. Free sample bottle at the druggists. Large bottles 75 cts.

Uncle Tom's Cabin.

Messrs. Houghton, Osgood and Company have issued a new and unsurpassed edition of Uncle Tom's Cabin, by Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe. It has upwards of a hundred illustrations, and a bibliography of the various editions and languages in which the work has appeared, by Geo. Bullen, Esq., F. S. A., Keeper of department of printed books in the British Museum, together with an introductory account of the work, which possesses much interest. The volume is a beautiful 12-mo of 529 pages, and is published at $3.50.

The first publication of Uncle Tom's Cabin was March 20th, 1852. Ten thousand copies were sold in a few days, and over three hundred thousand within a year. Eight power presses running day and night were barely able to keep pace with the demand for it. Everybody read it, and soon all over the land went forth the echoes of sympathy for the downtrodden and oppressed slave of the south. Mrs. Stowe began to receive congratulating letters from many distinguished persons who had read her book, in this country and Europe. The happier result was found in the testimony of the colored persons and fugitive slaves, who discovered after the book was published that they could find friends everywhere, and that people began to grow kind to them.

Drawing her portraits of slave-holders in so gentle a shade, Mrs. Stowe was not expecting the thorough-going abolitionists would be satisfied with the picture, but they forsaw the results of the book, and hailed the begining of the conflict which should end slavery. Dickens, Macauley, Carlysle, Charles Kingsly, the Earl of Shaftsbury, Fredericka Bremer, George Sand and others wrote letters after reading the book, to the authoress, which are now published in the introduction.

The older class of our readers remember the advent of this book, and the events which succeeded its general perusal. To those who have since appeared upon the scene of action, the book must have its attractions, not as a means to a reformatory result, now successfully achieved, but considered in the point of an historical epoch of our country which in importance of events and its bearing upon our growth and progress was second to none in its whole career.

This work is world wide in its reputation. It has been translated into twenty different languages. There are more than thirty-five editions of republications of the original text in the British Museum, besides "Keys to Uncle Tom's Cabin," and sundry abridgements.

The present edition is finely printed, with gilt edges, and border in red, while its numerous illustrations bring back to readers of former days the story in all its piquancy and interest. A host of new readers will enjoy its pages to-day, as have thousands before them, in every quarter of the civilized globe.

Human Barbarity.

A horse receives a few lashes in the streets of Portsmouth, and the user of him is brought up before the courts and fined. But we have not to go far south, no farther than to the Middle States and to one of the old thirteen at that, to see beings in God's shape stripped in the cold autumnal blast, tied up and exposed for hours before a promiscuous rabble and publicly whipped in a most brutal manner.

All punishments are supposed to have their origin in a desire to prevent crime and not from the mere love of revenge. The fallacy of the advocates of corporal punishment in its advantage over all others is seen in this fact: that many of the culprits at Wilmington, Del., are invariably returned to the whipping post.

A poor delicate white boy, a waif upon society, "with no one to love and no one to caress," by the name of McIntire, is thus ignominiously treated at Wilmington for a petty crime, no worse than what has been committed by many a former Portsmouth boy, a respectable citizen of today. But is McIntire likely to become so respectable a citizen as many a former Portsmouth boy who has done the same thing years ago?

The blue ripples of the Piscataqua have rolled over the remains of at least one thus treated on board of a man-of-war, and the screeches of the victims have been heard from shore to shore. Thanks to Commodore Stockton, when a Senator from New Jersey, it cannot happen again; but is the discipline of the United States navy of to-day any worse than at that time when from the brutality thus engendered on board the "Somers" several promising young men were hanged at the yard arm?

While so much is said of reform; of reform in the civil service, of reform in the finances, of reform in civil life and of so many other reforms, will not something be said of reform in the penal service in which so many States have a tendency to return to barbarism.

What has become of the society with the long name? If horses, cows, hogs, sheep and birds, et ea omnia genera, are better off through the ministrations of the society, why can it not, like Howard, ameliorate the condition of mankind?

News and Notes.

The British Parliament met Thursday, and after the usual debate, voted to sustain the government in its Afghanistan war policy.

A large boiler in Hayden's rolling mill at Columbus, Ohio, exploded Thursday afternoon, instantly killing two men, and badly injuring five others, two of whom will die. Four or five other persons were more or less scalded, or had limbs broken. Low water in the boiler caused the explosion.

Nearly four thousand employes in the big pork packing establishments at Chicago are idle, not because there is not work enough to do but because about one hundred and fifty of them cannot have their wages raised from $2.75 to $3 per day.

Martha Edwards of Portland, ninety-three years of age, the daughter of Thos. Haskell, a revolutionary soldier, asks a pension on account of the military services of her first husband, Daniel Brown, in the war of 1812.

Capt. Julius Bazelle, an officer under Napoleon, died recently in the poorhouse of St. Lawrence county, New York, where he had been for twenty years. He came to the United States in 1828, and taught fencing.

During a dispute at Paterson, Texas, between John Geer and his uncle Ebb Geer, about some property, the former drew a revolver and shot the latter, killing him instantly. He then fired two shots at constable Cooper, who was present during the dispute, mortally wounding him. The murderer then went into the railroad depot, and placing the pistol at the agent's head, demanded ten dollars to aid him in his escape, and the agent gave him the money. Cooper and Geer were both good citizens, and the murderer a cattle thief, who killed a citizen in Houston two years ago.

Steamship Hermann Ludwig, from New York for Bremen, is seventy days out and not heard from; undoubtedly lost, with all hands. She was an iron vessel of 1500 tons, and had three passengers, two of whom are unknown. She had a full cargo of merchandise.

Dr. R. P. Jenness of Saccarappa, Me., was instantly killed at the depot in Saccarappa on Thursday. He accompanied his niece into a car, and leaped off after it had started. His feet slipping he fell under the train, and four wheels of the rear car passed over his head, crushing it badly. He was aged about fifty years, and was an active physician of the allopathic school. His wife had lately died, and the niece was returning from her funeral.

Three boys, aged respectively thirteen, fourteen and fifteen years, all of Mattawamkeag, Me., were recently brought before Trial Justice Caleb Estes of Winn for assaulting and cruelly abusing a little daughter of William Adams, eight years of age. At noon she started home from school when the boys seized her and carried her into the woods.

Michael Merrick, a miner and a school director, and Michael Goffagen, mine inspector, have been arrested at Springfield, Ill., on a requisition of the Governor of Pennsylvania for murder. The testimony shows that one Durkin was shot by Merrick, and that Goffagen finished the job by knocking out his brains with a heavy weight.

A lively skirmish took place Thursday night between the citizens of Neville, a hamlet on the Ohio side of the Mississippi river above New Richmond, and the occupants of a boat plying between Cincinnati and Ironton, owned by William Boyd and Mrs. Scott. Shots were exchanged between the citizens and the parties on the boat, and several persons were wounded. The trouble grew out of the alleged bad character of the occupants of the boat, which had become a nuisance to the neighborhood.

Asa Brown, aged eighty-two years, of Hanover, died suddenly Thursday. He was universally esteemed and had filled several town offices, and was filling one at the time of his death.

The City hotel at Nashua was burned Friday morning, the inmates escaping from the windows on ropes. Loss $7000.

John S. Kimball, Esq., of Hopkinton, the new Register of Deeds for Merrimack county, set out on Tuesday evening with Miss Clara French, daughter of Mr. E. E. French of Hopkinton, ostensibly to attend the celebration of the twentieth anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. French. On the way John and Clara stepped quietly into the house of Rev. C. A. Stone, were made one, and then called upon and surprised their friends at the china wedding. The party opened their eyes, clapped their hands and then did what is always proper in such cases.

A little four-year-old went into the post office at Gorham the other day with a letter, which his mother had sent him to mail, giving the little one the money to pay the postage. Arriving at the office and being told that it cost three cents to send it, he said: "I don't think mama can afford to pay that price," and so left in indignation.

—Even in Canada a greenback is now as good as coin, and a Yankee can go shopping in Montreal with only the drawback furnished by the consciousness that he is going to try and smuggle a few pairs of gloves across the border.

—The following is an advertisement signed by Minnie Farrel, in a Baltimore newspaper: "I am pleased to make public that I have obtained a divorce from Dan Nash, whom I foolishly honored by a quickly repented marriage. Should any one of his friends doubt the legality of said divorce, their investigation is earnestly desired to the extent of self-conviction."

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure.
CONSUMERS should bear in mind that the incomparable "Royal" is now the only Baking Powder in the market made from pure Grape Cream Tartar, imported exclusively for this powder direct from the wine-growing district of France. An old experienced housekeeper writes that, although she has to pay a few cents more for the "Royal," finds that it goes so much further and works so much better, that it is economy to use it. Another says she uses the powder in puddings, cakes, and all sorts of pastry, without eggs. An old lady writes that it makes the only biscuit her dyspeptic husband can eat. This is because the best and most wholesome materials are used. Approved by the New York Board of Health, and by such eminent chemists as Dr. MOTT, New York; Dr. HAYES, Boston; Prof. GENTH, Philadelphia, etc. Sold in tin cans only. dtsept19 79

Comdr. Green, made a visit to the officers of the navy yard, afterwards going to the Guard at anchor outside the harbor.

Rev. C. B. Pitblado will deliver his lecture on "Somebody" in Music hall on Sunday evening, 15th inst., for the benefit of the poor children; the especial form of the charity we believe will be the providing of a good Christmas dinner for as many of them as possible. The price of admission will be only ten cents, and a full house is reasonably anticipated.

Mr. Fred F. Randall has taken the room over the ninety-nine cent store, and opened it as a barber shop. He has fitted the room up neatly and conveniently, and procured a patent chair which it would seem is perfect for convenience of arrangement and ease for the occupant. Mr. Randall is a first-class barber, and will shave the public at ten cents apiece.

Messrs. J. F. Paul and Charles W. Slack, of Boston, President and Vice President of the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanics' Association, have accepted invitations to be present at the banquet and installation of officers of the "Associated Mechanics and Manufacturers of the State of New Hampshire," Tuesday evening, Dec. 10th. Representatives of the Portland Association are also expected, among other guests.

The fishing schooner Anabel, of this port, while laying jogging off Odiorne's point with her jib-sheets to windward and her lights burning brightly, was run into between midnight and daylight, Friday morning, by an unknown schooner, and had her mainsail split and main boom and gaff carried away, bulwarks and stanchions on one side swept off, dories stove, and other damage done, to the amount of $500. The Anabel is owned by Capt. Thomas Jamieson, and is in charge of Capt. James Carter. The vessel which ran into her came out of the lower harbor, was loaded with wood, and is said to be from Halifax and bound to Boston.

The United States ship Guard, Lieut. Comdr. Green commanding, did not get to an anchorage in the lower harbor on Thursday as reported; the tug Mystic and the ferry steamer Emerald took hold of her to tow her in, but the strong ebb tide and a stiff northwest breeze were too much for them, and the ship towed them astern at a good rate instead of their taking her ahead, until her anchors were again let down. This ship has had rather a remarkable experience recently; from the time she left Rio Janeiro until she arrived at Norfolk, Va., fifty-six days, her topsail yards were not once lowered; and on the passage from Norfolk to this port she had no occasion to furl her topgallant sails, an unusual occurrence on this coast in the winter or late autumn. The Guard will be towed in to-day by steamer Clara Batemen, if the weather is favorable.

Mrs. A. D. Whitney, though admitting that the literature of cookery is already enormous, and the name of receipt books is legion, sends forth by Houghton, Osgood & Company's aid, "Just How: a key to the cook-books." Mrs. Whitney, of course, claims some distinguishing merit in her book, else its publication would be a work of supererogation. This, she explains in her preface. The book contains receipts for every conceivable dish or delicacy in which feminine art delights to indulge. So that the young housekeeper with a dollar and a half with which to purchase the volume and a fair modicum of gumption in domesticity, can manage to turn the head of the most fastidious husband through that avenue to the heart, the stomach, by adopting the practical hints of the "old woman who looks over her shoulder." Mercer Goodrich has the book on sale.

THE VICINITY.

G. L. Folsom, of Dover, has been appointed to a postal clerkship on the line between North Conway and Boston.

Mrs. Olive Swett was thrown from a team at Biddeford Pool on the 30th ult., and injured so severely that she died on the morning of the 4th inst.

Mr. James Nutter, of Newington, at the late election voted the State ticket for the sixty-fifth time, having never missed voting at an election since casting his first ballot. He has always voted the democratic ticket.

The owners of the barque Devonshire, of Saco, carried off by a Chilian corvette while loading guano at Monte Leone, have asked Senator Blaine and Mr. Reed to procure the interposition of the government for the relief of Capt. Falker and his crew, who were left on shore, two or three hundred miles from civilization, when the barque was seized.

The Exeter News-Letter says that "Running the blockade," is what tramps call the passage across New Hampshire. One of the gentry asked an Exeter lady the other day if she would lend him twenty-five cents till he could repay her when he got work in Massachusetts. She refused, and he then borrowed a dinner, which he said he would surely repay. Stealing or borrowing does not bring them within the pale of the tramp law.

A young man who refused to give his name was brought to this city Friday evening by Deputy Sheriff Tilton of Epping, and lodged in jail to await trial at the April term of the supreme court on a charge of breaking into the cottage of Charles Williams of Manchester, on the Hedding camp-ground, and stealing silverware and other property. He was committed for trial by Justice H. B. Burnham of Epping. In his possession when he was arrested were found a spyglass, travelling-bag, fearfully-dilapidated umbrella, big woollen shirt, towel, large bunch of keys and three loose keys; several silver spoons and knives, and a razor, marked "Putnam;" and one spoon marked "S. F. T."

When the ten o'clock train into this city from Boston was on the down grade this side of Seabrook, Thursday morning, a gentleman occupying one of the seats discovered stowed away a colored man, who on finding out that he was seen made a rush for the hinder end of the car, (which was the rear one of the train,) and jumped off with his face toward the car, the train being then going at the rate of thirty miles an hour. The man when he landed struck on his head, turned five or six somersaults, going end-over-end like a stick when thrown perpendicularly, got up, thumbed his nose at those looking at him, and walked off toward Hampton; and when the eleven o'clock train for this city from Boston came to that depot the colored gentleman got on. Lucky for him he did not strike on his feet.

RYE LETTER.

RYE, Dec. 4th.

Rev. A. S. Palmer of New York began a series of gospel temperance meetings in this town at the Christian church on Tuesday evening. The church was well filled. The exercises commenced with singing by the audience, with organ accompaniment by Miss Ella Philbrick; this was followed by reading and speaking by Rev. Mr. Palmer, prayer by Mr. Ira S. Jones, and a ringing address by Mr. Palmer. The speaker of the evening alluded to the love which should prevail in the cause of temperance; he said that the churches he believed were not engaged in the work as they should be, and that legislators and officers of the law were indifferent in the matter, and neglected their duties. He spoke about half an hour, very forcibly; he dwelt particularly on the duty of parents to their children—on the importance of children being brought up aright, particularly as to temperance. He was followed by Mr. Nathaniel E. Berry, Rev. Mr. Jones and others; then there was a season of silent prayer, followed by the singing of "Nearer, my God, to Thee," by the audience. Mr. Palmer then invited those present to come forward and sign the pledge, and don the blue ribbon; and Mr. John L. Leavitt was the first to accept the invitation, he signing the "iron-clad" pledge. Mr. Palmer has two pledges—the "national" and "Murphy" ones. Quite a number signed, the audience singing "Whoever will, may come." Prayer was offered on behalf of a young man, by special request. During the meeting Mr. Joseph Philbrick (the oldest man in town, being ninety-one years of age) was taken suddenly ill, and was conveyed to his home; he has been very much interested in the temperance movement in this town. The exercises closed with the benediction by Rev. Mr. Jones. The meetings are to be continued during the week.

G. H. Jenness, Esq., Assistant Engrossing clerk of the national House of Representatives, left for Washington on Thursday noon, where he will remain until after the close of the present session of Congress. During the last two or three months Mr. Jenness has been a genuine horny-fisted son of toil, having been engaged in blasting out some heavy rocks in his fields, digging a barn cellar, and otherwise improving his farm and buildings. He will now take a rest of ten or fifteen hours a day at hard work in his office at the capitol. The duties of his position require very frequently the severest kind of mental work; there are few men who have the physique to stand one hundred hours of continuous labor with only a four-hours nap during that time, as Mr. Jenness was obliged to at the close of the last previous session of Congress.

The winter term of the South school began on Monday, Miss Sarah A. Goss, teacher; forty scholars were present.

Miss Abbey Nudd is teaching a private school at the residence of her parents on the South road, who have removed recently to this town from Dover, where we learn Miss Nudd has taught school and has been a very successful teacher; she has now fifteen pupils. SCRIBE.

There are lists of the judges of the Superiar Court of Judicature, and of the Court of Admiralty; the boundaries and towns of the five counties divided by act of Legislature July 19th, 1771, and approved by His Majesty in Council; lists of justices of the peace; of barristers-at-law; of practising attorneys; of custom house officers; officers of Castle William & Mary; of the Horse Guards, the Regiments of Foot, and the Independent Company of Cadets; and of the ministers, churches and religious assemblies in the various counties and towns; (in Portsmouth, Rev. A Woman's Logic.

"It is useless to take medicine. I shall feel better to-morrow. Besides, I need the money to get that lovely new hat. My old one is such a fright, and people will look more at my bonnet than they will at my face. I will wait till I feel worse before I spend my money for medicine." The new bonnet is purchased and fifty other feminine necessaries in the form of ribbons, laces, brooches, etc. Meanwhile the lady's face becomes every day paler and thinner, and her body weaker, until disease has gained so firm a foothold in her system, that the most thorough, and oftimes a long and tedious, course of treatment is necessary to restore her to health. Ladies, attend to your health before you ever think of apparel. A fresh, blooming face in a plain bonnet is much handsomer and far more attractive to your gentlemen friends, than a pain-worn, diseased face in the most elaborate and elegant hat your milliner could devise. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is everywhere acknowledged to be the standard remedy for female complaints and weaknesses. It is sold by all druggists.

—Not long ago, a junior was out riding with one of Amherst's beauties by his side, when, looking up possibly into his face, she said with tears in her eyes: "Oh! no one loves me, Mr. B—." "Some one does," he replied. "Yes?" said the lady, pressing his arm ever so lightly. "Yes, Miss Lizzie," continued the wretch, "God loves you."

—The Boston & Albany brakeman, who for the fun of the thing threw a lump of coal at an Italian image vender's collection as his train rushed through the Springfield depot the other day, and almost ruined the poor foreigner's stock in trade, won't do it again. The Italian was sharp enough to take the number of the car on which the brakeman was riding, and reported his grievance at headquarters. The matter was investigated, and the brakeman was abruptly discharged, which he thought was far enough from being funny.

It contains full accounts of all of importance that transpires in Portsmouth and its vicinity, and a condensed summary of NEWS, foreign and domestic; editorials upon current topics; New Hampshire items; carefully prepared marine news, containing reports of vessels owned at this port, or officered by men from Portsmouth or its neighborhood; and is just the paper for residents desiring to be posted on all that takes place at home, while to those living in the vicinity of Portsmouth, or to former residents who retain their interest in the "old home by the sea," it is the best means of keeping informed of what transpires in this city.

PENNSYLVANIA
RAILROAD.
GREAT THROUGH LINE
AND
UNITED STATES MAIL ROUTE
The attention of the travelling public is respectfully invited to some of the merits of this great highway, in the confident assertion and belief that no other line can offer equal inducements as a route of through travel. In
Construction and Equipment
OF THE
PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD
stands confessedly at the head of American railways. The track is double the entire length of the line, of steel rails laid on heavy oak ties, which are embedded in a foundation of rock ballast eighteen inches in depth. All bridges are of iron or stone, and built upon the most approved plans. Its passenger cars, while eminently safe and substantial, are at the same time models of comfort and elegance.
The Safety Appliances
in use on this line well illustrates the far-seeing and liberal policy of its management, in accordance with which the utility only of an improvement and not its cost has been the question of consideration. Among many be noticed
THE BLOCK SYSTEM OF SAFETY SIGNALS,
JANNEY COUPLER, BUFFER AND PLATFORM,
THE WHARTON PATENT SWITCH,
AND THE
WESTINGHOUSE AIR-BRAKE,
forming in conjunction with a perfect double track and roadbed, a combination of safeguards against accidents which have rendered them practically impossible.
Pullman Palace Cars
Are run on all Express Trains
From New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington,
To Chicago, Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, and St. Louis,
WITHOUT CHANGE,
and to all principal points in the far West and South with but one change of cars. Connections are made in Union Depots, and are assured to all important points.
The Scenery
OF THE
PENNSYLVANIA ROUTE
is admitted to be unsurpassed in the world for grandeur, beauty and variety. Superior refreshment facilities are provided. Employees are courteous and attentive, and it is an inevitable result that a trip by the Pennsylvania Railroad must form

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY
By its great and thorough blood-purifying properties, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures all Humors, from the worst Scrofula to a common Blotch, Pimple, or Eruption. Mercurial disease, Mineral Poisons, and their effects, are eradicated, and vigorous health and a sound constitution established. Pimples, Salt-rheum, Fever Sores, Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood, are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine.
Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Rose Rash, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, White Swellings, Goitre or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands.
If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated, have sallow color of skin, or yellowish-brown spots on face or body, frequent headache or dizziness, bad taste in mouth, internal heat or chills alternated with hot flashes, low spirits, and gloomy forebodings, irregular appetite, and tongue coated, you are suffering from Torpid Liver, or "Biliousness." In many cases of "Liver Complaint" only part of these symptoms are experienced. As a remedy for all such cases, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has no equal, as it effects perfect and radical cures.
In the cure of Incipient Consumption, Severe Coughs, and the early stages of Consumption, it has astonished the medical profession and has proved beyond a doubt that it is the greatest medical discovery of the age. While it cures the severest Coughs, Heterogenic Expectoration purifies the blood. Sold by druggists.
R. V. PIERCE, M. D., Proprietor, World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets
SIZE OF PELLETS.
THE "LITTLE GIANT" CATHARTIC.
No use of taking the large, repulsive, nauseous pills, composed of cheap, crude, and bulky ingredients. These Pellets are scarcely larger than mustard seeds.
Being entirely vegetable, no particular care is required while using them. They operate without disturbance to the constitution, diet, or occupation.
For Jaundice, Headache, Constipation, Impure Blood, Pain in the Shoulders, Fulness of the Head, Dizziness, Sour Eructations from the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious attacks, Pain in region of Kidneys, Internal Fever, Bloated feeling about Stomach, Rush of Blood to Head, take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. In explanation of the remedial power of these Purgative Pellets over so great a variety of diseases, it may be said that their action upon the animal economy is universal, not a gland or tissue escapes their searative empress. Age does not impair the properties of these Pellets. They are sugar-coated and inclosed in glass tubes, their virtues being thereby preserved unimpaired for any length of time, in any climate, so that they are always fresh and reliable. This is not the case with pills put up in cheap wooden or pasteboard boxes. For all diseases where a Laxative, Alterative, or Purgative, is indicated, these little Pellets give the most perfect satisfaction. Sold by druggists.

Daily Chronicle.

Chronicle Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 5th.

Congress went to work at the start just as though it had taken no vacation, and there was less parade and ceremony than ever characterized a similar meeting before. The little flurry in the House over the President's message was slightly premature, and many democrats did not agree with Mr. Wood in attacking the message before the message had been properly referred and reported for discussion. The affair gave us but a small foretaste of what may be expected in the way of political discussion during the session. It seems to be the fate or design of Fernando Wood to be the first on the democratic side to provoke debate, and it is but just to say that he is not as successful in parrying attacks in return as many other democrats might be under similar circumstances.

The first speech of any length in the Senate was that of Senator Matthews upon the first bill to come from the calender, the Texas & Pacific R. R. bill. He argued that the indemnity of the government was perfect, and that really the government was asked to sacrifice nothing in guaranteeing the interest on the construction bonds, since the land grant to the railroad is to be returned and the government is to have control of the work. But the chief point of this argument was that another and competing line is required by the trade across the continent, and it is but justice to the south and southern California to help this work along. Mr. Matthews' speech is spoken of as the ablest effort of his Senatorial career.

One of the first measures to follow this in the Senate will be the bill to authorize the payment of custom dues in legal tender notes. This will of course be supported by all the members of greenback tendencies, and as resumption is so nearly assured that there is little difference between gold and greenbacks, possibly it may meet with no opposition.

The republican Senators in caucus agreed to support Senator Blaine's resolution of inquiry into the southern troubles, with a slight amendment giving it a broader scope, and giving the duty to a special instead of the judiciary committee.

Senators Blaine, Dawes and Christiancy were appointed a committee to shape the republican policy for the action of Senators. The democratic Senators also caucussed on the subject, and the result will be that the investigation will be ordered without opposition, if all parties can have a chance to make charges and support them by evidence more or less confusing to the public. Many democrats admit to a certain extent the condition of affairs in South Carolina and Louisiana as charged by the President, and will earnestly push an inquiry into the truth, and favor remedial measures.

The Patrons of Husbandry who were in session recently in Richmond made a very pleasant and profitable visit to Washington at Commissioner Le Due's invitation. The visiting company was composed of the masters of sixteen State granges, and the national officers of the organization, with their wives and many others. They examined the work of the Agricultural Department, and obtained a great deal of information, the dissemination of which will be useful to their people at home.

The limited appropriations of Congress have cramped the efforts of the Department for the last year or two, but the grangers feel that it is doing great good notwithstanding.

Hon. Eugene Hale gave a dinner last evening at which were present Senators Blaine, Burnside, Anthony, and other notables. Mr. Hale does not seem to feel at all downcast by his defeat for Congress. He is evidently a man having bright hopes for the future, and accepts fate with a good grace. KNOX.

A Good Hit.

However far from right Robert Ingersoll may wander in theology, there is no disputing that he makes some pretty apt hits in dealing with the practical workings of society. Here, for instance, is one:

Here is a shoe shop. One man in the shop is always busy at work during the day—always industrious. In the evening he goes courting a good, nice girl. There are five other men in the shop who don't do any such thing. They spend half their working hours in loafing, and their evenings in dissipation. This first young man by and by puts out from these others and gets a boot and shoe store of his own. Then he marries this girl. Soon he is able to take his wife out to ride of an evening. The five laborers, his former companions, who see him indulging in this little luxury, retire to a neighboring saloon and pass a resolution that there is an eternal struggle between capital and labor.

Important to Savings Bank People.

Hon. Mason W. Tappan, Attorney General of New Hampshire, has rendered an opinion of importance to all persons interested in savings banks, whether as managers or depositors. Mr. Tappan was addressed by the Bank Commissioners in a letter informing him that they "find, on examination, that several of the savings-banks of this State are carrying on a department of business for which we think they were never chartered, properly called a special deposit business, for the accommodation of business men and firms who desire to have their business notes discounted and checks made and cashed for their convenience, and in several particulars doing the business of a discount bank, and using the funds of the general depositors for that purpose;" that they find that "this business is carried on in several of the savings banks in this State under the name and firm of private bankers, in these cases one member of such firm being the treasurer of the bank;" and that they "have heretofore requested such banks to desist from carrying on such business, believing as we do that there are risks connected with this business which ought not to pertain to the legitimate business of a savings bank." The Commissioners then ask:

1. Have the savings banks of this State, under the provisions of their charters and existing laws, any authority to perform such business?

2. Have the the Bank Commissioners any authority, under existing laws of this State, to order such banks to cease from doing such business?

In answer the Attorney General says he can find no authority for savings banks to carry on any such business as that referred to. "It could never have been intended that they should transact the usual business of discount banks, and be subject to the ups and downs to which such business would naturally subject them. Much less could it ever have been contemplated that the officers of such institutions, under the guise of 'private bankers,' would have the right to speculate upon the funds held by them as trustees, for their own private benefit. Savings bank corporations are empowered by their charters to receive deposits of money and may use, manage, and improve the same for the benefit of the depositors, 'in such a manner as shall be convenient or necessary for the security and profitable investment thereof.' By these provisions they may use, manage, and improve the deposits of money, not to do banking business upon, but in such a manner as to furnish a secure and profitable investment thereof for the benefit of the depositors. It can hardly be contended, I think, that this clause in the several charters gives the corporations the right to go into general banking business, using the funds deposited for safe-keeping as the capital and basis for such business. The legislature, under this clause, certainly never intended to clothe savings banks with any such powers; for there are no provisions in reference to taxation, making returns, etc., such as are applicable to other banks. Even if it could be shown that by transacting business as ordinary banks of discount, under the pretext that money deposited could be thus 'secured' and 'profitably invested,' so such power has been given by the legislature, either directly or by fair implication, so to transact it. If there is no authority to do this directly it cannot be done by indirection, through the officers of the bank setting themselves up as 'private bankers.' * * * No authority, so far as I can see, has been given to savings banks to do the business of banks of discount, either directly or indirectly. * * * If, after calling the attention of any bank to this practice, and requiring it to discontinue the same, it should still persist in it, I do not see why you have not also the power, under section nine of chapter 152 of the General Statutes, to represent the facts by petition to some 'justice of the supreme court,' * * and, under section ten the justice might issue an injunction prohibiting it. I think these sections will warrant a construction as broad as this. At all events, your duty will not, in my judgment, have been performed without a thorough examination into this mode of doing business by the savings banks, and a full report upon the subject."

The Union Five Cents savings bank of Exeter, and the New Hampshire savings bank of Concord, have for some time been resisting suits brought by the United States for the recovery of taxes imposed on account of their doing such business as Mr. Tappan holds to be illegal and improper.

News and Notes.

Mrs. Amelia Dodson, William Newcombe and Philip Vincent were arraigned in the court at Newcastle, Del., last week, the two men being charged with assaulting James Jones, colored, with intent to kill him, and the woman with aiding and abetting in the crime. This is the case in which the negro was found with two bullet holes in his head, and said the two white men and the woman took him into the woods and shot him, because he told that he buried the two illegitimate children of Mr. Dodson's daughters, the infants having been murdered. The case was continued at the request of the defence.

The Manhattan Life Insurance company of New York refuses to pay $10,000 insurance on the life of Israel Ferguson, who had paid premiums eleven years, on the ground of suicide, which was caused by derangement. The case is in court, and excites much interest.

Mrs. Curran, the mother of Katie Curran, one of the victims of the wretched cur Pomeroy, died in Boston on the 5th inst., aged forty years. She never recovered from the shock occasioned by the brutal murder of her child. The worthless whelp Pomeroy still cumbers the earth, thanks to the namby-pamby sentimentalism of Massachusetts.

Mr. B. F. Poole of Mt. Vernon, Me., who has been living in Idaho for many years, came home to give his friends a surprise. He stopped at the Augusta house Monday night. Not appearing next morning, an entrance being effected to the room, he was found unconscious. He had blown out the gas instead of turning it off. After vigorous efforts for two hours he was restored.

An indictment has been found against Mr. John O. Winship, a Portland lawyer, by the grand jury of the United States District Court, for assisting in fraudulent bankruptcy proceedings, and his trial commenced Friday morning.

The bank at Ashland now claims that the signatures on the notes placed by Call, which have been pronounced forgeries, are genuine.

Judicious Advertising.

The Springfield Republican publishes editorially the following sensible remarks on advertising:

Reforms of all kinds seem to be in fashion. The reaction from the craze of speculation and inflation and politics and low moral standing brings with it application of good sense and economy, of better morals and higher tone and soberer views of things, in nearly all departments of life. One of the out-croppings of this new fashion of common sense is in the business of advertising—a lopping off the more expensive and sensational and vulgar modes of putting the thing to sell before the attention of the person who buys. The reform was well voiced at a late meeting of the stove manufacturers of the country at Detroit, where the President denounced the ineffective and expensive advertising that had been much indulged in by the trade, the tawdry lithographs and other sensational machinery, and recommended instead the more exclusive use of the best newspapers. "If we would make the best possible use of our money," he continued, "we should patronize ably-conducted and responsible newspapers. The newpaper is immeasurably the best medium open to our trade; the most liberal and expert advertisers testify to its value, and in the employment of its columns we would find a means of escape from wasteful, undignified and ineffective methods, to which so many resort in their eagerness to secure attention and patronage." These are indeed suggestions of experience and common sense, and there are signs, as if by a common instinct, that they are being adopted by merchants, manufacturers and other classes of the community having occasion to engage in either purchasing or selling.

Old and well-established papers, with constituencies representing the best classes of society, are undoubtedly the most available, the cheapest and the most remunerative avenues for advertising. The constituency of a newspaper, the taste and variety of its readers, their respect for it and the fidelity with which they and their families read it, are fast to be considered quite as much as the amount of gross circulation. Then, again, as advertisers cannot use all the newspapers, there is the question of selection, and into this enters the extent and completeness with which any one or more newspapers occupy a certain field, and render unnecessary the use of its local rivals. On all these points there is a field of discriminating intelligence by advertisers who would get the worth of their money, and the conclusions of the stove men are evidently reflecting the thought and action of other classes of advertisers throughout the country.

—After a series of careful and impetuous experiments, extending over a period of more than fifty years, the middle-aged fat men of America reluctantly admit that the art of jamming a hole through the top of a hack with a plug hat perished with the building of the pyramids.

—An Indiana exchange says: "While coming up on the cars the other day a passenger accidentally trod upon Indiana's executive corns, which were swinging out in the aisle. He turned politely to the Governor and said, "I beg your pardon." To which the Governor responded in a tone of regret, "I don't think I have a blank with me."

—A farmer at Boise City, Idaho, catches 400 rabbits a day. Along his fences he places traps, boards hinged upon pivots above deep pits. The rabbits jump over the fences and strike on the boards, which tip up, spill the animals into the pits, and reset themselves. The farmer gets a cent bounty for each ear, and the rest of the rabbits he feeds to his hogs.

—A London physician says that smoking cigars causes various disorders of the circulation and indigestion, palpitation of the heart, bleedings of the nose and ulceration of the mucous membrane of the mouth. This is bad enough, but if the English doctor had examined a little more closely into the effect the habit of smoking has upon the constitution, he would have discovered that it also leads to bank defalcations, ossification of the heart, a disposition to run for Congress, hay fever, highway robbery, strabismus, bunions and croquet.—Norristown Herald.

THE NEW YORK TIMES
For 1879.
ESTABLISHED 1851.

The position of the foremost republican newspaper in the United States will be sustained by The New York Times by the same policy in virtue of which that position has been attained.

The Times will continue to place fidelity in the interests of the Republican Party above the pursuit of personal ends or private ambition, and will steadfastly insist that the usefulness of any party must be measured by the extent of its devotion to the honor and welfare of the country. In the future, as in the past, the attitude of The Times will be that of independence within the Republican Party. The maintenance of the national credit, the purification of the public service; the advocacy of all seasonable projects of fiscal reform; rigid economy in public expenditures; opposition to subsidies and corporate jobbery in all its forms, and the preservation of equal rights to all citizens, North and South, will be the salient points of the policy of The Times.

The Times will continue to be distinguished as an enterprising, accurate, and carefully edited newspaper. The acknowledged excellence and fullness of its correspondence by mail and telegraph, from all parts of the world, will be adequately maintained, and its facilities for collecting domestic and foreign news will be expanded to meet the increasing demands of our time.

In the sphere of literary and artistic criticism, of scientific, social, and general discussion, The Times will address itself, as heretofore, to the appreciation of the educated and intelligent classes of the American people. It will be lively without being sensational, aggressive without being coarse; at all times it will strive to be fearless and independent in the championship of the right. No theories subversive of the principles on which the sacredness of family ties, and the existence of society alike repose will be promulgated in its columns.

The Times rejects all advertisements of lotteries, of quacks and medical pretenders, and of all other agencies by which the insidious poison of vice is disseminated throughout society. It will be in the future, as in the past, a newspaper especially adapted for family reading.

The Weekly Times, containing selected editorials on topics of national and general interest from the columns of the daily issue, as well as a concise summary of political, social, and foreign news, besides other features which recommend it to all classes of readers, is a paper admirably fitted to circulate in every portion of the United States. It will be the aim of its conductors to use every means, not only to maintain its well-earned supremacy, but to make its popularity still more decided.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure.

CONSUMERS should bear in mind that the incomparable "Royal" is now the only Baking Powder in the market made from pure Grape Cream Tartar, imported exclusively for this powder direct from the wine-growing district of France. An old experienced housekeeper writes that, although she has to pay a few cents more for the "Royal," finds that it goes so much further and works so much better, that it is economy to use it. Another says she uses the powder in puddings, cakes, and all sorts of pastry, without eggs. An old lady writes that it makes the only biscuit her dyspeptic husband can eat. This is because the best and most wholesome materials are used. Approved by the New York Board of Health, and by such eminent chemists as Dr. MOTT, New York; Dr. HAYES, Boston; Prof. GENTH, Philadelphia, etc. Sold in tin cans only. disep10 79

MADE BY MACHINERY!

Having purchased the "HOLMES JUMBLE AND CAKE MACHINE," with the exclusive right of the New England States, I now propose to place in every first-class Grocery a variety of rich Cake Goods in addition to the 144 kinds of Crackers and Biscuit now manufactured by me, at a price that will enable them to be used freely, and which is far below what the same class of goods can be made for by hand as at present. At the same time they will be found much superior, being uniform, and much lighter and more delicate than can possibly be produced by hand.

The following are some of the varieties now produced by the machine:

Confectioner's Jumbles,	Sugar Plum Drops,
Cinnamon "	Variegated "
Marble Top "	Drop Pound Cake,
Spice "	Mace "
Fruit "	Vanilla Cakes,

Almond Maccarons,	Molasses Drop Cakes,
Cocoanut "	Cinnamon Wafers,
Almond Drops,	Lady Fingers,
Fruit "	Sponge Drop Cakes,
Cocoanut "	Half Fingers,
Chocolate "	Spice "

I propose to place in every Store a Sample Box, and a trial of them will prove all this advertisement calls for. If your Grocer has not already three dozen in store, ask him to order from the Sole Mart in the New England States.

THE CITY.

One of Hon. Frank Jones' valuable horses died in Washington on Friday, from the effects of a cold contracted during transportation from this city.

The United States ship Guard was towed into the lower harbor on Friday evening by the Plymouth, and on Saturday was towed up to the navy yard by the steamer Iris, belonging to the lighthouse department. Her light spars will be housed, running rigging unrove and sails unbent; but her hatches will be kept closed during the greater part of the winter, and nothing will be removed from her at present, she having had sickness on board when on the South American coast.

Saturday afternoon two boys went upon the ice on the north millpond, and broke through. Assistant Marshal Cole saw them when they broke in, and taking a rope which he always has in readiness for such occasions, went to their assistance; but the youngsters evidently knew what they were about, for instead of making a fuss they managed to get on the ice, and lying flat hauled themselves ashore with their elbows. Had they gone floundering about trying to stand on the ice, they might quite possibly have been drowned.

The social levee held on Friday evening by the members of Osgood Lodge of Odd Fellows and their ladies, was one of the pleasant occasions for which the lodge is noted. It is intended by them to have these social meetings once a month during the winter. Osgood Lodge is the youngest in the city, and is constantly increasing in membership. Although this is not leap year, the ladies who have attended the gatherings are bound not to be outdone, and they propose to take charge of the next one and give the boys a specimen of what they can do in that line.

On Saturday evening about six o'clock, as Alderman Payne and Mr. Charles Garrett were passing up Deer street they discovered a fire in one of the upper rooms of Faith Home. They rushed in, procured some water and went to the room, and put the fire out. The occupants were at supper at the time, and had the fire been discovered five minutes later it is probable that the building would have been burned. After putting the fire out they discovered a lamp lying on its side, but could not tell whether it was upset before or at the time the water was thrown; possibly it may have been set too near a curtain, as the curtain was burned, as well as a cloth on the bureau in the room.

Messrs. Henry A. Yeaton and Charles H. Hayes have bought and shipped about 8000 barrels of apples this season. The schooner Vraie sailed for Philadelphia about a week ago with 2630 barrels; the schooner Laura Robinson sailed for the same port on Friday with 1300 barrels; and on Saturday they were loading the schooner David V. Streaker with about 2000 barrels. The apples are all raised in this immediate vicinity, and the price paid is $1 a barrel, delivered on the wharf. Large quantities of apples have been sold at Seabrook and vicinity this season, for shipment to Boston, at from eighty to ninety cents a barrel, delivered at the cars. For several days past teams have been transporting apples from Exeter to this city at ten cents a barrel, the distance being about fifteen miles; at this rate a man with a team of two horses can make about $2.10 a day, by travelling thirty miles.

A new-fangled saw in the machine shop of the Eastern railroad, near the round-house on the bank of the north millpond, is an interesting machine to inspect, and apparently a dangerous one to work around. Its use is to cut off the ends of rails when cold; it is about two feet in diameter, and makes 4500 revolutions a minute—seventy-five a second; it is an eighth of an inch in thickness, made of soft iron, and has no teeth, cutting the rails off by friction only. It makes a loud screeching noise when at work, and everything near it shakes. On Monday of last week one of the saws broke after two rails had been cut off with it; it made a big crash, but no other harm was done. On Thursday the stout driving belt broke; and on Saturday morning a saw went to pieces, the fragments flying fifty feet or more, luckily without injuring the man tending the work. The broken pieces of the saw were rolled and twisted like paper, and bore evidence of having been intensely heated in breaking.

The steamtug Clara Batemen has had her boilers repaired and put in good order. As there is no other tug of large power on the river at this time, Capt. Rand has put his boat in thorough condition for winter service if needed. She was towed from the navy yard to her berth on this side of the river by the Mystic on Sunday.

THE VICINITY.

The team of Ben Simpson and family, formerly of Biddeford, known as the "Aroostook or bust" turnout, passed through Passadumkeag, thirty miles beyond Bangor and only fifty miles from the journey's end, on the 4th inst. The emigrants are no doubt safe in their new home long before this time.

Messrs. A. & S. E. Spring, of Portland, on Friday evening received a cable despatch from their branch house in Buenos Ayres saying that the barque Devonshire, of Saco, whose seizure by a Chilian corvette in the Straits of Magellan has occasioned so much comment, is on her way to Montevideo, the vessel and her cargo of guano having been delivered to the captain by the Chilian authorities.

Fire was set in an old desk in a building near the foundry in Saco, early Friday morning; the desk was burned up and a hole burned through the floor, but owing to the early discovery of the fire by a watchman of the Saco Water Power Machine Shop Co. no serious damage was done. At about the same time fire was discovered under the sill of J. D. Wadleigh's stable, in the opposite part of the city from the foundry, by a gentleman who was aroused by the alarm occasioned by the burning desk, and who found that a cloth saturated with kerosene had been tucked under the stable and touched off. The gentleman easily put the fire out, the timbers being damp and no light material being where it could catch, though a barrel of kerosene was stored in the stable directly over where the fire was set.

A GOOD THING IN PROSPECT.

Since it was announced that Col. Frank W. Hilton had made arrangements to afford our citizens an opportunity to enjoy an evening entertainment by the Boston Musium Dramatic Company, several persons have suggested a series of entertainments for the winter, that should be in keeping with the tastes of our people, and worthy of our most acceptable place of resort for these purposes.

Col. Hilton, at no little expenditure of labor, has found that such a series of entertainments, dramatic, operatic, and also combining a leading lecture, recitals in costume by acknowledged elocutionists, and a concert second to none ever given in Portsmouth, can be enjoyed if our people will show any appreciable desire for such pleasant and profitable recreation. He has been in correspondence with several leading artists and lecturers in the country, and it remains to be seen whether the people of Portsmouth have such a desire for healthful and refined entertainments like that referred to, as will show a proper appreciation of the efforts expended in this respect.

DANTE.

Mr. Gladstone in his volume on Homer says "the world has seen but three poets of the first rank, Homer, Shakespere and Dante Alghieri." No one who heard the delightful lecture delivered at Miss Morgan's school by Mr. G. W. Haven Friday evening on the last-named poet will question this statement. The lecturer gave a brief abstract of Italian history at the period of Dante's life, and a careful review of the events of that life; and closed by some selections from the Inferno, read in a most scholarly and delightful manner. The lecture was illustrated by reference to a beautifully-drawn diagram of the ten circles of the Inferno, the work of two young gentlemen of this city.

The next lecture in the course will be by the same gentleman, next Friday evening.

THE RECENT COLLISION OFF THIS HARBOR.

The vessel which ran into the fishing schooner Anabel, Carter master, off Odiorne's point Friday morning, as previously reported, proves to be the schooner Chieftain, of and from Halifax with a load of wood, and bound to Newburyport. She was found in Newburyport harbor on Saturday, and was libelled on behalf of the owners of the Anabel.

The crew of the Anabel inform us that after their schooner was struck by the Chieftain the two vessels hung alongside each other for some time, pounding badly, and the crew of the Chieftain made no efforts to aid in clearing them of each other, though requested to do so by the Anabel's men. They also say that had any one of the Chieftain's crew taken the trouble to cut the Anabel's topping lift much of the damage done would have been avoided. As soon as the vessels separated the Chieftain was requested to lie by until the extent of the Anabel's injuries was ascertained; and two of the latter's men jumped into a dory and pulled to the Chieftain with the same request, also asking the vessel's name, which was not given them. Instead of laying by the disabled schooner, the Chieftain squared away and made all sail to get clear.

Unless the Anabel's men in this story gravely wrong the captain of the Chieftain, his conduct is deserving of the severest censure. This running away of one vessel after collision with another, to avoid the possible payment of a bill of costs, and leaving men to drown, it may be, is perhaps not a crime under the law, but if so it should be made one, for the man who acts thus is morally guilty of murder. It is but a few nights since a deepladen schooner was struck off the Connecticut coast by a large vessel, and sent to the bottom in a few minutes, the big vessel keeping on her course and leaving the other's crew to drown or to save themselves unaided, just as it might happen; and though after being in their boat all night they did manage to land, the act of the big vessel's captain was none the less the act of a heartless scoundrel. A year or two ago an eastward bound schooner was struck by another just off Boon island, and in this case also the other vessel ran away, leaving the crew of the eastward-bounder to save themselves in their boat—if they had one, which fortunately they did, though the master of the other vessel could not possibly have known whether their boats were stove or not. In the Anabel's case all but one of the dories were smashed, and that one was somewhat injured. The least penalty for the running away of a still seaworthy vessel after a collision, without waiting to see how the other craft has fared, should be for the law to assume that the accident was solely the fault of the runaway, and throw the entire burden of proof on that side.

WHO HE IS.

The fellow whom Deputy Sheriff Tilton arrested for breaking into the cottage of Charles Williams of Manchester, at the Epping camp-ground, at first gave the name of John Smith, and afterwards that of John Rodgers. He was very sulky, and declined to tell where he came from or belonged to; in fact, would not talk at all. On Saturday he was fully identified by Sheriff Kent as John H. Canney of Dover, an old offender. The Sheriff says that some four years ago Canney stole a watch from the house of Otis Dudley of Durham, (recently killed by the Boston & Maine railroad,) and was captured by a Newmarket officer on the cars. He however managed to throw the watch away out of the cars, but subsequently went with the officer and found it, and the case was compromised upon payment of one hundred dollars and costs. He was again arrested in 1875 or 76 for breaking into a farm house at Dover, and stealing a watch; the watch was found under a barn, but Canney was not proved guilty of the offence. In February, 1876, he was arrested for breaking and entering the house of Susan Dow in Lee, for which he was sent by Judge Foster to State prison for five years, but was pardoned out on the 30th day of October last, on account of sickness. Lately he was sent to the Strafford county farm, from which place he escaped through a cellar window about a week since, and has been on the road till captured at Epping. For a man who declines to be interviewed he has been located pretty promptly by the sheriff, who is of the opinion that he is a fit candidate for the asylum rather than for the penitentiary.

U. S. COMMISSIONER'S COURT.

FRIDAY, Dec. 7; Hackett, Com'r.

Chesley J. Willey of Conway was brought before Commissioner Hackett at North Conway on Friday, charged with illegally voting for a candidate for the Congress of the United States at the late election. Willey admitted that he voted, but claimed that he thought he was of age, and his name was put on the checklist of the town of Conway through the statements of persons who had, as they said, seen his father relative to his age and learned that he was twenty-one years old. Four witnesses testified that Willey had stated to them just before the election that he would not be old enough to vote until two years hence, and he should not vote at the late election. When he went through the poll his vote was challenged, but Willey swore he was of age and was allowed to vote.

On Saturday Willey was held in $500 to answer at the May term of the Circuit Court. The men who had the advantage of Willey's vote failed to become responsible for his appearance, and in default of bail he was committed to Portsmouth jail.

A Problem Long Since Solved.

How to remedy these prolific causes of disease, an impoverished circulation and an impaired digestion, was a problem the solution of which had often baffled medical skill, but which was solved over a quarter of a century ago by the introduction of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters to public and professional notice. Since that time, which may well be said to have initiated a new epoch in the history of medicine, the remedy and preventive referred to has obtained a foothold in the confidence of the American people that each succeeding year has only served to strengthen. It is recognized throughout the Union as a tonic of the first order, a remedy for and sure means of preventing fever and ague, and disorders of the liver, and of counteracting a tendency to rheumatism, gout, urinary and uterine disorders.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure for consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive, and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send, free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and using, in German, French, or English. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. W. Sherar, 149 Powers' Block, Rochester, New York. tjan1

—Ten o'clock suppers, prepared entirely by the lady of the house, are the favorite entertainments in New York this season.

—Bertie Le Fraue the pedestrian in whom the public took an interest second to that which Bertha Von Hillern received, has become the happy mother of a girl. She is the wife of George F. Avery, also celebrated as a walker.

—At a Dubuque wedding the other day, among the wedding presents ostentatiously displayed was a $1000 bill, a present from the doting father to his darling daughter. After the guests had departed, the old man coolly rolled up the bill and put it in his vest-pocket, and that was the end of it.

GAZETTE

Established 1756.

The Gazette is published every Thursday, and sent to Subscribers at the low price of $1.50 per year, paid in advance, or $2 at the end of the year.

It contains full accounts of all of importance that transpires in Portsmouth and its vicinity, and a condensed summary of NEWS, foreign and domestic; editorials upon current topics; New Hampshire items; carefully prepared marine news, containing reports of vessels owned at this port, or officered by men from Portsmouth or its neighborhood; and is just the paper for residents desiring to be posted on all that takes place at home, while to those living in the vicinity of Portsmouth, or to former residents who retain their interest in the "old home by the sea," it is the best means of keeping informed of what transpires in this city.

—THE—

NEW HAMPSHIRE GAZETTE

Contains more original matter

Than any other paper of its size in the State, the editors working more with their pens than with their scissors.

TO ADVERTISERS

THE N. H. GAZETTE

Presents an excellent opportunity for a WEEKLY INVITATION TO CUSTOMERS, at a reasonable rate, and all those who desire to reach patrons in Rockingham and York counties will find it an economical medium. ANTI-FAT

ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT is the great remedy for Corpulency. It is purely vegetable and perfectly harmless. It acts on the food in the stomach, preventing its conversion into fat. Taken according to directions it will reduce a fat person from 2 to 5 pounds a week.

In placing the remedy before the public as a positive cure for obesity, we do so knowing its ability to cure, as attested by hundreds of testimonials, of which the following from a lady in Columbus, Ohio, is a sample: "Gentlemen—Your Anti-Fat was duly received. I took it according to directions and it reduced me five pounds. I was so elated over the result that I immediately sent to ACKERMAN'S drug-store for the second bottle. Another, a physician, writing for a patient from Providence, R. I., says: "Four bottles have reduced her weight from 199 pounds to 170 pounds, and is a general improvement in health." A gentleman writing from Boston says: "Without special change or attention to diet, two bottles of Allan's Anti-Fat reduced me four and one-quarter pounds." The proprietors, Wholesale Druggists, SMITH, DOOLITTLE & SMITH, of Boston, Mass., write as follows: "Allan's Anti-Fat has reduced a lady in our city seven pounds in three weeks." A gentleman in St. Louis writes: "Allan's Anti-Fat reduced me twelve pounds in three weeks, and altogether I have lost twenty-five pounds since commencing its use." Sent, POSTPAID, on receipt, Wholesale Druggists, of Buffalo, N.Y., writes: "To THE PROPRIETORS OF ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT: Gentlemen.—The following report is from the lady who used Allan's Anti-Fat: 'I find the Anti-Fat had the desired effect, reducing the fat from two to five pounds a week until I had lost twenty-five pounds. I hope never to regain what I have lost.' Anti-Fat is an unexcelled blood-purifier. It promotes digestion, cures dyspepsia, and is a perfect remedy for rheumatism. Sold by druggists. Pamphlet on Obesity and on effects of tobacco, free.
BOTANIC MEDICINE CO., PROPRS, Buffalo, N.Y.

WOMAN

By an immense practice at the World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, having treated many thousand cases of those diseases peculiar to women, I have been enabled to perfect a most potent and positive remedy for these diseases.

To diagnosticate this natural specific, I have named it

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

The term, however, is but a feeble expression of my high appreciation of its value, based upon personal observation. I, for one, while witnessing its positive results in the special diseases incident to the organism of woman, feel that it is the chiefest or crowning gem of my medical career. On its merits, as a positive, safe, and speedy remedy for the class of diseases, and one that will, at all times and under all circumstances, act kindly, I am willing to stake my reputation as a physician; and so confident am I that it will not disappoint the most sanguine expectations of a single invalid lady who uses it for any of the ailments for which I recommend it, that I offer and sell it under A POSITIVE GUARANTEE. (For conditions, see pamphlet wrapping bottle.)

The following are among those diseases in which my Favorite Prescription has worked cures, as if by magic, and with a certainty never before attained by any medicine: Leucorrhœa, Excessive Flowing, Painful Monthly Periods, Suppressions when from unnatural causes, Irregularities, Weak Back, Prolapsus, or Falling of the Uterus, Anteversion and Retroversion, Bearing-down Sensations, Internal Heat, Nervous Depression, Debility, Despondency, Threatened Miscarriage, Chronic Congestion, Inflammation and Ulceration of the Uterus, Impotency, Barrenness, or Sterility, and Female Weakness. I do not exist this medicine as a "cure-all," but it admirably fulfills a single set of purposes, being a most perfect specific in all chronic diseases of the sexual system of woman. It will not disappoint, nor will it do harm, in any state or condition.

Those who desire further information on these subjects can obtain it in THE PEOPLE'S COMMON SENSE MEDICAL ADVISER, a book of over 900 pages, sent, post-paid, on receipt of $1.50. It treats minutely of those diseases peculiar to Females, and gives much valuable advice in regard to the management of those affections.

Favorite Prescription sold by Druggists.

WINTER.

The cold, stern winter is almost here,
His herald has passed us by;
For old Jack Frost has powdered the fields
And snowflakes have filled the sky.
He has breathed on the flowers his icy breath,
And stripped every bough of its leaves,
And the chilling wind sings a plaintive song
As it mournfully sighs through the trees.

The cold, bleak winter is almost here,
The chill autumn air seems to say
The robins have heeded the warning given
And long ago flitted away;
Away to a fairer, a sunnier home,
To revel in tropical bowers,
And there in that soft southern climate to-day
They warble amid the bright flowers.

The cold, cold winter is almost here,
When the ice-king holds full power;
He is ready to hang upon cottage or dome,
His signal at any hour.
To creep o'er the glass of the window pane
And leave there a bright silver sheen,
And many strange pictures we find mirrored there
When at morning we wake from our dreams.

The long, cold winter is almost here,
The children will greet it with joy;
For while older people look on it with dread
Jack Frost is a friend to the boy.
Get ready to don your warm mittens and coat,
He is often unkind and severe.
Before we shall know it the autumn is gone,
December brings cold winter here.

A Problem Long Since Solved.

How to remedy those prolific causes of disease, an impoverished circulation and an impaired digestion, was a problem the solution of which had often baffled medical skill, but which was solved over a quarter of a century ago by the introduction of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters to public and professional notice. Since that time, which may well be said to have initiated a new epoch in the history of medicine, the remedy and preventive referred to has obtained a foothold in the confidence of the American people that each succeeding year has only served to strengthen. It is recognized throughout the Union as a tonic of the first order, a remedy for and sure means of preventing fever and ague, and disorders of the liver, and of counteracting a tendency to rheumatism, gout, urinary and uterine disorders.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure for consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive, and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send, free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and using, in German, French, or English. Reviving Sectional Animosities.

Since the late election we have heard a good deal from the democratic press north and south, and from Fernando Wood in Congress, about the "revival of sectional animosities" by the republicans, who persist in denouncing the frauds and violence in Louisiana and South Carolina, by which those States were made "solid" for Bourbon democracy. But the democrats make a mistake; it is not the republicans who have resurrected the "bloody shirt," (which it was hoped had been buried, or sent to the wash, or otherwise permanently disposed of,) but the democrats themselves.

Take the case of Louisiana. All the avenues of information—that is, the telegraph lines and news agencies there—are in the hands of democrats; from democratic sources came the only accounts received at the north before the election of the "negro riot" at Waterproof, Tensas parish, which resulted in the massacre of enough colored republicans to prevent the rest from voting, and enabled the democratic election managers to return a solid democratic vote from a parish always previously republican by a majority of seven to one! And Col. Zachariie, the aide of Gov. Nicholls who was sent by him to investigate the stories of democratic violence and ruffianism in Tensas parish—which stories, by the way, have not reached the north—and who reported to the governor that he found that "only twelve colored men were killed previous to the late election," is not a republican; quite the contrary; he is an ex-rebel officer, always a democrat, and a white league organizer and leader. And the Citizens' Conservative Association of New Orleans, which charges that there was no free election in that city, and that at every one of the one hundred and three voting places the most outrageous frauds were practiced by the democratic election officers, is not composed of republicans; on the contrary, every member of the association is a democrat, and many of them were prominent in overthrowing the legally-elected Packard government.

So in South Carolina. It was not a republican paper that first foreshadowed the reckless scoundrelism of the democrats of that State in the late election; it was the Charleston News and Courier, the organ of the "great and good, the godlike Hampton," that openly boasted: "We have all the election machinery, and the courts in our control, and we intend to win at all hazards." It was the same democantic organ that exultingly boasted of the breaking up of a republican meeting at Sumter, by a gang of Hampton's red-shirted militia, and gleefully related how the democrats loaded a cannon with ten-penny nails and trained it on the meeting, and covered the speaker with five hundred rifles, thus preventing a word being uttered. And it was the foreman of the News office that voted 2454 times in the interests of reform and conciliation, thus enabling the return of a democratic majority from his district much larger than the entire democratic vote, and electing a democratic member of the "reform House."

It is the democrats who are proclaiming that the colored men shall not exercise their contitutional right to vote, unless they vote democratic; and all that the republicans are doing to revive sectional animosities is to insist that free suffrage shall not be made a farce and free government a reproach, and to demand for the democrats and republicans in the south the same liberty of casting each one vote—and having it counted—that democrats and republicans have in the north.

Chronicle Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 6th.

Having labored four days, Congress adjourned for a rest of three days, to begin afresh on Monday. The amount of work in open session has not been great, but the committees have been at work well, and it is promised that more work shall be performed before the holidays than ever before in December. Usually the days before Christmas are merely days of preparation for the grand occasion of festivity, and Congress is infected with the holiday spirit, but now all parties appear to be on their good behavior, and there will be a good deal of work done in the next three weeks unless all signs fail. Two appropriation bills have been adopted already, as far as the House can act—those relative to the West Point academy and to fortifications—and several others are almost prepared. The committee propose to report the most of the appropriations early in January, but probably this means a reservation in order to give a chance to tack on some jobs at the last hurried day of the session. Congress is always most virtuous when it begins work afresh from the bosom of the great constituency, but usually that virtue goes petering out at the end of the race.

The quiescence of the financial agitators is remarkable, considering how much they threatened early in the fall. Butler is not here now to throw any bricks, being engaged in a big lawsuit against Gen. Sheridan in New York, and nobody else appears to have the audacity to take the lead in any movement against resumption or in behalf of inflation. Many of the greenback-labor men are still hanging about, but they are not talking much. The prospect of resumption rather disheartens them. They put on an appearance of good cheer, asserting their belief that something will yet turn up to dash the hopes of Secretary Sherman and the "money sharks," or that even after resumption the hard money policy will receive a set back from some unknown or unexplainable agency. The plain truth is, their party is not thrifty just at this time, and they are really downhearted, and begin to see that whistling to keep their courage up is not an occupation that holds its interest for a protracted period.

The democrats do not cathuse worth a cent over Fernando Wood's impetuous assault on the President. Many of them, especially from the south, desire that the subject of fraud and violence in the section shall be candidly considered, and that at any rate there shall not be any precipitation on the part of democrats in provoking bitter controversy. It is reported, however, that Senator Ben Hill, of Georgia, is loaded with a speech that will savor of the "old southern spirit." Mr. Hill has had a falling out with the President, and possibly his purpose is personal revenge. It will be miraculous if the session passes without a violent collision on this or some other party difference. Senator Blaine is said to be preparing a careful speech upon his resolution of inquiry into the southern election affairs, but he has no desire to make violent assaults, and will confine his remarks to the constitutional relations of the facts in question.

The Post of this city having uttered some slanderous remarks relative to the suspicious connection of certain members of Congress with the District of Columbia bill of last session—in fact charging the payment of money to them—they have demanded an investigation, and will probably make the Post suffer for an unwarranted assault. It is the fashion of some disgruntled people in this city to oppose all improvements, whether made by Congress or local appropriation, and they spend their lives slandering all who favor progress. This attack is of a piece with many that have emanated from the same ring, headed by Columbus Alexander. Meanwhile the capital city goes on growing in beauty and attractiveness, in spite of its few unappreciative and mischief making citizens. KNOX.

News and Notes.

A report from Mount Sterling, Ky., says that the trouble in Breathitt county is not over. Numerous threats are made, and citizens are leaving their homes. The life of Judge Ned Strong is threatened, and he is now in camp on Reilley creek, guarded by sixty men. Capt. Bill Strong is quartered on the Middle fork of the Kentucky river with twenty men, while John Aikman, with about twenty-five men, is on the North fork. Heavy firing has been heard in the direction of the last-named place. The rioters intend "running" Jackson, and merchants are having their goods removed. Orders are being sent for pistols and ammunition.

James Hatham was shot by his sister, a girl eighteen years old, at Hillside, Pa., Friday night. The girl was alone in the house with the exception that a younger sister was with her; seeing her brother approaching she mistook him for a tramp, and in her terror, seized a gun and shot him dead. She has gone crazy.

Olyphant & Co., of New York, one of the oldest houses in the China trade, have failed; liabilities $250,000.

At Hamilton, Ohio, Saturday morning, H. Wiegle, proprietor of a beer garden, shot his wife and then shot himself. Both died instantly.

Among the indictments for liquor-selling found by the grand jury of Troy, N. Y., Saturday, were two against members of the grand jury; also against President Tirney, of the Troy Common Council, and Alderman Morrissey.

Lee & Shepard of Boston have issued Wm. Winters' Prompt-book of Macbeth, as Mr. Boooth renders it. For those who like in the house the correct version of Mac this is the correct thing to buy.

McFarland, the murderer of Mr. Richardsen, the noted war correspondent of the New York Tribune, lives at South Bend, Ind. His former wife, Mrs. Abby Sage Richardson, went there recently to deliver a lecture, and it struck McFarland that it would be a sensational thing to attend the lecture, which he did, taking a prominent seat in front. During the delivery of the lecture he did all that he could to attract the attention of Mrs. Richardson, but the plucky, sensible and self-possessed woman paid no attention to him whatever, and gave the audience no intimation of having recognized him. Those who came to witness a scene went away disappointed, and there was nothing for McFarland to do but to go home and go to bed—it is to be hoped sober.

"Wordsworth," a biographical æsthetic study by George H. Calvert. Boston, Lee & Shepard. Price $1.50. The admirers of the poetry of this great English writer will find much to enjoy in this account of the life of the author of "The Excursion," and in the sketch of his progress towards fame. In these days of modern poetry it is well to stimulate the taste for the perusal of the poems of writers whose fame is not only established but grown mature. There is danger that the works of these standard writers may be overlooked in the present day when so many works of modern authors claim attention, and the labors of Mr. Calvert will, we trust, go far toward counteracting this dangerous and unhealthy result, and to encourage the reading of the best of works of the best writers who need an introduction to each successive generation by just such publications as the book before us.

H. M. Loftin, a democratic election manager at Kingstree, S. C., is boasting over the fact that he voted three hundred times at the late election. If he is elated over casting three hundred democratic ballots, what limit would there be to his ecstacy if, like Mr. Daggett of Charleston, he had cast 2464 votes?

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

CONSUMERS should bear in mind that the incomparable "Royal" is now the only Baking Powder in the market made from pure Grape Cream Tartar, imported exclusively for this powder direct from the wine-growing district of France. An old experienced housekeeper writes that, although she has to pay a few cents more for the "Royal," finds that it goes so much further and works so much better, that it is economy to use it. Another says she uses the powder in puddings, cakes, and all sorts of pastry, without eggs. An old lady writes that it makes the only biscuit her dyspeptic husband can eat. This is because the best and most wholesome materials are used. Approved by the New York Board of Health, and by such eminent chemists as Dr. MOTT, New York; Dr. HAYES, Boston; Prof. GENTH, Philadelphia, etc. Sold in tin cans only. disep1079

THE CITY.

The Mechanics' Association on Monday received a liberal gift of desirable books from Miss Eliza A. Haven.

The Times has received a handsome compliment. The Boston Express calls it a "dirty little" sheet, and a "brainless" and "puerile paper." The censure of some people is the highest praise they can bestow. And it is just the same with some papers.

The monthly statement of the Piscataqua savings bank, which commenced business last April, shows that it has already on deposit fifty-one thousand dollars. There is loaned on real estate security, $9,500; on county, city, town and district bonds, $20,194; to State, counties and towns, $4,229.

Every person purchasing at Stackpole's, Nos. 7 & 9 Market street, goods to the amount of one dollar, between now and eight o'clock Christmas eve, will receive a ticket entitling the holder to one chance to draw the big doll now on exhibition in the window of that establishment, and which will be drawn for at the hour named.

Monday forenoon Sheriff Kent closed the New York Tea and Flour Store, kept by John A. Swett & Co. Among the attaching parties are Allen & Woodward, and Watson, Smith & Co., of Boston, and John B. Faulkner of Malden, Mass. The New York Tea and Flour Store didn't believe in advertising—at least we never saw any of its advertisements.

The 76th anniversary of the Mechanics' Association takes place at their hall this evening, when there will be a public installation of officers, brief remarks by members and guests, and a supper, for which the committee will furnish meats and coffee, the ladies being invited to furnish cake and pastry. Each member is allowed to take two ladies with him, if he can get get them, and the widows of deceased members are invited.

The United States revenue steamer George M. Dallas, Capt. D. B. Hodgsdon, arrived in this port on Monday. Her cruising ground for this winter extends from Cape Ann to Mt. Desert. On Thursday of last week she fell in with the schooner Gen. Knox, Luce master, off Seguin, having been blown off, and towed her into the Kennebec. The officers of the Dallas are: Captain, D. B. Hodgsdon; 1st Lieut., Thomas S. Smythe; 2d Lieut., John Dennett; 3d Lieut., Ed. S. Wade; Chief Engineer,——Whittaker; Asst. Engr., Frank B. Randall.

THE VICINITY.

Dr. Cullis of Boston has commenced the erection of a summer cottage at Old Orchard on the Googins estate, near "the rocks." Miss Simmons of Waterville is putting up a cottage on Union avenue, on the same estate.

Peter Brown, a brakeman on an Eastern railroad freight train, while shackling cars together at Great Falls on Saturday evening, was caught between the bunters. His collar-bone was broken and he was otherwise injured about the shoulder.

The various military companies of Maine have been competing in marksmanship for two prizes—one of $50 for the highest score made by a team of twenty members of any volunteer company, and one of $25 for the next best. The Biddeford Light Infantry team has won the first prize with a score of 597, the Capital Guards of Augusta coming next with a score of 571, and the Jameson Guards of Bangor being last on the list with 442 points. Nine companies tried for the prizes.

Joseph P. Jones, who resided in the house opposite the Seabrook and Hampton Falls Congregational church, died suddenly Sunday morning. He worked in Ira Blake's shoe factory Saturday, and was in Seabrook that evening paying bills, in apparent good health. He returned home at eleven o'clock, having been drinking, and settled down by the stove, where his wife made him a shakedown to lie on until he became sober. She was awakened at four o'clock Sunday morning by a gurgling sound, and found her husband dying. Marks as of a blow on the cheek causing suspicion of foul play, the selectmen of Hampton Falls and Justice N. H. Robie proceeded to investigate the matter. Mr. Jones was a peaceable man, even when he had been drinking. He visited the "stone house" in Seabrook, Saturday evening, and redeemed a razor he had pawned for cider. He was a native of Salisbury, Mass., and leaves a wife and three children.

The good people of those towns in Maine bordering on New Hampshire, are terribly annoyed by tramps, and they put the blame upon New Hampshire for enacting such a stringent tramp law last June. They say it has driven all the tramps over the Maine line, and their room would be a great deal better than their company. On Thursday it is said that four of the worst species of this class attempted to abuse Mr. William Horne, who resides in the Pine Hill district in Berwick, coming to his house and demanding dinner. He refused them, and they began to pull down his fence. This was too much for the old gentleman to bear without resentment. He procured a pitchfork and one of the fellows got cut badly about the face and head. Another was beaten until he begged for mercy, while the others escaped. Mr. Horne has made preparations for the next visitors of this class, and a different remedy will be applied to stop their wickedness. Guess Maine had better have a tramp law also. Ours seems to work pretty well. We have heard but very little of the terror of tramps since the law went into effect, and our Dover police station is not nightly cumbered with the presence of dozens of them as was formerly the case. The tramp law works well.—Dover Democrat.

THE LONG-RANGE EDITOR.

Every man who ever conducted a newspaper has more or less frequently run foul of the long-range editor—the man who knows just how the paper should be conducted, and graciously volunteers his advice free gratis for nothing. We have met this brand of editor several times. One of the first times was some years ago, when we met him in a barber's shop, and he addressed us something as follows: "Say, why don't you put something in your paper that folks want to read? [He was reading the barber's copy of the CHRONICLE then.] Here you've got in about the bean crop over in York, and a big squash up to Newington, and clams down to Gerrish's island; and half a column about the Howard Benevolent Society, and another about the Sailor's Home. And here's a lot of big races going on at Mystic and Prospect parks, and all you say about 'em is two lines, 'Goldsmith Maid won a race on Friday in three straight heats; best time 2:17 1-2.' Everybody wants to know about these races—why don't you put in about 'em?" Covered with confusion, we apologised as well as we were able for our glaring fault, and asked: "By the way, Mr. J—, how many copies of the CHRONICLE do you subscribe for?" to which he answered, "Well, I—er—you see, Tom N— takes the paper, and he lives next door to me, and we read his." We informed our sporting friend that he couldn't edit the CHRONICLE at long range until he paid the regular price for at least one copy of the paper, and he hasn't spoken to us since.

Another man who used to try edit this paper at long range was a former editor of the Times. He would republish a column article from the New York Sun, the New Haven Register or some similarly venomous sheet, full of partisan bitterness, falsehood and misrepresentation of republicans, and on the end of it put "Dare the CHRONICLE publish this!" Even the use of the magic word "dare" never enabled our neighbor to do any long-range editing in favor of copperheadism, over our shoulder.

The present editor of the Times has for a week or so past seemed similarly moved by the spirit to edit this paper. The Times having since election hastily abandoned its hastily-assumed position of greenback organ, has gone heavily into the gospel temperance (whatever kind of temperance that may be) business, and has wept to the extent of about a paragraph a day over the sad perversity of the CHRONICLE in doing just as it pleased in the matter. We are grieved indeed, for we think that when the Times is smitten with godly sorrow concerning the temperance movement, the temperance movement must be in a very bad way. We sincerely wish we could oblige our neighbor, and stand side by side with the Times as a gospel temperance organ; but we can't do it just yet, for we will not puff any article which we consider bogus or of an inferior brand, and the gospel temperance which seems to depend largely for its success on personal attacks in public upon citizens perhaps quite as worthy as the gospel temperance orator, is not up to our standard of the genuine article. Verily, Bro. Times, the two or three notices we gave your gospel temperance movement when you first started it are all it is likely to get from us.

Another long-range editor is the person who writes to the Times over the signature of "Com," bewailing the CHRONICLE's dereliction of duty in the gospel temperance affair, and in another matter. By way of a sample, we print his communication:

Mr. Editor: I notice that you sometimes report the CHRONICLE as not having learned of matters notoriously public, as, for instance, the recent series of gospel temperance meetings. Did it ever occur to you that the CHRONICLE never in the most indirect manner noticed the recent charge of brutal treatment of a scholar, against a man not long ago imported to take charge of one of our schools? I suppose a fair presumption would be that in the CHRONICLE's estimation gospel temperance and the proper management of our public schools are not of sufficient importance to be noticed in its columns. COM.

We have concluded to allow Bro. "Com" to do a little long-range editing, just to satisfy him. As he seems so very anxious that we should mention the school trouble he refers to, we will do it—and tell him that we probably know as much about it as he does, no matter who he is. We know that the school in which the trouble occurred was under a previous teacher "run" entirely by the boys, the teacher having no influence whatever, and the school being a disgrace to the city; and we know that under the present teacher, in spite of his earnest endeavors, matters had reached that point where the teacher had either got to surrender entirely to a few boys, or fully establish his constantly defied authority. We consider the first step in "the proper management of our public schools" to be the maintenance of discipline and good order; and as we know that before the incident which "Com" refers to there was much disorder in the school indicated, and that there has been none worth mentioning since; and that the Board of Instruction, including two estimable ladies and at least three men who opposed the engagement of the "imported man," unanimously voted to sustain the teacher, we do not feel called upon to tender the martyr's crown to that boy. Our long-range brother, "Com," can draw whatever "presumption" he chooses from this.

POLICE COURT.

MONDAY, Dec. 10; Batchelder, J.

Three drunks were attended to; two of them paid $9.90 each; the third, Joseph Fabyan, went to Brentwood because he had no $9.90.

"GET THE BEST."

Mr. Editor: I was glad to notice in the CHRONICLE Monday morning that there is a prospect of a series of entertainments this winter in Portsmouth, which will deserve, and I trust will receive, a liberal encouragement. Why should we not occasionally furnish a "good house" to an entertainment, dramatic or operatic, that shall be of the highest order; certainly there are a sufficient number of people of means and good taste in Portsmouth who will sustain such an enterprise.

A place is known by the character of its amusements. There are many always ready and able to patronize a negro minstrel concert to its fullest capacity; are there not others whose tastes and inclinations lead them to enjoy the best in the drama, the highest order of operatic representations, the most gifted lecturer, the most discriminating reader and elocutionist, and the finest concert music?

Yes, Mr. Editor, I trust that the audiences of Portsmouth, always remarked by orators, dramatists and concert givers as among the finest seen, in point of intelligence, culture and deportment, will not only encourage the best talent in Music hall, but show that in inviting it here the true taste of our citizens has been consulted. Æ.

POEMS BY ALBERT LAIGHTON.

Boston, A. Williams & Co.; Portsmouth, Mercer Goodrich.

It is nearly twenty years since the poems of Mr. Laighton, many of which had been printed in the newspapers of the day, copied all up and down the land, and admired sufficiently to add the name of our modest fellow citizen to the list of celebrities who had done honor to their birth-place, dear old Portsmouth, were published. The volume published by Mr. Joseph Hiller Foster, then in business on Market street, had come to be out of print. It was frequently called for at the book stores, and in some instances rare prices were offered for it. Early last summer many of Mr. Laighton's friends requested him to allow a new edition of his poems to be published. The result is seen in a modest little volume of one hundred and twenty-five pages, with the fac simile of the poet's autograph on the cover.

We are glad to welcome again some of the most familiar poems contained in the former edition—"To my soul," "My native river," "The missing ships," etc.

"Found dead," a poem from real life, which was so freely copied by the newspapers after its appearance, is in the new volume. It it full of pathos, and in all these years has lost none of its moving sentiment.

To those who remember "Joe," there never fails on reading the truthful poetic description of the idiot to come back memories of the poor, blighted one who went up and down in our streets twenty-five years ago. Whose lot so hard as his? whose life so devoid of all comfort? and yet rich in the liberal hope and broad faith so confidently expressed by the poet when he says—

"For he who hears the raven call
And watches oven the sparrow's fall;
He, in his measureless love, I know,
Will kindly care for the soul of Joe—"

Which would lead us to hope that "nothing would be lost" by our all-wise Father. Mr. Laighton's poems breathe forth a generous sympathy, an ability to see something good in every created being, something beautiful in inanimate creation, where we before saw nothing but the gross and commonplace.

The closing sonnet to Whittier is none the less deservedly beautiful, and beautifully deserved, now that victory has succeeded the "Battle in dear Freedom's name," than when it appeared twenty years ago.

As a "Poet of Portsmouth" we are glad anew to present Mr. Laighton to our readers. It is not the work of every writer of verse that can stand the test of two decades, but the lines before us, like the happy maturity of well-spent lives, teem with new beauty as age grows apace.

The book is on sale at Mercer Goodrich's, one of the publishers—and let us hope that the new collection of our Poet's works will meet with the same hearty reception that greeted the first publication.

Eastern Railroad Company.

The directors of the Eastern railroad company, in their forty-fourth annual report to the stockholders, say that the present financial condition of the company is a proper subject of congratulation. The company's credit has daily been growing stronger, while the necessity for using it has been constantly diminishing. Two years ago doubts were expressed of the ability of the company to work out of the various difficulties and embarrassments surrounding it. To-day these doubts have in a great measure given place to a confidence which is believed to be well founded. Of the various forms of debt—amounting to about $13,000,000, which, under the act of 1876, were made convertible into certificates of indebtedness—there remains, Sept. 30, only $227,002.53 to be converted. This has been further reduced by the converting of $30,000 of debt in October. The total funded debt, including the old Essex railroad bonds, amounts to $13,587,021.99. There has been an increase of $110,244.45 in the funded debt, which has been more than offset by a decrease of $222,733.81 in the unfunded debt. There has therefore been made within the year an actual reduction of indebtedness of $112,489.36.

There has been a falling off in gross earnings of $55,172.16, a reduction in operating expenses of $127,664.73, thus making an actual gain of $72,492.57 in net earnings, as compared with the results of last year. The falling off in gross earnings has been chiefly on the freight business, and has been due in part to exceptional local causes. In the road-bed and track improvement has been made and side tracks have been arranged at several stations, removing about sixty switches from the main track; $33,535.35 has been expended on bridges.

The favorable decisions of the courts in several important lawsuits and the satisfactory settlement of others by compromise are also subjects of congratulation. There remains one suit only yet to be tried, in which the amount at issue is comparatively small. The litergation in which this corporation has been involved during the past two years would seem to be at an end.

—Rev. Joseph Cook thus explains why a boy climbs a tree to steal apples:—"The apples are the objective natural motive, his intention is his moral motive." And to think that for hundreds and thousands of years boys have gone on stealing apples and getting spanked for it just because they didn't know this.

—The Lord Chief Justice of Ireland had an unfortunate lapse of memory the other day. He was in London hearing an important railway case. Both sides had been argued at very heavy expense to the litigants, when suddenly his lordship remarked: "Bless me, I forgot that I owned some shares myself!" Being thus an interested party, the whole case will have to be gone over again before another judge.

—A San Francisco man has formed a California Society for the Suppression of Trade Frauds and Detection of Rascalities in Weights and Measures. He is the only member. In his propectus he says that he intends to publish every cheat that he can detect, and one of his first exposures is that the sherry sold in Senator Boyston's barroom is adulterated with vitriol. Boyston has been arrested.

A Woman's Logic.

"It is useless to take medicine. I shall feel better to-morrow. Besides, I need the money to get that lovely new hat. My old one is such a fright, and people will look more at my bonnett than they will at my face. I will wait till I feel worse before I spend my money for medicine." The new bonnet is purchased and fifty other feminine necessaries in the form of ribbons, laces, brooches, etc. Meanwhile the lady's face becomes every day paler and thinner, and her body weaker, until disease has gained so firm a foothold in her system, that the most thorough, and oftimes a long and tedious, course of treatment is necessary to restore her to health. Ladies, attend to your health before you ever think of apparel. A fresh, blooming face in a plain bonnet is much handsomer and far more attractive to your gentlemen friends, than a pain-worn, diseased face in the most elaborate and elegant hat your milliner could devise. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is everywhere acknowledged to be the standard remedy for female complaints and weaknesses. It is sold by all druggists.

—When fishing is good boys take the rod with more meekness than at other times.

—The dairy maid pensively milked the goat, and pouting she paused to mutter, "I wish, you brute, you would turn to milk," and the animal turned to butt her.

—When Johnny was questioned as to why his engagement with Miss H— had been broken off, he rolled his eyes, looked very much pained, and groaned, "Oh! she turned out a deceiver." But he forgot to mention that he was the deceiver whom she had turned out.

—A Providence family is troubled with a mysterious ringing of the door bell, and it has been discovered that families with whom their servant girl has previously lived have had a similar experience. The girl is not personally responsible for the ringing, nor is any visible agency yet found.

ANTI-FAT

ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT is the great remedy for Corpulency. It is purely vegetable and perfectly harmless. It acts on the food in the stomach, preventing its conversion into fat. Taken according to directions, it will reduce a fat person from 3 to 5 pounds a week. In placing this remedy before the public as a positive cure for obesity, we do so knowing its ability to cure, as attested by hundreds of testimonials, of which the following from a lady in Columbus, Ohio, is a sample: "Gentlemen—You will be glad to hear I received. I took it according to directions and it reduced me five pounds. I was so elated over the result that I immediately sent to ACKERMAN'S drug-store for the second bottle." Another, a physician, writing for a patient from Providence, R. I., says: "Four bottles have reduced her weight from 190 pounds to 142 pounds, and there has been a general improvement in health." A gentleman writing from Boston, says: "Without special change or attention to diet, two bottles of Allan's Anti-Fat reduced me four and one-quarter pounds." The well-known Wholesale Druggists, SMITH, DOOLITTLE & SMITH, of Boston, Mass., write as follows: "Allan's Anti-Fat has reduced a lady in our city seven pounds in three weeks." A gentleman in St. Louis writes: "Allan's Anti-Fat reduced me twelve pounds in three weeks, and altogether I have lost twenty-five pounds since commencing its use." Messrs. POTTER & PALMER, Wholesale Druggists, of Buffalo, N. Y., write: "To THE PROPRIETORS OF ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT: Gentlemen.—The following report is from the lady who used Allan's Anti-Fat: 'If the Anti-Fat had the desired effect, reducing the fat from two to five pounds a week, well. I did just twenty-five pounds. I hope never to regain what I have lost.'" Anti-Fat is an unrivalled blood-purifier. It promotes digestion, cures dyspepsia, and is also a potent remedy for rheumatism. Sold by druggists. Pamphlet on Obesity free on receipt of stamp.
BOTANIC MEDICINE CO., PROP'RS, Buffalo, N.Y.

WOMAN
By an immense practice at the World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, having treated many thousand cases of those diseases peculiar to woman, I have been enabled to perfect a most potent and positive remedy for these diseases.
To designate this natural specific, I have named it
Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription
The term, however, is but a feeble expression of my high appreciation of its value, based upon personal observation. I have, while witnessing its positive results in the special diseases indicated, to the organism of woman, singled it out as the climax or crowning gem of my medical career. On its merits, as a positive, safe, and effectual remedy for the class of diseases, and one that will, at all times and under all circumces, act kindly, I am willing to stake my reputation as a physician; and so confident am I that it will not disappoint the most sanguine expectations of a single invalid lady who uses it for any of the situations for which I recommend it, that I offer and sell it under A POSITIVE GUARANTEE. (For conditions, see pamphlet wrapping bottle.)
The following are among those diseases in which my Favorite Prescription has worked cures, as if by magic, and with a certainty never before attained by any medicine: Leucorrhœa, Excessive Flowing, Painful Monthly Periods, Suppression when from unnatural causes, Irregularities, Weak Back, Prolapsus or Falling of the Uterus, Anteversion and Retroversion, Bearing-down Sensations, Internal Heat, Nervous Depression, Debility, Despondency, Threatened Miscarriage, Chronic Congestion, Inflammation and Ulceration of the Uterus, Impotency, Barrenness or Sterility, and Female Weakness. I do not exist this medicine as a "cure-all," but it admirably fulfils a single office in the sexual system, being a most perfect specific in all chronic diseases of the sexual system of women. It will not disappoint, nor will it do harm, in any state or condition.
Those who desire further information on these subjects can obtain it in THE PEOPLE'S COMMON SENSE MEDICAL ADVISER, a book of over 900 pages, sent post-paid, on receipt of $1.50. It treats minutely of those diseases peculiar to Females, and gives much valuable advice in regard to the management of those affections.
Favorite Prescription sold by Druggists.

GREAT THROUGH LINE

UNITED STATES MAIL ROUTE
The attention of the travelling public is respectfully invited to some of the merits of the great highway, in the confident assertion and belief that no other line can offer equal inducements as a route of through travel. Its
Construction AND Equipment
THE
PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD
stands confessedly at the head of American railways. The track is double the entire length of the line, of steel rails laid on heavy oak ties, which are embedded in a foundation of rock ballast eighteen inches in depth. All bridges are of iron or stone, and built upon the most approved plans. Its passenger cars, while eminently safe and substantial, are at the same time models of comfort and elegance.
The Safety Appliances
in use on this line well illustrate the far-seeing and liberal policy of its management, in accordance with which the utility only of an improvement and not its cost has been the question of consideration. Among many may be noticed
THE BLOCK SYSTEM OF SAFETY SIGNALS,
JANNEY COUPLER, BUFFER AND PLATFORM,
THE WHARTON PATENT SWITCH,
AND THE
WESTINGHOUSE AIR-BRAKE,
forming in conjunction with a perfect double track and road-bed a combination of safeguards against accidents which have rendered them practically impossible.

The Fraud Committee's Dilemma.

The Potter-Tilden-fraud committee has not yet commenced to wrestle with the cipher despatches. Perhaps it would be as well for the committee, before it entangles itself inextricably in the devious ways of democratic reform, to make a little report as to what it has already found out. The resolution under which the Potter committee was appointed indicted Hon. John Sherman and Hon. Edward F. Noyes, by name, as being parties to a corrupt transaction, having for its object the elevation of Governor Hayes to the Presidency. The failure to produce any testimony to sustain this outrageous indictment was absolute. The committee raked the country from one end to the other to get proof to sustain the indictment, but it was not to be had, and yet the committee was too destitute of the sense of justice to say formally to the House, what the members said in private, that the integrity of the two gentlemen so grossly assailed remained unsullied.

But it is hardly just for any one to find fault with the fraud committee for not starting on an investigation which must result disastrously for the investigators, for unreasoning Bourbonism would hold them responsible for the crushing revelations which every one believes lies at the end of an investigation of the cipher despatches,—just as poor old Glover was, who was kicked and cuffed and finally retired from his Congressional post, because he landed a democratic scoundrel every time he cast his net last winter in the waters which he declared abounded with republican thieves. Yet if they refuse to go in it will confirm the general conviction that they dare not advance another foot. In either event their party must pay a heavy penalty for creating a committee which promised so much, but which has contributed steadily to its undoing. The committee has done away with the $25,000 voted it, in an unsuccessful raid for party capital, and republican Congressmen intimate that they will oppose granting another cent till an itemized account of expenditures is rendered. We fancy we can see the fraud committee doing that!

Boston City Election.

At the municipal election in Boston on Monday Hon. Frederic O. Prince, the democratic candidate for Mayor, was elected by 1300 majority.

The Kentucky War.

A special despatch from Mount Sterling, Ky., to the Louisville Courier-Journal, dated Monday, says that James Pettit, deputy United States marshal, arrived there the previous night from a point twenty miles from Jackson, the scene of the late disturbance in Breathitt county, and reports another collision between the parties of Bill Strong and Jerry Little, which occurred on the Wednesday evening previous. Four men were killed, including Jerry Little, and six wounded. The report is confirmed by a mail carrier from Compton, Wolf county, situated twenty miles from Jackson.

A Friend in Need—for Tilden.

The New York Star, a democratic organ of the Tammany hall brand, publishes an interview between one of its reporters and Hon. Jeremiah Maguire of Elmira, the last democratic Speaker of the New York Assembly. Maguire told the reporter that he did not read the cipher despatches with much interest when they were published in the Tribune, as he (Maguire) knew what was going on in December, 1876, and January, 1877, being kept advised of it "by friends who were in it themselves." He scoffed at the idea that "Tilden and reform" did not known of the scoundrelism and corruption being attempted under his very nose, and managed from his own house by his nephew and private secretary. He said: "I know that Smith Weed started for South Carolina on the 10th of December from Tilden's own house in Gramercy park. He stopped over at Raleigh under the name of Keith. I know, from sources that cannot be doubted, that $50,000 was offered to a colored member—and it is to the credit of his race—to a 'nigger' member of the Electoral College to give his vote for Tilden, and he refused it eternly and persistently." Maguire plainly asserted that the offer was made by Smith M. Weed, who was then and is now noted for his close intimacy with Tilden and reform. The Potter fraud committee will have plenty of material to work on when they commence investigating Tilden's attempt to buy the Presidency of the United States—when they commence it!

News and Notes.

The annual address before the Cumberland county Medical society, was delivered by Dr. James A. Spalding at Portland, Nov. 27th; the subject of the address was the life of Joseph Balsamo, better known as Count Alexander Cagliostro, the universal quack of the eighteenth century. The address was very favorably received and liberally applauded.

John Orr, aged sixty-seven years, employed in the Clapp manufacturing company's paper mill at South Windsor, Conn., stepped through a trap-door accidentally last week, and was immediately ground up between the pinion and water-wheels.

The Crompton Carpet Co., of Worcester, Mass., which has been regarded for some time as in an unsatisfactory condition, has entered into an arrangement by which Mr. George Crompton, the largest stockholder in the company, assumes the entire responsibility of its indebtedness, securing its creditors by guarantees upon a part of his unincumbered real estate, the security running to Messrs. D Waldo Lincoln and Samuel Woodward as trustees; and he in return has a pledge that the claims against the corporation shall not be pressed for three years. This will result in the continuance of the business of the corporation which has not been interrupted, and no losses will result to any one except the stockholders.

A sixteen-years-old boy and fourteen-years-old girl were married in North Adams, Mass., the other day, and just after the ceremony a sheriff put in an appearance, to take them home.

Alonzo C. Hooper, once a wealthy circus man and owner of a large property in New York and San Francisco, on a recent night applied for lodgings at the station house in Cincinnati, as a tramp. Some of his old show friends heard of his destitution and provided comfortably for him.

George Dillon, a Providence lad who fell through the ice Sunday, and whose brother perished in trying to save him, died Monday morning of the shock and exposure.

The Supreme Court of the United States decided on Monday that whenever property is lost or stolen in a hotel through the personal negligence of a guest, the liability of the innkeeper does not exist; that if the guest does not leave his valuables in the safe provided by the innkeeper he must bear his own loss, unless it occurred by the hand or through the carelessness of the landlord or his employes.

At a meeting of the creditors of Spalding & Wales, of Boston, the senior member of the firm presented a statement placing the liabilities at $390,000, and the nominal assets at $404,000. There are also about $27,000 of contingent liabilities.

John Burns and William T. Angell, two burglars, were arrested at Middletown, Conn., early Thursday morning, and were tried and sentenced to two years each in State prison within fifteen hours after their capture.

The Caledonian bank of Glasgow, Scotland, and the West of England and South Wales District bank, have suspended. The latter has forty branches in Wales and the west of England, and its liabilities are $17,500,000.

The steam collier Hercules, Capt. Willey, in going up the river at Newburyport, Monday, ran upon Black rocks and stove a hole in her bottom, near the bow. The accident was occasioned by the parting of the wheel-ropes. She came off the rocks Tuesday and was put on the flats near by, where she can unload easily. She is not very badly damaged.

The Anchor flour mill at Minneapolis, Minn., took fire from a flour-dust explosion Monday night, and was destroyed. Loss $75,000; insurance, $45,500.

The county poor house at Washington, Iowa, was burned Monday night, and five old persons, all females, perished in the flames.

New Hampshire Items.

There was a shooting affray in Concord, at about one o'clock Monday morning. Four fellows named Wm. Murphy, E. J. Knee, John Murphy and Tim Sullivan left a rum-hole, and while going along the sidewalk got into a dispute about a dollar. Knee drew a revolver and fired twice, one of the balls entering the abdomen of Wm. Murphy, who walked into the Eagle hotel and fell upon a lounge. A doctor was summoned and said the hurt was fatal. The wounded man was conveyed home, and Knee was arrested.

James N. Edminister of Windsor, Vt., a native of New Hampshire, and who was an officer in a New Hampshire regiment during the rebellion, died a few days since, aged forty years. He was a lawyer by profession, and was said to be more familar with patent law than any other lawyer in Vermont.

The house of William M. Gage of Bedford was burned Sunday night. Cause, defective chimney; insured $1500.

Captain Henry C. Davis, late of New Haven, Conn., died at the house of his father in Nashua on Friday, of consumption, at the age of forty-three years. The deceased graduated at Dartmouth with high honors; served as captain in a Connecticut regiment in the war, fell into the hands of the enemy and was taken to Libby prison, where his health was doubtless undermined by the disease with which he died. Captain Davis was a member of the Masonic Order at New Haven, and was superintendent of the public schools. A wife and three daughters survive him.

The New-York TRIBUNE was undoubtedly the most potent political force in the late election. Its prospectus this year sets forth simply enough what it has done as the best claim to the continued and increasing support of the country its work in dragging to light the cipher dispatches is not too strongly stated, when it claims to have vindicated the legitimacy of the Republican Administration, and crushed assailants by demonstrating the infamous efforts of the Democratic leaders to buy the Presidency they had fairly lost at the polls. The effects of this work of THE TRIBUNE will be felt in American politics for years to come. See the prospectus of this great journal for next year, and its remarkably attractive premiums.

Fraudulent Insurance.

Attorney General Emery of Maine, and Attorney General Sayles of Rhode Island, concur in the opinion of Messrs. Ropes, Gray and Loring, and the Attorney General of Massachusetts, that the policies now being issued by the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York on its "new departure" plan are fraudulent and void.—*Portland (Me.) ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

CONSUMERS should bear in mind that the incomparable "Royal" is now the only Baking Powder in the market made from pure Grape Cream Tartar, imported exclusively for this powder direct from the wine-growing district of France. An old experienced housekeeper writes that, although she has to pay a few cents more for the "Royal," finds that it goes so much further and works so much better, that it is economy to use it. Another says she uses the powder in puddings, cakes, and all sorts of pastry, without eggs. An old lady writes that it makes the only biscuit her dyspeptic husband can eat. This is because the best and most wholesome materials are used. Approved by the New York Board of Health, and by such eminent chemists as Dr. MOTT, New York; Dr. HAYES, Boston; Prof. GENTH, Philadelphia, etc. Sold in tin cans only. dtsep10 79

THE CITY.

The annual meetings of the Eastern and Boston & Maine railroad companies are to be held to-day. The latter is to be held at Lawrence.

Those persons who got their sleighs down from the loft Monday, and dusted them nicely so as to be in readiness for a sleighride on Tuesday, were disgusted Tuesday morning to find that the rain had turned the first snow of the season worth mentioning into a thin coating of "slush."

The greenback party of New Hampshire is absolutely without an organ now. The Concord People and Portsmouth Times have both returned to the old Democratic creed of hard money, and the Manchester Granite State, which if anything rather led the People and Times in the race for greenback approval, is stone dead.

The ship Coldstream, Capt. Marcy, before reported as having arrived at Yokohama, Japan, from New York, touched at Hiogo, leaving that port Oct. 27th. On the 1st of November she was towed back to Hiogo, having been ashore in Tsumi straits, about twenty miles from Hiogo, and been obliged to jettison 7300 cases of kerosene before she could get off.

The appointment of a Judge for the first Circuit seems to await the possible agreement upon an appointee for the District Judgeship in Massachusetts. Among the names suggested is that of Frank Goodwin, Esq., of Boston, son of Ex-Governor Goodwin. Mr. Goodwin has had much experience in trial of maritime causes and is an excellent lawyer, but the rush for the place in Massachusetts, where they offset a Boston lawyer against a country practitioner, makes it difficult to agree upon the new incumbent.

The interesting series of Friday evening lectures, at Miss Morgan's Seminary, by Messrs. Fields, DeNormandie, G. W. Haven and Albee, which have been so well attended notwithstanding the distance of the institution from the centre of the city, and adverse weather, have reawakened most pleasant recollections of the lyceum lectures that were wont to enliven the autumn and winter evenings of bygone years, and ought to make us feel greatly obliged to those who aided in presenting them for our gratification. These weekly reunions, that have had such a cosy social air about them, will be missed when coming to a close, as they soon will do. B.

Our sketch of "the long-range editor" had a decidedly ill effect on the editor of the Times and Rev. A. S. Palmer—caused them both to make statements that are absolutely false. The Times man says we have "bored" him with "'long-range' advice--yea, many times—in days gone by," which is untrue, as we never offered him any advice whatever, on any subject, at any time—and he knows it. What does it concern us whether he takes his leading editorials from the New York Sun or the New Haven Register, or from the Washington correspondence of the Boston Post? Mr. Palmer takes especial pains to say that we are "one of the CHRONICLE firm"—a statement which we are sorry to be obliged to say is wholly untrue.

THE VICINITY.

There was a wrsh-out of the track of the Portland, Saco & Portsmouth railroad at Wells on Tuesday, and the Pullman train for Portland had to stop at Wells depot in consequence.

A gang of men from Rockland, Me., in charge of Mr. John Mehan, will as soon as the weather permits attempt with the aid of schooner Alleghany and all necessary machinery to get off the beach the schooner Caroline Knight, wrecked at Straw's point, Rye beach, some weeks since.

Saco has another scandal. Edward Foss, a master painter hitherto in the employ of the York Manufacturing Co., a married man whose wife is in a private insane asylum in Canada, has been clandestinely paying attentions to a Miss Dean, the twenty-five-years-old daughter of a widow lady of high reputation. Mrs. Dean, learning that her daughter had been a visitor to Foss' room at unseemly hours, applied to the police court for a warrant, and Thursday night the mother, accompanied by two policemen, visited the room, surprising the occupants, and Foss was at once arrested. He was arraigned in the police court and bound over in the sum of $1000.

Our York correspondent writes: "Diphtheria has made its appearance in this vicinity; several rather severe cases have been successfully treated by Dr. J. J. Hazen. We do not know the method of his treatment, but we do know that he handles this loathsome disease with marked success. Owing to the sickness of the telegraph operator the York office has been closed over a month, but is to-day (Tuesday) opened for business."

A son of Seth Berry, of Saco, was out shooting partridges recently. Seeing one of the birds he cocked his gun, and was moving around to get a better sight of the bird when he thought he heard shot running out of the gun, the muzzle of which was depressed; he accordingly reached down his right hand and struck it against the muzzle, when he was instantly convinced that the shot was leaving the barrel, as the middle finger of that hand disappeared.

On Tuesday evening of last week a party of four persons, two single men and a newly-married man and his bride, the young couple being only about eighteen years old, applied for lodgings at the central police station in Washington, D. C. The party started from York county, Me., a fortnight agol for Fredericksburg, Va., where a friend had promised them work. Two of the men were detained in New York by sickness, and their funds nearly gave out there. On this account they were obliged to walk from Jersey City, buying food with their remaining charge. Their last cent was spent in Baltimore. They left that city in the afternoon and reached Washington in about twenty hours, having eaten nothing in the interval. They were kindly treated in Washington, and transportation was furnished them to their destination.

The thief Miles, who broke into the gunstore of Eugene Smart at Dover some months ago, and was recently captured with a number of revolvers then stolen in his possession, and lodged in the lockup at Dover, on Saturday "succeeded in effecting a settlement by the payment of some $60 in full of all the claims of the law and everybody else, and was allowed to depart in peace, to resume his burglarious operations if he shall see fit to do so." So says the Democrat, which further—and not without a good deal of reason, as we think—comments: "Under this system of disposing of criminals, we are unable to see the use of criminal laws, and we are also bewildered in trying to find any protection to society or any members thereof against the incursions and depredations of burglars, thieves, incendiaries, or any other sort of rascals in existence. We take the liberty to say we do not believe this to be the proper way to dispose of burglars and thieves. They should be sent to the State prison, where they belong, and not be permitted to roam at large, jeopardizing the property and perhaps the lives of innocent people and good citizens. As a rule a burglar is a murderer in his heart and would not long hesitate to take life if necessary to secure his purpose of robbery and plunder. These scoundrels should be behind the grates for the safety of society."

POLICE COURT.

TUESDAY, Dec. 10; Batchelder, J.

William Hennessy, for drunkenness, was ordered to pay $9.90, fine and costs, and went to the county farm, in default.

MAN MISSIMG.

Mr. Reuben Frisbee, better known as "Russia," of Kittery Point, was in this city on Monday. At about four o'clock in the afternoon he was seen by Mr. Robert Anderson to leave the public landing at the foot of Daniel street in a boat, with two ladies in his company. He fell over in the boat twice, and Mr. Anderson advised the ladies not to venture on a voyage with him. He came on shore, and was taken in charge by Capt. Zachariah Williams, of the schooner Mary Wiley, staying with him until about ten o'clock, when he started for home in his boat, being then apparently sober. Capt. Williams saw him pull around the head of the wharf all right. Early Tuesday morning his boat was found adrift in the dock at Adams & Co.'s wharf, but nothing could be found of the man, and it is feared he was drowned. Search was made for his body in the vicinity at low water Tuesday evening, but without result.

RYE LETTER.

RYE, Dec. 9th.

The southeast storm of last week blew down thirteen pine trees in the wood lot of Joseph J. Jenness on the South road. This is the third time within a few months that Mr. Jenness' wood lot has been visited by damaging winds.

The first snow storm of the season occurred to-day; four inches of snow fell.

The series of temperance meetings was continued on Wednesday evening at the Christian church, but owing to the stormy weather and bad travelling the attendance was small. The meeting was conducted by Rev. A. S. Palmer; the services were singing of "Rock of ages" by the congregation, prayer by Rev. Ira S. Jones, singing "Nearer, my God, to Thee," silent prayer, prayer by Rev. Mr. Palmer and Mr. S. W. Foss, a sacred song by Mr. Palmer, with organ accompaniment by Miss Ella Philbrick, and remarks by Revs. Palmer and Jones, and others.

Thursday evening the church was well filled, and Mr. Palmer spoke eloquently from the text "The way of the transgressor is hard," the address moving many to tears. One young lady arose for prayers; and prayer was offered by request for the children of a mother present, and for a friend. At the close of the remarks the audience were invited forward to sign the pledge and don the blue ribbon, and a large number responded, among them some who had been hard drinkers. Rev. Mr. Jones then spoke briefly, the audience sang "Whoever will, may come," and Rev. Mr. Palmer pronounced the benediction.

Friday evening the house was again well filled, and the meeting was very interesting, Rev. Messrs. Palmer, Jones and Hadley making brief addresses, and a number of earnest exhortations being made by others; Miss Ella Philbrick presided at the organ, and a number of suitable hymns were sung by the congregation. Mr. Palmer also singing a gospel song with fine effect.

On Saturday evening there was another large attendance, Revs. Hadley, Jones and Palmer all being present and taking part.

On Sunday forenoon Mr. Janes, pastor of the Christian church, preached on "Peculiar people" to a large congregation, speaking earnestly of the beauties and benefits of Odd Fellowship, of which order Mr. Jones is a member. In the afternoon Mr. Palmer occupied the pulpit, and preached on "Sloth in religion" to a numerous assemblange gathered to hear his last address here. He has made many friends while laboring among us, and is a thorough and earnest Christian worker, and unwavering in the temperance cause; and he leaves with the best wishes of our people.

Sunday evening a union meeting of both societies was held at the Christian church, which was filled to overflowing. The services were conducted by the pastor, Mr. Jones, and Rev. Willis E. Hadley of the Congregational chruch, and consisted of singing, quoting passages of scripture by the clergymen and others, and exhortations. The meetings are to continue through the week, and all are invited. SCRIBE.

THE RAYMOND HOMICIDE.

We are informed from authentic sources that the accounts previously published regarding the death of a young girl at Raymond from criminal malpractice lack confirmation in some important points. The matter is being worked up by the authorities, but up to Monday night nothing had been discovered to justify the officers in making any arrest. County Solicitor Harriman was at Raymond on Saturday, and Deputy Sheriff Shepard has the case in charge, and is investigating it. The post mortem examination disclosed that an abortion had been attempted by some person, but no evidence has been discovered to show by whom. Mrs. Johnson, a spiritualist, was a visitor at the house of the unfortunate girl and was with her when she so suddenly died, but nothing has appeared to connect her with the affair.

Naval Matters.

First Lieut. Frank A. Mullany of the marine corps reported for duty on board the U. S. S. Plymouth on Monday, First Lieut. S. K. Allen having been granted sick leave.

The steam gunboat Quinnebaug on a trial trip made thirteen knots an hour, and is believed to be faster than any foreign man-of-war.

Patent Suit.

Geo. D. Burton of New Ipswich has entered an action in the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of New Hampshire against the town of Greenville in this State, to recover damages for the use of his design of street or park lamps, upon which he claims a patent and which he alleges are in use in Greenville. Geo. E. Belton, Esq., a patent lawyer of Boston, is counsel for Mr. Burton.

—A patent was lately issued for a coffin torpedo, which consists of a canister containing powder, balls, and a firing trigger, so arranged that should any attempt be made to open the coffin, the torpedo would be instantly exploded, and deadly balls sent in all directions. Beside, it makes noise enough to wake the dead so that they can defend themselves.

—During a dense fog a Mississippi steamboat took landing. A traveller, anxious to go ahead, came to the unperturbed manager of the wheel and asked why they stopped. "Too much fog; can't see the river." "But you can see the stars overhead." "Yes," replied the urbane pilot, "but until the biler busts we ain't going that way." The passenger went to bed.

Stop Drinking Vinegar.

How many young women who have inherited a predisposition to embonpoint have ruined their health by drinking vinegar to reduce their forms to graceful proportions. Allan's Anti-Fat is absolutely harmless. It promotes digestion, and accomplishes its work simply by preventing an undue assimilation of the fatty ingredients of the food. Excessive fatness is a vexatious burden, and there is no longer any excuse for enduring it, since Allan's Anti-Fat is an effectual remedy for this abnormal condition.

Gentlemen—I lost three pounds while taking one bottle of Allan's Anti-Fat.
Yours truly, Mrs. M. B. MYERS.

Face to Face with Disease.

How often it happens that although we have witnessed the ravages of disease in the case of others, we disregard his warning signals in our own. It is only when we find him face to face with us that we really perceive how grim he is. Then, perchance, when it is too late, medicinal aid is sought. His avant courier, his forerunner, is physical weakness. Fortify the system, and you are armed against him. The best tonic for this purpose is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which renders digestion easy and complete, nourishes the system, improves the appetite, gives strength-yielding sleep, counteracts biliousness, and keeps the bowels in first-rate order. Leanness, and unnatural wanness and sallowness of the face, are obviated by it, and so genial and beneficent are its effects, that not only is the body invigorated and regulated by its use, but despondency banished from the mind.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure for consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive, and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send, free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and using, in German, French, or English. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. W. Sherar, 149 Powers' Block, Rochester, New York. tjanl

An Age of Surprises.

We are constantly hearing of some new and wonderful invention or discovery, such as the Telephone, Phonograph, Electric Light, &c., which tends to revolutionize all the old-fashioned ideas of what is what. The principal drawback to the use of these new appliances has been the considerable outlay necessary for their introduction; but this difficulty as regards the Telephone has been satisfactorily overcome. A Boston firm has succeeded in producing an instrument that works one mile, which they are able to sell for $3.00 complete. A description of the invention will be found in our advertising columns.

A Change of Public Opinion.

In the history of all systems of finance connected with raising a revenue for public purposes, history works in a circle. The tide seems setting strong in public opinion in favor of honestly managed, properly conducted lotteries, such as the Louisiana State Lottery, organized in 1868, for Educational and Charitable purposes. The scheme offered for the next drawing is extraordinarily liberal. The price of tickets, only two dollars, gives every one a chance to win $30,000, or a less sum. For particulars write to M. A. Dauphin, P. O. Box 692, New Orleans, La.

Political.

The Boston Post of Tuesday published a cock-and-a-bull story purporting to be a despatch sent from Boston to the Chicago Times, the groundwork of the despatch being a pretended letter from a "prominent New York banker and politician" to "a staunch republican" of Boston, arranging the plans for working up an interest in Boston in favor of the renomination of Gen. Grant for President by a series of big receptions, etc. The whole thing is a ridiculously clumsy fabrication, bearing on its face the evidence of its democratic paternity. The names of the the "prominent New York politician" and "staunch republican" of Boston are very carefully not given. Boston's city election came off on Tuesday.

The Washington correspondent of a democratic paper says a prominent democratic member of the Potter fraud committee says he has no doubt the cipher despatches were furnished the Tribune by Gen. Butler; and being asked if the committee would enquire into the matter, replied that "it might be considered in order for the committee to ask Gen. Butler where the despatches came from, but he supposed Mr. Butler would do as he pleased about answering the question." If the cipher despatches are bogus, as some few of the democratic papers pretend to believe, or of trifling moment, as many of the democratic papers argue, how comes it that the manner in which the Tribune gained possession of them is of importance enough to justify investigation by a committee that so far has not dared investigate the ciphers themselves?

"The Leading American Newspaper."

THE NEW-YORK TRIBUNE

For 1879 THE TRIBUNE hopes to continue with increasing success, the work and the methods which through the last year have won such popular approval and borne such ample fruit.

A year ago THE TRIBUNE pointed out the danger to the tranquility of the country, to the Treasury, the currency and the National honor, from the alliance then forming between the Solid South and Tammany Hall. It declared that against this danger the old party of freedom, still the party of the Churches and the Schoolhouse, was the only bulwark; and in behalf of that party, it renewed the old appeal to the National conscience, and the enlightened interest of the big powers.

In all this events have justified it. The year has disclosed the danger THE TRIBUNE predicted, and brought the observance it promised. I now asks those who think well of what it did in this eventful year to help widen yet further its influence by increasing its circulation for the next. It labored to harmonize the Republican party; to divert the attention of its members each other to the common enemy. It exposed Southern claims. It denounced the Southern suppression of the negro vote. It resisted debasement of the currency. It endeavored to sustain the Treasury in advancing to specie payment. It strove to promote a practical reform in the Civil service. It vindicated the legitimacy of the Republican Administration. It crushed assailants by demonstrating the dishonest purposes of the Democratic leaders to buy the Presidency they had fairly lost at the polls. For these services a distinguished member of the Administration has declared that the Republican party and the country owe THE TRIBUNE a debt of gratitude so great that, despairing full payment immediately, they must imitate the Treasury and fund it! Leading Republicans outside of and even opposed to the Administration have every where gratefully expressed similar opinions.

THE TRIBUNE now warns the country that, inspiring as these recollections have been, it has not ended the danger. The Democrats and Greenbackers, if united, could have reversed the verdict of 1876. They will try next time. They already have the Solid South to begin with, as well as the evidence of the control their union would give in some Northern States. To prevent such a union from sweeping the country, we must keep the Republican party in the highest state of discipline and efficiency, and must educate the voters. It friends know any better agency for such education than the Tribune, they, by all means use it; if not, they surely ought to make every effort to push The Tribune's circulation.

THE TRIBUNE is now spending more labor and money than ever before to deserve the distinction it has so long had, of the largest circulation among the best people. It is the only newspaper in the country maintaining a special telegraphic wire of its own between its office and the National Capital. Its Washington dispatches are much the fullest anywhere published. Its London correspondent, George W. Smalley, is recognized as the foremost in that field, on the American press. Its other foreign correspondence ranks exceedingly high. Its scientific, religious and literary intelligence is often fuller, and generally more newsy than that furnished by journals expressly devoted to these specialties. Its critical departments, all conducted by the old heads, remain the acknowledged authorities:

New Books.....GEORGE RIPLEY, LL. D.
Music.....JOHN R. G. HASSARD.
The Drama.....WILLIAM WINTER.
Art.....CLARENCE COOK.

THE SEMI-WEEKLY TRIBUNE

is especially adapted to the large class of intelligent readers too far from New York to depend on its papers for the daily news, who nevertheless want the editorial, correspondence, book views, scientific matter, lectures, literary miscellany, etc., for which The Tribune is famous. This is the cheapest and most popular journal for readers, the best edition of The Tribune published. It contains sixteen pages, and is in convenient form for binding. It is by the most successful Semi-Weekly in the country—having four times the circulation of any other in New York.

THE WEEKLY TRIBUNE

Remains the great favorite for our substantial country population. A high authority has said of it that "Horace Greeley's Tribune has done more to make good farmers and good citizens than any other single influence that has ever existed in this country." It is now larger than any of its rivals; its new form (sixteen pages, carefully indexed and suitable for binding), has proved exceedingly popular, and its large, clear type, so different from most papers of its class, is a special attractiveness. Its agricultural department, under the special management of an experienced agricultural editor, with a staff of several assistants, and a large corps of special contributors, is more carefully conducted than ever, and it has always been considered the best. Its market reports are the official standard for the Dairymen's Association, and have long been the recognized authority on cattle, grain and general country produce. There are special departments for the young and for household interests; while poetry, fiction and the humors of the day are all plum-cantly supplied. During the ensuing year there may also be expected, among many other features: (1.) Some Personal Reminiscences of Early American History, by ALICE HAWTHORNE. (2.) Further Contributions on Southern Agriculture, by SOLON ROBINSON. (3.) Occasional Papers on Current Topics, by the Rev. JOHN HALL, D. D.; (4.) Occasional contributions by GAIL HAMILTON; and other attractive matter from writers of equal note.

TWO PAPERS IN ONE.

☞ THE WEEKLY TRIBUNE is now so arranged as to make two complete and separate papers of eight pages each, its first containing the news and politics, the second, the correspondence, fiction, poetry, household departments, etc. Both sides of the family can thus enjoy the paper at the same time. During the past year readers have found this a specially attractive and convenient feature.

NO RIVALS TO COMPARE IT WITH.

Both WEEKLY and SEMI-WEEKLY TRIBUNE are now entirely unlike the corresponding issues from any other daily office in New York—wholly different in form and appearance, with larger type, and only comparable to the three and four dollar religious or literary journals. The price, however, remains so far below theirs as to defy competition; and the premiums are more valuable and substantial than have ever been offered by other newspapers.

WEBSTER'S UNABRIDGED FREE!

Last year THE TRIBUNE offered to five years' single subscribers the unprecedented gift of WEBSTER'S QUARTO PICTORIAL DICTIONARY, which retails in bookstores for $12. The offer proved probably the greatest success in the history of newspaper premiums. TEN THOUSAND of those huge Dictionaries were distributed, and not one single complaint has been made that we have failed with his premium. We have at last succeeded in renewing the very favorable contract with the publishers of the Dictionary (long and still the best of the popular premium), until April 1, 1879. The publishers positively refuse to let it extend beyond that date. We therefore urge all to avail themselves of the offer at once, and to advise their friends and neighbors of the opportunity. We are extending the terms of the offer, this year, a little, as follows:

We will send WEBSTER'S Unabridged Pictorial Quarto Dictionary (edition of 1879), bound in sheep, the latest and best edition, as a gift to any one remitting as follows:

$16 for a single 5 years' subscription, in advance, or	THE WEEKLY TRIBUNE.
$16 for 8, 1 yr. subscriptions to
$15 for a single 5 years' subscription, in advance, or	THE SEMI-WEEKLY TRIBUNE.
$20 for two 1 yr. subscriptions to
$30 for a single 3 years' subscription, in advance, to	THE DAILY TRIBUNE.

For a Club of 5 Weeklies—Any five TRIBUNE NOVELS.

For a Club of 10 Weeklies,	An extra copy of THE WEEKLY, or a copy of the Greely Memorial Volume, in cloth, or any eight of THE TRIBUNE NOVELS.
For a Club of 20 Weeklies,	THE SEMI-WEEKLY TRIBUNE or one extra WEEKLY and either Mr. Greeley's "Political Economy," or "What I Know of Farming" ($1.50 each at retail).
For a Club of 30 Weeklies,	THE SEMI-WEEKLY TRIBUNE and any eight of THE TRIBUNE Novels; or Mr. Greeley's "Recollections of a busy life," or Sheep, ($2.50 at retail), and the same Novels.
For a Club of 50 Weeklies,	THE DAILY TRIBUNE 1 year, and either of the above mentioned books, or the series of TRIBUNE Novels

[One Semi-Weekly will count as two Weeklies in the above. Double numbers of THE TRIBUNE Novels count as two.]

Instead of any five Tribune novels, we will send, if preferred, pamphlet copies, in good type, of THE TRIBUNE'S verbatim report of The Prophetic Conference, and THE TRIBUNE'S full exposure of the Cipher Telegrams. The same in sheets form, in place of any three TRIBUNE novels.

Further information, posters and specimen copies, sent on application. Address simply

ANTI-FAT

ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT is the great remedy for Corpulency. It is purely vegetable and perfectly harmless. It takes on the food in the stomach, preventing the conversion into fat. Taken according to directions, it will reduce a fat person from 3 to 5 pounds a week.

In placing this remedy before the public as a positive cure for obesity, we do so knowing its ability to cure, as attested by hundreds of testimonials, of which the following from a lady in Columbus, Ohio, is a sample: "Gentlemen—Your Anti-Fat was duly received. I took it according to directions and it reduced me five pounds in a week, and the result was that I immediately sent to ACKERMAN'S drug-store for the second bottle." Another, a physician, writing for a patient from Providence, R. I., says: "Your notice have reduced her weight from 196 pounds to 182 pounds, and there is a general improvement in health." A gentleman writing from Boston, says: "Without a moment's hesitation I do recommend the virtues of Allan's Anti-Fat reduced me four pounds in a week." The well-known Wholesale Druggists, SMITH, DOLLITTLE & SMITH, of Hoosick, Mass., write as follows: "Allan's Anti-Fat has reduced a lady in our city seven pounds in three weeks." A gentleman in St. Louis writes: "Allan's Anti-Fat reduced my twelve pounds in three weeks, and attributes it to have just received the proper means of counteracting its use." Messrs. POWELL & PLIMPTON, Wholesale Druggists, of Buffalo, N. Y., write: "TO THE PROPRIETORS OF ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT: Gentlemen.—The following report is from the lady who used Allan's Anti-Fat: "It (the Anti-Fat) had the desired effect, reducing the fat from two to five pounds a week until I had lost twenty-five pounds. I hope never to regain what I have lost." Anti-Fat is an unrivaled blood-purifier. It promotes digestion, curing dyspepsia, and is also a potent remedy for constipation. Sold by druggists. Pamphlet on Obesity sent on receipt of stamp.

BOTANIC MEDICINE CO., PROP'RS, Buffalo, N.Y.

WOMAN

By an immense practice at the World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, having treated many thousand cases of those diseases peculiar to women, I have been enabled to perfect a most potent and positive remedy for those diseases.

To designate this natural specific, I have named it

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

The term, however, is but a feeble expression of my high appreciation of its value, derived from personal observation. I have, while witnessing its positive results in the relief and cure of diseases unique in the organism of woman, singled it out as the climax or crowning gem of my medical career. On its merits, as a positive, safe, and effectual remedy for the class of diseases, and one that will, at all times and under all circumstances, act in perfect harmony with or make my reputation as a physician; and so confident am I that it will not disappoint the sanguine expectations of a single lawful lady who uses it for any of the affections for which I recommend it, that I offer and sell it under A POSITIVE GUARANTEE. (For conditions, see pamphlet wrapping bottles.)

The following are among those diseases in which my Favorite Prescription has worked cures, as if by magic, and with a certainty never before attained by any medicine: Leucorrhœa, Excessive Flowing, Painful Menstruation, Unnatural Suppression from Unnatural causes, Irregularities, Weak Back, Prolapsus or Falling of the Uterus, Anteversion and Retroversion, Bearing-down Sensations, Internal Heat, Nervous Depressions, Debility, Despondency, Threatened Miscarriage, Chronic Congestion, Inflammation and Ulceration of Uterus, Impotency, Barrenness, or Sterility, and Female Weakness. I do not product this medicine as a "cure-all," but it admirably fulfills a singleness of purpose, being a most perfect specific in all chronic diseases of the Uterine system of women. It will not disappoint, nor will it do harm, in any state or condition.

Those who desire further information on these subjects can obtain it in THE PEOPLE'S COMMON SENSE MEDICAL ADVISER, a book of 1000 pages, sent, post-paid, on receipt of $1.50. It treats minutely of those diseases peculiar to females, and gives much valuable advice in regard to the management of those affections.

Favorite Prescription sold by Druggists.

GREAT THROUGH LINE

AND

UNITED STATES MAIL ROUTE

The attention of the travelling public is respectfully invited to some of the merits of the great highway, in the confident assertion and belief that no other line can offer equal inducements as a route of through travel. In

Construction AND Equipment

THE

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

stands confessedly at the head of American railways. The track is double the entire length of the line, of steel rails laid on heavy oak ties, which are embedded in a foundation of rock ballast eighteen inches in depth. All bridges are of iron or stone, and built upon the most approved plans. Its passenger cars, while eminently safe and substantial, are at the same time models of comfort and elegance.

The Safety Appliances

in use on this line well illustrates the far-seeing and liberal policy of its management, in accordance with which the utility only of an improvement and not its cost has been the question of consideration. Among many may be noticed

THE BLOCK SYSTEM OF SAFETY SIGNALS,

JANNEY COUPLER, BUFFER AND PLATFORM,

THE WHARTON PATENT SWITCH,

AND THE

WESTINGHOUSE AIR-BRAKE,

forming in conjunction with a perfect double track and road-bed a combination of safeguards against accidents which have rendered them practically impossible.

and to all principal points in the far West and South with but one change of cars. Connections are made in Union Depots, and are assured to all important points.

The Scenery

OF THE

PENNSYLVANIA ROUTE

is admitted to be unsurpassed in the world for grandeur, beauty and variety. Superior refreshment facilities are provided. Employees are courteous and attentive, and its an invariable result that a trip by the Pennsylvania Railroad must form

Gen. Natt Head.

The November number of the Granite State contains a biographical sketch of Natt Head, Governor-elect of New Hampshire. The sketch is preceded by a steel engraving, which though on duty for Col. Clark's History of Manchester, is still like the subject, in excellent condition. The writer shows that the general comes from good stock, and is a hard-working, active business man; refers to his important service as Adjutant-General from 1864 through the remainder of the war, and gives other data of interest. Everybody in New Hampshire knows Natt Head, and about the entire State has seen his picture. When it was announced that he would take the republican nomination for the office of governor, the leading politicians of both parties knew that the name of the next governor of New Hampshire would be Head. The democrats once had a bad "spell" of this name, and their mistake in the Senatorial contest in 1875, was the means of arousing the slumbering forces of the republicans for the next battle, and was followed by a rebuke that has since cost them all their chances for power in the State, and more than anything else perhaps has tended to make Mr. Head so popular with those who before that did not know him. The General will have abundant time to prepare himself to assume his gubernatorial honors, and a man who has well and faithfully performed the duties he has before undertaken, cannot, it would seem, fail to ably and acceptably fill the office of governor and "commander-in-chief of the army and navy and all the military forces of the State by sea and land."

Boston & Maine Railroad Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Boston & Maine railroad was held in Lawrence on Wednesday, and the following gentlemen chosen as directors: Nathaniel G. White, Lawrence; George C. Lord, Nathaniel J. Bradlee, John F. Osgood, Boston; James R. Nicholls, Haverhill, Mass.; Samuel E. Spring, Portland; Nathaniel W. Farrell, Lewiston, Me.; Amos Paul, South Newmarket; William S. Stevens, Dover.

Accidents from the Flood.

An express train on the Central Vermont railroad went through a culvert near Bartonsville, Vt., that had been undermined by the heavy rain, on the evening of Tuesday, the 10th inst., the entire train going down. The fireman and an express messenger were instantly killed, the baggage master fatally injured and the engineer badly hurt. There were only eight passengers in the train, none of whom were seriously hurt.

A train on the Boston, Concord & Montreal road was wrecked about two miles above East Concord, N. H., at nine o'clock Tuesday evening, by the giving away of the track at a point where there was no culvert or stream of water. Nine persons were injured, the fireman, Jack Lawler, fatally, and the engineer badly. The engine went down an embankment seventy feet high.

The through express freight train from Boston, with two engines, went into the river near Wentworth, on the Boston, Concord & Montreal road, where the trestle was washed away. No lives lost.

At Bath, Littleton, Farmington and other places, great damage was done. At the latter place several bridges were carried away, and over $2000 of loss will result.

In Maine, Massachusetts and Connecticut many bridges were destroyed, railroads injured and highways badly washed. At West Deerfield, Mass., a train was wrecked and one man injured. The Mill river was higher than ever before known, even at the time of the disastrous flood; bridges were carried off, and the railroad embankment demolished. Buildings were swept away in many places.

Many minor disasters to shipping are reported, mainly to small craft.

News and Notes.

Wade Hampton's leg was cut off below the knee on the 10th inst.

At Plymouth, Pa., while mine rails were being lowered into the Hudson mine, one fell to the bottom of the shaft, tearing off one of Edward Pierson's legs, and seriously injuring John Martin and two boys. Pierson is dead.

Two negroes, Henry Jackson and Henry Martin, found guilty of murder in the first degree at Nebraska City, Monday, 9th inst., were lynched next morning by 300 citizens.

Early Tuesday morning Frederick Eckert of New Haven, Conn., baker, was frying doughnuts when the pot of lard took fire. Eckert, to save the building, threw the pot out of the window, but was terribly burned about his face and body. The pot and burning lard fell on Gottlieb Beck, Eckert's wagoner, in the yard, and he was also severely burned. The cases of both are serious.

Owing to charges against each other, at the Michigan State University at Ann Arbor, Monday, a fight took place between Dr. Franklin, homoeopath, and Dr. McLean, allopath. The latter has instituted legal proceedings against Franklin.

The literary fame of the late George Henry Lewes will be overshadowed by that of his brilliant wife, "George Elliot," but he was a man of account, nevertheless. He was an industrious writer for the London reviews and magazines, and himself founded the Fortnightly Review. His philosophy was that of the positivists and this was his favorite study, although he could turn his hand to any kind of writing from tragedies to biographies. His "Life of Goethe" and his "History of Philosophy from Thales to Comte" will at least have more than a passing reputation. Mr. Lewes was a philosopher in his every day life. The first Mrs. Lewes was a bad woman, but Lewes had once mercifully condoned her faults and under the English law this debarred him from a divorce. After their final separation, he came to love Miss Marian Evans, already famous as a novelist, but he could not marry her. Deliberately and not without taking counsel with their intimate friends, they lived together as man and wife without marriage for many years, and society partially connived at it. Their quiet receptions at least were always well attended, and the calm serenity of the couple was a bar to overmuch gossip. On the death of the first Mrs. Lewes, a year or two ago, they were married.

"No Name Series."

The last volume of this series, which, since the summer of 1876, Messrs. Roberts Brothers of Boston have from time to time issued, comes to us as a "Masque of Poets," a volume of three hundred pages, containing poems by various authors, all of whose names are carefully withheld under the Masque. The publishers anticipate much fun for themselves and their contributors, in the request to have us guess the authors of the poems, and expose our ignorance by returning to them a table of contents filled out with the names of the poetic Masqueraders. We shall not do this on purpose. We are just willing to guess at the authoress of poem on page fifty, which we reprint to-day. We are inclined to take the hint contained in the latter part of Guy Vernon, a novelette in verse, and not disclose the plot in the story until we have read it. We find in the last stanza of the lines we copy to-day, an aroma of the honeymoon, sweet and salient. There are many good things in the collection, and we advise our readers to call at Goodrich's store, where the book can be obtained for one dollar. Like the others of the series it is in cloth, gilt and red lettered, uniform with the other books of this series, which have an additional attraction in stimulating the reader's curiosity as their authorship.

ON APPLEDORE.

Come then with me, dear love, and see the day
Die on the sea and o'er the distant land,
This last faint glow of twilight fade away,
The while I hold in mine thy gentle hand.

The lessening light gleams on yon leaning sail;
Slowly the sun has sunk beyond the hill,
And sombre night in silence draws her veil
Over us two, and everything grows still,

Save when the tide, with constant ebb and flow,
Of wandering waves that greet the steadfast shore,
Flashes fair forms of foam that falling throw
Their ardent arms round rocky Appledore.

Faint comes the cry of wild fowl in their flight
And chirp of crickets in the clover by,—
A meteor falls across the face of night
Sweeping its silver shower through the sky!

Or like the thread of some delicious dream,
Some far-off sand-bird pipes its evening song,
While overhead the stars of Heaven beam,
And bright Arcturus leads the sparkling throng.

Low whispering by us with a silent kiss
Comes the sweet south wind o'er the slumbering sea;
Thou dearest! can such perfect joy as this
Be always mine, to drift through life with thee?

—From A Masque of Poets.

Political.

The municipal election in Boston on the 10th inst. resulted in a clean sweep for the democracy, that party having secured the mayor, nine or ten of the twelve aldermen, forty-eight of the seventy-two councilmen, a majority of the school board, and the street commissioner. Boston will now have a chance to enjoy, what it has not had recently, a good square partisan government, of the democratic brand.

The "great and good, the godlike Hampton" has been elected United States senator by the South Carolina legislature, only two members voting against him; those two were Miller and Simmons, the colored representatives from Beaufort. Had not the tissue-ballots sent to Beaufort by the Hampton managers been delayed in transit by the sticking of a steamboat on a bar, until it was too late to use them, Hampton's election would have been unanimous.

The democrats say that if the cipher despatches sent by the men who tried to buy the Presidency for Tilden and reform are to be investigated, the enquiry must include the republican cipher despatches also. That is right; let us have no more such one-sided shams as the pretended investigation in which the Potter fraud committee has so far been engaged.

Gen. Banks, it is stated, is willing to serve his country a little longer, and would like to be United States marshal for Massachusetts. Marshal Usher, the present incumbent, is strongly intrenched in his place, and the general will have to bring a powerful corps of political influences if he expects to dislodge him.

—Even a clothes line becomes unsteady when it has too many sheets in the wind.

—"How much shall you charge for a bologna sausage that will reach from one of my ears to the other?" asked a soldier in Berlin of a dealer. "Fifty kreutzers," was the reply. "I take the offer," replied the soldier, "one of my ears was cut off in battle a thousand miles from here." There was a compromise.

—Two acute traders do a lively business in hams at San Francisco every night. One draws up his wagon, lights his torch, and announces hams for sale at twelve cents a pound; his partner stations himself alongside, as if he were a rival, and announces hams at ten cents a pound. The public, imagining that this trade is a fight, at once buys the partner's stock, which is from time to time stealthily replenished from the other wagon.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

CONSUMERS should bear in mind that the incomparable "Royal" is now the only Baking Powder in the market made from pure Grape Cream Tartar, imported exclusively for this powder direct from the wine-growing district of France. An old experienced housekeeper writes that, although she has to pay a few minutes more for the "Royal," finds that it goes so much further and works so much better, that it is economy to use it. Another says she uses the powder in puddings, cakes, and all sorts of pastry, without eggs. An old lady writes that it makes the only biscuit her dyspeptic husband can eat. This is because the best and most wholesome materials are used. Approved by the New York Board of Health, and by such eminent chemists as Dr. MOTT, New York; Dr. HAYES, Boston; Prof. GENTH, Philadelphia, etc. Sold in tin cans only. (tuseptl079

A NEW IDEA!

KENNEDY'S

Cakes and Jumbles

ETC., ETC.

MADE BY MACHINERY!

Having purchased the "HOLMES JUMBLE AND CAKE MACHINE," with the exclusive right of the New England States, I now propose to place in every first-class Grocery a variety of rich Cake Goods in addition to the 144 kinds of Crackers and Biscuit now manufactured by me, at a price that will enable them to be used freely, and which is far below what the same class of goods can be made for by hand as at present. At the same time they will be found much superior, being uniform, and much lighter and more delicate than can possibly be produced by hand.

The following are some of the varieties now produced by the machine:

Confectioner's Jumbles,		Sugar Plum Drops,
Cinnamon	"	Variegated	"
Marble Top	"	Drop Pound Cake,
Spice	"	Kisses,
Fruit	"	Vanilla Cakes,
Common	"	Spice	"
Almond Maccarons,		Molasses Drop Cakes,
Cocoanut	"	Cinnamon Wafers,
Almond Drops,		Lady Fingers,
Fruit	"	Sponge Drop Cakes,
Cocoanut	"	Half Fingers,
Chocolate	"	Spice	"

I propose to place in every Store a Sample Box, and a trial of them will prove all this advertisement calls for. If your grocer has not already these goods in stock, ask him to order from the Sole Mart in the New England States. tdl4

THE CITY.

The schooner Active has gone into winter quarters at Marcy's wharf at the south end; the Union Flag lies at Spring wharf, and the Jesse Williamson, Jr., at Sise's wharf.

The fourth assembly of the Granite State base ball club comes off at Mechanics' hall this evening. The success attending this course of dances shows that the boys have many friends.

The train due here at seven o'clock from Boston on Wednesday evening had eleven cars full of passengers, drawn by two engines, and every passenger had one or more packages. The nine o'clock train had seven full cars.

Sheriff Kent has left town on a business engagement, to be gone several days; as there is no deputy of the sheriff resident in this city, Deputy Sheriff John Newell Brown of Seabrook is in town, to transact business in the absence of the sheriff.

More than thirty CHRONICLES were stolen from subscribers' doors Wednesday morning—a larger number than we have had pilfered for years on any one day. Wednesday was "railroad day," and there was an early train from this city for Boston. Confound railroad day!

There was ice four inches thick in the Eldredge brewery reservoir, and in ponds in the woods, on Saturday, the 7th inst., but on the following Tuesday it had disappeared. The ice on some of the streams emptying into Great bay is strong enough now to fish through with safety to the fishermen.

The gale of the 10th inst. made a scattering among the small limbs of the trees around the city, and blew down a chimney of a house belonging to Mrs. Robert Grey, on Vaughan street. Some parties paraded around during the evening, trying to get up a square bet on the falling of the North church steeple, but there was too much dampness for them to find takers going around loose.

We wish to call the particular attention of our readers to the lecture in Music Hall on Sunday evening. The object of the meeting is a worthy one as will be seen by referring to the advertisement elsewhere. It is understood that His Honor, the Mayor, has consented to preside, thereby fully endorsing the project. Besides, the lecture itself will no doubt be worth the nominal price of admission, as Mr. Pitblado possesses something very like eccentricity of character and manner (behind a good deal of common sense) that makes him popular with the masses.

Willis G. Myers, at the Congress Block bookstore, has a large variety of new books, many of them very appropriate for Christmas gifts. An early call while the assortment is full will secure a satisfactory purchase. Here are to be found "Story of a Cat," translated by T. B. Aldrich; "Ike Partington;" "Play-Days," by Miss Sarah O. Jewett; "Drift-Weed," Mrs. Thaxter's last book of poems; "The School-Boy," by Oliver Wendell Holmes, a beautiful gift; "Rock of Ages," and the elegant edition of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," etc., etc. Mr. Myers claims that he is selling books lower than they were ever offered before in Portsmouth.

Every lady who returned from Boston on Wednesday evening seemed to have several small packages, such lots of little things they had "bought so cheap in Boston," they said. It seems that Jordan, Marsh & Co., and other large dealers, some time since went largely into fancy goods and perfumery. Knowing that these articles were sold by some dealers at a good profit they put the prices down to about what it would cost an ordinary dealer to purchase these goods, and as an advertisment it pays. The result is, all the New England ladies when on a visit to Boston lay in a stock of French soaps and perfumery. Of course they can by consulting the advertisements of local papers find such things at home at reasonable prices, but there seems a fascination in this annual shopping raid on Boston. The remedy in part may be found in a judicious system of advertising in local papers by local dealers. In cities out of Boston where the local merchants are careful in this respect the people patronize home dealers, but if there is anything to sell the seller must not take it for granted it will sell itself without being properly, specifically and systematically kept before the people by advertising.

THE MECHANICS' CELEBRATION.

The celebration of the seventy-sixth anniversary of the organization of the Associated Mechanics and Manufacturers of the State of New Hampshire, at Mechanis' hall on the evening of the 10th inst., was a complete success in all particulars, notwithstanding the night was one of the most inclement of the season. The reading-room, which is always attractive, had additional decorations of paintings and busts, with ivy and other plants. The supper tables were bountifully provided, and show great taste in the general arrangement. Bouquets were distributed among the viands, which contributed to the tempting display. At 7:30 o'clock, on the arrival of the out of town visitors, the members of the association with their ladies and invited guests sat down to the banquet. The President, Mr. Lewis G. Davis, made some brief remarks, followed by prayer by Chaplain E. M. Brown. After these preliminaries the feast commenced, and continued about an hour and a half, when the tables were moved from the hall, and the second part of the programme, the installation of officers-elect, etc., was taken up. Mr. John Pender, moderator of the evening, made a very pleasant speech, and then the following officers-elect, being presented by Ex-Marshal Aaron Young, were duly installed: Pres., Thomas E. O. Marvin; Vice Pres., William A. Hodgdon; Treas., John Knowlton; Sec., Joseph R. Curtis; Dep. Sec., Edward J. Moulton; Marshal, Frank W. Miller; Dep. Marshal, John Pender; Standard Bearer, John M. Davis; Trustees, Michael J. Vaughan, Oliver H. Locke, Joshua M. Vaughan, William C. Billings, Chas. E. Leach, Chas. H. Downs. President Marvin took his seat, and other business was transacted, including the appointment of the Condolence, Reading Room, Relief, and Land and Building committees.

A new "Old Lang Sync" written by Mr. Frank W. Miller, was then sung, Mr. Edwin A. Tilton presiding at the piano. Short and interesting speeches were made by Mr. E. M. Brown, Mr. G. W. Pendexter, Rev. A. S. Palmer, Hon. Frank W. Miller and President Marvin, the latter of whom gave a short historical sketch of the society. Hon. J. F. Paul, President, and Hon. Charles W. Slack, Vice President of the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association, were present and entertained the audience with some interesting remarks. Mr. Paul was once a resident of Portsmouth, and worked in the ship yard of the late George Raynes.

The next feature was the presentation of the following toasts, and their responses: "The health of the President," Thomas E. O. Marvin; "Plane, Anvil and Spade," John Knowlton; "Printers' Craft and Mechanics Arts," Frank W. Miller; "Massachusetts Mechanical and Charitable Association," J. F. Paul and Charles W. Slack. [Messrs. Paul and Slack were the recipients of elegant bouquets, presented by Mrs. Frank W. Miller and Mrs. Charles H. Downs.] The programme for the evening closed by the singing of "Home, sweet home," and then everybody hied to their homes, carrying with them pleasant memories of a most enjoyable five hours' entertainment.

The Association was organized Nov. 4th, 1802, and now numbers one hundred and twenty-five members.

A NEW "OLD LANG SYNE."

Written for the Portsmouth Mechanics' Association Levee, Dec. 6th, 1875.

Let old acquaintance, passed from sight,
Be often brought to mind;
Call each past member back to-night,
And days of old lang syne.
O, never let them be forgot,
Old friends, a goodly line,
Nor changes from our mem'ries blot
The good in former times.

But while our thoughts we turn oft-times
To brothers gone before,
We'll ever keep this truth in mind,
The present still is more;
We'll cherish close the friends we have,
And thus cause less repine
When brothers dear and those we love
Pass to the old lang syne.

We'll "mind our business" while we may,
"Deal justly, and fear not,"
And so put far the evil days
When pleasure's vainly sought.
If with our might our hands we use,
The measure of our time,
Welcome the call we can't refuse,
To join the old lang syne.

So, brothers, here's to new lang syne,
The temperance cup we'll sip;
Let those who will smoke and drink wine,
Pray muddle not our wits.
Let woman come, let strong drink go,
As we meet here each year,
And may our greetings, one and all,
Be full of heartiest cheer.

ADELAIDE PHILLIPPS GRAND OPERA CO.

The greatest operatic event of this season will be the appearance of the celebrated Adelaide Phillipps Grand Opera company on next Tuesday evening, the 17th inst. in Music hall in Verdi's beautiful opera of "Il Trovatore," which will be presented for the first time in Portsmouth within our recollection. The company is very strong, having some thirty-six artists, and is accompanied by the Germania orchestra of Boston. The principals include Miss Marie Stone, soprano, formerly of the Kellogg, Hess and Carleton opera companies; Miss Adelaide Phillipps, contralto, one of the greatest operatic geniuses America has ever produced; Mr. Tom Karl, last season primo tenor with the Kellogg-Carey opera company; Mr. A. E. Stoddard, late of the Brignoli-Phillips Italian opera; Mr. W. H. MacDonald, basso, late of the Hess and Carleton English opera, etc., with Sig. A. Tomasi, musical director. The opera will be admirably given, and a grand chorus is with the company in the production of the famous "Anvil Chorus." Tom Karl appears as Manrico in the world known "Prison or Miserere scene," with Adelaide Phillipps as Azucena and Miss Stone as Leonora. The tickets are to be placed at popular prices—in conformity to custom here—though the price of reserved seats is one dollar in other cities with this company. The sale of seats opens at Preston's drug store on Saturday morning at nine o'clock. See advertisement.

ROBINSON'S EPITOME OF LITERATURE.

This timely publication has reached the second year of its existence, and has so steadily grown in favor with the literary men, book-buyers, publishers and readers, that it now fills a very important office in literary circles. Hereafter the publishers announce the Epitome will be issued semi-monthly, on the first and fifteenth days. The subscription price will be one dollar a year. Each number will have twenty-four pages.

While we are glad to witness the success of any such publication, which is calculated to elevate the tone and character of the books we read by endorsing the good and discountenancing the bad, we are especially gratified to notice the success of one of the Sons of Portsmouth who has not only the courage to strike out in a new field of usefulness, but possesses in a great degree the ability to succeed therein.

PROBATE COURT.

At the Probate Court at Exeter on Tuesday, 10th inst., the following cases of parties in this vicinity were heard:

Estate Samuel M. Hart, Newington; petition of James Hoyt, administrator, to sell real estate; granted.

Estate Daniel Hurd, Portsmouth; will proved. Sarah J. Hurd, executrix.

Estate Merriam L. Staples, Eliot, Me.; Nathaniel Staples, Eliot, appointed administrator; bond $2000.

HOWARD BENEVOLENT SOCIETY.

The last issue of the Journal says this society is about reaching its semi-centennial, the annual meeting of Saturday evening, Nov. 30th, being its 49th. The society was organized at a meeting of thirty-seven gentlemen at the Academy hall, Feb. 16th, 1829, Rev. Mr. Burroughs being in the chair, and Alfred W. Haven, Esq., secretary. Charles W. Cutter, John W. Foster, Ebenezer Wheelwright and Revs. Ashael Davis, Israel W. Putnam and Charles Burroughs were the committee appointed to draught the constitution, and the work of the society has up to the present time been carried on upon the basis established by their report, so well did they design the plan of the institution. The good that has been accomplished in the fifty years has been great, and the quiet dispensation of about $1200 with fair discrimination during the past year, without the payment of a penny beyond the expense of collecting $566.75, indicates the simplicity of the work, the wisdom of the designers, and the faithfulness with which their scheme has been carried out by their successors.

The fiftieth year, which closes on the 16th of February next, is the season for a jubilee. In the course of its existence the ladies have frequently taken hold of the work and added greatly to its means of doing good. There is an opportunity for a crowning festival during the coming winter, which might furnish an occasion for all to give as little or as much as they are able and willing to, and stimulate those whose means will allow to the making up of a fund which would greatly increase the field of the society's operations. The legacies that have been made are all well invested, yielding a fair interest; and the financial disasters of the past few years have little, if any, affected this society. Nevertheless, the treasurer has spent the last cent of the income of the past year, and is greatly in need of money. Donations would be particularly acceptable just now.

At the recent meeting the following officers were chosen:

President—Hon. Ichabod Goodwin.
Secretary—Lewis W. Brewster.
Treasurer, John Stavers.
Directors—William Day, Benj. Cheever, Samuel S. Green, John H. Broughton, Lyman D. Spalding, J. Chaplin Carr, Wm. D. Fernald, John S. Rand, T. E. O. Marvin, Geo. Annable, Wm. A. Vaughan, Jr., and Charles H. Mendum.

The disbursing committees are as follows:

For December, Messrs. Goodwin, Day, Annable.

For January, 1870, Green, Cheever, Vaughan.

For February, Stavers, Mendum, Carr.

For March, Broughton, Spalding, Marvin.

For April to December, Fernald, Brewster, Rand.

THE VICINITY.

The storm of the 10th inst. was the most severe one felt in Dover for years. The wind blew in a large window of the First Parish church, and injured others. The water rose very high in the Cocheco river, and all the low lands were flooded, but no great damage was done. Three and a quarter inches of rain fell.

The Exeter Gazette says: "Hon. Joshua G. Hall of Dover, republican Congressman-elect from the first district, will soon resign his position as United States Attorney for the District of New Hampshire. Among the gentlemen mentioned as his successor are Hon. Samuel M. Wheeler of Dover, Hon. Henry H. Huse of Manchester, Hon. Charles P. Sanborn of Concord, and Col. William H. Hackett of Portsmouth."

Face to Face with Disease.

How often it happens that although we have witnessed the ravages of disease in the case of others, we disregard his warning signals in our own. It is only when we find him face to face with us that we really perceive how grim he is. Then, perchance, when it is too late, medicinal aid is sought. His avant courier, his forerunner, is physical weakness. Fortify the system, and you are armed against him. The finest tonic for this purpose is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which renders digestion easy and complete, nourishes the system, improves the appetite, gives strength-yielding sleep, counteracts billousness, and keeps the bowels in first-rate order. Leanness, and unnatural wanness and sallowness of the face, are obviated by it, and so genial and beneficent are its effects, that not only is the body invigorated and regulated by its use, but despondency banished from the mind.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure for consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive, and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send, free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and using, in German, French, or English. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. W. Sherar, 149 Powers' Block, Rochester, New York. tjanl

A Story About Edison.

Among Edison's first inventions was a contrivance for producing perforations in paper. Among the girls he engaged to work with it was one who attracted his notice one day, and he gazed at her until she became confused, whereupon he abruptly asked her:

"What do you think of me, little girl? Do you like me?"

"Why, Mr. Edison, you frighten me. I—that is—I—"

"Don't be in any hurry about telling me. It doesn't matter much, unless you would like to marry me."

The young woman was disposed to laugh, but Edison went on:

"Oh, I mean it. Don't be in a rush, though. Think it over; talk to your mother about it, and let me know soon as convenient—Tuesday, say. How will Tuesday suit you, next week Tuesday, I mean?"

Edison's shop was at Newark in those days, and one night a friend of his, employed in the main office of the Western Union Telegraph Company in New York, returning home by the last train, saw a light in Edison's private laboratory, and climbed the dingy stairs to find his friend in one of his characteristic stupors, half awake and half dozing over some intricate point in electrical science which was baffling him.

"Hello, Tom!" cried the visitor cheerily, "what are you doing here this late? Aren't you going home?"

"What time is it?" inquired Edison, sleepily, rubbing his eyes and stretching like a lion suddenly aroused.

"Midnight, easy enough. Come along."

"Is that so?" returned Edison in a dreamy sort of way. "By George, I must go home, then. I was married to-day!"

—A noisy fellow annoys a follow.

THE NEW YORK TIMES
For 1879.
ESTABLISHED 1851.
The position of the foremost republican newspaper in the United States will be sustained by The New York Times by the same policy in virtue of which that position has been attained.
The Times will continue to place fidelity in the interests of the Republican Party above the pursuit of personal and private ambition, and will steadfastly insist that the usefulness of any party must be measured by the extent of its devotion to the honor and welfare of the country. In the future, as in the past, the attitude of The Times will be that of independence within the Republican Party. The maintenance of the national credit, the purification of the public service; the advocacy of all seasonable projects of fiscal reform; rigid economy in public expenditure; opposition to monopolies and corporate jobbery in all its forms, and the preservation of equal rights to all citizens, North and South, will be the salient points of the policy of The Times.
The Times will continue to be distinguished as an enterprising, accurate, and carefully edited newspaper. The acknowledged excellence and fullness of its correspondence by mail and telegraph, from all parts of the world, will be adequately maintained, and its facilities for collecting domestic and foreign news will be expanded to meet the increasing demands of our time.
In the sphere of literary and artistic criticism, of scientific, social, and general discussion, The Times will address itself, as heretofore, to the appreciation of the educated and intelligent classes of the American people. It will be lively without being sensational, aggressive without being coarse; at all times it will strive to be fearless and independent in the championship of the right. No theories subversive of the principles on which the sacredness of family ties, and the existence of society alike repose will be promulgated in its columns.
The Times rejects all advertisements of lotteries, of quackish medical pretenders, and of all other agencies by which the insidious poison of vice is disseminated throughout society. It will be in the future, as it has been, a newspaper especially adapted for family reading.
The Weekly Times, containing selected editorials on topics of general interest, and all matter from the columns of the daily issue, as well as a concise summary of political, social, and foreign news, besides other features which recommend it to all classes of readers, is a paper admirably fitted to circulate in every portion of the United States. It will be the aim of its conductors to use every means, not only to maintain its well-earned supremacy, but to make its popularity still more decided.

Established 1756.
The Gazette is published every Thursday, and sent to Subscribers at the low price of $1.50 per year, paid in advance, or $2 at the end of the year.
It contains full accounts of all of importance that transpires in Portsmouth and its vicinity, and a condensed summary of NEWS, foreign and domestic; editorials upon current topics; New Hampshire Items; carefully prepared marine news, containing reports of vessels owned at this port, or officered by men from Portsmouth or its neighborhood; and is just the paper for residents desiring to be posted on all that takes place at home, while to those living in the vicinity of Portsmouth, or to former residents who retain their interest in the "old home by the sea," it is the best means of keeping informed of what transpires in this city.
— THE —
NEW HAMPSHIRE GAZETTE
Contains more original matter
Than any other paper of its size in the State, the editors working more with their pens than with their scissors.

TO ADVERTISERS
THE N. H. GAZETTE
Presents an excellent opportunity for a WEEKLY INVITATION TO CUSTOMERS, at a reasonable rate, and all those who desire to reach patrons in Rockingham and York counties will find it an economical medium. THE GAZETTE is in many instances the only paper taken by families, and it is read to a large extent in localities whence is derived much of the trade of Portsmouth, a fact which our merchants should not fail to bear in mind.

ANTI-FAT

ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT is the great remedy for Corpulency. It is purely vegetable and perfectly harmless. It acts on the food in the stomach, preventing its conversion into fat. It can be taken according to directions, it will reduce a fat person from 3 to 5 pounds a week.
In placing this remedy before the public as a positive cure for obesity, we do so knowing its ability to cure, as evidenced by hundreds of testimonials, of which the following from a lady in Columbus, Ohio, is a sample: "Gentlemen—Your Anti-Fat was duly received. I took it according to directions and it reduced me five pounds. I was so elated over the result that I immediately sent to ACKERMAN'S drug store for the second bottle." Another, a physician, writing for a bottle for a friend, says: "It, in my opinion, will reduce a fat person from 3 to 5 pounds a week."

"Four bottles have reduced her weight from 199 pounds to 192 pounds, and there is a general improvement in health." A gentleman writing from Boston, says, "Without pounds of testimonials, or died, two bottles of Allan's Anti-Fat reduced me four and one-quarter pounds." The well-known Wholesale Druggists, SARGENT, DOOLITTLE & SARGENT, of Boston, Mass., write as follows: "Allan's Anti-Fat has reduced a lady in our city seven pounds in three weeks. A gentleman in St. Louis writes: "Allan's Anti-Fat reduced me twelve pounds in three weeks, and altogether I have lost twenty-five pounds since commencing its use." Messrs. WOODWARD, STIMPSON & CO., Wholesale Druggists, of Buffalo, N. Y., write: "To THE PROPRIETORS OF ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT: Gentlemen.—The following report is from the lady who used Allan's Anti-Fat. "(The Anti-Fat) had the desired effect, reducing the fat from two to five pounds a week until I had lost twenty-five pounds. I hope never to regain what I have lost." Anti-Fat is an unexcelled blood-purifier. It promotes digestion, curing dyspepsia, and is also a potent remedy for rheumatism. Sold by druggists. Pamphlet on Obesity free on receipt of stamp.
BOTANIC MEDICINE CO., PROP'RS, Buffalo, N.Y.

WOMAN
By an immense practice at the World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, having treated many thousand cases of those diseases peculiar to woman, I have been enabled to perfect a most potent and positive remedy for these diseases.
To designate this natural specific, I have named it
Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription
The term, however, is but a feeble expression of my high appreciation of its value, based upon personal observation. I have, while witnessing the positive results in the special diseases incident to the organism of woman, singled it out as the choicest, crowning gem of my medical career. On its merits, as a positive, safe, and efficient remedy for this class of diseases, and one that will, at all times and under all circumstances, act kindly, I am willing to stake my reputation as a physician, and do confidently claim that it will not disappoint the most sanguine expectations of a single invalid lady who uses it for any of the ailments for which I recommend it. that I offer and sell it under A POSITIVE GUARANTEE (for conditions, see pamphlet wrapping bottle.)
The following are among those diseases in which my Favorite Prescription has worked cures, as if by magic, and with a certainty never before attained by any medicine: Leucorrhœa, Excessive Flowing, Painful Monthly Periods, Suppressions when from unnatural causes, Irregularities, Weak Back, Prolapsus, or Falling of the Uterus, Anteversion and Retroversion, Bearing-down Sensations, Internal Heat, Nervous Depression, Debility, Despondency, Threatened Miscarriage, Chronic Congestion and Inflammation and Ulceration of the Uterus, Impotency, Barrenness, or Sterility, and Female Weakness. I do not extol this medicine as a "cure-all," but it admirably fulfils a single class of purposes, being a most perfect specific in all chronic diseases of the sexual system of woman. It will not disappoint, nor will it do harm, in any state or condition.
Those who desire further information on these subjects can obtain it in The PEOPLE'S COMMON SENSE MEDICAL ADVISER, a book of over 900 pages, sent, post-paid, for sixty-five cents. It treats largely of those diseases peculiar to Females, and gives much valuable advice in regard to the management of those affections.
Favorite Prescription sold by Druggists.

RAILROAD.
GREAT THROUGH LINE
AND
UNITED STATES MAIL ROUTE
The attention of the travelling public is respectfully invited to some of the merits of this great highway, in the confident assertion and belief that no other line can offer equal inducements as a route of through travel. Its
Construction AND Equipment
THE
PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD
stands confessedly at the head of American railways. The track is double the entire length of the line, of steel rails laid on heavy cross ties, which are embedded in a foundation of rock ballast eighteen inches in depth. All bridges are of iron or stone, and built upon the most approved plans. Its passenger cars, while eminently safe and substantial, are at the same time models of comfort and elegance.
The Safety Appliances
in use on this line well illustrates the far-seeing and liberal policy of its management, in accordance with which the utility only of an improvement and not its cost has been the question of consideration. Among many may be noticed
THE BLOCK SYSTEM OF SAFETY SIGNALS,
JANNEY COUPLER, BUFFER AND PLATFORM,
THE WHARTON PATENT SWITCH,
AND THE
WESTINGHOUSE AIR-BRAKE,
forming in conjunction with a perfect double track and road-bed a combination against prominent accidents which have rendered them practically impossible.

Daily Chronicle.

Chronicle Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 9th.

The public knows the public work performed by the wise greenbackers who were assembled here a few days ago, for they were not slow in spreading broadcast whatever might, in their august opinion, help the "cause." But I am able to report some of the inside work, from an authentic source, in fact from inside the very secret and very sacred precincts of greenbackism. Their conferences were held for the most part in the Metropolitan hotel. The discussions developed several important points—important to the greenbackers: First, that they must raise funds more liberally than they had been raised up to this point; second, that they must paper the country all over with cheap and easy literature on the beauties of greenbackism; and third, that next year (as this) they must bend all their energies and expend the last available dollar to the end of beating the republicans in Maine, that being the initial canvass of any consequence, and the result there having shown that such work may have a great effect in Massachusetts and elsewhere. The speeches upon these points were long and feeling, especially on the part of several who had devoted their time to speaking and circulating documents without experiencing the pleasure of a dividend. One poor fellow declared that he had spent all his time during the summer making speeches, receiving not a cent for it, and was positively broken and discouraged because of the ungratefulness of republics or something else. It is evident that the receding tidal wave of November rather dashed the hopes of the greenbackers, and they would be willing to accept the money-bags of the bloated bond-holders rather than not to proceed with the work of their glorious mission of giving everybody everything besides plenty of money.

Legislation in the House will be confined largely to the appropriations, although not many days can elapse without a political outburst of some sort. What it will be nobody can tell, but there are probably a score of resolutions already in republican hands calling for inquiries about the cipher despatches, and about the electoral troubles in the south, and it is safe to say that as many "substitutes" are in the hands of democrats to be presented as headers-off of any measure that is likely to give the republicans any advantage. Both parties are working continuously and proceeding slowly.

The little recess of Congress has not probably been spent in vain, for the work of preparing legislation for the two Houses has proceeded well. The debate on the Blaine resolution for investigating election affairs south is laid out and will proceed regularly, Mr. Blaine opening it and Judge Edmunds following with a legal argument on the same side. It is supposed that Thurman, Butler of South Carolina, and other democrats, will respond, and that the debate will become hot and heavy. Another subject that may be brought forward is Judge Edmunds' bill to change the manner of electing President, but it is generally thought it will not be pressed seriously until after the holidays.

Senators Matthews, Lamar and other friends of the Texas & Pacific railroad bill will urge the taking up of that for early action, and it may come to a vote within a few days. Senator Matthews' opening argument in its favor last Tuesday gave its friends great confidence. Senator Johnstone of Virginia will probably present his bill in favor of Huntington's so-called, "Southern Pacific" as a substitute, but that will be voted down promptly as a mere catch-vote affair intended to obstruct the establishment of any competing railroad line to the Pacific, and then the vote on the main question may be reached speedily, and old stagers, as well as many friends of the Administration, predict that it will pass both Houses by a large majority.

Some inquiries have been made as to what will be done with the usual work of tinkering the tariff. It is likely to be postponed to a more favorable season for the free traders. They did not receive any encouragement last year even in the House, and Mr. Wood, of the ways-and-means committee, intimates that efforts will be suspended until the new Congress meets. The crying evils growing out of the sugar frauds, however, may call for a revision of the regulations as to that article. The honest merchants of the country want Congress to reduce and simplify the sugar duties so as to prevent fraud on the government and imposition upon the public; and who is there that will say nay to this? KNOX.

—Look out for stirring events. The time for making egg-nogg is coming.

Portsmouth Chronicle

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 13, 1878.

Greenbackism Redivivus.

Correspondence is now going on between the representative greenback men of New England looking to the holding of a conference in the interests of the "national greenback labor party" shortly. The meeting will probably be held in Boston or Springfield, early in January, and such leaders as Benjamin F. Butler, Wendell Phillips, Charles McLean and E. M. Boynton of Massachusetts, Thompson H. Murch, Selon Chase, E. H. Gove and E. R. Pierce of Maine, George E. Hodgdon of New Hampshire, Bradley Barlow and J. R. Forrest of Vermont, Ex-Governor Sprague, Benjamin G. Chace and William Foster, Jr., of Rhode Island, and the well known leaders in Connecticut, are expected to participate.

The object of this conference is to consolidate the greenback elements in New England, and pave the way for systematic and united work in the future. A platform of essential principles will no doubt be agreed upon, "so that the real currency issue, as presented by the national greenback labor party, cannot be so easily twisted and misrepresented."

The call for the meeting says: "The proposed conference will be composed of men devoted to the success of just principles. It will be a warning to all that the national party is bound to have an organization, ready to draw off the honest voters from all parties in case the people are betrayed. The democratic leaders will see that they cannot make promises now to prevent separate organization, and then betray the masses as they did in 1872 and 1876. It is the policy of the greenback leaders to build up and perfect a strong third-party organization, and then be governed in action by future events."

Local Self Government.

Breathitt county, Kentucky, is luxuriating in local self government to a degree which ought to be satisfactory to even the most ardent supporter of the democratic creed that a State can annul any national law it chooses, and that the people of a district are the only ones who have a right to say how and how far any law shall be enforced. Several gangs of armed ruffians are and for some weeks have been carrying on a little private war on their own hook, and there seems to be no legal way of putting the disturbance down. According to the local self government code of Kentucky the governor of the State cannot employ the State forces to keep the peace and protect the lives and property of peaceable citizens in any county, until application is made to him by the county judge; the county judge of Breathitt was one of the first men killed, so there is nobody now who can legally call on the governor for aid, and violence is triumphant. Meanwhile the peaceable citizens—that is, all those who are not interested on one side or the other in the quarrel, which is but a fight between two factions of the democratic party, no other party being allowed to exist in Breathitt county—are flying for their lives, and the store keepers at Jackson, the nearest town to the seat of war, are hurrying their goods to points where they will not be liable to confiscation.

Our New York Fashion Letter.

OUT DOOR GARMENTS.

The newest materials for cloaks are Sicilienne, showing a very heavy rep, or matelasse which while having a silken surface as formerly is wrought with a rough wool lining inside; rendering it very warm, and dispensing with the use of flannel. The Genovevra cloak is a handsome model recently brought out, and would be suitable for either of the fabrics just mentioned. Then also, we have the Lucien coat, which though in an opposite style is better adapted to some figures. It is slightly double breasted, long, and cut away over a Louis XV vest. One of the most stylish out-door costumes of the season was worn the other day by the celebrated Mrs. Hicks-Lord. It is of black satin made without overskirt, demi-train, and with a close fitting basque. The lower edge of the skirt is trimmed with a deep row of chinchilla fur, sleeves and basque to match; chinchilla muff. This costume was worn when driving. Sometimes an enlivening effect is given to the costume by a bonnet of one or more of the new garnet shades. Such a one was worn the other day by Mrs. Morgan Dix, wife of the widely known rector of Trinity church. The foundation was of garnet velvet laid plainly on, and it was finished by a rich tuft of garnet colored ostrich plumes. Much interest is felt here by ladies who make their own dresses, or who have family sewing done at home, by the announcement that the Wheeler and Wilson machine has at the Paris Exposition taken the only grand prize awarded for sewing machines; this being the more noticeable from the fact that there were eighty other competitors.

NEW LACES.

There was a time when ladies who made pretension to exclusiveness in dress, would have scorned the idea of wearing anything but real lace. This was before the days of chromos, cheap photographs, plated ware, (by courtesy called silver,) and more than all before the fast succeeding introduction of new laces; productions of the loom it is true, but which are now so prettily made up into all manner of graceful ties, that they are purchased and worn by people of position. Breton lace is the most desirable novelty, and has almost superseded Italian (a genteel name for cotton) or the Smyrna which flooded the market some time ago. White ties, whether of lace, muslin or silk, are in general demand, both because they show in good relief on the dark materials of the day, and also because they do not conflict with the many-colored bonnets strings now tied under the chin. For let us remember, a bonnet is not a bonnet unless provided with a pair of strings, and strings would look outlandish unless tied under the chin. Many of us have seen stowed away one or more of those variously colored beaded bags which very old ladies used to take pride in. Bags just like them are now the delight of the young ladies to-day. Then again, in imitation of long ago, we see quaint looking bags made of silk or satin, with drawing string around the top, and suspended from the arm, while other styles are of velvet, plain or embroided, attached to gilt or silver clasps and suspended from the waist. In the latter case, the belt is embroidered; in the former, mounted with gilt or silver to match.

ENTERTAINMENTS.

This is the season for grand dinners, afternoon teas, etc., the ball season proper not commencing until after New Year. As for afternoon teas, sometimes called kettledrums, they are quite the rage. The newest idea is to set out a number of rustic tables covered with cloths gayly ornamented in applique work or embroidery, and capable of holding from two to four persons. Of course the tea cups are matters of great importance; here we find the Limoges porcelain most sought after. The supply corresponds with the demand, and they are imported in dozens expressly for these afternoon teas, at prices varying from $16 to $25 for such special styles of china. More costly cups and saucers are from the Royal Worcester Manufactory, and a notably beautiful set for which $200 per dozen is asked, is of green and several shades of gold on a white ground. For dinners, the different styles of menu cards are objects of great attention, and no small emulation among fashionable people, but they do not serve to indicate the bill of fare, but only the position of the guests at the table. Hand painted cards more or less elaborately executed are generally used, but on a recent occasion elegant sash ribbons three yards in length and a half yard in width were suspended from the chandelier to each lady's plate; the ends being finished with elegant floral designs, in the midst of which the lady's name was skillfully inserted.

DINNER COSTUMES.

A dinner costume recently worn was of deep garnet velvet combined with Pompadour silk covered with an effective floral pattern. It was made Genevieve train and Balsamo basque. The back of the skirt was of velvet; the front of silk draped towards the sides, and finished with bows of silk and velvet united. A rich fringe was run in short horizontal bars connecting this with the velvet train at the back. The basque was high at the throat with elbow sleeves, and vest; the upper portion of the vest being of the silk; the lower part of the velvet. Lace mitts, pearl jewelry, and duchesse lace in the neck gave finish. The highest degree of art, and the greatest extravagance in the employment of material characterises these elaborate dinner costumes, which really are as handsome and costly as evening toilets. The dark side of the picture is that a majority of the people who give such lavish entertainments, as of those who attend them, are more or less heavily in debt, and often the house in which costly dinners take place is mortgaged not once but several times. But the supply of butterflies never gives out. If some one falls away exhausted, others rise up to take their places, so of fashionable entertainments we have always enough and to spare.

News and Notes.

On Sunday, 8th inst., near Summersville, Texas, a number of masked men surrounded the house of John Stull and threw a torpedo inside. On the inmates rushing out, Rufus Smith and John Stull were shot dead, and Smith's wife and a baby were badly wounded. The assassins are unknown.

Whalers that have lately arrived at San Francisco from the Arctic regions report that a ship, believed to be the larger of the vessels of the Swedish polar exploration, is blocked in by the ice above Last Cape.

John H. Fox, of South Boston, a married man twenty-six years old, with two children, was stabbed to death in his own house on Wednesday evening by Edward Donovan, seventeen years old, a brother of Fox's wife. Fox was an industrious, peaceable man, and the young assassin had absolutely no cause for committing the atrocious crime. Hence there will be another noble opportunity for the people of Massachusetts to exhibit a mawkish sentimentality in behalf of a worthless murderer, a la the "poor little Pomeroy" case.

The opium refuge at Shanghai, organized by foreign medical and missionary influence, has met with so much welcome from the natives that it is already self-supporting, and many patients are there trying to break from the slavery of opium.

The Salmon Falls Manufacturing Co. pays a dividend Dec. 16th. The Fitchburg railroad pays three per cent Jan 1st.

The New York Tribune says: "There is a small army of candidates for United States Senator in New Hampshire, but experienced observers declare that Congressman Blair will be the successful one. Whoever is chosen, there is great satisfaction in knowing he will be a republican of sound money principles, instead of a greenback-democrat, as was feared before the election." Nobody in New Hampshire had any great fear in that direction, so far as we know.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

CONSUMERS should bear in mind that the incomparable "Royal" is now the only Baking Powder in the market made from pure Grape Cream Tartar, imported exclusively for this powder direct from the wine-growing district of France. An old experienced housekeeper writes that, although she has to pay a few pennies more for the "Royal," finds that it goes so much further and works so much better, that it is economy to use it. Another says she uses the powder in puddings, cakes, and all sorts of pastry, without eggs. An old lady writes that it makes the only biscuit her dyspeptic husband can eat. This is because the best and most wholesome materials are used. Approved by the New York Board of Health, and by such eminent chemists as Dr. MOTT, New York; Dr. HAYES, Boston; Prof. GENTH, Philadelphia, etc. Sold in tin cans only. dissept19

THE CITY.

Mr. Haven's second lecture at Miss Morgan's school will be given this evening.

The widening of Vaughan street at the northerly corner of Hanover, is being completed.

Pay Inspector Charles H. Eldredge is ordered to hold himself in readiness for duty as inspector of provisions and clothing at Norfolk navy yard.

In our report of the annual meeting of the anti-cruelty society the amount of $16, contributed by four friends to the permanent fund, did not appear on the record; it is in the society's treasury all right, however.

The Pullman train from Bangor for Boston, due in this city at 4:23 o'clock Thursday morning, did not arrive until three o'clock in the afternoon. Washouts to the eastward was the cause of the delay.

The Eastern railroad company has a steam shovel working at the gravel pit at the Sherburne farm, whence gravel is being taken to fill in the bridge leading across the north mill-pond to the Eldredge Brewing company's grounds.

A young man named Leonard was brought to this city from Newburyport on Thursday on a requisition from Gov. Prescott, and lodged in jail. He was indicted at the last term of the supreme court for aiding and abetting Toomey and Tayler in an attempt to escape from jail while awaiting trial.

We are under special obligation to Hon. H. W. Blair for a copy of the Congressional Record. Mr. Blair, who is a candidate for United States Senator, and according to all accounts is making considerable progress toward attaining the nomination, never forgets his friends. We have noticed this as an invariable precedent to political success.

Hon. Frank Jones on Tuesday, 10th inst., presented in the House of Representatives the petition of Col. William H. Sise, Hon. Daniel Marcy, Hon. John H. Bailey, Hon. John H. Broughton and other citizens of Portsmouth that a full pension be granted to Major Alfred J. Hill. The petition was referred to the committee on invalid pensions.

At the regular meeting of New Hampshire Lodge of Odd Fellows, Thursday evening, Bro. Thomas Reese entertained and edified the brethren with an excellent and most interesting discourse on "the last link in the chain—Truth." The Odd Fellows' quartette gave some very acceptable music, and the meeting was greatly enjoyed by all present.

We are pleased to see the name of Gen. Samuel C. Lawrence in the list of directors chosen this week by the Eastern railroad company at the annual meeting. Gen. Lawrence represents a very large interest in the corporation. His experience as president of the road, the thorough manner in which he investigated all its varied relations and his knowledge of its capacities, added to his business sagacity, render him a very valuable man to be placed in the board of directors.

The credit of Mississippi stands high. At an executor's sale in New York, recently, $3000 of Mississippi bonds, due in 1841, with coupons attached, were sold at $5 for the lot! On the same day New Hampshire bonds sold at $112.75 for each one hundred dollars of debt, and Portsmouth city six per cents brought $106.50; but then the city of Portsmouth and the State of New Hampshire, not being high-toned "chivalry" like Mississippi, never deliberately robbed their creditors by refusing to pay their honest debts.

Mrs. Daniel Deshon of Portland, Me., celebrated her 100th birthday on Thursday. She was born in Portland in 1778, and married, at nineteen years of age, Thomas Akers, who was a soldier in the war of 1812. By him she had nine children, four of whom are now living, including Benjamin Aker, street commissioner at Lowell, Mass. She was married twice after Akers' death; but both her other husbands died within a year after marriage. Mrs. Deshon does not look over eighty years old, is in complete possession of her faculties and never was sick in her life till last year, when she had an attack of pneumonia. Her last husband, Daniel Deshon, was formerly well known in this city, where a number of ships were built for him during the brisk times of shipbuilding, the late George Raynes having constructed several for him.

The brig Clara J. Adams, McFadden master, which was wrecked on the beacon ledge in this harbor something over a year ago, and subsequently gotten off, (she was taken off twice before she managed to stay off,) had a hard time of it again on her last passage from Guantanamo to New York, taking the late heavy gale off Hatteras, and having sails blown away and split, forecastle stove, cabin flooded and all movables swept off the deck. She arrived at New York on the 11th inst., with her cargo of sugar unharmed.

The Adelaide Phillipps Grand Opera Company performed "Il Trovatore" in Bangor last Tuesday evening, and in spite of the driving storm Norembega hall was packed before the overture began. The Whig and Courier says the "opera" as a whole was doubtless the most complete and satisfactory presentation of Grand Opera ever given in our city," the solos and duets being rendered in a manner worthy the reputations of the great artistes in the company, the choruses being unusually good, and the orchestral music by the Germanias a conspicuous feature of the entertainment. Same opera by the same company at Music hall next Tuesday; sale of reserved seats commences at Preston's at nine o'clock Saturday morning. See advertisement.

POLICE COURT.

THURSDAY, Dec. 12; Batchelder, J.

John Davis, for vagrancy, was sent to Brentwood for sixty days, and ordered to pay $6 90 costs.

A young man for using profane language to William DeCourcy, against the peace and dignity of the State of New Hampshire and the statute in such case made and provided, was fined one cent —that being probably the amount to which he damaged the State's dignity—costs being taxed at $8.04.

CITY COUNCILS.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, Thursday evening:

Mayor Sise notified the Board that the Eastern railroad corporation is filling in the north millpond near the Creek, and suggested that it would make a worse nuisance than the pool at the foot of Brewster street.

Committee on accounts reported approved bills (monthly) amounting to $4190.32; ordered paid.

A petition from owners of property and residents on Elm court, near the Creek, requesting the city to accept the same, was referred to the committee on laying out and widening streets.

A petition was presented, signed by a large number of business men, requesting the Board to take some action for their protection from hawkers and peddlers who sell their goods in this city without license. The committee on police, to whom was referred a resolution passed by the Common Council in relation to the same matter, reported recommending that the City Marshal be instructed to prosecute persons who may sell goods in violation of the law passed at the last session of the Legislature. Accepted and adopted.

The City Clerk notified the Board that the appropriation for schools is nearly exhausted, and it was voted that the Board of Instruction be notified of the same.

Col. Frank W. Hilton notified the Board that he is to give a course of entertainments at Music hall during the winter, and requested the Board to grant him a course license. Referred to Mayor Sise with power.

ROCKINGHAM COURSE OF ENTERTAINMENTS.

The project of a well devised course of entertainments in Music hall, to which we alluded in the early part of the week, seems to have become a settled affair. Col. Hilton, in the belief that our people would appreciate a series of entertainments in every respect of the best class, has set about to engage the Boston Museum company, the Martinez opera troupe, a leading lecturer and a recitationist and a concert company of the highest rank. This by interviews with the prominent lecture bureaux in Boston he has been enabled to accomplish, in the expectation that our people will liberally respond by generously sustaining the enterprise. The expenditure guaranteed for this enterprise is of no mean amount, because every evening's programme is such that the talent required is of an order that commands high compensation. It remains with Portsmouth people to demonstrate whether or no a course prompted by the belief that there is a spirit of appreciation of this order of amusement and instruction, shall abundantly succeed this winter. With a place of resort in which we all take a commendable pride, with a series of evening entertainments of unquestioned character, and a determination on the part of the projector to omit nothing that shall give an ample return to the patrons, it would seem that Music hall could be filled nightly during this course with an appreciative audience. Success to the Rockingham Course of Entertainments, say we, and let us hope "so say we all of us."

THE VICINITY.

George Dean and John Finley of Saco have been arrested on suspicion of their being the fire-bugs that have been operating in that city and Biddeford recently.

Rufus Haley, of Dover, has bought and sent to Boston for parties there, during the present season, 15,850 barrels of apples. The fruit was sent to Europe from Boston, by steamer.

The ice house in process of erection for the Lynn Milk Company at Hampton, near the Advent chapel, was blown down by the heavy wind of the 10th inst. It will probably be put up again.

Rev. C. F. Holbrook, pastor of the Main street Baptist church in Saco, has received and accepted a unanimous call to the Baptist church in Newton, N. H., and will commence his labors in his new field on the first Sunday in January.

The night train from Boston for Great Falls over the Boston & Maine railroad, Tuesday, 10th inst., while making a running switch at Newmarket, ran a car through the freight house, stove up the doors and damaged four freight cars.

One Ervin or Irvine Cater of Rochester, a young man not over twenty-two years old and very respectably connected, has been held for trial by the Rochester police court without bail, for improper conduct with a little girl named Clough, only six years old.

A Biddeford correspondent of the Boston Globe thus advocates the claim of Mr. Edward C. Moody, of York, late greenback candidate for a seat in the Maine senate from York county, for a position on the governor's executive council: "Mr. Moody received a larger vote than any straight greenbacker on the county ticket. He is also popular with the democrats in York, Eliot, and South Berwick. In the latter town his democratic competitor received but fifteen votes. In his own town he ran 109 ahead of his ticket. He is popular with the representatives-elect from Eliot and York, for largely through his influence the democrats and greenbackers united, and thereby were successful in defeating the radical ring in these towns. It may be against him that he strongly favors E. H. Gove, Esq., of Biddeford, for secretary of State, and stumped for Butler in the late election, but he can stand it."

From the Dover Democrat we learn that the big storm of the 10th inst. did other damage in that city besides that already reported. Several hundred slates were blown from the roof of the Methodist church, and there was a landslide on Cocheco street, near the steam mill, where half an acre of a billside slipped into the road, rendering it impassable. The river ran over the dam four feet nine inches deep; and the water flooded the basement of the Cocheco Print Works, compelling the stoppage of the engine, the water being three feet deep in the boiler room, and about the same depth over the track of the railroad which supplies the furnaces with coal. No. 3 cotton mill was compelled to shut down at noon, owing to back water. The basements of several residences near the river were flooded. At East Rochester the inundation was heavy; the scouring and finishing rooms of the woollen mills were under water, upwards of a hundred bales of wool were afloat in the store room, and many cases of finished goods were thoroughly soaked, while much of the machinery was badly damaged.

Stop Drinking Vinegar.

How many young women who have inherited a predisposition to embonpoint have ruined their health by drinking vinegar to reduce their forms to graceful proportions. Allan's Anti-Fat is absolutely harmless. It promotes digestion, and accomplishes its work simply by preventing an undue assimilation of the fatty ingredients of the food. Excessive fatness is a vexatious burden, and there is no longer any excuse for enduring it, since Allan's Anti-Fat is an effectual remedy for this abnormal condition.

COLORADO SPRINGS, COLORADO, July 15th, 1878.

BOTANIC MEDICINE CO., Buffalo, N.Y.,

Gentlemen—I lost three pounds while taking one bottle of Allan's Anti-Fat.

Yours truly, Mrs. M. B. MYERS.

Face to Face with Disease.

How often it happens that although we have witnessed the ravages of disease in the case of others, we disregard his warning signals in our own. It is only when we find him face to face with us that we really perceive how grim he is. Then, perchance, when it is too late, medicinal aid is sought. His avant courier, his forerunner, is physical weakness. Fortify the system, and you are armed against him. The finest tonic for this purpose is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which renders digestion easy and complete, nourishes the system, improves the appetite, gives strength-yielding sleep, counteracts biliousness, and keeps the bowels in first-rate order. Leanness, and unnatural wanness and sallowness of the face, are obviated by it, and so genial and beneficent are its effects, that not only is the body invigorated and regulated by its use, but despondency banished from the mind.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure for consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive, and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send, free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and using, in German, French, or English. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. W. Sherar, 149 Powers' Block, Rochester, New York. (jan1

THE NEW YORK TIMES

For 1879.

ESTABLISHED 1851.

The position of the foremost republican newspaper in the United States will be sustained by The New York Times by the same policy in virtue of which that position has been attained.

The Times will continue to place fidelity in the interests of the Republican Party above the pursuit of personal aims or private ambition, and will steadfastly insist that the usefulness of any party must be measured by the extent of its devotion to the honor and welfare of the country. In the future, as in the past, the attitude of The Times will be that of independence within the Republican Party. The maintenance of the national credit, the purification of the public service; the advocacy of all measures tending to foster reform; rigid economy in public expenditures; opposition to subsidies and corporate jobbery in all its forms, and the preservation of equal rights to all citizens, North and South, will be the salient points of the policy of The Times.

The Times will continue to be distinguished as an enterprising, accurate, and carefully edited newspaper. The acknowledged excellence and fullness of its correspondence by mail and telegraph, from all parts of the world, will be adequately maintained, and the attention to collecting domestic and foreign news will be expanded to meet the increasing demands of our time.

In the spheres of literary and artistic criticism, of scientific, social, and general discussion, The Times will address itself, as heretofore, to the appreciation of the educated and intelligent classes of the American people. It will be lively without being sensational, aggressive without being coarse; at all times it will strive to be fearless and independent in the championship of the right. No theories subversive of the principles on which the sacredness of family ties, and the existence of society alike repose will be promulgated in its columns.

The Times rejects all advertisements of lotteries, of quacks and medical pretenders, and of all other agencies by which the insidious poison of vice is disseminated throughout society. It will be in the future, as in the past, a newspaper especially adapted for family reading.

The Weekly Times, containing selected editorials on topics of national and general interest from the columns of the daily issue, as well as a concise summary of political, social, and foreign news, besides other features which recommend it to all classes of readers, is a paper admirably fitted to circulate in every portion of the United States. It will be the aim of its conductors to use every means, not only to maintain its well-earned supremacy, but to make its popularity still more decided.

Established 1756.

The Gazette is published every Thursday, and sent to Subscribers at the low price of $1.50 per year, paid in advance, or $2 at the end of the year.

It contains full accounts of all of importance that transpires in Portsmouth and its vicinity, and a condensed summary of NEWS, foreign and domestic; editorials upon current topics; New Hampshire items; carefully prepared marine news, containing reports of vessels owned at this port, or officered by men from Portsmouth or its neighborhood; and is just the paper for residents desiring to be posted on all that takes place at home, while to those living in the vicinity of Portsmouth, or to former residents who retain their interest in the "old home by the sea," it is the best means of keeping informed of what transpires in this city.

—THE—

NEW HAMPSHIRE GAZETTE

Contains more original matter

Than any other paper of its size in the State, the editors working more with their pens than with their scissors.

TO ADVERTISERS

THE N. H. GAZETTE

Presents an excellent opportunity for a WEEKLY INVITATION TO CUSTOMERS, at a reasonable rate, and all those who desire to reach patrons in Rockingham and York counties will find it an economical medium. THE GAZETTE is in many instances the only paper taken by families, and it is read to a large extent in localities whence is derived much of the trade of Portsmouth, a fact which our merchants should not fail to bear in mind.

ANTI-FAT

ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT is the great remedy for Corpulency. It is purely vegetable and perfectly harmless. It acts on the food in the stomach, preventing its conversion into fat. Takes according to directions, it will reduce a fat person from 3 to 5 pounds a week.

In placing this remedy before the public as a positive cure for obesity, we do so knowing its ability to cure, as attested by hundreds of testimonials, of which the following from a lady in Columbus, Ohio, is a sample: "Gentlemen—Your Anti-Fat was duly received. I took it according to directions and it reduced me five pounds. I was so elated over the result that I immediately sent to ACKERMAN'S drug store for the second bottle." Another, a physician, writing for a patient from Providence, R. I., says, "Your bottles have reduced her weight from 189 pounds to 152 pounds, and there is a general improvement in health." A gentleman from Wilkes Barre, Penn., says: "Without special change or attention to diet, I have reduced my weight from 245 pounds to 202 and one-quarter pounds." The well-known Wholesale Druggists, SMITH, HOOLIFF & SMITH, of Boston, Mass., write as follows: "Allan's Anti-Fat has reduced a lady in our city seven pounds in three weeks." A gentleman in St. Louis writes: "Allan's Anti-Fat reduced me twelve pounds in three weeks, and altogether I have lost twenty-five pounds since commencing its use." Messrs. FOWLE & PLIMPTON, Wholesale Druggists, of Buffalo, N. Y., write: "TO THE PROPRIETORS OF ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT: Gentlemen—The following report is from the lady who used Allan's Anti-Fat. 'It (the Anti-Fat) had the desired effect, reducing the fat from two to five pounds a week until I had lost twenty-five pounds. I have never to regain what I have lost.' Anti-Fat is an unrivalled blood-purifier. It promotes digestion, curing dyspepsia, and is also a potent remedy for rheumatism. Sold by druggists. Pamphlet on Obesity sent on receipt of stamp.

BOTANIC MEDICINE CO., Prop'rs, Buffalo, N.Y.

WOMAN

By an immense practice at the World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, having treated many thousand cases of those diseases peculiar to women, I have been enabled to perfect a most potent and positive remedy for these distressing ailments.

To designate this natural specific, I have named it

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

This term, however, is but a feeble expression of my high appreciation of its value, based upon personal observation. I have, while witnessing its positive results in the most obstinate forms incident to the organism of woman, singled it out as the climax or crowning gem of my medical powers. On its merits, as a positive, safe, and effectual remedy for this class of diseases, and on no other, I rest, at all times and under all circumstances, act kindly, I am willing to stake my reputation as a physician; and so confident am I that it will not disappoint the most sanguine expectations of a single invalid lady who uses it for any of the ailments for which I recommend it, but I offer and sell it under A POSITIVE GUARANTEE. (For conditions, see pamphlet wrapping bottle.)

The following are among those diseases in which my Favorite Prescription has worked cures, as if by magic, and with a certainty never before attained by any medicine: Leucorrhœa, Excessive Flowing, Painful Monthly Periods, Suppressions when from unnatural causes, Irregularities, Weak Back, Prolapsus, or Falling of the Uterus, Anteversion and Retroversion, Bearing-down Sensations, Internal Heat, Nervous Depression, Debility, Despondency, Threatened Miscarriage, Chronic Congestion, Inflammation and Ulceration of the Uterus, Inducing Barrenness, or Sterility, and Female Weakness. I do not extol this medicine as a "cure-all," but it admirably fulfills a singleness of purpose, being a most perfect specific in all chronic diseases of the sexual system of woman. It will not disappoint, nor will it do harm, in any state or condition.

Those who desire further information on these subjects can obtain it in THE PEOPLE'S COMMON SENSE MEDICAL ADVISER, a book of over 900 pages, sent post-paid, on receipt of $1.50. It treats minutely of those diseases peculiar to females, and gives much valuable advice in regard to the management of those affections.

Favorite Prescription sold by Druggists.

PENNSYLVANIA

RAILROAD.

GREAT THROUGH LINE

AND

UNITED STATES MAIL ROUTE

The attention of the travelling public is respectfully invited to some of the merits of this great highway, in the confident assertion and belief that no other line can offer equal inducements as a route of through travel. In

Construction AND Equipment

THE

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

stands confessedly at the head of American railways. The track is double the entire length of the line, of steel rails laid on heavy oak ties, which are embedded in a foundation of rock ballast eighteen inches in depth. All bridges are of iron or stone, and built upon the most approved plans. In passenger care, while eminently safe and substantial, are at the same time models of comfort and elegance.

The Safety Appliances

in use on this line well illustrates the far-seeing and liberal policy of its management, in accordance with which the utility only of an improvement and not its cost has been the question of consideration. Among many may be noticed

THE BLOCK SYSTEM OF SAFETY SIGNALS,

JANNEY COUPLER, BUFFER AND PLATFORM,

THE WHARTON PATENT SWITCH,

AND THE

WESTINGHOUSE AIR-BRAKE,

forming in conjunction with a perfect double track and road-bed a combination of safeguards against accidents which have rendered them practically impossible.

and to all principal points in the far West and South with but one change of cars. Connections are made in Union Depots, and are assured to all important points.

The Scenery

OF THE

PENNSYLVANIA ROUTE

is admitted to be unsurpassed in the world for grandeur, beauty and variety. Superior refreshment facilities are provided. Employees are courteous and attentive, and it is an inevitable result that a trip by the Pennsylvania Railroad must form

Daily Chronicle.

Chronicle Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 11th.

The topic of the day is Senator Blaine's speech, which, by friend and foe, is called one of the best of his life. It occupied but about half an hour in the delivery, was spoken in the Senator's best style, and its short, pungent points went right to the understanding if not to the hearts of this large and appreciative audience. It is but justice to say that seldom have the old habitues of the Capitol listened to a speech of so little pretensions that carried so much force. Fortified with the confessions of the southern papers and politicians to the effect that fraud and violence were practiced to a limited extent, he made his argument not from the "bloody-shirt" stand-point, so called, but from the broad, general principle that abridgement of the elective franchise is the violation of republican government, and therefore at the very least works a forfeiture of popular power in Congress and the electoral college to the extent to which this abridgement reduces the number of voters. Mr. Blaine's idea has given rise to a great deal of discussion as to what could be done to prevent these things in future, if they shall be established by the investigation as facts of the past, and also to punish the perpetrators. Many democrats acknowledge the evil and deplore it, but say that it is simply retaliatory and will pass away of itself if let alone. Others go still further and say that it ought not to be palliated, and that the offences ought to be punished and made impossible for the future. The republicans who have studied the question assert that there was plenty of authority in the constitution previous to the three later amendments, to cover the state of affairs complained of. The provision upon which they rely says that

The times, places and manner of holding elections for Senators and Representatives shall be prescribed in each State by the Legislature thereof, but the Congress may at any time by law make or alter such regulations, except as to places of choosing Senators."

That seems to be ample authority for taking the entire control of Congressional elections from the States that can be proved to have abused the privilege of free elections. But besides this, the republicans claim the 14th and 15th amendments provide other means to regulate the matter, chief among which is the remedy pointed out by Senator Blaine, namely, to reduce the representative and electoral-college power of the States violating the law and the constitution. The discussion is likely to take a wide range, and continue for some time, in and out of Congress.

Probably some measures will be adopted shortly for electing or declaring the election of a President that shall avoid the danger and trouble that threatened us at the last Presidential election. Senator Edmunds made a very able and clear argument in favor of his bill, and, substantially, that is what is received with more favor than any other proposed. It provides for an earlier choice of electors, in October, and for their later meeting, in January instead of December, thus giving about two months more time for the States to pass upon and correct any errors in the titles of electors. Other provisions are calculated to guard against a dead lock or a wrong decision by the two Houses, giving each the same power to reject the returns where there appears to be irregularity or illegality. Members of both Houses are almost unanimously in favor of some measure that shall correct the evils that are now possible, and that experience two years ago taught us to dread.

In spite of all the efforts of the greenbackers and gold gamblers combined, resumption seems to be coming as surely as the first of January is approaching. All sorts of business is ready for it now, and the confidence in its success is what more than anything else will ensure it. Sec'y Sherman will be a happy man if it pulls through all right, and receives no set back. KNOX.

—A fond mother, hearing that an earthquake was coming, sent her boys to a friend's in the country to escape it. After a few days she received a note from the friend, saying: "For goodness' sake, take your boys away and send along that earthquake instead."

—The average man will sit passive in a barber's chair and unmurmuringly submit to having his countenance veneered with soap-suds and thumped with a wad of hog-bristles, but if his wife should accidentally spatter him with a dish-cloth—great heavens, what a row!

—The Norwich Bulletin says: "A man will pasture his fowls on his neighbors all summer and preserve the most complacent conscience in the State, but let a sneak thief come along some moonless night and bag a couple of decrepit old hens, and he will raise a howl that can be heard over in Rhode Island."

Portsmouth Chronicle

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 14, 1878.

The Cipher Investigation.

The New York World, the leading organ of the democratic party, wants to know when the Tribune will "lay that petition on the Speaker's table asking the House to investigate the cipher business?"

This is richness. Here the Tribune has been not only charging but proving beyond question that Manton Marble, Smith M. Weed, Coyle, Woolley, Nephew Pelton and other prominent democrats and near friends of Tilden and reform were at one time engaged in a deliberately-planned attempt to buy the Presidency of the United States; it has asserted that a man actually went from New York to Baltimore with $80,000 in his pocket to pay for an electoral vote, and more than hinted that Nephew Pelton was that man; it has persistently jingled the wicked "Copenhagen" on the very doorstep of No. 15 Gramercy park; and further, it has taunted the coparceners, including the great reformer himself, and the Potter frauds and the entire democratic delegation in Congress, with not daring to investigate the shameful transaction it has so ably exposed, though it has promised to aid them by every means in its power if such an investigation should be started—and to give them a lot more than has yet been made public, besides!

The Tribune has been marching up and down before the "democratic reform House," and the Potter fraud committee, and the committee presided over by the festive Glover, (who did such excellent work in unmasking democratic thieves and scoundrels at the last session,) with a very large chip most delicately balanced on its shoulder, beseeching somebody to knock it off just once; but while an anxious public has been breathlessly waiting for the fight to begin, the coparceners and their democratic approvers have vigorously closed their eyes and ears, and positively refused to turn the "bright sunlight of publicity" on the acts of Nephew Pelton and the other confidential supporters of Tilden and reform.

And now, the World wants to know when the Tribune is going to ask for an investigation of the cipher despatches! Why, the Tribune has investigated them already, and given some of the results of its investigations to the world—enough of them to cause democratic disaster at the recent election and to shatter democratic hopes for 1880, and to convict in the public estimation not only Marble and Pelton and the other tools, but "Tilden and reform" himself, of the most disgraceful act ever attempted in the history of American politics. Tilden and his friends can no doubt get along better without an investigation of the cipher despatch business than with it; but unless the democratic party instinctes such an investigation it will be held to approve and endorse all the acts of the would-be buyers of the Presidential office, and if the democratic party chooses to "go to the people" with that load on its shoulders, the republican party and the Tribune can stand it very well.

Congress.

In the Senate, Thursday, a bill was introduced for the reorganization of the army, providing for six general officers, namely, two major-generals and four brigadier-generals for permanent organization, instead of eleven as at present, the reduction to take place by casualties or death; and that the present organization shall consist of not more than 25,000 men, including signal service men. This bill has most of the features of the one introduced by Eph Holland's Congressman, the Bounding Banning, at the last session of Congress, and is chiefly remarkable for abolishing all restrictions to the appointment of ex-rebel officers to positions in the United States army. The fortifications appropriation bill was passed, with two important amendments, one increasing the appropriation for repairs and protection from $100,000 to $200,000, and that for experiments from $125,000 to $250,000.

The House passed the pension bill; and what is of more importance, resolved to adjourn from Friday, the 20th inst., to Monday, Jan. 6th, 1879. This secures the entire success of resumption.

A Model Judge.

Few cities since time began, perhaps, have presented such anomalies under the name of justice and sagacity, as has New York. Just now there is a ripple of excitement there over the case of Justice Pinckney. They have taken the testimony of the hotel-keeper who sold him liquor and never could sell him enough; of the policeman who once arrested him for drunkenness, and locked him up over night; of the janitor, interpreter and marshal of his court, who often saw him under the influence of liquor, on the bench and off; and, lastly, of a frequent spectator of the court proceedings, who declares that he never saw the judge on the bench except in a state of intoxication. And this was a man who held almost the power of life and death over his fellow-beings; who could disgrace by a penal sentence any man or woman brought before him; who punished people for contempt of a court that was worthy only of contempt, and at whose instance hundred of persons, perhaps altogether undeservedly, are to-day suffering the penalties of the law, as imposed by a drunken and irrational sot. The Tribune says: "The fact that this man has been able to retain his seat upon the bench so long, is a good illustration of the power even of a notoriously depraved judge, and should serve as a warning to all whose duty it is to appoint or elect judicial officers."

News and Notes.

Two men named Ketcham and Mitchell, accused of stealing stock, and who recently killed a herder named Stevens, who was trying to arrest them, were on Thursday night taken from the sheriff of Custar county, Nebraska, and his posse, by a mob of armed men, who tied them to a tree and burned them both to death. The mob was composed of twenty-five men, nearly all herders, and masked.

The murdered bodies of Mrs. Hartson and her three children were found on Wednesday in a haystack on their farm, fifteen miles south of Kearney, Nebraska. They are supposed to have been killed on the 8th inst. S. D. Richards is suspected of being the murderer, and it is thought that he left Kearney for the east on the day of the murders.

The surgeon of the Virginia penitentiary, in his annual report, states that of 350 convicts hired by the James River & Kanawha Canal company last year, thirty-two died from bad treatment, exposure and filthy accommodations. This shows nine per cent mortality, while the mortality in prison is only two and a half per cent. The General Assembly has appointed a committee to investigate the matter, with power to send for persons and papers.

Two white men named Smittey and Jerrolds, who on the night of the 7th inst. murdered a negro named Dennis Edwards and his family in Rutherford county, Tenn., have been lodged in jail at Nashville to avoid threatened lynching.

In Providence, R. I., Thursday forenoon, a little boy four years old was left alone in a locked-up house; he found matches, set the house and himself on fire, and was burned to death.

The Afghan authorities of Jalalabad have submitted to the British.

Schooner Caledonia, Capt. Lawson, was wrecked on Libby island, near Machias, Me., on the night of the 2d inst., and the captain, mate, steward and three seamen lost their lives.

John O'Connor, the State prison bird, thief, bounty jumper and deserter from the Union army who was chairman of the military committee of the late democratic House of Representatives of Ohio, and who was allowed by his "reform" brethren to keep his seat until a half-hour before the Legislature adjourned, so that he could draw pay for the entire session, was found guilty last week in the United States court at Cincinnati of forging an affidavit in support of a claim for a pension, and has been sentenced to one year's imprisonment. Mr. O'Connor will now be more than ever an enemy of radical corruption and misrule.

New Hampshire Items.

Wm. Murphy, who was shot by E. J. Knee at Concord recently, died at noon Friday. He leaves a widow and three children. Knee will have to answer to a charge of willful murder.

Miss Ida Parker, aged fourteen, daughter of Phineas Parker of Bartlett, was drowned Thursday afternoon in a brook at Upper Bartlett, while attempting to cross a temporary bridge.

Amos W. Baker of Lancaster, an employe of the Boston, Concord & Montreal railroad company, died Thursday from injuries caused by being knocked from a freight train some two weeks since by an over-head bridge.

Hard on the Chaplain.

The chaplains had a hard time of it in the army. The spiritual harvest was not large, and there was often a good deal of difficulty in the gathering. One Sunday morning while the grand old Army of the Potomac lay in the swamps of the Chickahominy, the chaplain of a certain Massachusetts regiment timidly scratched at the flap of the colonel's tent. He was invited to enter and be seated. "What is it, chaplain?" said the colonel, a terrible fellow to fight; "you seem to be in trouble." "Well, colonel," answered the good man, "I'm almost discouraged about our men." "Our men!" ejaculated the colonel, "what's the matter with the men?" "Well, you see," continued the chaplain, who felt that he had got the wedge fairly in, and might as well drive it home, "the fact is that our men don't take as much interest in religion as I wish they did. I think you and the other officers might help me, but instead of that you set a them a very bad example by your constant swearing. Now, there's the —th Maine, just back of the hill yonder; the colonel is a God-fearing man, he does all he can to help his chaplain, and the result is that only last Sunday they baptized twelve men, while we haven't had a single conversion since we left home." "Is that so?" said the colonel, thoughtfully, and then raising his voice, told the orderly to call the adjutant. "Adjutant," said he when that officer appeared, "the chaplain says that they baptized twelve men in that Maine regiment last Sunday. Detail twenty men for immediate baptism. I won't be outdone by any regiment in the army."

—A tramp at Comstock, Mich., camped over night in the village school-house and burned all the books to keep himself warm.

—Mary Thomas' little lamb recently strayed into the street in New York. James Brophy locked it in his cellar and asked $2 for the. Mary offered $1.50, which offer being refused she went to court. The justice directed the lamb to be sent to the pound, where it could be redeemed for fifty cents.

Stop Drinking Vinegar.

How many young women who have inherited a predisposition to embonpoint have ruined their health by drinking vinegar to reduce their forms to graceful proportions. Allan's Anti-Fat is absolutely harmless. It promotes digestion, and accomplishes its work simply by preventing an undue assimilation of the fatty ingredients of the food. Excessive fatness is a vexatious burden, and there is no longer any excuse for enduring it, since Allan's Anti-Fat is an effectual remedy for this abnormal condition.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

CONSUMERS should bear in mind that the incomparable "Royal" is now the only Baking Powder in the market made from pure Grape Cream Tartar, imported exclusively for this powder direct from the wine-growing district of France. An old experienced housekeeper writes that, although she has to pay a few cents more for the "Royal," finds that it goes so much further and works so much better, that it is economy to use it. Another says she uses the powder in puddings, cakes, and all sorts of pastry without eggs. An old lady writes that it makes the only biscuit her dyspeptic husband can eat. This is because the best and most wholesome materials are used. Approved by the New York Board of Health, and by such eminent chemists as Dr. MOTT, New York; Dr. HAYES, Boston; Prof. GENTH, Philadelphia, etc. Sold in tin cans only. dtsept10 79

THE CITY.

The sale of reserved seat tickets for "Il Trovatore" commences at Preston's at nine o'clock this morning.

Mr. J. Dwight Rundlett has notified the signal bureau that he relinquishes the charge of the display of storm signals at this station, and has recommended Mr. George Nutter as his successor, who will be appointed if he will accept.

The Woman's Temperance League Fair is to be held in Franklin hall on Wednesday and Thursday evenings of next week, when the usual attractions of such entertainments will be offered, and some special ones. See advertisement.

A young fellow was arrested on Market street Friday evening by City Marshal Entwisle, with twelve pairs of stockings and a pair of gloves in his possession, presumably stolen. He gives the name of James Callahan, and hails from Portland.

Ship Coldstream, Marcy, before reported as having been ashore in Tsuma straits and afterward towed back to Hiogo, Japan, is now reported to have subsequently grounded at Kobe on the passage from Hiogo to Yokohama, taken fire, and been considerably damaged. Her cargo was petroleum.

The "Plymouth Pleasure Club," which comprises a part of the company of the U. S. S. Plymouth, are to give a ball in Congress hall next Wednesday evening. All expenses are paid by them, and they are issuing invitations to their friends. They have given balls in other places, which have been noticed in the papers as being well conducted in every respect.

The lecture by Rev. C. B. Pitblado at Music hall Sunday evening will doubtless call out a full house, and give the children a splendid Christmas dinner, the proceeds of the lecture going to that end. The lectures of Mr. Pitblado have been very popular elsewhere, and "Somebody" is well spoken of. His Honor Mayor Sise will preside. See advertisement.

The schooner Lizzie M. Stewart, 85.66 tons register, was totally wrecked near Shag Harbor, Shelburne county, Nova Scotia, in the great gale of the 10th inst. This schooner was built at this port in 1859, and was owned here until recently, when she was disposed of to Massachusetts parties, after which she got ashore near Belfast, Me., while on the way from New York to an eastern port with corn, most of which was lost and all the rest damaged, the schooner being gotten off and taken to Belfast for repairs. At the time of her final wreck she was bound from Prince Edward's island for Boston with a cargo of potatoes.

Willis G. Myers seems determined to convince book-buyers that books can be purchased in Congress street at even lower prices than in larger cities. A complete set of Shakespere's works in one volume, with a dictionary of quotations, for a dollar, a fine edition of Tennyson's and other poets at ninety cents, which last season sold at a dollar and a quarter, and other works at proportionately low prices, will convince visitors at his well-supplied store, that a new era has dawned upon us. We are glad to see that he is having a lively holiday trade under the new dispensation of quick sales and small profits.

We copy from a Florida paper the following notice of a Portsmouth boy, who—after the usual custom of Portsmouth boys everywhere—has won for himself an enviable name for capability and trustworthiness in his profession: "Capt. James Fitzgerald left yesterday, for the Chattahoochee river, to take command of the new steamer T. H. Moore, which is to run in connection with the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile railroad. Capt. Fitzgerald was formerly in command of the City Point and other steamers running on the St. Johns, and is known everywhere as one of the best steamboat men in the south, and a courteous and genial captain."

THE VICINITY.

A correspondent of the Newmarket Advertiser says that Mrs. Matilda Perry of Deerfield, the woman accused of repeated cruel beatings of her adopted child, Hattie E. Chase, twelve years old, and who was indicted at the last term of the supreme court in this city, has been expelled from church.

A dividend of $35 per share has been declared by the York Manufacturing Company of Saco, payable to stockholders of record of Nov. 1st.

The big-hog season has set in with its usual severity. Mr. Richard Taylor, of North Hampton, killed a hog on the 10th inst., weighing 675 lbs., and felt very much elated thereat. But he is beaten by Mr. William P. Israel of Little Harbor, who on Thursday killed a porker weighing a round seven hundred.

At about noon on Wednesday, the 11th inst., portions of a wreck drifted ashore about half a mile west of life-saving station No. 5, at Biddeford Pool. The mainsail was partly worn; mainboom new, and fifty-seven feet long. Among the wreck stuff thrown on the beach were one box and one barrel marked "Georgia," and a box containing a card with "Fred G. Bowden, North Castine," written on it. There was also considerable clothing washed ashore. The schooner probably struck a reef during the heavy gale of Tuesday night, and sank, a total wreck; and the crew were probably all lost. The vessel is supposed to be the schooner Georgia, of Bangor.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

Henry Horn, son of Mr. William Horn, and an apprentice at the navy yard learning the ship carpenter's trade, met with a painful and serious accident on Friday morning, at the yard. He was in what is called the "head-house" for the purpose of sharpening some of his tools, when he saw (as he thought) another person similarly engaged fall, and sprang to his assistance, when by some mishap one of his feet was caught between the floor and a set-screw which connects two sections of the rapidly-revolving shaft to which the grindstones are fixed. The big and little toes of the foot were torn completely away, and the fore part of the foot so mangled as to necessitate amputation near the instep, which was skillfully performed by Surgeon Burbank of the navy, everything possible being done for the sufferer's welfare by the officers and others connected with the yard. Young Horn is highly spoken of by those who know him, as being a youth of quiet disposition and excellent habits; and the accident which has rendered him a cripple at the outset of his career, when everything was apparently promising well for a life of usefulness for him, draws forth many expressions of sympathy.

The Fish-Hatching Experiment.

Success has crowned the efforts of the Fish Commissioners to hatch codfish satisfactorily in Gloucester, as, after much experimenting with various devices used in hatching other species a method has been devised which is performing the work to the satisfaction of the parties interested.

The device consist of a series of copper tanks, in which the eggs are placed and kept in motion at a proper temperature by steam boilers. The first lot of eggs has been hatched, and will be placed in the harbor in about ten days or a fortnight. A new lot of some ten million eggs was procured on Monday, and now that the success of the enterprise is assured, the work will be prosecuted more extensively, and will eventually prove a decided factor in the fishing interests.

In addition to the codfish hatched, a lot of herring have been propagated and returned to their native element; together with a lot of Oregon salmon and white fish, which have been placed in Cape pond.

Professor J. W. Miller, who has the matter in charge, is enthusiastic over the result, which was somewhat of an uncertainty at the outset, the artificial hatching of cod having never before been attempted.—Cape Ann Bulletin.

Face to Face with Disease.

How often it happens that although we have witnessed the ravages of disease in the case of others, we disregard his warning signals in our own. It is only when we find him face to face with as that we really perceive how grim he is. Then, perchance, when it is too late, medicinal aid is sought. His avant courier, his forerunner, is physical weakness. Fortify the system, and you are armed against him. The finest tonic for this purpose is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which renders digestion easy and complete, nourishes the system, improves the appetite, gives strength-yielding sleep, counteracts biliousness, and keeps the bowels in first-rate order. Leanness, and unnatural wanness and sallowness of the face, are obviated by it, and as genial and beneficent are its effects, that not only is the body invigorated and regulated by its use, but despondency banished from the mind.

Consumption Cured.

Croaking is not confined to the Frog Ponds. At this season almost everybody is hoarse. The bleating of distressed lungs is heard everywhere. Why is this, when Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar will cure any cough, cold or hoarseness in 48 hours? Sold by all Druggists. tjan1

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 minute.

A great discovery of more value than gold—Adamson's Botanic Balsam for all diseases of the throat and lungs. It seldom fails to cure. Price 35 cts.

Unpresentable Heads

are in a moment beautified by the operation of

which, without the slightest trouble, imparts to the hair of the head, the whiskers, beard or moustache, any shade of brown or the most perfect black. Ladies can use it without soiling their fingers. It is the most expeditious hair dye in the world, and the only one free from every poisonous ingredient, and that contains a nourishing and emollient vegetable principle.

Cristadoro's Hair Preservative,

A valuable adjunct to the dye in preserving and promoting the growth and perfect health of the hair, and of itself, when used alone—a safe guard that protects the fibres from decay under all circumstances and under all climes. Manufactured by J. CRISTADORO, No. 56 William st., New York. Sold by all Druggists. Applied by all Hair Dressers. 1dec15

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. For the Com. on Examination of Teachers.

THE SUN FOR 1879.

THE SUN will be printed every day during the year to come. Its purpose and method will be the same as in the past: To present all the news in a readable shape, and to tell the truth though the heavens fall.

THE SUN has been, is, and will continue to be independent of everybody and everything save the Truth and its own convictions of duty. That is the only policy which an honest newspaper need have. That is the policy which has won for this newspaper the confidence and friendship of a wider constituency than was ever enjoyed by any other American Journal.

THE SUN is the newspaper for the people. It is not for the rich man against the poor man, nor for the poor man against the rich man, but it seeks to do equal justice to all interests in the community. It is no the organ of any person, class, sect or party. There need be no mystery about its loves and hates. It is for the honest man against the rogue every time. It is for the honest Democrat as against the dishonest Republican, and for the honest Republican as against the dishonest Democrat. It does not take its cue from the utterances of any politician or political organization. It gives its support unreservedly when such or measures are in concurrence with the Constitution and with the principles upon which this Republic was founded for the people. Whenever the Constitution and constitutional principles are violated—as in the outrageous conspiracy of 1876, by which a man not elected was placed in the President's office, where he still remains—it speaks out for the right. That is THE SUN'S idea of independence. In this respect there will be no change in its programme for 1879.

THE SUN has fairly earned the hearty hatred of rascals, frauds, and humbugs of all sorts and sizes. It hopes to deserve that hatred not less in the year 1879, than in 1878, 1877, or any year gone by. THE SUN will continue to shine on the wicked with unmitigated brightness.

While the lessons of the past should be constantly kept before the people, THE SUN does not propose to make itself in 1879 a magazine of ancient history. It is printed for the men and women of to-day, whose concern is chiefly with the affairs of to-day. It has both the disposition and the ability to afford its readers the prompest, fullest, and most accurate intelligence of whatever in the wide world is worth attention. To this end the resources belonging to well-established prosperity will be liberally employed.

The present disjointed condition of parties in this country, and the uncertainty as to future leads an extraordinary significance to the events of the coming year. The discussions of the press, the debates and acts of Congress, and the movements of the leaders in every section of the Republic will have a direct bearing on the Presidential election of 1880—an event which must be regarded with the most anxious interest by every patriotic American, whatever his political ideas or allegiance. To these elements of interest must be added the probability that the Democrats will control both houses of Congress, the increasing feebleness of the President, Administration, and the spread and strengthening everywhere of a healthy abhorrence of fraud in any form. To present with accuracy and clearness the exact situation in each of its varying phases, and to expound, according to its well-known methods, the principles that should guide us through the labyrinth, will be an important part of THE SUN'S work for 1879.

We have the means of making THE SUN, as a political, a literary and a general newspaper, more entertaining and more useful than ever before; and we mean to a ply them freely.

Our rates of subscription remain unchanged. For the DAILY SUN, a four page sheet of 28 columns, the price by mail, postpaid, is 55 cents a month, or $6.50 a year; or, including the Sunday paper, an eight page sheet of fifty-six columns, the price is 65 cents a month, $7.70 a year, postage paid.

The Sunday edition of THE SUN is also furnished separately at $1.20 a year, postage paid.

The price of the WEEKLY SUN, eight pages, fifty-six columns, is $1 a year, postage paid. For clubs of ten sending $10 we will send an extra copy free. Address

A NEW IDEA!

KENNEDY'S

Cakes and Jumbles

ETC., ETC.

MADE BY MACHINERY!

Having purchased the "HOLMES JUMBLE AND CAKE MACHINE," with the exclusive right of the New England States, I propose to place in every grocery, a variety of rich Cake Goods in addition to the usual Crackers and Biscuit now manufactured, at a price that will enable them to handle a kind of goods which is far below what the same goods can be made for by hand as at present, and which, being uniform, and much lighter and finer, I do not hesitate to say, will be freely preferred by the consumer. A class of goods which, at the same time they will be found much superior, and much more delicate than can possibly be produced by hand, is now produced by the machine.

The following are some of those variety of kinds of goods produced by the machine:

Confectioner's Jumbles,	Sugar Drops,	Drops,
Cinnamon "	Varieties of "	"
Marble Top "	Drop Cake	d Cake,
Spice "	Kisses,	"
Fruit "	Vanilla Drops,	kes,
Common "	Spice "	"
Almond Macaroons,	Molasses "	Drop Cakes,
Cocoanut "	Cinnamon "	Wafers,
Almond Drops,	Lemon "	gers,
Fruit "	Sponge "	Drop Cakes,
Cocoanut "	Hop "	ngers,
Chocolate "	Spice "	kes

I propose to place in every Store a Sample Box, and a trial of them will convince all this advertisement calls for. If your grocer does not already have these goods in stock, ask him to order from the Sole Mart in the New England States.

NO. 3 BOW STREET.

—A Detroit young woman tried to be aristocratic, and did not look at the money that she gave to the horse car conductor, but he meekly gave her back the lozenge, on which was inscribed, "I'll never cease to love thee," and said that he was an orphan with five little brothers to support and must be excused.

—Letter from a Hindoo to his commanding officer: "Honored Sir: Having been amputated from my family for some years, and as I have complaints of the abdomen, coupled with great conflagrations of the intervals and prostration of all desire for work, with also the disgorging of my dinner, I hope your Highness will excuse me attending at orderly-room for ten or nine more days and in duty bound shall ever pray for the sobriety of your temper and the enlargement of your family."

—Mr. Joseph A. Brown was a constable in the service of the town of North Providence, R. I. Mr. Brown lost, or claimed to have lost, $1,700, collected by him from various parties for liquor licenses granted by the town. The town accepted Mr. Brown's story of the loss, but Mr. John L. James accused Mr. Brown of having stolen the money. Thereupon Mr. Brown sued Mr. James for damages for slander. The jury gave a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $8. Mr. Brown is not sure whether the result of the suit has vindicated his aspersed reputation. His neighbors are also in doubt.

—A Newark bachelor dropped in the other evening to see a married friend whose wife was absent on a visit. He found him smoking desperately at a cigar nearly a foot long. "Why," gasped he, breathlessly, "where on earth did you get such a preposterous cigar as that, Charley?" "Had it built by contract," was the response. "You see," continued the smoker, in explanation, "I promised my wife before she went away, bless her heart, that I wouldn't smoke more than three cigars a day. Promises to a wife are sacred, you know, and I mean to keep mine, if I have to get cigars as long as a lamp post."—Newark Call.

ANTI-FAT

ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT is the great remedy for Corpulency. It is purely vegetable and perfectly harmless. It acts on the food in the stomach, preventing its conversion into fat. Taken according to directions, it will reduce a fat person from 3 to 5 pounds a week. In placing this remedy before the public as a positive cure for obesity, we do so knowing the ability to cure, as attested by hundreds of testimonials, of which the following from a lady in Columbus, Ohio, is a sample: "Gentlemen:—Your Anti-Fat was duly received. I took it according to directions and it reduced me five pounds. I was so elated over the result that I immediately sent to ACKERMAN'S drug-store for the second bottle." Another, a physician, writing for a patient from Providence, R. I., says: "Your bottles have reduced her weight from 189 pounds to 162 pounds, and there is a general improvement in health." Another, writing from Boston, says: "Without special change or attention to diet, two bottles of Allan's Anti-Fat reduced me four and one-quarter pounds." The well-known Wholesale Druggists, SMITH, DOLLITTLE & SMITH, of Boston, Mass., write as follows: "Allan's Anti-Fat has reduced a lady in our city seven pounds in three weeks. A gentleman in St. Louis writes: "Allan's Anti-Fat reduced me twelve pounds in three weeks, and altogether I have lost twenty-five pounds since commencing its use." Messrs. POWELL & FLIMPTON, Wholesale Druggists, of Buffalo, N. Y., write: "TO THE PROPRIETORS OF ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT: Gentlemen—The following testimonial from a lady who tried Allan's Anti-Fat: "It (the Anti-Fat) had the desired effect, reducing the fat from two to five pounds a week until I had lost twenty-five pounds. I hope never to regain what I have lost." Anti-Fat is an unexcelled blood-purifier. It promotes digestion, curing dyspepsia, and is also a potent remedy for rheumatism. Sold by druggists. Pamphlets describing its sent on receipt of stamp.

BOTANIC MEDICINE CO., PROP'RS, Buffalo, N.Y.

WOMAN

By an immense practice at the World's Dispensary and invalids' Hotel, having treated many thousand cases of those diseases peculiar to woman, I have been enabled to perfect a most potent and positive remedy for those ailments.

To designate this natural specific, I have named it

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

The term, however, is but a feeble expression of my high appreciation of its value, based upon personal observations. I have, while witnessing its positive results in the special diseases incident to the organism of woman, singled it out as the climax or crowning gem of my medical career. On its merits, as a positive, safe, and effectual remedy for this class of diseases, and one that will, at all times and under all circumstances, act kindly, I am willing to stake my reputation as a physician; and so confident am I that it will not disappoint the most sanguine expectations of a single invalid lady who uses it for any of the ailments for which I recommend it, that I offer and sell it under A POSITIVE GUARANTEE. (For conditions, see pamphlet wrapping bottle.)

The following are among those diseases in which my Favorite Prescription has worked cures, as if by magic, and with a certainty never before attained by any medicine: Leucorrhœa, Excessive Flowing, Painful Monthly Periods, Suppressions when not unnatural causes, Irregularities, Weak Back, Prolapsus, or Falling of the Uterus, Anteversion and Retroversion, Bearing-down Sensations, Internal Heat, Nervous Depression, Debility, Despondency, Threatened Miscarriage, Chronic Congestion, Inflammation and Ulceration of the Uterus, Impotency, Barrenness, or Sterility, and Female Weakness. I do not offer this medicine as a "cure-all," but it admirably fulfills a singleness of purpose, being a most perfect specific in all chronic diseases of the sexual system of woman. It will not disappoint, nor will it do harm, in any state or condition.

Those desire information on these subjects can obtain it in THE PEOPLE'S COMMON SENSE MEDICAL ADVISER, a book of over 900 pages, sent, post-paid, on receipt of $1.50. It treats minutely of those diseases peculiar to Females, and gives much valuable advice in regard to the management of those affections.

Favorite Prescription sold by Druggists.

GREAT THROUGH LINE

AND

UNITED STATES MAIL ROUTE

The attention of the travelling public is respectfully invited to some of the merits of this great highway, in the confident assertion and belief that no other line can offer equal inducements as a route of through travel. In

Construction AND Equipment

THE

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

stands confessedly at the head of American railways. The track is double the entire length of the line, of steel rails laid on heavy oak ties, which are embedded in a foundation of rock ballast eighteen inches in depth. All bridges are of iron or stone, and built upon the most approved plans. Its passenger cars, while eminently safe and substantial, are at the same time models of comfort and elegance.

The Safety Appliances

in use on this line well illustrates the far-seeing and liberal policy of its management, in accordance with which the utility only of no improvement and not its cost has been the question of consideration. Among many may be noticed

THE BLOCK SYSTEM OF SAFETY SIGNALS,

JANNEY COUPLER, BUFFER AND PLATFORM,

THE WHARTON PATENT SWITCH,

AND THE

WESTINGHOUSE AIR-BRAKE,

forming in conjunction with a perfect double track and road-bed a combination of safeguards against accidents which have rendered them practically impossible.

Pullman Palace Cars

Are run on all Express Trains

From New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington,

To Chicago, Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, and St. Louis,

WITHOUT CHANGE,

and to all principal points in the far West and South with but one change of cars. Connections are made in Union Depots, and are assured to all important points.

The Scenery

OF THE

PENNSYLVANIA ROUTE

is admitted to be unsurpassed in the world for grandeur, beauty and variety. Superior refreshment facilities are provided. Employees are courteous and attentive, and it is an inevitable result that travel by the Pennsylvania Railroad must form

NO. 40 MARKET ST., PORTSMOUTH

Daily Chronicle.

—The Utica Observer truthfully remarks, that when a printer sets on a poem, it is bound to be printed, but when an editor sits on a poem it will never be printed.

—A little four-years-old boy, who had been taught his letters at home, and felt his importance, on going to school was called up by the teacher, who asked: "Can you read, my boy?" The little fellow stood amazed for a moment at the (to him) impertinence of the question, and then exclaimed: "Hain't you got cheek?"

—While six robbers were being sentenced in court at Gergenti, Sicily, one of them, addressing the court, remarked: "Infamous man! Assassin!" with which words he took off his shoes and flung them with violence, hitting the judge in the stomach, and the public prosecutor on the arm. The judge added five years to the offender's sentence.

—A young newspaper reporter, according to the Boston Globe, penned a paragraph on a snowfall as follows: "The angels rustled their wings at the hour when Aurora goes forth to fulfill her mission, and the earth was covered with a fleecy mantle of white." He thought it was very nice, but the unimaginative editor quietly dropped it into the waste basket, wrote in place of it, "Snow fell this morning," and roared out savagely, "Condense, condense!"

—An old man in Hanover, Penn., lost his well-filled pocketbook a month ago, and did great search failed to recover it. On Sunday morning, however, his dog was heard barking at the door, and on its being opened, the pocketbook was found lying upon the step where he had placed it. The suggestion is made that the old man dropped it, and his dog, which is always with him, carried it away and hid it, and afterwards brought it back to make the day as pleasant as possible.

Face to Face with Disease.

How often it happens that although we have witnessed the ravages of disease in the case of others, we disregard his warning signals in our own. It is only when we find him face to face with us that we really perceive how grim he is. Then, perchance, when it is too late, medical aid is sought. His sinister ally, the governor, is physical weakness. Fortify the system, and you are armed against him. The finest tonic for this purpose is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which renders digestion easy and complete, nourishes the system, improves the appetite, gives strength-yielding sleep, counteracts biliousness, and keeps the bowels in first-rate order. Languor, and unnatural wanness and sallowness of the face, are obviated by it, and so genial and beneficent are its effects, that not only is the body invigorated and regulated by its use, but despondency banished from the mind.

Consumption Cured.

Croaking is not confined to the Frog Ponds. At this season almost everybody is hoarse. The bleating of distressed lungs is heard everywhere. Why is this, when Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar will cure any cough, cold or hoarseness in 48 hours? Sold by all Druggists. tjan1

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 minute.

A great discovery of more value than gold—Adamson's Botanic Balsam for all diseases of the throat and lungs. It seldom fails to cure. Price 25 cts.

Unpresentable Heads

are in a moment beautified by the operation of

which, without the slightest trouble, imparts to the hair of the head, the whiskers, beard or moustache, any shade of brown or the most perfect black. Ladies can use it without soiling their fingers. It is the most expeditious hair dye in the world, and the only one free from every poisonous ingredient, and that contains a nourishing and emollient vegetable principle.

Cristadoro's Hair Preservative,

A valuable adjunct to the dye in dressing and promoting the growth and perfect health of the hair, and of itself, when used alone—a safe and that protects the fibres from decay under all circumstances and under all climes. Manufactured by J. CRISTADORO, No. 16 William St., New York. Sold by all Druggists. Applied by all Hair Dressers. tdec15

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a receipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D., Bible House, New York City. cod4wtnov27

Naval Matters.

The following naval appointments, among others, were confirmed by the Senate on Thursday: Capt. Robert L. Law of Indiana, Chief of the Bureau of Yards and Docks, with the relative rank of Commodore; Capt. Earl English of New Jersey, Chief of the Bureau of Equipment and Recruiting, with the relative rank of Commodore; Medical Director J. Winthrop Taylor of New Jersey, Chief of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, and Surgeon-General, with the relative rank of Commodore.

Paymaster I. Goodwin Hobbs, U. S. N., has recently returned to his home in North Berwick after an absence of two years.

The U. S. S. Guard was put out of commission on Saturday. A number of her crew, whose time of service had expired, were paid off. A draft of twenty-five men was sent to the Plymouth, and they were afterwards given liberty. A number of others were sent to the receiving ship at the Brooklyn navy yard

Assistant Engineer Horace E. Frick is detached from the Plymouth, and placed on waiting orders.

Assistant Engineer Robert W. Galt is ordered to the Plymouth.

The official list of the officers of the Richmond, which has gone into commission as flagship of the Asiatic squadron, contains the names of Passed Assistant Engineer Nathan B. Towne, and Capt. J. H. Higbee and Second Lieut. Randolph Dickens, U. S. M. C.

We copy from the Army & Navy Journal the following statement of what Commodore Shufeldt is to do on his present cruise in the Ticonderoga: "Commodore Shufeldt sailed Dec. 7th on the Ticonderoga from Norfolk, bound in the first instance to Madeira. From Madeira he will sail by way of the Cape Verde islands to Sierra Leone, where he is to meet the British and the Liberian commissioners for the purpose of settling the northwest boundary line between Sierra Leone and Liberia. The Liberians requested the United States government to act as arbitrator in this dispute, and Commodore Shufeldt has been appointed by the State department to act for this government. From Sierra Leone he will sail to Libera, where he will remain a couple of months to aid the government there in its difficulties with the native tribes. Thence he goes to the Gaboon and next he will ascend the Congo river with his ship as far as he can safely take her, and them make a further exploration in a steam launch, his desire being to go as far as the lower falls and to show the American flag in those remote waters. After leaving the Congo he will proceed to Loando, Cape Town, Delagoa bay, Madagascar, Zanzibar, Commoro isles, Aden, and possibly up the Persian Gulf and finally to Bombay, Singapore, and Rangoon, and it is his purpose to make some special examination of the great island of Borneo and to visit New Guinea, Corea, and the coasts of China and Japan. His special instructions are to look after trade, to make full reports of the commercial possibilities of the coasts he visits and to show the flag in the remoter parts of the earth. Letters to reach the Ticonderoga at points from Africa to Aden, Arabia, should be directed as follows: If made prior to Jan. 1st, to Monrovia; after Jan. 1st to March 1st, St. Paul de Loando; after April 1st to May 1st, Zanzibar and Muscat; after May 1st to July 1st, Aden, Arabia. B. F. Stevens, U. S. Despatch Agent at London, will be advised after the last date mentioned, as to the proper directions for the Ticonderoga and forward letters to her. It has not been decided whether the Ticonderoga will return home via the Suez canal and the Mediterranean, or by the Pacific and South America."

News and Notes.

The Grand Duchesse of Hesse Darmstadt (Princess Alice of England) died on Saturday, of diphtheria.

From Pocomoke City, Md., comes an account of the fatal shooting of Miss Ella Hearn on Nov. 5th, by her intimate associate, Miss Lily Duer. Both girls moved in the highest social circles, and were eighteen years of age, pretty and well educated. An inquest has been held, at which it was shown that before her death Miss Hearn accused Miss Duer of shooting her intentionally, and said that Miss Duer had on a previous occasion attempted to take her life. It appears that Miss Duer was blindly jealous at the love of Miss Hearn for another lady, and in a moment of passion and excitement fatally shot her. Miss Duer has given bail in $2500 for trial.

A Bangor kleptomaniac was recently detected, and in her room was found about nine bushels of groceries and other articles.

In 1876 the dead body of an unknown man was discovered in an advanced state of decomposition near Forge Village, in Westford, Mass. His throat had been cut, and his skull crushed. The body was never identified and the mystery was almost forgotten. Thursday night, however, officers arrested Charles Reed at Groton, and Leroy B. Leland and Henry Leland at Westford, for the murder, which, it is alleged, was committed for robbery. The prisoners were committed without bail, being lodged in the jail at Lowell. The officers think the identity of the victim will shortly be proved.

Henry Abbott has been arrested in Lewiston, Me., on a charge of forging the name of David F. Brown of Mexico to a note. He had a bill of divorce against his wife drawn up, and gave this note to Mr. J. D. Storer for service rendered, taking the balance in cash. Abbott claims he received the note in a business transaction with Mr. Brown.

The grand jury at Rockland, Me., last week found an indictment for willful murder against Hannah Thorndike of Rockland, for the killing of Honora Sullivan. Mrs. Sullivan was an industrious, respectable Irish woman, the Thorndike women being a drunken, quarrelsome, worthless creature.

In Milledgeville, Ga., Thursday, Hamp Gibson killed his brother-in-law Styles in a bar-room, shooting him twice with a pistol.

At the American iron works in Pittsburg, Pa., Friday, Patrick Shannon was examining shafting, when his clothing caught and his body was drawn on to the shaft, which was making 240 revolutions a minute. His body was torn to pieces and scattered over the mill, portions of the remains being thrown 300 feet.

An alarming disease is prevalent among the cattle on Long Island, and reports from different quarters show that a hundred milch cows have died within ten days. It is believed to be pneumonia. Swine are reported dying in many parts of Jamaica and Hempstead. One farmer at Foster's Meadow has lost ten pigs in three days. Scarcely a farmer has escaped the loss of one or more. The first symptom of disease is the refusal of food, then the flesh turns black, a seeming paralysis follows, and death occurs almost instantly.

C. W. Lane, wife and two children, living four miles below Sabula, Iowa, on the Mississippi river, were drowned Thursday while out on the ice on a hand sleigh. The ice broke suddenly.

William J. Wilson, the negro who founded the Freedman's bank, has just died at Washington. He started a freedman's bank in the cellar of a building in the central part of Washington, to which the negroes entrusted their savings. Soon he moved into more pretentious quarters, and applied to Congress for a charter for the bank and power to start branch institutions. From this small beginning the bank grew until there were at least one hundred branches in the different southern cities. Finally a ring secured control of it, and lent the money on worthless securities, and it failed, all of Wilson's property going with it. He was fifty-nine years old at the time of his death, and a LL. D. of an Ohio college.

In the United States Circuit Court at Providence, R. I., Friday morning, Robert Clark and Andrew J. Raymond, Frank Raymond and John Quinn of New York, pleaded guilty to indictments for passing counterfeit silver dollars. Clark was sentenced to twenty-seven months in prison, on the other three to two years' imprisonment, with each a fine of $1.

Costafraley, condemned for killing Mathevon, the silk peddler, near Rouse's Point, New York, last summer, was executed Friday in St. John's, Province of Quebec. He asserted his innocence in a speech on the gallows.

A very singular fish was found on the flats at Provincetown, Mass., Thursday. Prof. N. E. Atwood pronounces it a singular specimen of the spineous shark, never before seen in American waters. The first mention of this fish that can be found was given by the French Prof. Broussounet, who called it "Le chien de mer boucle," and hitherto it has only been found on the east coast of Europe and Africa and in the Mediterranean sea, and is very rarely found in these waters. The fish is about eight feet in length, its body thick and skin comparatively smooth, with a large number of short bony thorns protruding from all parts. It has but one row of teeth on each jaw, and its nose is flat and rounded.

New Hampshire Items.

The report that the bank commissioners had closed the Ashland savings bank is entirely unfounded. An examination has been made. Judge Foster, who was present, said that there was nothing to cause alarm to depositors. The only thing objected to by the commissioners was the private banking which was carried on over the same counter. This will be changed before January.

D. L. T. Vignet, a grocer's clerk in Manchester, who collected $82 belonging to his employers Thursday and started for Canada, was arrested in Concord Friday.

In the celebrated mining suits at Lisbon, involving the ownership of the Dodge gold mine, the most valuable mine in that section of the State, an injunction has just been granted by Judges Doe and Bingham, restraining the defendants from interfering with the plaintiffs in operating the mine, and compelling the plaintiffs to give a bond of $10,000 to the defendants for all the damage they may do. The defendants consist of Dr. Eugene Howard of Newburyport, Isaac L. Garrison of St. Louis and others, all members of the Landaff Gold Mining Company. The plaintiffs are Willard K. Parker and others, residents of Lisbon. The contest promises to be long and bitter.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

CONSUMERS should bear in mind that the incomparable "Royal" is now the only Baking Powder in the market made from pure Grape Cream Tartar, imported exclusively for this powder direct from the wine-growing district of France. An old experienced housekeeper writes thus, although she has to pay a few cents more for the "Royal," finds that it goes so much further and works so much better, that the economy to use it. Another says she uses the powder in puddings, cakes, and all sorts of pastry without eggs. An old lady writes that it makes the only biscuit her dyspeptic husband can eat. This is because the best and most wholesome materials are used. Approved by the New York Board of Health, and by such eminent chemists as Dr. MOTT, New York; Dr. HAYES, Boston; Prof. GENTH, Philadelphia, etc. Sold in tin cans only. dtsept19 79

THE CITY.

The first sleigh of the season made its appearance in our streets on Sunday; as it went through the crust of snow it might be more properly called a cutter.

The steamer Mollie, belonging to the Laighton Bros., came in on Saturday from the Shoals, and brought in a number of the workmen who have been engaged in making the improvements at the Oceanic house on Star Island, which are nearly finished.

The workmen on the navy yard are making up a purse for the benefit of young Horn, who was so severely injured last Friday by having his foot caught by a piece of machinery. He is a deserving young man, and his misfortune occasions universal regret among those who know him.

The fleet of winter fishing vessels, which had been idle for the previous week owing to the strong winds that had prevailed, went out on Saturday. The schooner Mary S. Hontvet has fitted out for fishing, and commences her trips to-day. Fish are reported plenty on the fishing grounds.

Orders having been received for the U. S. S. Plymouth to go to Boston on the first opportunity, Mayor Sise and many other prominent citizens have signed a request to Commodore Guest to delay the ship long enough to enable the petty officers to have their projected ball on Wednesday evening.

The Biddeford Times of Saturday says: "The 'big-footed' tramp put in an appearance in Saco last evening, and lodged at the station. He is nineteen years old, and stands six feet six inches high. His feet are enormous." This youth, who gives the name of Henry Davis and hails from Searsport, Me., rested and refreshed himself at the Hotel d'Entwistle in this city, over Sunday. He does not appear to be a regular tram, and says he expects to get work in Boston; he seems to be a rather simple, good-natured soul, with more physical power than energy of character. He wears number thirteen shoes, and it is a wonder how the potato bug ever managed to find shelter in the State of Maine.

THE OPERA TO-MORROW NIGHT.

Lovers of music and grand stage representations will not miss the beautiful opera of "Il Trovatore" by the Adelaide Phillipps Opera Company to-morrow evening at Music hall. Probably no operatic event ever in this city has equalled it. The company recently gave the opera in Portland theatre to a packed house, at $1 a ticket for every part of the hall. The Portland Press thus speaks of Miss Phillipps: "Miss Phillipps as Azucena is superb. The power, depth and intensity of her acting merit the most unbounded plaudits. She puts herself wholly into the part and her movements, postures, facial expression and voice are simply perfect in their mutual adaptation. It is probable that her rendition of Azucena cannot be equalled by any living artiste in its completeness, though it is possible that some others might sing better." The sale of reserved seat tickets for to-morrow night's performance commenced at Preston's on Saturday, and a very large number were taken before night; the prices are as usual, 75 cents for the parquette and 50 cents for the balcony, and the indications are that not many seats will be for sale when the doors open.

"APPLE BLOSSOMS."

Mr. Willis G. Myers, at the Congress Block bookstore, has on sale a remarkable book of poems by Elaine and Dora Reid Goodale, with the above title. The earliest of these poems were written when the sisters were nine years of age. The young poets are now aged seventeen and fourteen years respectively. These early productions, so correct in versification and so sweet in expression, strongly support the wisdom of the old Latin proverb, "Poeta nascitur, non fit." The verses are said to be the almost unconscious outflow of these two simple, wholesome lives in their earliest youth, and the juvenile writers bid fair to become celebrities if the first efforts are any indication of what is to follow. Mr. Myers has upon his counter many beautiful books for the holidays, but the apple blossoms are certainly the freshest and sweetest of any bouquet in literature that he offers to his customers. The book is published by G. P. Putnam's Sons, No. 182 Fifth ave., New York.

SPARKS.

Felch & Gilbert's "jollities" will appear at Music hall on Saturday evening in the musical extravaganza "Sparks." Mr. Felch will be remembered as "Devilshoot" in the opera of the Bohemian Girl, recently performed in this city by the Martinez Opera Co., and Mr. Gilbert as the baritone of the same company. The "Jollities" were recently in Manchester, and the Union of that city said:

The entertainment was by Felch and Gilbert's "Jollities," a company of as good actors as we often get in Smyth's Opera House. "Sparks," has something of a plot, many laughable situations, and the dialogue is in no way objectionable to the most fastidious. The piece is the best—all in all—of any of the numerous burlesques, extravaganzas, etc., that have been presented this season. Miss Brown, Messrs. Felch, Gilbert and Hunting filled the characters completely. Miss Brown sustained the trying part of the "Doll" very nicely, and her recitation was given with a care and finish, which made it stand out pre-eminently as the best recitation given in our city for a long time, added to her excellent acting. She is pretty in form and feature, and appears perfectly at home on the stage. Mr. Felch improves on acquaintance. The favorable impression he recently made as "Devilshoot" was strengthened by his last efforts last evening, where he had ample opportunity to display his capabilities as a singer as well as actor. Mr. Gilbert is a very good singer and actor, besides being exceedingly funny. For an entertainment of the kind it was much the best we've had—light to be sure; we could laugh (and every one did laugh), and in all, find no objectionable word or act—it was fun without vulgarity.

Tickets will be sold at fifty and thirty-five cents, with no extra charge for reserved seats. Sale of tickets commences on Wednesday, at Preston's.

POLICE COURT.

SATURDAY, Dec. 14; Batchelder, J.

James Callahan, for the theft of twelve pairs of stockings and a pair of gloves from the store of N. K. Walker & Son, was sent to jail for sixty days and ordered to pay $6.90 costs.

James Callahan, for stealing some ribbons from Mrs. A. H. Parmenter, was sent to jail for sixty days, costs being taxed at $8.04.

Callahan is a young fellow about nineteen years old, and was accompanied on his thieving raid by another person of about his own age, who escaped arrest. Their plan of operations was for one of them to attract the attention of the storekeeper by pretending a desire to purchase something, while the confederate confiscated anything which came handy.

There were a couple of cross-suits for assault between members of the Quinn and O'Donnell families; Quinn was discharged, and O'Donnell fined $1, costs $8.04, which was paid.

THE VICINITY.

Fred H. Knight, son of Edward Knight of Saco, stood second in a class of sixty-four in Dartmouth college at the close of the recent term.

W. H. Bayles' variety store at Great Falls was damaged to the amount of $2,500, Saturday morning, by fire and water; insured. A defective chimney caused the fire. J. T. Bickford's building, near by, was damaged to the amount of $100.

The United States District Court comes in at Exeter Tuesday, when cases will be in order for trial wherein the assignee of Adna Lane seeks to recover of Hon. Warren Brown of Hampton Falls, and the National Granite State bank of Exeter, certain sums alleged to have been paid by Lane, just preceding his adjudication of bankruptcy, and which the other creditors of Lane, through the assignee, claim is in fraud of the bankrupt act. W. J. Copeland, Esq., is counsel for the assignee, but it was stated last week that he was confined to his house in Berwick by sickness, and will not be able to be present. This may result in the cases being continued to the March term to be held in this city.

The heavy rain of last week did considerable damage at Farmington. The lower part of the village was well nigh drowned out; several families had to be taken out of their houses in boats and rowed to "hard pan." The water was five feet deep in the roads and running very rapidly. The bridges were badly damaged over the river between the village and the depot, and one of them was swept away. Two other bridges, on Mad river, were nearly ruined. The highways were all ploughed up and made almost impassable. They say up there that it was the biggest freshest ever known except one, and that was over a hundred years ago, when the population was rather scarce, and there were not many roads to be washed or bridges to be carried away.

The Kennebunk Star sets a couple of the local sportsmen up steep, as follows: "Know all men by these presents, that Otis A. Buzzell, of Kennebunkport, has a new breech-loading gun, and that, wishing to test its merits, he determined on a fox hunt. So, in company with Howard Seavey, who claims to be a 'good shot,' he set out for the foxing grounds. An obliging Reynard very soon offered himself as a target for the intrepid sportsmen to practice at. Growing weary of this amusement, Monsieur Fox ran off a short distance, and then waited for the gunners to come up and shoot at him some more. Finally, thinking the young men were wasting more ammunition than they could afford, the fox 'vamosed the ranch.' It is now reported that Otis has not so much confidence in his breech-loader as formerly. We should advise these two young men to go off somewhere and practice at a barn."

The hull of the vessel from which the wreck-stuff was washed ashore at Biddeford Pool on Wednesday of last week, was discovered on Friday about a mile southwest of the life-saving station, and the same distance south of Barn-door ledge buoy. From her position it is believed she did not strike any reef, but was boarded and swamped by a heavy sea while trying to make the harbor. The schooner Helen, which was in company with the Georgia (supposed to be the lost vessel) on the Tuesday before the wreck, had one of her boats washed off by a heavy sea, and was obliged to cut it drift; it was picked up at Goose rocks. A Cape Porpoise schooner was working over the wreck all day Friday, and the life-saving crew were to go out on Saturday. The Georgia was an old vessel, built at Cape Elizabeth, and owned it is said at Bangor. She was commanded by Capt. Randlett, and was bound from Philadelphia for Castine with coal and a few packages consigned to F. G. Bowman.

The Democrat talks thus objectionably of the Doverites who went to Boston on "railroad day" last week: "Quite a lot of Dover people went to Boston yesterday because they could go on borrowed stock certificates, and buy goods 'awful cheap,' or at least they had that idea. But these people with that notion in their heads were generally those who don't take the home papers, and consequently don't know that there are merchants and storekeepers in Dover who sell goods for less money than they can be bought for in Boston. Of what use are those people to Dover who spend all their pinched sixpences somewhere else? The whole city might starve to death, and the grass and brambles grow a ton to the acre in our streets, but what would they care for that. They are very willing to have their own children attend our schools and get the benefits, but they prefer that our merchants and traders should be taxed to build school houses, employ teachers, etc., while their own money goes to enrich the merchants of Boston. We don't see what particular benefit such people are to the place."

The anti-rum deputy sheriffs of Biddeford, Messrs. Durgin and Grant, made a raid on a suspected entablishment on Franklin street one day early last week. As they approached, two young fellows who were standing outside gave the alarm, one of them, Francis Rourke, calling out "the sheriffs are coming," and the other, Frank Garside, running into the place and helping to smash the jugs and bottles, etc., so as to destroy the evidence. The zealous youths were arrested at once, and the police court fined them $10 and costs each, for aiding and abetting the rum traffic. They won't be so ready to lend a hand at screening the liquor business next time.

The new depot at North Berwick for the joint use of the Boston & Maine and Eastern railroads is a jaunty affair, being erected by the former road, the Eastern to pay half the cost of building. It stands about twenty rods east of the main street, and is a decided improvement upon the old station of the Portland, Saco & Portsmouth road, and the none whatever of the Boston & Maine.

THE VACATION.

I presume the Board of Instruction may have had excellent reasons for changing the vacations—and perhaps the teachers may not thank one for opposing such a measure. I have no children of my own, but I am closely connected with a number who are pupils in the public schools, and it seems to me the motion must have been made, and carried, without due consideration on the part of those members of the Board who are parents, or they would, I think, have hesitated before imposing on their children thirty weeks (as I learn from the "Report" that the fall term is of sixteen weeks duration, and the winter, fourteen,) of school work, with but a single week of rest; then only another week before the shorter spring term. I favor, by all means, the plan of closing the schools during the hot months of July and August, but though we occasionally have hot days in June, I think, usually, the long, bright days of that lovely month are more favorably for work than the dull, dark days of mid-winter. The children can have their recesses out-of-doors and enjoy them, while now many, especially delicate children, plead for permission to remain by the fire in the school-room, and unless the teacher is resolute in requiring them to go out, they frequently do so. Another argument in favor of two weeks now, which may by some be considered of small account, is—that many of the older children, whose time out of school is so occupied with the preparations of lessons as to leave little margin for anything else, have been looking forward to these free days, to complete fancy work and little gifts for "Xmas and New Year's," and who are sadly disappointed to have the vacation shortened. Would it not be really better, for teachers and scholars both, to let the Xmas vacation, at least, remain the same as in the old days—two weeks?

GAZETTE

Established 1756.

The Gazette is published every Thursday, and sent to Subscribers at the low price of

$1.50 per year, paid in advance, or

$2 at the end of the year.

It contains full accounts of all of importance that transpires in Portsmouth and its vicinity, and a condensed summary of NEWS, foreign and domestic; editorials upon current topics; New Hampshire items; carefully prepared marine news, containing reports of vessels owned at this port, or offered by men from Portsmouth or its neighborhood; and is just the paper for residents desiring to be posted on all that takes place at home, while to those living in the vicinity of Portsmouth, or to former residents who retain their interest in the "old home by the sea," it is the best means of keeping informed of what transpires in this city.

— THE —

NEW HAMPSHIRE GAZETTE

Contains more original matter

Than any other paper of its size in the State, the editors working more with their pens than with their scissors.

TO ADVERTISERS

THE N. H. GAZETTE

Presents an excellent opportunity for a WEEKLY INVITATION TO CUSTOMERS, at a reasonable rate, and all those who desire to reach patrons in Rockingham and York counties will find it an economical medium. THE GAZETTE is in many instances the only paper taken by families, and it is read to a large extent in localities whence is derived much of the trade of Portsmouth, a fact which our merchants should not fail to bear in mind.

PENNSYLVANIA

RAILROAD.

GREAT THROUGH LINE

AND

UNITED STATES MAIL ROUTE

The attention of the travelling public is respectfully invited to some of the merits of this great highway, in the confident assertion and belief that no other line can offer equal inducements as a route of through travel. In

Construction AND Equipment

THE

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

stands confessedly at the head of American railways. The track is double the entire length of the line, of steel rails laid on heavy oak ties, which are embedded in a foundation of rock ballast eighteen inches in depth. All bridges are of iron or stone, and built upon the most approved plans. Its passenger cars, while eminently safe and substantial, are at the same time models of comfort and elegance.

The Safety Appliances

in use on this line well illustrates the far-seeing and liberal policy of its management, in accordance with which the utility only of an improvement and not its cost has been the question of consideration. Among many may be noticed

THE BLOCK SYSTEM OF SAFETY SIGNALS,

JANNEY COUPLER, BUFFER AND PLATFORM,

THE WHARTON PATENT SWITCH,

AND THE

WESTINGHOUSE AIR-BRAKE,

forming in conjunction with a perfect double track and road-bed a combination of safeguards against accidents which have rendered them practically impossible.

Pullman Palace Cars

Are run on all Express Trains

From New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington,

To Chicago, Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, and St. Louis,

WITHOUT CHANGE,

and to all principal points in the far West and South with but one change of cars. Connections are made in Union Depots, and are assured to all important points.

The Scenery

OF THE

PENNSYLVANIA ROUTE

is admitted to be unsurpassed in the world for grandeur, beauty and variety. Superior refreshment facilities are provided. Employees are courteous and attentive, and it is an inevitable result that travel by the Pennsylvania Railroad must form

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY

By its great and thorough blood-purifying properties, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures all humors from the purest scrofula to a common Blotch, Pimple, or Eruption. Mercurial disease, Biliousness, and other effects, as the result of indolent, and vigorous health and a sound constitution established. Erysipelas, Salt-Rheum, Fever Sores, Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood, are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine.

Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Rose Rash, Hells, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, White Swellings, Goitre or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands.

If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated, have sallow color of skin, or yellow jaundice, pain in the side, or body, frequent headache or dizziness, bad taste in mouth, internal heat or chills alternated with hot flashes, low spirits, and gloomy forebodings, irregular appetite, and tongue coated, you are suffering from Torpid Liver, or "Biliousness." In many cases of "Liver Complaint" only part of these symptoms are experienced. As a remedy for all such cases, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has no equal, as it directs perfect and radical cures.

In the cure of Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, and the early stages of Consumption, it has astonished the medical faculty, and eminent physicians pronounce it the greatest medical discovery of the age. While it cures the severest Coughs, it strengthens the system and purifies the blood. Sold by druggists.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets

SIZE OF PELLETS.

THE "LITTLE GIANT" CATHARTIC.

No use of taking the large, repulsive, nauseous pills, composed of chalk, crude, and bulky ingredients. These Pellets are scarcely larger than mustard seeds. Being entirely vegetable, no particular care is required while using them. They operate without disturbance to the constitution, diet, or occupation. For Sick Headache, Headache, Constipation, Impure Blood, Pain in the Shoulders, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations from the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious attacks, Pain in region of Kidneys, Internal Fever, Bloated feeling about Stomach, Rush of Blood to Head, take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. In explanation of the remedial power of these Purgative Pellets over so great a variety of diseases, it may be said that their action upon the animal economy is universal, not a gland or tissue escaping their sanative impress. Age does not impair the properties of these Pellets. They are sugar-coated and inclosed in glass bottles, their virtues being thereby preserved uninjured for any length of time, in any climate, so that they are always fresh and reliable. This is not the case with pills put up in cheap wooden or pasteboard boxes. For all diseases where a Laxative, Alterative, or Purgative is indicated, these little Pellets will give the most perfect satisfaction. Sold by druggists.

Daily Chronicle.

Chronicle Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 13th.

The hope so widely entertained a few days ago that Congress would do an exceptional amount of business before the holidays seems destined to be disappointed. True, the House has passed several appropriation bills, thus appearing to have done more than usual in the same time, but in reality this amounts to nothing, since these are all unimportant to the main business of the session, and there is a suspicion that they are rushed through for appearance's sake only. It will be impossible for the Senate to get at them before January, since several important bills and resolutions await the regular order. The Blaine resolutions will occupy a good deal of time, as the discussion threatens to be very general, the democrats not being satisfied to rest their defensive case where Messrs. Thurman and Lamar placed it. The matter will be given to a special committee finally, of which Senator Blaine could be chairman if he chose; but he does not want it. The speech of Senator Eustis, of Louisiana, yesterday, on the bill appropriating $5,000,000 for the repair of the Mississippi river levees, indicates that there will be more or less time spent in discussions of various schemes of internal improvement.

In the House the business is in no more promising condition. The minor appropriation bills being out of the way, political discussions will be in order, and the large appropriation bills will have to wait, some prophets predicting that they will be kept for log-rolling purposes, to carry through doubtful schemes with, at the last part of the session.

The pending investigations by the Potter committee even are in a dubious condition, and it is not known what will be done. Mr. Potter, it is said, takes the view that his committee is not authorized to investigate the cipher despatches, and the republicans of the committee are indifferent upon the subject, saying that it is for the democrats to clear their skirts of all the filth which attaches on account of the Tribune's exposures. Probably the matter cannot remain in doubt long, for there are some anti-Tilden democrats who are extremely restive under the imputation implied in treating the ciphers with "silent contempt." It is so near the time when the preliminary canvass for the presidency begins that the politicians move slowly in such matters, but disagreeable subjects will force themselves forward, and interesting inquiries will be on foot sooner than many will desire.

Speaking of this inquiry reminds me that Mr. Tilden's friends are already in the field, and actively urging his claims to the next democratic nomination. They assert stoutly that his hands will be found to be clean, so far as any wrong was done or intended in the southern negotiations; while admitting that improper if not criminal things were done by his friends, they say that the only thing that can attach to Mr. Tilden is his dread of repudiating the acts of old and trusted friends, who betrayed his confidence as General Grant's friends did his in the whiskey frauds and post tradership. Their theory is plausible at least, and they fortify their claim to the party support by the argument that he was "defrauded" of his election before, and that he is the only democrat who can carry New York.

The tedious inquiry into the facts bearing upon the question of transferring the Indian bureau to the War Department has been closed, and the commission will make their report in a few days. The testimony may be summed up thus: All the military officers favor the transfer, add give many facts to justify it; all the Indian officers of the Interior Department favor the service as it is; the public are divided, with perhaps a leaning for no change. Nevertheless many confidently predict still that a change will be made. I venture the assertion that the two Houses will differ, and will finally end the matter by a compromise, materially changing the system of Indian government; but retaining it substantially as at present, an attachment of the Interior Department. KNOX.

—A Miss Wheat, down in Indiana, was thrashed the other day by a lover whose Wheat heart she had ceased to be.

—Professor Charles A. Seelye says that in the near future the electric light will not only take the place of gas, but for many purposes will be found better and cheaper.

—A farmer in Birmingham, Conn., bargained to pay for his wife's coffin partly in walnuts. While the funeral services were in progress, and his house was crowded with neighbors, he lugged out the walnuts in a bag, which gave way and let them down rattlingly on the floor.

Portsmouth Chronicle

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 17, 1878.

Thurman's Answer.

The Manchester Mirror thus condenses the speech delivered by Senator Thurman in an attempt at answering Senator Blaine's convincing speech arraigning the southern democracy for fraud and violence in the late elections: "Nowhere in Mr. Thurman's speech does he have the hardihood to deny that the negroes were bulldozed and cheated, but on the other hand he virtually admits all that Mr. Blaine charges in this direction, and attempts to justify it in the manner we have stated. Here, then, is the democratic doctrine as proclaimed by its chosen leader. 'Property, intelligence and education must rule,' peaceably and by fair means when they can, by violence and fraud when they can hold the power in no other way; and no matter how many murders may be committed, or how much cheating may be perpetrated by the wealthy and the educated at the south, in order to overcome the votes cast by the poor and ignorant, no man in the Senate or elsewhere must complain, because the south may be irritated and strife between the two sections engendered; and, furthermore, that the republicans of the north must stand idly by and see their friends at the south disfranchised by force and fraud, because it is their fault that the negroes were given the right of suffrage, and put in a position where their opponents find it necessary to use shot-guns and tissue ballots to keep them out of office."

Laughed Herself to Death.

The Providence Journal records an extraordinary death at Newport on Friday. It appears that Mr. Joshua Walker, a colored man, had bought some pork which he intended to salt down for winter use. He went to the cupboard for some salt with which to make a brine, and took from a jar what he supposed was the required article, and proceeded to use it. His wife, Rosa, a young woman less than twenty years old, discovered soon after that he had taken granulated sugar instead of salt. The discovery set her to laughing heartily, and she could not stop. She laughed, and laughed, and laughed, her merriment getting more boisterous each moment. Finally the husband became alarmed and sent out for assistance, and soon his landlord arrived, witnessing in a few minutes the poor woman's departure, it is hoped, for the better land. She had positively laughed herself to death. The husband's horror at this extraordinary result of his innocent mistake can be better imagined than described.

News and Notes.

The Maine fishermen decidedly object to the operations of porgy steamers in seining near the shore.

William Sexton, a switchman in the Grand Trunk railroad yard at Portland, had both legs taken off by being run over by a train Saturday night. He was taken to the Maine General Hospital, but died in a very short time. He was twenty-one years old.

Porter Guerney, aged twenty-five years, son of a prominent druggist, and Florence Wickoff, aged sixteen, daughter of a Presbyterian clergyman at Lake City, Minn., while skating together Friday evening, were drowned by the breaking of the ice. Their bodies were recovered.

There was an explosion of nitro-glycerine and gun powder in the St. Bernard coal mine at Earlington, Ky., Friday, the shock of which was felt for miles, and a train of mining cars, mules and negro driver were blown to atoms. There was a panic among the miners and their families.

Worcester, Vt., is much excited over the murder of Will Moccurmuck, a half-breed Canadian Indian. Moccurmuck was last seen Wednesday last, in company with Royal Carr, a hard character of Calais, who once served a sentence of ten years in State prison for murder. Saturday Moccurmuck's body was found in the woods with three revolver shots in the left side and one in the head, and a heavy charge in the right shoulder. Evidence is strong against Carr.

On the 4th inst., Seward Vantyne and Elihu Allen of Grand Isle, Vt., left Plattsburg, N. Y., for their home, in a row boat laden with lumber, nails, etc. A gale came up and they were not heard from till found, Saturday, dead in their boat in a little bay of Low's island, near Colchester reef. They perished from exposure and cold.

A despatch on Saturday from Omaha, Nebraska, says the two men recently burned to death they were innocent of crime, and that the mob that murdered them was composed of outlawed Texas herders. The same despatch says that Richards, who murdered Mrs. Harlston and her three children in Kearney county, committed the crime to get possession of two mules, a quantity of grain and a homestead claim. The crime was committed Nov. 24, and the bodies were found Dec. 11th. Richards also murdered Peter Anderson, a farmer living about five miles from Mrs. Harlston, by knocking in his skull with a hammer, for a small amount of money in his pockets.

Brattleboro, Vt., was thrown into a feverish excitement Saturday by the announcement of an attempted rape by a tramp upon Mrs. Orin M. Whitney, a poor but respectable lady living about a mile south of the village. The victim, though considerably injured, was able to give an accurate description of the tramp. A large number of citizens started in pursuit of the villain, who was captured in another part of the town, just as he had forded a stream, hoping thereby to escape. He was immediately recognized by the woman, and securely ironed, and taken to the county jail to await trial. He claimed to be Dennis Rafferty of Compton, P. Q., and late of Claremont, N. H.

At Springfield, Mass., Saturday, Frank Fino, a tramp, was sentenced to the State prison for life for outraging Mrs. Julia Tracy at Agawam in July last. Lewis Peabody and Henry Peabody were sentenced to the State prison for life for robbing and attempting to kill George Brewster near Palmer, five years ago. They had just served five years in the Connecticut prison.

George W. Huntzinger, Ex-President of the Philadelphia Coal Company, was discharged Saturday from the charge of misapplying the money of the company, but was at once taken before a magistrate upon a criminal charge of embezzling $82,438 belonging to the Philadelphia Coal Company.

Jane L. Weldon was arrested in Boston last week, and in her house was found stolen property valued at $1400. Her husband, Frank Weldon, is in prison already.

Patrick Cain of Boston, a hard-working, honest Irishman, was murdered Sunday morning by his brother-in-law, Charles Callahan, a worthless ruffian to whom Cain had given a home. The assassin attacked Cain while the latter was sleeping beside his wife, and shot him four times with a revolver, afterward cutting his own throat with a razor. The murdered man, who was only twenty-four years old, leaves his widow with a babe eight weeks of age. Callahan was a fellow of bad character, and had figured more than once in criminal cases.

Four negroes, who about a month ago set on fire a mill at Mount Carrie, Florida, and while the superintendent was absent at the mill entered his house and beat his wife until she gave up to them $200, were taken from jail in Lake City by a disguised mob, Saturday morning, and three of them shot to death in the street. The other escaped, and gave himself up to the authorities.

A despatch from Ellsworth, Me., Saturday, says the light on Mt. Desert rock had not been seen since the night of Tuesday, 10th inst., the date of the great storm, and it was feared that all hands were lost.

A lumber vessel, name unknown, was wrecked on Peak's island, near Portland harbor, in the gale of the 10th inst., and all hands lost. Her deck load drifted into Portland harbor; her rudder, rigging, and other wreck stuff, went ashore on the island. She was probably a vessel of 150 tons, and carried three or four men. No marks on the cargo were found by which she could be identified.

In the case of Cornelia P. Webb, who died suddenly in Brockton, Mass., on the 26th ult., a decision has been found that she died from an overdose of arsenic administered by herself, and that she was in the habit of eating arsenic to beautify her complexion.

It is stated that Mr. "Jim" Keene, who has now 5,000,000 bushels of wheat on hand in Chicago, has about closed a contract with railroads and steamship companies to move two or three million bushels of wheat from Chicago to Liverpool, by way of Boston.

At Jamestown, N. Y., a 100-miles walking match for $400, between Miss May Marshall and Dan Carrol of Warren, Pa., was won by the former at 11:30 o'clock Friday night, she being one lap ahead. She had held that position since the fifty-third mile.

At Winton, Hartford county, North Carolina, on the 12th inst., Samuel Jacob and Elbert Gotling, colored, were tried for assault with intent to kill Marcus Williams, colored, for voting for J. J. Yeates, the democratic candidate for Congress. The prisoners were found guilty and sentenced to six years in the penitentiary. That is proper. But the first case of a democrat, colored or other, being punished in the south for attempting to murder or actually murdering a republican for political reasons, has yet to occur. The State courts in that section are run solely in the interests of the democratic party. No republican need apply for either law or justice.

New Hampshire Items.

The famous stock horse Abdallah, belonging to David M. Taggart of Goffstown, died of cancer Saturday, aged twenty-one years. His progeny are in the hands of horse fanciers all over the country.

Senator Wadleigh is alluded to by the Washington correspondent of the New York Times, as "the handsome Senator from New Hampshire."

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

CONSUMERS should bear in mind that the incomparable "Royal" is now the only Baking Powder in the market made from pure Grape Cream Tartar, imported exclusively for this powder direct from the wine-growing district of France. An old experienced housekeeper writes that, although she has to pay a few pennies more for the "Royal," finds that it goes so much further and works so much better, that it is economy to use it. Another says she uses the powder in puddings, cakes, and all sorts of pastry, without eggs. An old lady writes that it makes the only biscuit her dyspeptic husband can eat. This is because the best and most wholesome materials are used. Approved by the New York Board of Health, and by such eminent chemists as Dr. MOTT, New York; Dr. HAYES, Boston; Prof. GENTH, Philadelphia, etc. Sold in tin cans only. dtsept19 79

THE CITY.

Schooners G. W. Raitt and Hattie Lewis, of Dover, will lie up for the winter inside the Noble's island bridge.

Miss May Belle Sherman, of Portland, will on Tuesday, Dec. 24th, attempt to walk fifty miles in eleven hours, rests included, in Franklin hall. Of what particular benefit it will be for her to do this we cannot perceive.

Mr. Asa D. Waldron had an attack of apoplexy Sunday evening, at the residence of his wife's mother, Mrs. J. M. Edmunds; fatal results were at first feared, but the attending physician, Dr. Whittier, reports him as now steadily improving.

The U. S. S. Plymouth sailed for Boston between four and five o'clock Monday afternoon, from the lower harbor. This change of anchorage, however, will not "stash" the ball by the petty officers in Congress hall on Wednesday evening, as Capt. Harmony very kindly gives them liberty to come from Boston to this city for the occasion.

An old man eighty-eight years of age called at the station house in this city on Monday morning. He was in a very infirm condition, and stated that he had walked from Wells, Me., leaving there Sunday morning and walking all night, he called to several places on the route, but no one would give him shelter. He says he had six sons in the army during the late rebellion, none of whom lived to return. He was kindly cared for by Marshal Entwistle, and furnished transportation to Boston by Mayor Sise. He says he lives in Worcester, Mass.

Miss Edith Wendell, who had intended to give a concert in Music hall on some evening this week, has in accordance with the suggestion contained in the following note, concluded to defer the entertainment until some future date, due notice of which will be given:

PORTSMOUTH, Dec. 12th, 1878.

Miss Edith Wendell: The undersigned, representing a great majority of your friends in this city, beg leave to suggest that, in view of the many entertainments already announced for the holidays, your proposed concert be deferred until later in the season, in order that the public generally may testify their personal interest in your success, by making the entertainment a substantial benefit, a result hardly to be expected from the present limited announcement. We are, very truly, your obedient servants,

WILLIAM H. SISE,
CHARLES A. HOLBROOK,
WILLIAM R. PRESTON,
T. A. HARRIS,
ALBERT R. HATCH.

Harper's Magazine for January offers an unusual variety of interesting reading matter, with over ninety illustrations. The number opens with an effectively illustrated paper, on Liverpool—"England's Great Seaport." S. G. W. Benjamin contributes the first of two profusely illustrated papers, entitled "Rambles in the South of France." Besides these articles descriptive of places, there is, for readers interested in the curiosities of animal life, Mrs. Treat's illustrated paper, "A Chapter in the History of Ants," —a narrative of her own observations. Those interested in ceramic art will be especially pleased with Jennie J. Young's "Cloisonne Enamel," with eight beautiful engravings. "MacLeod of Dare" is concluded. Those interested in our early American literature will rejoice to see an almost forgotten poetess—Mrs. Maria Brooks, or "Maria del Occidente"—recalled from oblivion by Mrs. Gustafson's delightful paper, giving, through a variety of letters, reminiscences of this remarkable author's brief career. Mrs. Brooks, the author of "Zophiel," a poem from which Mrs. Gustafson quotes largely, was pronounced by Southey "the most impassioned and most imaginative of all poetesses." Both literary and musical readers will be interested in the curious information given in the paper on Rousseau respecting his musical achievements. Porte Crayon contributes one of his characteristic articles, entitled "Home," with illustrations. Edward Everett Hale's fine poem, "The Great Harvest Year," appropriately closes the number. The Easy Chair discusses Choate, the magazine of to-day, the true story of Paul Revere's ride, etc. The Literary Record is a comprehensive and critical summary of the important books of the month. The other editorial departments are well sustained. The magazine is ready for distribution to subscribers, or for sale, at W. G. Myers' bookstore.

Among the articles of freight going west on the railroads are Christmas trees from the woods of Maine.

Frank Jones has introduced in Congress a bill regulating the rank of chaplains in the navy. We are glad to see that Frank is getting interested in religious subjects, and trust he will continue until his constituents, whom he has been in the habit of supplying with such vulgar and profane literature as "the congressional directory handsomely bound, with the constituent's name printed in gold on the cover," are each furnished by him with a copy of the Scriptures and Watts' hymns.—Manchester Mirror.

THE VICINITY.

While dressing a goose, Thanksgiving day, Mr. Dearborn Dow of Seabrook found a bit of gold in the fowl's crop.

John Hatch, Esq., of Greenland, had the top of one of his fingers taken off a day or two since by a windmill.—Times.

The War Department asks this year for $36,000 to continue work on the battery on Gerrish's island, at the entrance to this harbor, and $24,000 for the battery on Jerry's point, Newcastle.

Hampton has a singing school, held in the town hall and taught by Mrs. George W. Knowles of North Hampton. South Hampton has a singing school of which Mr. Moses Flanders is teacher.

A barn at Great Falls owned by J. T. Furber, Superintendent of the Boston & Maine railroad, was burned Saturday night, with several tons of hay, a cow, and a hog, the property of John Ham, who occupied the premises. Loss about $1000.

The farmers all around in this section of the country report their apples as rotting very badly, even those most carefully hand-picked going to the bad fast. It is probable that notwithstanding the immense crop of this fruit this season, it will be scarce and high-priced before spring.

Rev. Willis E. Hadley, pastor of the Congregational church at Rye, who had been engaged for another year, it is said has been requested by a committee representing the church to resign. The cause is said to be a strong sermon, which was considered personal in its character.

The Strafford District Medical Society holds its annual meeting at Dover on Wednesday. Address by President E. B. Sargent of Rochester; orations by Drs. Swasey of Great Falls and Edgecombe of Rochester; papers by Drs. Parsons and Whittier of Portsmouth, Wheeler of Dover and Sylvester of Barrington.

A new bridge of the most substantial kind is being built across the Salmon Falls river between Salmon Falls and Berwick. The Portsmouth, Great Falls & Conway railroad are laying new abutments for their bridge near the station in Salmon Falls. Foot passengers have been obliged for some time past to avail themselves of the latter bridge.

William A. Fernald of Eliot is removed from the position of foreman shipwright at the navy yard, and William F. Noyes appointed in his place. Mr. Noyes formerly held the position, and was "rotated" over four years ago by Mr. Fernald. It is currently reported that in this change the Maine people do not propose to lose their share of offices, and that Mr. Daniel Perry will be appointed dock master in place of Joseph Neal.

In the list of claims filed with the department of State at Washington by insurance companies, growing out of the acts committed by the several vessels which have given rise to the "Alabama claims," so called, and which were allowed by the Geneva tribunal, we notice that the former Piscataqua Fire and Marine Ins. Co. of South Berwick, Me., has a little claim of $7,150. The Merchants' Mutual Ins. Co., of Newburyport, has claims amounting to $23,076.

The insurance on Capt. Frisbee's hotel at Kittery point, burnt some time ago, was $4500. Some of the insurance companies state their readiness to restore the building for about $3700. Considerable negotiation has been going on concerning the adjustment of the loss, and the matter is now referred to a board of practical builders, consisting of Messrs. Shaw of Jamaica Plain, Mass., (formerly of York, Me.,) McNutt of Boston and Davis of Cambridge, whose award is to be final.

A few evenings since, Mr. Thomas Piper of Stratham and his family left their residence and spent a few hours at the house of a friend. At about half-past nine o'clock they returned, and were somewhat surprised to find their domicile brilliantly illuminated. At first they supposed that the building was on fire, but a second glance showed that the light proceeded from a kerosene lamp. They were still more surprised upon entering, to find the house occupied by a man, woman and child. The little one was snugly tucked up in bed, and sweetly sleeping. Upon being questioned, they stated that they belonged in Amesbury, Mass., and that having become footsore and weary, and noticing that the house was unoccupied, they raised a window and entered, thinking to make it their headquarters for the night. The intruders were given a good supper and a comfortable bed, and next morning a good breakfast, and were then allowed to go on their way rejoicing.

PORTSMOUTH ATHENÆUM.

At the annual meeting of the proprietors of the Portsmouth Athenæum, held on Monday, the following-named gentlemen were chosen directors: George W. Haven, Albert R. Hatch, William H. Rollins, John S. Pray and John S. H. Frink. Wm. H. Rollins was re-elected president, and George Annable secretary and treasurer.

THE OPERA TO-NIGHT.

The operatic entertainment at Music hall this evening will draw a full house, as it deserves. We advise any who may have decided not to bother about securing seats until evening to reconsider that determination, and go to Preston's to-day; there are still seats left, but the number is not large.

Adelaide Phillipps, one of the greatest operatic geniuses America has ever produced, appears as Azucena the Gypsy, in "Il Trovatore;" her equal in the role is probably not on the stage. Miss Marie Stone, the charming soprano formerly of the Kellogg, Hess and Carleton operas, appears as Leonora; while the "handsome Tom Karl," last season the principal tenor with the Kellogg-Carey Grand Opera Co., appears as Manrico in the "Miserere" scene, famous wherever music or opera has been known. Mr. W. H. MacDonald, basso, as Ferrando, and Mr. A. E. Stoddard as Count Di Luna, are among the best known opera singers on the stage. The "Anvil Chorus" will be splendidly given, and the superb Germania orchestra of Boston will assist; the chorus is strong and effective, and the costumes new and attractive.

The entertainment is under Manager Smith of the Fall River Academy of Music, the finest and largest theatre in the east excepting the Boston theatre; he presented the Union Square Company in "A Celebrated Case" in this city some time ago, to great satisfaction.

POLICE COURT.

MONDAY, Dec. 16; Batchelder, J.

The court was occupied in hearing complaints against various parties for violating the Sunday law against the sale of liquor. The first case heard was that of George Lane, of the White Hart hotel, who was complained of for selling liquor to two young men named Frost and Jocelyn, who were arrested on Bridge street Sunday afternoon while in an intoxicated condition, and rather than be punished for their offence disclosed where they procured the liquor. It was shown to the satisfaction of the court that Lane was the person who sold them the liquor, and he was ordered to pay a fine of $10, and costs $6.90.

The next in order was John Dwyer, for exposing liquor for sale. Officers White and Nowell, who made the complaint, testified that while standing in front of Dwyer's house they heard some person moving about down stairs, and sounds as of liquids being poured from one vessel to another. Hearing loud talk in the room above they went in, and found on the table a bottle of rum and a quantity of ale lately drawn. One witness was examined for the defence, his testimony partly corroborating that of the officers. The case was continued to Tuesday forenoon, to enable Mr. Dwyer to procure witnesses, he being required to furnish bonds in the sum of $100 for his appearance. A third party, arraigned for keeping an open bar on Sunday, pleaded not guilty, and was ordered to recognize in $100 to appear at ten o'clock Tuesday forenoon.

THE SEABROOK MYSTERY.

Deputy Sheriff Brown, who is working up the case of the supposed homicide of Joseph P. Jones, who died suddenly at Seabrook on Sunday morning, the 8th inst., has collected evidence having an important bearing on the facts of the case. Jones was at several places on the evening before his death, and visited his home twice during the evening, once going out to pay his house-rent and redeem his razor (which he had pawned, and which has not been seen since;) on returning he gave his wife sixty cents. Shortly after nine o'clock he went out again, returning soon after eleven, and exclaiming when he entered "I'm shot in the eye," a phrase commonly used by him when he had been drinking. He sank into a chair and soon after fell to the floor, and did not speak again, dying at about four o'clock Sunday morning. The side of his face was badly discolored by a bruise, which looked more as if made by a blow from a fist or weapon than if occasioned by a fall. The inquest is adjourned to Saturday, the 21st inst., when it is expected that testimony throwing light on the matter will be introduced.

Jones enlisted in Deputy Sheriff Brown's company in the 14th Regt. N. H. Volunteers during the late war, (Brown being then first lieutenant of the company,) and deserted at Concord on the 18th day of October, 1862, while the regiment was embarking on the cars for the seat of war.

EXCELLENT, BUT CHEAP.

By advertisement of the Rockingham Course of Entertainments in another column, it will be seen that the first entertainment is to be given on Friday evening, Dec. 27th, by the full company of Boston Museum, including Warren. To be followed by the Martinez English Opera Co., in "Fra Diavolo"—a beautiful opera by a superb company; an evening of readings, etc.; a concert by the famous Swedish Lady Vocal Quartette, and other artists; and a lecture by Theodore Tilton. Notwithstanding the superior excellence of this course, the price of tickets is placed very low—only $2 for a course ticket for parquette or balcony, and $1.50 for the gallery, which is putting each of these five first-class entertainments down to about half the price of the average negro minstrel show! How the projector and manager can "make both ends meet" at that scale of prices is more than we can cipher out; however, that is Capt. Hilton's lookout, not ours. We cannot doubt that every ticket must be sold in order to cover the expenses; and we have no doubt that every ticket will be sold. The sale of tickets will commence at Preston's on Saturday.

NO. 3 BOW STREET.

RAYMOND.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Ames Batchelder was celebrated on the evening of Dec. 11th. A good collection of relatives and citizens was present, with some from Chester and Candia. Mr. Batchelder is a hard-working, industrious farmer, and it was very pleasant to show to him and family the regards and respect largely felt. A good, social time was enjoyed, an oyster supper was served, and valuable presents made. A short speech of presentation was given, to which a suitable response was made, and then Rev. J. Fullonton read the following, prepared for the occasion:

In Eden's bowers where all was fair,
Man was alone and full of care;
No one to cheer, no one to bless,
No one to love with fond caress.

God saw that lonely, cheerless life,
And woman gave, gave for his wife;
Adam in rapturous bliss complete,
Said 'tis enough, a loved helpmeet.

In all the ages since that time,
In every nation, land and clime,
The marriage rites have firmly stood,
They're for the race for highest good.

Loved woman comes an angel form,
To shield man's head in life's rough storm:
To tell her worth none ever can,
She's "Heaven's last best gift to man."

A century's fourth has passed away,
Since these on their blest bridal day,
In union close were firmly joined,
Union of body, soul and mind.

Success to them life's journey through,
In all the duties they shall do;
And when the end at length shall come,
Rejoice in an eternal home.

GAZETTE

Established 1756.

The Gazette is published every Thursday, and sent to Subscribers at the low price of $1.50 per year, paid in advance, or $2 at the end of the year.

It contains full accounts of all of importance that transpires in Portsmouth and its vicinity, and a condensed summary of NEWS, foreign and domestic; editorials upon current topics; New Hampshire items; carefully prepared marine news, containing reports of vessels owned at this port, or offered by men from Portsmouth or its neighborhood; and is just the paper for residents desiring to be posted on all that takes place at home, while to those living in the vicinity of Portsmouth, or to former residents who retain their interest in the "old home by the sea," it is the best means of keeping informed of what transpires in this city.

— THE —

NEW HAMPSHIRE GAZETTE

Contains more original matter

Than any other paper of its size in the State, the editors working more with their pens than with their scissors.

TO ADVERTISERS

THE N. H. GAZETTE

Presents an excellent opportunity for a WEEKLY INVITATION TO CUSTOMERS, at a reasonable rate, and all those who desire to reach patrons in Rockingham and York counties will find it an economical medium. PENNSYLVANIA

RAILROAD.

GREAT THROUGH LINE

AND

UNITED STATES MAIL ROUTE

The attention of the travelling public is respectfully invited to some of the merits of this great highway, in the confident assertion and belief that no other line can offer equal inducements as a route of through travel. Its

Construction AND Equipment

THE

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

stands confessedly at the head of American railways. The track is double the entire length of the line, of steel rails laid on heavy oak ties, which are embedded in a foundation of rock ballast eighteen inches in depth. All bridges are of iron or stone, and built upon the most approved plans. Its passenger cars, while eminently safe and substantial, are at the same time models of comfort and elegance.

The Safety Appliances

in use on this line well illustrates the far-seeing and liberal policy of its management, in accordance with which the utility only of an improvement and not its cost has been the question of consideration. Among many may be noticed

THE BLOCK SYSTEM OF SAFETY SIGNALS,

JANNEY COUPLER, BUFFER AND PLATFORM,

THE WHARTON PATENT SWITCH,

AND THE

WESTINGHOUSE AIR-BRAKE,

forming in conjunction with a perfect double track and road-bed a combination of safeguards against accidents which have rendered them practically impossible.

Pullman Palace Cars

Are run on all Express Trains

From New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington,

To Chicago, Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, and St. Louis,

WITHOUT CHANGE,

and to all principal points in the far West and South with but one change of cars. Connections are made in Union Depots, and are assured to all important points.

The Scenery

OF THE

PENNSYLVANIA ROUTE

is admitted to be unsurpassed in the world for grandeur, beauty and variety. Superior refreshment facilities are provided. Employees are courteous and attentive, and it is an inevitable result that a trip by the Pennsylvania Railroad must form one of the pleasant memories of every traveler.

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY

By its great and thorough blood-purifying properties, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures all Humors, from the worst Scrofula to a common Blotch, Pimple, or Eruption. Mercurial disease, Mineral Poisons, and their effects, are eradicated, and vigorous health and a sound constitution established. Erysipelas, Salt-rheum, Fever Sores, Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all disease caused by bad blood, are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating Cordial.

Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Ecze Rash, Itch, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, White Swelling, Goiter or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands.

If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated, have sallow color of skin, or yellowish-brown spots on face or body, frequent headache or dizziness, bad taste in mouth, internal heat or chills alternated with hot flashes, low spirits, and gloomy forebodings, irregular appetite, and tongue coated, you are suffering from Torpid Liver, or "Biliousness." In many cases of "Liver Complaint" only part of these symptoms are experienced. As a remedy for all such cases, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has no equal, as it effects perfect and radical cures.

For Pulmonary Diseases, Severe Coughs, and the early stages of Consumption, it has astonished the medical faculty by its eminent physicinal properties. It the greatest medical discovery of the age. While it cures the severest coughs, it invigorates the system and purifies the blood. Sold by druggists.

R. V. PIERCE, M. D., Prop'r, World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets

SIZE OF PELLETS.

"THE LITTLE GIANT" CATHARTIC.

No use of taking the large, repulsive, nauseous pills, composed of chaff, crude, and bulky ingredients. These Pellets are scarcely larger than mustard seeds. Being entirely vegetable, no particular care is required while using them. They operate without disturbance to the constitution, diet, or occupation. For Jaundice, Headache, Constipation, Impure Blood, Pain in the Shoulder, Tightness of the Chest, Dimness, Sour Eructations from the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious attacks, Pain in region of Kidneys, Internal Fever, Bloated feeling about Stomach, Rush of Blood to Head, take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. In explanation of the remedial power of these Purgative Pellets over so great a variety of diseases, it may be said that their action upon the animal economy is universal, not a gland or tissue escaping the manifest impress. Age does not impair the properties of these Pellets. They are sugar-coated and inclosed in glass bottles, their virtues being thereby preserved unimpaired for any length of time, in any climate, so that they are always fresh and reliable. This is not the case with pills put up in cheap wooden or pasteboard boxes. For all diseases where a Laxative, Alterative, or Purgative, is indicated, these little Pellets will give the most perfect satisfaction. Sold by druggists.

CATARRH

SYMPTOMS.—Frequent headache, discharge falling into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, thick mucous, etc. In others, a dryness, dry, watery, weak, or inflamed eyes, stopping up, or obstruction, of the nasal passages, ringing in ears, deafness, hawking and coughing to clear the throat, ulcerous matter from ulcers, voice altered, nasal twang, offensive breath, impaired or total deprivation of sense of smell and taste, dizziness, mental depression, loss of appetite, indigestion, enlarged tonsils, tickling cough, etc. Only a few of these symptoms are likely to be present in any case at one time.

DR. SAGE'S CATARRH REMEDY

produces radical cures of the worst cases of Catarrh, no matter of how long standing. The liquid remedy may be snuffed, or better applied by the use of Dr. PIERCE'S Douche. This is the only form of instrument yet invented with which fluid medicine can be carried HIGH UP and PERFECTLY APPLIED to all parts of the affected nasal passages, and ulcerous or cavities communicating therewith, in which sores and ulcers frequently exist, and from which the catarrhal discharge generally proceeds. Its use is pleasant and easily understood, from directions accompanying each instrument. Dr. SAGE'S Catarrh Remedy cures recent attacks of "Cold in the Head" by a few applications. It is bland and pleasant to use, containing no strong or caustic drugs or poisons. Catarrh Remedy, 50 cts., sold by druggists.

"America Ahead in Spool Cotton," that the Jury on Cotton textiles, yarns, and threads, at the Paris Exposition, decreed a Gold Medal and Grand Prize to the Willimantic Linen Company for "Spool Cotton especially adapted for use on Sewing Machines," over all the great thread manufacturers of the world, we owe it as a duty to the public and to Messrs. J. & P. Coats to announce that No Grand Prizes were decreed at Paris for Spool Cotton.

We are advised by cable of the following awards:

THE NEW YORK TIMES

For 1879.

ESTABLISHED 1851.

The position of the foremost republican newspaper in the United States will be sustained by The New York Times by the same policy in virtue of which that position has been attained.

The Times will continue to place fidelity in the interests of the Republican Party above the pursuit of personal aims or private ambition, and will steadfastly insist that the soundness of any party must be measured by the extent of its devotion to the honor and welfare of the country. In the future, as in the past, the attitude of The Times will be that of independence within the Republican Party. The maintenance of the national credit, the purification of the public service; the advocacy of all seasonable projects of fiscal reform; rigid economy in public expenditures; opposition to subsidies and corporate jobbery in all its forms, and the preservation of equal rights to all citizens, North and South, will be the salient points of the policy of The Times.

The Times will continue to be distinguished as an enterprising, accurate, and carefully edited newspaper. The acknowledged excellence and fullness of its correspondence by mail and telegraph, from all parts of the world, will be adequately maintained, and its facilities for collecting domestic and foreign news will be expanded to meet the increasing demands of our time.

In the sphere of literary and artistic criticism, of science, life, social, and general discussion, The Times will address itself, as heretofore, to the appreciation of the educated and intelligent classes of the American people. It will be lively without being sensational, aggressive without being coarse; and at times it will strive to be fearless and independent in the championship of right. No theories subversive of the principles on which the sacredness of our laws, and the existence of society alike repose will be promulgated in its columns.

The Times rejects all advertisements of lotteries, of quacks and medical pretenders, and of all other agencies by which the insidious poison of vice is disseminated throughout society. It will be in the future, as in the past, a newspaper especially adapted for family reading.

The Weekly Times, containing selected editorials on topics of national and general interest from the columns of the daily issue, as well as a concise summary of political, social, and foreign news, besides other features which recommend it to all classes of readers, is a paper admirably fitted to circulate in every portion of the United States. It will be the aim of its conductors to use every means, not only to maintain its well-earned supremacy, but to make its popularity still more decided.

The South Carolina Crimes.

When the first account of the villainies perpetrated by the democrats in South Carolina at the late election were received, the New York Tribune declined to accept the statements of the republican sufferers, even though they were backed up by the exulting boasts of the democratic papers, as proof, but sent to that State as a special investigator its correspondent Mr. White, a man known in every part of the land as a most conscientious, candid and careful investigator, whose report of personal inquiries and observations in Louisiana a few years ago was treated by the whole democratic press as conclusive proof. Mr. White has personally ascertained the facts in the counties of South Carolina where the "conversion" of the colored republicans to democracy was most complete; has talked with competent witnesses of both races and both parties, and has reported what he has seen and knows to be true. It is the truth that active republican leaders were imprisoned, driven from the country, or killed; that armed troops of law-breakers in red shirts took possession of nearly all republican meetings; and that the colored phalanx still remained substantially unbroken. In spite of terrorism and disorganization, those who did vote cast republican ballots. Then the "great, proud white race" asserted its superiority by resorting to the meanest and most infamous frauds. Voting places were abolished so that thousands of colored men were disfranchised; tissue-papers ballots were substituted for republican votes actually cast, and that by the thousand, all over the State, under direction from a central authority. Mr. White bears the democratic admission, "We had to do it, or the radicals would have beaten us." He finds that the negroes, almost to a man, did vote republican ballots. Nor is his testimony alone. Mr. Campbell, a democrat of wide reputation and high character, and a leader of the bar of South Carolina, has publicly offered to give abundant proof to any democratic editor who will ask it, and not one has dared to ask!

Life in Texas.

At Meridian, Texas, Sunday night, while most of the citizens were at church, fifty masked men compelled the jailor to open the prison, entered the cell of Mont and Tom Howell, and riddled them with buckshot, compelling another prisoner to hold a light.

On Monday, at Plano, Texas, George Rowland was shot dead by Sidney T. Hudson for seducing the latter's sister.

Berry Worms, a merchant of Jewett, Texas, was terribly wounded with buckshot, beaten over the head, and left for dead, near Jewett, while attempting to recover some stolen goods, one day last week. The sheriff and Worms' friends went to the scene, killed one negro and arrested two others.

News and Notes.

President Hayes on Monday nominated Judge Lowell of Massachusetts to fill the vacancy in the first United States circuit.

At Thornhill, Tenn., 11th inst., J. N. Epperson and wife quarrelled. John Epperson, a one-armed son, in protecting his mother, was badly stabbed by his father, when he finally wrested the knife away and stabbed his father dead. Thomas Epperson, another son, shortly after reached home and began firing at John, when the mother interfered, and he shot her dead. He continued firing at John, failing to hit him, but shot another brother in the thigh, and shattered the knee of a young sister. Thomas fled and John gave himself up to the authorities.

Mount Desert rock light, which it was feared had been carried away, was seen Saturday night, apparently all right. There has been no communication with the rock, and no reason is known for the reported obscuration. The sea was higher than ever during the recent gales.

A watchman at the Stafford mill, North Dighton, Mass., was assaulted by probable thieves some two months ago and had his jaw badly hurt and several teeth knocked out by what he supposed was a blow with a club. On Saturday a flattened pistol ball was removed by a physician from the wound, which showed a more murderous intent than was at first supposed.

Royal Carr has been held without bail for the willful murder of William W. Murcormuck at Calais, Vt., the evidence being conclusive against him. The post mortem examination showed that a heavy charge of shot was first fired into the murdered man's right shoulder at close range, and that four bullets were then fired into his head and body from a revolver, the weapon being held so near as to burn the flesh. Carr has the reputation of being a thorough scoundrel, and has been in State prison for ten years at a time.

Joseph Loupe, once wealthy, now poor, has been living unhappily with his wife in New Jersey. Mrs. Loupe recently became attached to a stableman, and told her love to Mr. Loupe, who agreed to leave his wife if the rival would give him $6 in cash and pay a liquor bill of $5. This was agreed to, and legal separation papers have been drawn up.

Rev. John H. Wray of New Brunswick, N. J., who has been missing for some time, has been finally traced to his death bed in Bellevue hospital, New York city. His death was caused by opium.

The men and women of common sense in Canada are justly indignant that the wearing of low-necked dresses has been established as one of the rules of etiquette at the receptions of the new governor-general and his wife. If nothing else could do it, it would seem that such an absurdity in practice would cool the ardor for royalty among the most loyal Canadians. A rule for the wearing of "blankets and top boots" would seem to be a fitter edict for court life in Ottawa.

A Mrs. Rosworth of Vernon, Conn., tried to show John Quinn's little boy how to use a revolver, while she was drunk with cider the other day, and probably fatally shot the child.

The House committee on naval affairs has made a majority report regarding Ex-Secretary of the Navy Robeson and others, and recommended that they be presented to the grand jury for fraud. The Potter committee's report on the Moses-Match-Marble-Pelton-Tilden ciphers is not yet made public.

E. J. Knee of Concord has been held for the willful murder of William Murphy by shooting. The crime was committed at about one o'clock on a Monday morning, just after the parties had left a low drinking den where they had been playing cards for liquor all Sunday night.

Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, in his lecture on "the wastes and burdens of society," claims "man's natural life to be 80 years, and as the average life is but 33 years, there must be a waste of 47 years." There is much of truth in this statement. If a man be unfortunate in business, it is attributed to the violation of some commercial law. Now, if a person be taken off in the prime of life, ought it not to be attributed to the violation of some physiological law? If people only knew better, they would live better and longer; but how can they profit by that which they know not of? The only popular work that meets this great want is Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. In it the great problems of disease and health are fully discussed. The work contains over 900 pages and 250 colored plates and wood-cuts. Price, $1.50 (post paid.) Address the author, R. V. Pierce, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.

4th. Is the most economical oil, because it gives the most light in proportion to its price.

We give the following letter to show the absolute freedom of Devoe's Brilliant Oil from any inflammable vapor, and as a curious incident:

PATERSON, N. J., April 17, 1877.

DEVOE MANUFACTURING CO.
Gentlemen:—I take great pleasure in sending this unsolicited recommendation of your Kerosene Oil.

At the great fire in this place, which destroyed Norwood's Paint and Oil establishment, and other buildings, on the 13th inst., your Oil stood one of most severe tests that Oil could be put to; for four [4] hours the Oil was in the hottest part of the fire, and a charge as only Varnish, Turpentine, Oils and Paints can make, and in all that time there was no explosion of your Oil, and the cans containing the Oil were as very near the same condition after the fire as before.

I take great pleasure in recommending this Oil, as in my opinion it is the safest Oil for sale in the market. I remain, very respectfully,

JOHN E. REGNER,
Chief of Fire Department.

CONSUMERS should bear in mind that the incomparable "Royal" is now the only Baking Powder in the market made from pure Grape Cream Tartar, imported exclusively for this powder direct from the wine-growing district of France. An old experienced housekeeper writes that, although she has to pay a few cents more for the "Royal," finds that it goes so much further and works so much better, that it is economy to use it. Another says she uses the powder in puddings, cakes, and all sorts of pastry, without eggs. An old lady writes that it makes the only biscuit her dyspeptic husband can eat. This is because the best and most wholesome materials are used. THE CITY.

The ball given by the petty officers of the U. S. S. Plymouth comes off in Congress hall to-night.

The sale of reserved seats for the rich entertainment at Music hall next Saturday evening commences this morning at Preston's. See advertisement.

The petty officers of the Plymouth will arrive on the 3 o'clock train from Boston to-day, to complete the arrangements for the ball this evening at Congress Hall.

It is stated that Rev. George W. Bicknell of the India street Universalist church at Portland, formerly of this city, has resigned, and will take charge of the late Dr. Brooks' church in Philadelphia on January first.

The grand fair of the Woman's Temperance League opens this even in Franklin hall, and continues to-morrow night. The handsome silver water service, to be voted to the most popular editor or printer in the city, has been on exhibition in the window of Hutchinson & Connell's jewelry store, and has attracted much attention. See advertisement for particulars.

The Metcalf Fife and Drum Corps, comprised of twelve young men, Willie Betton, leader, serenaded Mr. George Nutter, operator of the Western Union Telegraph Co., Tuesday evening. This band has been practicing for more than a year, and renders good music. The organization is named for a former leader, Mr. James Metcalf, who has been dead about a year, under whose tuition they had made good progress.

As the glide waltz, the most graceful and pleasing of all dances, though crowded out of all ball rooms for seven or eight years past by the hippity-hop "Boston dip" and other easily learned but inferior movements, is once more becoming fashionable, the young people who cannot dance the glide, never having seen it, will be interested in the advertisement of Mrs. Monroe, who in another column announces that she is prepared to give lessons either privately or to classes, and makes a specialty of the glide waltz and German.

The opera of "Il Trovatore," as presented by the Adelaide Phillipps Opera Company at Music hall on Tuesday evening, fully deserved the very large audience present, and the generous applause given. Miss Phillipps' reputation as an operatic performer was established years ago; and Miss Marie Stone, the soprano, and Messrs. Karl, MacDonald and Stoddard, are all excellent singers and good actors. The chorus is unusually good, and the Germania orchestra a fine one. Altogether, this entertainment is such an one as is rarely presented in a city of the size of Portsmouth.

John Lothrop Motley: a memoir by Oliver Wendell Holmes; Boston—Houghton, Osgood & Co.; pp 278. The excellent memoir which Dr. Holmes gives us of his friend Mr. Motley, has been published in different editions by the above firm,—a memorial edition in quarto at $3.00, and a popular edition in 16-mo at $1.50. Mr. Motley's reputation as a historian, his important services as a minister to England, and his eventful life, have found a worthy chronicler in Dr. Holmes, who modestly intimates that his work is but an outline, which may serve a present need, and perhaps be of some assistance to a future biographer. When we consider of the Boston poet "Nihil quod tetigit non ornaut," we incline to the belief that it will be some time before any future biographer undertakes the task suggested. The book is printed with marginal notes of reference to the subjects on the pages. A fine steel portrait of the subject of the memoir adorns the book, which is divided into sections giving the prominent events of various years from the birth to the death of this distinguished son of Massachusetts; an appendix, containing many interesting data, supplements the memoir. The book may be found at the stores of Mercer Goodrich and Willis G. Myers.

THE VICINITY.

On Friday last a Mr. Huntington, of Newmarket, caued Mr. Francis Sargent, a wealthy and prominent business man of Merrimac and a deacon of the church, for making, as is alleged, improper advances to Mrs. Huntington while at prayer meeting; Huntington also slapped Sargent in the face.

The State Democrat of Saco says the new attorney and sheriff of York county will strictly enforce the liquor law.

The advisory committee chosen at the first meeting of the creditors of Messrs. Titcomb & Thompson, shipbuilders of Kennebunk, now report that the assets of the firm, and the individual assets of the members, will fall short some forty thousand dollars from the figures given by the debtors.

Frank Shute, son of George S. Shute of Exeter, was accidentally shot in the hand, Saturday, while hunting rabbits. He received a ball from one barrel of a revolver in the hollow of the left hand, the ball passing upward and lodging in or near the centre of the arm, about two inches above the wrist joint.

A week ago last Saturday a Mr. Drake of Hampton left his horse and wagon for a short time on Water street, Exeter, and when he returned to look for it failed to find it. The thief took the horse to Brighton, Mass., where he was sold in the market to a resident of Randolph, Mass. A Hampton man saw the horse in the purchaser's possession, and notified Mr. Drake, who claimed and recovered the animal, but has not yet found the wagon or harness.

The crew of the life saving station at Biddeford Pool visited the wreck of the supposed schooner Georgia on Saturday, but could do nothing. The wreck was found in fourteen fathoms of water, and her position was discernible only by the jaws of a boom which floated above the surface, the other end being held down by some of the gear still fast to the wreck. The Georgia was owned in Brewer, Me., (not Bangor as before stated,) and registered 127.89 tons. Her crew probably numbered five men.

A year ago last April one John Marshall of Lewiston, Me., was divorced from his wife, six of their nine children being given to the father and the rest to the mother, who has since resided in Saco. On Thursday of last week, while the father was at work in the mill at Lewiston, the mother went to the school where three of the children (girls of four, six and eight years of age respectively) were in attendance, called them out, and left with them on the next train for Saco. When Mr. Marshall counted up his flock at night he found three little ones missing, and on Friday appeared in Saco to demand them from the kidnapper.

POLICE COURT.

TUESDAY, Dec. 17; Batchelder, J.

The case of John Dwyer, continued from Monday, was called up, and the court adjudging Mr. Dwyer probably guilty of the offence charged, exposing liquor for sale on Sunday, fined him $10, costs $6.90, which was paid.

Another continued case, where the defendant was charged with keeping open bar on Sunday, was nol. pros'd.

A young man (whose name we suppress by special request) was arraigned for an assault on Charles W. Bailey, found guilty, and ordered to pay $9.90, fine and costs, which he did.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Whereas, The desire to "keep my name out of the paper, please," has been developed to such a remarkable degree of late that it has become of almost daily occurrence for some one to make that request of us; and

Whereas, We are of opinion that there is a better and more surely-effective way of "keeping one's name out of the paper" than asking the editor to spoil an item of news; therefore

Resolved, Know all men by these presents, Imprimis, Finis, You do solemnly swear, Rockingham ss., etc., That from now henceforth and forever for a considerable period the man who is anxious to "keep his name out of the paper" must be careful and keep it out of the police court records.

"POEMS OF PLACES."

Poems of Places: Edited by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. These little books are published by Houghton, Osgood & Co., in the "Little Classic" style, with red edges, at $1 per volume. The volumes devoted to America have many of those familiar poems which stir a local pride, and tend to develop a keen appreciation of our native land.

Around our own region we have many of Whittier's poems the subjects of which are taken from Hampton, Dover, the Bearcamp river, etc., Mrs. Thaxter's Isles of Shoals descriptive poems, Aldrich's Piscataqua river, Longfellow's Lady Wentworth, Thos Durpee's Voices of the Sea heard at Rye beach, The Grave of Champernoune at Newcastle, by John Elwyn, and many others. Indeed, one can start from Boston and coast along the shores, of the three States to the eastward, and hardly pass a point of note that has not its quota of lines in these volumes. It is a decidedly enjoyable collection, rich in its historical associations, charming in its verse, and edited with a keen appreciation of the beauties of the region that has formed always such a fruitful field for song.

To the sons of New England abroad in the land, no less than those whose fortunes it is to enjoy the homes of their childhood, there will always be happy moments when they can read these poems so rich in memories and so harmonious in rhyme. The idea of this collection is certainly fortunate, and we predict that the books will, when seen, be highly appreciated. The volume may be found at Myers' book store on Congress street.

NAVY-YARD-PHOBIA.

The American Ship, a paper published in New York, contains many able articles and valuable suggestion; but whenever it refers to the building or repairing of national ships it developes a horror of navy yards and all their works, and an admiration of "contract" work, that is simply ludicrous. A recent number of the paper contained the following:

We have known the cost of repairs to an old naval vessel to far exceed the cost of the same vessel, when new, and for which sum a more efficient vessel than the one upon which the repairs were made could have been built. To be more specific, we will state a case in point: The Lancaster, launched twenty years ago, now being repaired at the Kittery navy yard, will cost more to make her hull sound and seaworthy than a better vessel can be built for by contract, upon a new and improved model, which would have fifty per cent less draft of water, be a better seaboat, roll less, and be more weatherly. The Lancaster was known to be wanting in strength when first launched. Before going to sea, when the vessel was first put in commission, and while her guns were being taken on board, the executive officer had occasion to go to his stateroom. While there, the change in status produced by the weight of two or three guns deposited at the gangway so altered the vessel's form that a joiner had to be sent for to ease the stateroom door, which the superincumbent weight had hermetically sealed, leaving the officer an unconscious though secure prisoner. This, is merely one specimen of the weakness of naval vessels which has come under our observation. After this vessel has been repaired in the best and most economical manner, what shall we have? A slow, weak vessel, of heavy relative draft, and costing double what it should.

We should like to have the writer of the article copied above give us the names of such ships as have been repaired in the navy yards that cost as much (or exceeded, even,) the first cost of the vessel. As to the repairs of the "Lancaster" costing more to make her hull sound and seaworthy than a better new vessel can be built for by contract, upon a new and improved model, we have no hesitation in asserting that it is not so. Evidently the writer knows nothing about what it will cost to put the "Lancaster" in good, seaworthy condition; and he knows very little about the strength of a live-oak ship like her to be willing to believe the statement that the weight of two or three guns placed in any position would alter the vessel's form. So far as contract vessels are concerned, we know what they cost, and how well built they are, as there was one called the "Enterprise" built at the same place where the "Lancaster" is now repairing; and if any figures are wanted as to what the government spent upon her to make her seaworthy after the contractor called her complete, we can furnish them to our New York contemporary.

CHRISTMAS JACK.

We have received a copy of Christmas Jack, a story of New England life written by Rev. Edward A. Rand, and published by the American Tract Society, 150 Nassau street, New York, at $1 a copy; nicely printed on good paper, with five or six illustrations, and neatly bound in boards, green and gilt-lettered; a suitable and easily-procured present for Christmas. This is one of the best temperance tales that has come under our notice; the young folks into whose hands it may fall will be particularly interested in it, and its influence cannot fail to be good. It must not not be assumed, however, that Christmas Jack is one of the dry, dull temperance sketches such as the average boy at Sunday school (we were an average boy) used to have such a horror of, twenty or thirty years ago, for the "temperance lecture" is brought in but as incidental here and there in the very interesting little story. Get the book for your boy.

U. S. District Court.

TUESDAY, Dec. 17; Clark, J.

This court came in at Exeter. The jurors in attendance were: James Calef, Solomon H. Hall, Farmington; Augustus W. Buckman, John B. Tibbetts, Rochester; Geo. W. Simpson, Abram P. Andrews, Somersworth; Andrew B. Tibbets, Alpheus Weeks, Wolfeboro'; John Bradford, Chas. S. Stackpole, Newmarket; Wm. F. Bennett, Philip B. Holmes, Greenland; Daniel Nichols, Sylvester Pressy, Hampstead; Hervey B. Kent and Alfred C. Robinson, Exeter.

At the coming in of the court it was announced that the suits of the assignee of Adna B. Lane vs. the National Granite State bank of Exeter, and Batchelder, would be entered neither party.

In case Woodman, assignee, vs. Warren Brown, it was announced in the afternoon that the trial could not proceed by reason of the absence at Concord of Gen. Marston, who would not be at home for a day or two. The court consented to a postponement until the first Thursday in March, (the 6th,) but stated that the jury must be empanelled. The jurors were then called and twelve selected for the trial, two being challenged by the plaintiff. The jury selected were then excused until March 6th at twelve o'clock, noon, the other jurors being discharged.

The court then adjourned to March 6th, at Exeter.

Cart-Loads of Medicinal Rubbish

are swallowed by invalids, and their physical troubles thus kept alive for years, when that peerless tonic stimulant and corrective, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters would speedily set the disordered and worn out mechanism of the system in active and healthful operation again. It has been demonstrated over and over again that the requirements of the sick are answered far better by the Bitters than by a majority of the miscalled remedies of the pharmacopeia. The stomach is strengthened, the liver regulated, the bowels put in proper order, the blood enriched and purified, and the nervous system rendered tranquil and vigorous by this inestimable family medicine and safeguard against disease, which is, moreover, a most agreeable and effective appetizer, and a cordial peculiarly adapted to the wants of the aged and infirm, delicate females, and convalescing patients. It is, besides, immensely popular as an antidote to malaria.

Signs of Prosperity Returning.

The increased prosperity of business affairs in New Orleans is shown by the constantly growing demand for tickets in the grand monthly drawings of the Louisiana State Lottery Company, which take place invariably in New Orleans, at noon of the second Tuesday of every month. The fairness of these drawings has at length become a certainty in the public mind. Tickets only two dollars. Address M. A. Dauphin, P. O. Box 692, New Orleans, La.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure for consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive, and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send, free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and using, in German, French, or English. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. W. Sherar, 149 Powers' Block, Rochester, New York. tjan1

MADE BY MACHINERY!

Having purchased the "HOLMES JUMBLE AND CAKE MACHINE," with the exclusive right of the New England States, I now propose to place in every first-class Grocery a variety of rich Cake Goods in addition to the 144 kinds of Crackers and Biscuit now manufactured by me, at a price that will enable them to be used freely, and which is far below what the same class of goods can be made for by hand as at present. At the same time they will be found much superior, being uniform, and much lighter and more delicate than can possibly be produced by hand.

The following are some of the varieties now produced by the machine:

Confectioner's Jumbles,	Sugar Plum Drops,
*Cinnamon " *	*Variegated " *
*Marble Top " *	Drop Pound Cake,
*Spice " *	Kisses,
*Fruit " *	Vanilla Cakes,

*Cocoanut " *	Cinnamon Wafers,
Almond Drops,	Lady Fingers,
*Fruit " *	Sponge Drop Cakes,
*Cocoanut " *	Half Fingers,
*Chocolate " *	*Spice " *

I propose to place in every Store a Sample Box, and a trial of them will prove all this advertisement calls for. If your Grocer has not already these goods in stock, ask him to order from the Sole Mart in the New England States.

Stop Drinking Vinegar.

How many young women who have inherited a predisposition to endonpoint have ruined their health by drinking vinegar to reduce their forms to graceful proportions. Allan's Anti-Fat is absolutely harmless. It promotes digestion, and accomplishes its work simply by preventing an undue assimilation of the fatty ingredients of the food. Excessive fatness is a vexatious burden, and there is no longer any excuse for enduring it, since Allan's Anti-Fat is an effectual remedy for this abnormal condition.

PENNSYLVANIA

RAILROAD.

GREAT THROUGH LINE

AND

UNITED STATES MAIL ROUTE

The attention of the travelling public is respectfully invited to some of the merits of this great highway, in the confident assertion and belief that no other line can offer equal inducements as a route of through travel. In

Construction AND Equipment

THE

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

stands confessedly at the head of American railways. The track is double the entire length of the line, of steel rails laid on heavy oak ties, which are embedded in a foundation of rock ballast eighteen inches in depth. All bridges are of iron or stone, and built upon the most approved plans. Its passenger cars, while eminently safe and substantial, are at the same time models of comfort and elegance.

The Safety Appliances

in use on this line well illustrates the far-seeing and liberal policy of its management, in accordance with which the utility only of an improvement and not its cost has been the question of consideration. Among many may be noticed

THE BLOCK SYSTEM OF SAFETY SIGNALS,

JANNEY COUPLER, BUFFER AND PLATFORM,

THE WHARTON PATENT SWITCH,

AND THE

WESTINGHOUSE AIR-BRAKE,

forming in conjunction with a perfect double track and rock-bed a combination of safeguards against accidents which have rendered them practically impossible.

Pullman Palace Cars

Are run on all Express Trains

From New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington,

To Chicago, Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, and St. Louis,

WITHOUT CHANGE,

and to all principal points in the far West and South with but one change of cars. Connections are made in Union Depots, and are assured to all important points.

The Scenery

OF THE

PENNSYLVANIA ROUTE

is admitted to be unsurpassed in the world for grandeur, beauty and variety. Superior refreshment facilities are provided. Employees are courteous and attentive, and it is an inevitable result that a trip by the Pennsylvania Railroad must force

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY

By its great and thorough blood-purifying properties, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures all Humors, from the worst scrofula to a common Blotch, Pimple, or Eruption. Mercurial disease, Mineral Poisons, and Vitiated Blood are eradicated, and vigorous health and a sound constitution established. Erysipelas, Salt-rheum, Fever Sores, Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood, are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine.

Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Rose Rash, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, White Swellings, Goitre or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands.

If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated, have a sallow color of skin, or yellowish-brown spots on face or body, frequent headache or dizziness, bad taste in mouth, internal heat or chills alternated with hot flashes, low spirits, and gloomy forebodings, irregular appetite, and tongue coated, you are suffering from Torpid Liver, or "Biliousness." In many cases of "Liver Complaint" only part of these symptoms are experienced. As a remedy for all such cases, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has no equal, as it effects perfect and radical cures.

In the care of Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, and the early stages of Consumption, it has astonished the medical faculty, and eminent physicians prescribe it the greatest medical discovery of the age. While it cures the severest Coughs, it strengthens the system and purifies the blood. Sold by druggists.

R. V. PIERCE, M. D., Prop'r, World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets

SIZE OF PELLETS.

THE "LITTLE GIANT" CATHARTIC.

No use of taking the large, repulsive, nauseous pills, composed of clean, crude, and bulky ingredients. These Pellets are scarcely larger than mustard seeds. They entirely vegetable, no particular care is required while using them. They operate without disturbance to the constitution, diet, or occupation. For Jaundice, Headache, Constipation, Impure Blood, Pain in the Shoulders, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations from the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Sick Headache, Inflammation of Kidneys, Internal Fever, Bloated feeling about Stomach, Rush of Blood to Head, take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. In explanation of the remedial power of these Purgative Pellets we are so great a variety of diseases, it may be said that their action upon the animal economy is universal, not a gland or tissue escapes their sensative impress. Age does not impair the properties of these Pellets. They are sugar coated and inclosed in glass bottles, their virtues being thereby preserved unimpaired for any length of time, in any climate, no bad taste is always fresh and reliable. This is not the case with pills put up in cheap wooden or pasteboard boxes. Chronicle Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 16th.

What can be done to revive our foreign commerce, to extend the markets for our agricultural products and manufactures, and thus to restore business generally and give employment to idle industry? This is one of the great questions before Congress, and many who have heretofore scoffed at the idea of doing anything for these objects by legislation are beginning to see the absolute necessity for it. A brief statement of facts will show what has produced this change in sentiment, and at the same time what must and can be done toward a remedy. Taking advantage of our crippled condition after the late war, Great Britain encouraged her merchants by subsidies and other substantial aid to drive out American shipping wherever it was possible, and force their own ships in place of them, in order to build up British upon the ruins of American trade. How successful this effort was is proved by the fact that until within two or three years there was but one line of United States steamships engaged in anyway in foreign trade, and now there are but three, and these are struggling for a doubtful existence against the subsidized lines of Great Britain and other European governments. A late report of a commission sent to South America to look into the subject shows what the effect of this is in depressing our own trade. This report says that the British merchants and shipowners will not allow direct trade with the United States, even in our own productions. The commission found that the people in Mexico, Chili, Peru and Brazil had to purchase American manufactures through British agents, thus reducing the profits to our manufacturers and discouraging the sale of American goods as far as possible. This state of things has been partially remedied with reference to Brazil, to whose ports one American line is now running, by the favor of the Emperor of Brazil and Mr. John Roach, its owner, who is fighting a gallant but losing game with the combined British monopolists. Before this line was established, the British ship owners had the Brazilian contract to bring the mails from Brazil to New York, but refused to take them back direct because in that way trade between the United States and Brazil would be encouraged. Having discharged their mails and their freight of coffee in New York, therefore, these British monopolists took their ships to England and thence carried their cargo of manufactured goods to Brazil, all of which we might have furnished through established lines of American ships. The American line has made a wonderful change already, but the British merchants are spending money freely to break it down, and will succeed unless there shall be some interference by Congress, for private capital cannot stand up against this enormous pressure. Congress has been asked to grant this line compensation for carrying the mails equal to that paid by Brazil; that is all that is asked. But the minute Congress takes up the subject the British ship owners, who never did the like before, put on competing ships to carry freight for almost nothing, and ask the attention of Congress to what can be done without aid. This they did last winter when Congress threatened to interfere; but immediately on the adjournment, these ships were withdrawn! Now that Congress has reassembled and the subject is again up, the vessels are put on again, and the British lobbyist is here with plenty of money furnished by the subsidized British lines to defeat all legislation for the promotion of our commerce. This is only a sample; other American lines are suppressed in the same way. But the depressed condition of our trade will not endure this a great deal longer, and a joint commission is now looking into this subject with a view to some legislation to stop the encroachment of the subsidized foreign ship owners upon our legitimate business. If this can be done and Americans shall have an equal chance with foreign ships, our idle manufactories and our crowded granaries will find remunerative relief at once.

The report that the election committee of the Senate had reported in favor of unseating "Hamburg" Butler of South Carolina, and seating D. T. Corbin in his place, has given rise to the suggestion that next year the democrats will retaliate by unseating Mr. Kellogg of Louisiana. But, the republicans answer, the cases are totally dissimilar; Mr. Corbin was elected by a House that had a quorum and was the only House recognized by the State Senate, which everybody recognized in turn as legal, and that Senate never elected or helped elect Butler. Whether Corbin was elected legally or not, therefore, they argue that Butler was not, and has not the first claim to the seat. On the other hand, Mr. Kellogg was admitted after a long investigation "upon the merits of the case," and not as in the case of Butler, upon prima facie evidence. The Corbin-Butler case is likely to provoke long discussion, and nobody can foretell the end of it.

Greenbacks at Par.

In the New York market, on Tuesday, the 17th inst., gold and currency were of the same value.—the first time gold has not been at a premium since the suspension of specie payments in 1862. The first premium on gold was on Jan. 3d, 1862, when it was quoted at 103, and from that time the premium gradually increased until the 11th of July, 1864, when it reached 285, being the highest on record. From this date began the gradual fall, which resulted on Tuesday in the entire disappearance of the premium. That United States notes should be at par half a month before the date fixed for resumption is taken to be unmistakable evidence that resumption will succeed. It shows a general confidence in the ability of the Treasury to maintain itself in the position it will soon take.

Democratic Testimony.

Hon. James L. Campbell, of Charleston, S. C., is a democrat, and has never been anything but a democrat; he served with credit in the rebel army, and since the collapse of the rebellion has been a prominent representative of democracy in the South Carolina Senate; he is a man of great talent and ability, and of the highest social position, and stands at the head of the Charleston bar. The statements made by Mr. Campbell, whatever else may be said of them, cannot be called "radical" lies; and he, in conversation with the special envoy of a prominent republican journal of the north, confirmed in a general way the accounts of democratic frauds previously published in the northern republican press, though he was not willing to give details to a republican newspaper. "I could tell you very much," said he, "but I don't think it is proper for me to give information to the enemy. The journal you represent is, I am aware, one of the fairest of its party, and I should be pleased to assist you if in my power. But I believe that the democracy of the country have at least an equal interest with the radicals in denouncing and exposing the frauds that have been committed, and I conceive it to be my duty to give to my own party, rather than to our opponents, the benefit of any evidence I may have in my possession. I am willing to say that since the election I have employed experts and spent some money in gathering information, which I intend to keep and use in the most effective way; and I will add that if any democratic newspaper desires to know the facts, and will call upon me, I will furnish it with evidence that will be conclusive."

This invitation was published on the 5th of December, and no democratic newspaper has found courage to accept it. Are we to understand that the democratic press does not wish to know the facts about the election in South Carolina?

Bank Robbers Circumvented.

Under the above heading the Washington correspondent of the Boston Post gives a curious history of the bill just passed by Congress authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to issue duplicates of the registered bonds stolen of the Manhattan bank of New York. The robbers endeavored to negotiate with the bank officers for a return of the bonds, offering to return them for $500,000. The bank is said to have offered them $125,000, but the robbers, through their attorney, refused the offer and threatened to cause a run to be made on the bank if their terms were not speedily complied with. This placed the bank in an embarrassing position, as after the robbery they could not stand a run, and the deficit in their accounts would under the law have necessarily been followed by the appointment of a receiver. Accordingly they asked Congress to issue duplicates of the stolen bonds. The bill was rushed through the Senate on Friday and was promptly sent to the House. The robbers became alarmed and had the assurance to muster a lobby to defeat it in the House. Said Judge Kelley: "If the bill is not passed the managers of the institution will either have to close up the savings bank or else negotiate for the stolen bonds, and thus reward the most flagrant burglary ever perpetrated even in New York." The bill passed, and now awaits the signature of the President. The opposing lobby was marshalled to late, and the robbers found themselves circumvented. This puts the bank on a firm footing again.

News and Notes.

Some malicious scoundrels in Belleville, N. J., tore the banners of the Episcopal Sunday school, the minister's surplice and some books to pieces; then went to the Reformed church, tore the ancient pulpit Bible to pieces and burned it up in a stove; also tore up a quantity of hymn books in the pews, and wound up by stealing a clock from the interior of the Methodist church. They also broke a number of windows in each church. The vandals are unknown.

Cecil W. Carr, better known as "Lord Ogilvy," has been discharged at Boston, there being no evidence that he was not the person he represented himself to be, while the allegations that he obtained money by false pretences could not be proved. The parties from whom he obtained board have been paid in full.

Hathaway, the Fall River defaulter, now serving a term in the Massachusetts State prison, has written a letter reviewing the history of his misdeeds, and accusing H. B. Durfee (Angier Chase's brother-in-law) of causing the books of the Massasoit Flour Mill, in which he with others was interested, to be burned, in order to cover up his fraudulent transactions. This is the second accusatory letter Hathaway has written since his trial.

Chaplain Robert G. Seymour, who won great favor with the Massachusetts House of Representatives by keeping his prayers inside of sixty seconds, will not serve again. Rev. Eugene De Normandie, of Sherborn, is suggested as successor.

Senator Grover of Oregon has introduced a bill to prohibit the employment on government works of any person who is not a citizen of the United States. This would affect the Chinese.

A peddler named Godfrey backed up to the fire to warm himself at Montgomery, Mass., the other day, and the heat discharged a revolver in his hip pocket, the ball entering the upper part of the thigh, coming out just above the knee, grazing the femoral artery.

Ex-President John S. Morton of the Market street railway company of Philadelphia, and Samuel P. Huhn, who in February last pleaded guilty to the charge of fraudulently over-issuing stock of the company, have been sentenced each to ten years' imprisonment in the penitentiary.

Ship D. R. Eaton, Capt. Mitchell, from New York for Antwerp with grain, and brig Ida, Capt. Smith, from Richmond for Rio Janeiro with flour, are given up for lost, with all hands.

The public exercises of the dedication of the State Normal School building at Gorham, Me., take place on Thursday, Dec. 26th. The oration will be delivered by Rev. Dr. Spalding of Dover, N. H., and Gov. Connor will receive the keys in the name of the State.

Three youths, only fifteen years old, on a wager among themselves on Saturday night, the 14th inst., drank four glasses of whiskey, a glass of alcohol and two glasses of beer, at Stanten's saloon in Pittsfield, Mass. One of them, Scully by name, son of a poor widow, was found by the police helpless on the sidewalk about nine o'clock. Tuesday, Judge Tucker fined the saloon keeper $150 and costs. Richard Parker, proprietor of the Cottage hotel, was also fined $50 and costs for selling liquor without a license.

Bishop Hendricken of Providence, R.I., confirmed 368 children at one service on Sunday, the 15th inst.

May Fiske's blondes were severely censured in Montreal for their scantiness of clothing. Miss Fiske retorted that their dress was in harmony with the low-necked order of the vice-regal court.

A dispatch from Gen. Howard, of the department of the Columbia, was read in the cabinet meeting at Washington, Tuesday, indicating the probability of a fresh Indian outbreak. A company of citizens under command of a captain had ordered Chief Moses and his band to the reservation at Yokoma, and forcible resistance was expected.

A jury generally estimates the money value of a man's life at $5000, but the Baltimore & Ohio railroad company has just paid $12,555 damages for killing a trotting horse.

Even suicide may sometimes be excusable. An engineer in Denver was lately crushed under his wrecked locomotive, and could not be readily taken out. He endured the agony two hours, and then cut his throat with his pocket-knife.

Michael Connors, a wholesale dealer in counterfeit national bank notes and trade dollars, has been convicted in the United States circuit court in New York, and remanded for sentence. Connors was the head of a notorious gang of dealers in counterfeit money. He sold packages of counterfeits to a secret service detective, and hence his capture and conviction.

Perhaps no better instance of unadulterated "chic" was ever recorded than was shown by an oleomargarine company which insisted on exhibiting its products at a recent dairy fair, and offered to give fifty dollars for a public purpose if a majority of the judges could distinguish the artificial from the finest specimens of dairy butter!

A peculiar fraud has been unearthed in San Francisco. For two or three years the printed questions used in the examination of teachers in the schools of the State have been obtained surreptitiously and sold to the applicants for schools at from one to two hundred dollars a set. Fifty-nine sets were thus sold, and acknowledgment of their sale received from every city and county in the State. The answers to the questions accompanied the list, and the applicant crammed for the examination. The whole fraud has been exposed and the teachers disgraced.

The Boston police force have had (to their intense gratification) the regulation ordering them to wear a high leathern collar around their necks rescinded, the new order going into effect Tuesday. It is said that several officers, during the time they have worn the high stocks, have suffered more or less from throat diseases.

Mrs. A. T. Stewart seems to have needlessly given the Hebrews of New York an opportunity to return the unhandsome snub she gave them in the Saratoga hotel matter. She instructed Judge Hilton to tender $500 each to three Hebrew charities. The offer is declined with dignified contempt.

An engine and ten cars ran off the track of the Boston & Maine railroad at Lawrence, Mass., on Wednesday, through a switch being left open. No great harm was done.

Coal fell from sixty to eighty cents a ton in New York on Wednesday, when 80,000 tons were sold.

New Hampshire Items.

The Board of Agriculture will hold several meetings in Merrimac in January; one in Epsom, Jan. 2d; in Boscawen Jan. 3d; and in Concord, Jan. 7th and 8th. The Concord meeting will be addressed by members of the board, Gov. Prescott, Governor-elect Head, Prof. Patterson, Bishop Niles, and probably by Prof. W. O. Atwater of Connecticut.

In addition to previous gifts to Dartmouth college, William Winkley of Philadelphia last week added $10,000 for the purpose of founding a professorship in Anglo-Saxon and English literature. Mr. Winkley, learning the needs of the institution, some time since sent a check for $25,000, to be used as the college authorities saw fit. The time for founding the professorship is not definitely settled.

The fifth annual session of the New Hampshire State Grange was begun at Plymouth on the 17th inst. Seventy-five of the ninety lodges in the State were represented by two delegates from each. Among the prominent members present were Worthy Grand Master Chase of Claremont, Hon. John D. Lyman of Exeter, and C. C. Shaw of Milford. Mr. Shaw, the secretary and treasurer, says that at no time has the order been stronger or more flourishing in this State. Unlike the western granges, it grows steadily and finds itself in a better condition every year.

DEVOE MANUFACTURING CO.
Gentlemen:—I take great pleasure in sending this unsolicited recommendation of your Kerosene Oil.
At the great fire in this place, which destroyed Norwood's Paint and Oil establishment, and other buildings, on the 13th inst., your Oil stood one of most severe tests that Oil could be put to; for four [4] hours the Oil was in the hottest part of the fire, and such a fire as only Varnish, Turpentine, Oils and Paints can make, and in all that time there was no explosion of your Oil, and the cans containing the Oil were in very nearly the same condition after the fire as before.
I take great pleasure in recommending this Oil, as in my opinion it is the safest Oil for sale in the market. I remain, very respectfully,
JOHN R. REGNER,
Chief of Fire Department.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

CONSUMERS should bear in mind that the incomparable "Royal" is now the only Baking Powder in the market made from pure Grape Cream Tartar, imported exclusively for this powder direct from the wine-growing district of France. An old experienced housekeeper writes that, although she has to pay a few cents more for the "Royal," finds that it goes so much further and works so much better, that it is economy to use it. Another says she uses the powder in puddings, cakes, and all sorts of pastry, without eggs. An old lady writes that it makes the only biscuit her dyspeptic husband can eat. This is because the best and most wholesome materials are used. Approved by the New York Board of Health, and by such eminent chemists as Dr. MOTT, New York; Dr. HAYES, Boston; Prof. GENTH, Philadelphia, etc. Sold in tin cans only. ditsep18'79

THE CITY.

The swimming doll in the window of Stackpole's store on Market street attracts many spectators.

The concert complimentary to Miss Edith Wendell will probably be given at Music hall on the 2d of January.

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals on Wednesday bought an old, worn-out horse, and then mercifully had the poor old beast killed.

Workmen are engaged in digging a trench through the south millpond, along its northerly edge, for the purpose of letting off the water which remains at low tide above a bar opposite Edward street.

The fair of the Woman's Temperance League closes at Franklin hall to-night with a promenade concert, Turner's quadrille band furnishing the music. Admission 25 cents. The attendance at the fair last evening was good.

The Adelaide Phillipps Opera Company use the Henry F. Miller pianos, of Boston, at all of their concerts and operas. These pianos are taking a high position in all sections of the country, and are everywhere receiving the highest praise from the artists of the various concerts and from the public.

Henry Lewis, who escaped from the State prison at Concord, Mass., broke into three buildings in this city within three days of his escape, and was captured here and returned to the place whence he came, was taken before the superior court in Boston on Friday, the 13th inst., and received an addition of three years to his previous sentence, for "attempting to escape."

President Wm. S. Clarke, of the Massachusetts Agricultural College, (a Portsmouth boy, son of Rev. Rufus W. Clark,) is to leave Amherst again for a while to be president of a floating college to make a voyage around the world. A fine iron steamship has been bought abroad, which will have every convenience necessary for the comfort of 250 students, who are to pay $2500 each for the trip, of a year and half. So says the Weekly.

About three o'clock Wednesday morning a man named Frank Dunn, who came here some five years ago in the national ship Plymouth, and has recently been one of the crew of the coaster Mary Willey of this port, while in a fit of delirium tremens, or an insane fit, jumped from a second-story window in the old Sailor's Home at the corner of Bow and Daniel streets, inflicting very severe injuries about his head and body, and then rousing the neighborhood by his cries of "Fire" and "Murder." He found his way to the police station, where he was kindly attended to by the police.

The Dover Democrat, in its account of a concert recently given in that city, says: "Miss Edith Wendell, of Portsmouth, appeared in several pieces, which she rendered in really splendid style. She has a very finely cultivated voice and sings with great ease and grace before an audience. She has evidently made the musical art her laborious study, and although young in years she can handle the most difficult pieces with all the readiness and spirit of the acknowledged proficient. She made a most decidedly favorable impression here, and as often as she sang she was given the most lively and cordial encore, to which she gave her effective response."

Drs. Hall, Whittier and Parsons, of this city, attended the meeting of the Strafford District Medical Society at Dover on Wednesday. A large attendance was present. Dr. Whittier read a paper on gynecology, which was considered one of the ablest ever read before the society. He was complimented by an unanimous vote thanking him for his successful effort. Dr. Whittier was appointed to read a paper on the same subject at Concord next June, before the State Medical Society, also a paper on typhoid fever, in Dover, next December. Dr. Parsons read a paper on the metric system which was well received.

The ball given by the petty officers of the Plymouth in Congress hall Wednesday evening was a very successful and well conducted affair. The floor was filled with dancers and the gallery with spectators up to a late hour, and excellent order was maintained. Forty couples took part in the grand march. The blue and red uniform shirts of the firemen and the white shirts of the Plymouth's boys contrasted finely. All hands seemed to have a good time, and the blue-jackets showed themselves deserving the trust reposed in them by Capt. Harmony as implied by his giving them leave to return to this city from Boston to carry out their ball.

Concerning the entertainment offered by Felch & Gilbert's Jollities at Manchester—and which will be given at Music hall on Saturday evening—the Mirror says: "The entertainment was exceedingly good. The musical extravaganza, 'Sparks,' by Charles F. Pidgen, was never presented in this city before, and its enactment afforded the audience much amusement. It was a merry, sparkling, mirth-provoking piece, and was produced admirably. Miss Lillian Brown, Stanley Felch, James A. Gilbert and Percy Hunting, did what fell to their roles in a very meritorious manner. Miss Brown sustained her part splendidly, and carried off the honors of the evening. She is possessed of a very interesting and pleasing voice, which she controls most effectively. She is free from affectation, and her acting is extremely graceful and animated. During the play she gave a recitation, in which she displayed to rare advantage her elocutionary possibilities. It was a very artistic effort and surpassed, in fine appreciation and effectiveness, any piece we have heard rendered in this city this season. It was beautifully given. Felch, as the old toy-maker, won much favor with his hearers. His makeup was capital and his acting mirth-provoking. The character of Johnny, a foolish son of the toy-maker, was presented by Mr. Gilbert quite understandingly, and afforded considerable amusement. Percy Hunting as Christopher was in fine voice and rendered the musical part of his role exceedingly well. As a whole, the Jollities were quite enjoyable, possessing sufficient variety to keep the audience in good humor all the evening."

THE VICINITY.

The Great Falls Cadets and Strafford Guards contended f r a prize medal at City hall, Dover, Tuesday evening, the 17th inst. The Cadets were declared the winners.

Mr. and Mrs. Simpson, late of Biddeford, the "Aroostook or bust" people, have safely arrived at their destination, Glenwood, Aroostook county, and with the assistance of their neighbors have got a comfortable log-cabin built.

Postmaster Varney of Dover proposes to keep his post-office open every Sunday between the hours of twelve and one o'clock, to accommodate the country people who come to meeting and can get their mail more conveniently then than at any other time. The post-office in Portsmouth has had an hour for delivery each Sunday for years, from nine o'clock in the forenoon to ten, and the box-office is kept open all day, to the great convenience of the public.

—When you put up a sign, "Please shut the door," please see that your door is easy to shut. One can not stand all day fighting a bad latch.

—Mardi-Gras will be celebrated in New Orleans, Memphis and other southern cities, as usual, notwithstanding all they have suffered during the past summer.

—When a country editor, who is struggling along, trying to rear a large family on an income of $500 a year, discovers that a base-ball pitcher hauls in $4000 for the season, it makes him sit down on the roller-box and think.

—An absconding bank director of Glasgow escaped from Ireland in a ventilated coffin. The coffin was driven in a hearse to the steamer, and the detectives who were closely examining every one going on board, actually helped to place the coffin in the ship, little thinking it contained the object of their search.

—A scientific lecturer put out flaming hand-bills headed, "Know thyself." A wag called on the lecturer and told him he was inducing a great many people to form acquaintances of a very low order. The lecturer looked at the wag a moment and said, "My friend, you are right, but it never so occurred to me until I saw you."

Cart-Loads of Medicinal Rubbish

Are swallowed by invalids, and their physical troubles thus kept alive for years, when that peerless tonic stimulant and corrective, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters would speedily set the disordered and worn out mechanism of the system in active and healthful operation again. It has been demonstrated over and over again that the requirements of the sick are answered far better by the Bitters than by a majority of the miscalled remedies of the pharmacopœia. The stomach is strengthened, the liver regulated, the bowels put in proper order, the blood enriched and purified, and the nervous system rendered tranquil and vigorous by this inestimable family medicine and safeguard against disease, which is, moreover, a most agreeable and effective appetizer, and a cordial peculiarly adapted to the wants of the aged and infirm, delicate females, and convalescing patients. It is, besides, immensely popular as an antidote to malaria.

Signs of Prosperity Returning.

The increased prosperity of business affairs in New Orleans is shown by the constantly growing demand for tickets in the grand monthly drawings of the Louisiana State Lottery Company, which take place invariably in New Orleans, at noon of the second Tuesday of every month. The fairness of these drawings has at length become a certainty in the public mind. Tickets only two dollars. Address M. A. Dauphin, P. O. Box 692, New Orleans, La.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure for consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive, and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send, free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and using, in German, French, or English. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. W. Sherar, 149 Powers' Block, Rochester, New York. ljanl

KENNEDY'S

Cakes and Jumbles

ETC., ETC.

MADE BY MACHINERY!

Having purchased the "HOLMES JUMBLE AND CAKE MACHINE," with the exclusive right of the New England States, I now propose to place in every first-class Grocery a variety of rich Cake Goods in addition to the 144 kinds of Crackers and Biscuit now manufactured by me, at a price that will enable them to be used freely, and which is far below what the same class of goods can be made for by hand as at present. At the same time they will be found much superior, being uniform, and much lighter and more delicate than can possibly be produced by hand.

The following are some of the varieties now produced by the machine:

Confectioner's Jumbles,	Sugar Plum Drops,
*Cinnamon " " *	*Variegated " " *
*Marble Top " " *	Drop Pound Cake,
*Spice " " *	Kisses,
*Fruit " " *	Vanilla Cakes,
*Common " " *	*Spice " " *
Almond Maccarons,	Molasses Drop Cakes,
*Cocoanut " " *	Cinnamon Wafers,
Almond Drops,	Lady Fingers,
*Fruit " " *	Sponge Drop Cakes,
*Cocoanut " " *	Half Fingers,
*Chocolate " " *	*Spice " " *

I propose to place in every Store a Sample Box, and a trial of them will prove all this advertisement calls for. If your Grocer has not already these goods in stock, ask him to order from the Sole Mart in the New England States.

Political.

A jury at Memphis, Tenn., in the case of B. H. Eddins, on trial for stuffing a ballot box at Bartlett with democratic tickets at the last Presidential election, returned a verdict of guilty. Eddins was judge of elections and a prominent citizen.

Three democratic election-managers in South Carolina have been tried for frauds on the ballot box, by the State courts, which, as the Charleston News and Courier boasted before the election, are entirely "under democratic control." In all three cases the guilt of the accused was demonstrated beyond the possibility of a doubt, and in one case there was not even a pretence of attempting to dispute the charges made, but all three defendants were promptly acquitted. It is no crime in South Carolina for a democrat to slip a few hundreds or thousands of "kiss-jokes" into a ballot-box "in the interests of the party."

Senator Blaine's resolution to investigate the reports of intimidation of voters during recent elections was passed by the Senate on the 17th inst., with but six dissenting votes.

The Petersburg (Va.) Index-Appeal says that the southern people speak of Jeff Davis as president because, no election being held by the confederacy since 1864, Davis holds over.

A San Franciso paper charges Charles C. O'Donnell, one of the leading lieutenants of Dennis Kearney, who was a surgeon in the confederate army during the war, with boasting that while attached to Lee's army in Virginia and acting in his professional capacity, he needlessly cut off the arms and legs of wounded federal prisoners in order that they might not be able to fight again against the confederacy. O'Donnell is a member of the constitutional convention from the workingmen's party and one of the leaders in supporting the bill to fetter the press of the State.

Than any other paper of its size in the State, the editors working more with their pens than with their scissors.

TO ADVERTISERS
THE N. H. GAZETTE
Presents an excellent opportunity for a WEEKLY INVITATION TO CUSTOMERS, at a reasonable rate, and all those who desire to reach patrons in Rockingham and York counties will find it an economical medium. THE GAZETTE is in many instances the only paper taken by families, and it is read to a large extent in localities whence is derived much of the trade of Portsmouth, a fact which our merchants should not fail to bear in mind.

PENNSYLVANIA
RAILROAD.
GREAT THROUGH LINE
AND
UNITED STATES MAIL ROUTE
The attention of the travelling public is respectfully invited to some of the merits of this great highway, in the confident assertion and belief that no other line can offer equal inducements as a route of through travel. In
Construction AND Equipment
THE
PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD
stands confessedly at the head of American railways. The track is double the entire length of the line, of steel rails laid on heavy oak ties, which are embedded in a foundation of rock ballast eighteen inches in depth. All bridges are of iron or stone, and built upon the most approved plans. Its passenger cars, while eminently safe and substantial, are at the same time models of comfort and elegance.
The Safety Appliances
in use on this line well illustrates the far-seeing liberal policy of its management, in accordance with which the utility only of an improvement and not its cost has been the question of consideration. Among many may be noticed
THE BLOCK SYSTEM OF SAFETY SIGNALS,
JANNEY COUPLER, BUFFER AND PLATFORM,
THE WHARTON PATENT SWITCH,
AND THE
WESTINGHOUSE AIR-BRAKE,
forming in conjunction with a perfect double track and road-bed a combination of safeguards against accidents which have rendered them practically impossible.
Pullman Palace Cars
Are run on all Express Trains
From New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington,
To Chicago, Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, and St. Louis,
WITHOUT CHANGE,
and to all principal points in the far West and South-West but one change of cars. Connections are made in Union Depots, and are assured to all important points.
The Scenery
OF THE
PENNSYLVANIA ROUTE
is admitted to be unsurpassed in the world for grandeur, beauty and variety. Superior refreshment facilities are provided. Employees are courteous and attentive, and it is an inevitable result that a trip by the Pennsylvania Railroad must form a PLEASING AND MEMORABLE EXPERIENCE.

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY.
By its great and thorough blood-purifying properties, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures all Humors, from the worst Scrofula to a common Blotch, Pimple, or Eruption. Mercurial Disease, Mineral Poisons, and their effects, are eradicated, and vigorous health and a clear skin and pliable joints, Eruptions, Salt-rheum, Fever Sores, Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood, are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine.
Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Rose Rash, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, White Swellings, Goiter or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands.
If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated, have sallow color of skin, or yellowish-brown spots on face or body, frequent headache or dizziness, bad taste in mouth, internal heat or chills alternating with hot flashes, low spirits, and gloomy forebodings, irregular bowels, and tongue coated, you are suffering from Torpid Liver, or "Biliousness." In many cases of "Liver Complaint" only part of these symptoms are experienced. As a remedy for all such cases, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has no equal, as it effects perfect and radical cures.
In the cure of Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, and the early stages of Consumption, it has acquired the medical faculty, and eminent physicians pronounce it the greatest medical discovery of the day. While it cures the severest Coughs, it strengthens the system and purifies the blood. Sold by druggists.
R. V. PIERCE, M. D., Prop'r, World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets
SIZE OF PELLETS.
THE "LITTLE GIANT" CATHARTIC.
No use of taking the large, repulsive, nauseous pills, composed of cheap, crude, and bulky ingredients. These Pellets are scarcely larger than mustard seeds.
Being entirely vegetable, no particular care is required while using them. They operate without disturbance to the constitution, diet, or occupation. For Jaundice, Headache, Constipation, Impure Blood, Pain in the Shoulders, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations, Sick Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious attacks, Pain in region of Kidneys, Internal Fever, Blotched Eruptions, Sick Stomach, Rush of Blood to Head, take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. In explanation of the remedial power of these Purgative Pellets over so great a variety of diseases, it may be said that their action upon the animal economy is universal, not a gland or tissue escaping their sanative impress. Age does not impair the powers of these Pellets. They are sugar-coated and inclosed in glass bottles, their virtues being thereby preserved uninjured for any length of time, in any climate, so that they are always fresh and reliable. This is not the case with pills put up in cheap wooden or pasteboard boxes. For all diseases where a Laxative, Alterative, or Purgative, is indicated, these little Pellets will give the most perfect satisfaction. Sold by druggists.

CATARRH
SYMPTOMS.—Frequent headache, discharge falling into throat, sometimes profuse, watery, thick mucous, purulent, offensive, etc. In others, a dryness, dry, watery, weak, or inflamed eyes, stopping up, or obstruction, of the nasal passages, ringing in ears, deafness, hawking and coughing to clear the throat, ulcerations, scabs from ulcers, voice altered, nasal twang, offensive breath, impaired or total deprivation of sense of smell and taste, dizziness, mental depression, loss of appetite, indigestion, enlarged tonsils, tickling cough, etc. Only a few of these symptoms are likely to be present in any case at one time.
DR. SAGE'S CATARRH REMEDY
produces radical cures of the worst cases of Catarrh, however long standing. The local therapy may be snuffed, or better applied by the use of Dr. Pierce's Douche. This is the only form of instrument yet invented with which fluid medicine can be carried high up and PERFECTLY applied to all parts of the affected nasal passages, and the chambers or cavities communicating therewith, in which sores and ulcers frequently exist, and from which the catarrhal discharge generally proceeds. Its use is pleasant and easily understood, from the directions accompanying each instrument. Dr. SAGE'S Catarrh Remedy cures recent attacks of "Cold in the Head" by a few applications. It is mild and pleasant to use, containing no strong caustic drugs or poisons. Catarrh Remedy and Douche sold by druggists.

A Mechanical Whale.

But a short time ago the world was startled by the deadly effects of the torpedo; and as this fearful engine of naval warfare is every day arriving at a greater state of perfection, it bids fair before long to completely drive out of the field our costly ironclads. We cease, however, to marvel at the torpedo when we hear of the latest discovery of scientific warfare—namely, a submarine boat. This boat, named after the designer of the "Garret" torpedo boat, can be made to sink, rise, move forward and backward, above and below the surface, at the will of the manipulator. It is cigar-shaped, running to a point at each end, in length about fourteen feet and in width about five feet. It is constructed of iron plates nearly a quarter of an inch in thickness, and the weight of the boat, including ballast, is about five tons. It is propelled by means of a four-bladed screw, worked from within by an ingenious combination of treadle and fly wheel, and is steered by means of an ordinary rudder. The boat is balanced evenly by means of a leaden keel, nearly two feet broad and weighing about two tons. Access is gained to the interior of the boat by means of a little square tower, rising from the centre of the cigar to a height of about two feet. Once within and having closed this manhole, operator can descend when he pleases. At each end of the boat is placed a water tank, and it is by means of these tanks that he descends and ascends at will. If he wishes to descend he turns a small tap, and this filling the above named tanks with water, the boat naturally sinks; when he desires to rise to the surface he makes use of an air pump, and expelling the water, restores the buoyancy of the boat. In the sides of the above mentioned tower are four little windows, and, in addition, two small cups. These are flanked internally by a long kind of stocking, of stout waterproof material. The cups being removed, these stockings fill with water, and, by turning them inside out and using each as a glove, the operator gets the full use of his arms outside the boat to work his torpedo. In addition to working the boat the submarine traveller has to keep himself supplied with pure air. The breath which he exhales passes by means of a tube through a kind of knapsack containing a mixture of chemicals, and by this means is purified sufficiently to be fit to enter the lungs again. The boat is, of course, lighted by electricity, as gas would increase the impurity of the atmosphere. A series of experiments took place a short time ago with the boat in question, and were, we are given to understand, highly successful. The present speed of the boat is only four or five knots an hour, but Mr. Garrett contemplates building a boat of much larger size, capable of accommodating three or four men, and has a scheme in view of increasing the powers of propulsion of the boat.—Cassell's Magazine.

Little Johnny on Dogs.

One time there was a dog which hadn't got no tail, cos it was cut of, but I think it is knotty to cut em off, but oxes tails is mighty nice for soup, and the beaver he has got a flat one, like a shingle. There was another dog which had a long tail, slick like a whip lash, and thems the fellers for me. And the dog which had got a tail it said to the dog which dident, —"When your master gives you a bone what do you waggle?"

The other one said, "I waggle the bone and that is a nuf, if it is a big one and plenty of meet onto it."

Then the dog which had a tail it said a other time, "Wen your master kix you wat have you got to put by tween yure legs, to show how keenly you feel your position?"

And the bobtail feller it said, "I just put half a mile by tween my legs and hisn; wat more cude I want, xcept mebby the other hal of the mile?"

The dog wich had got a tail it thot a wile, and suak its head, as much as to say: "This feller ain't got no tail, but he has got a hed onto him wich is no slowch for argue;" but after a while he begun to smile, the dog wich had got a tail, and then he said, "Wot haw you got for the little boys to tie a tin pan onto?"

—When a man goes on tares he sows his wild oats.

—Dr. Holmes, in his "Memoir of Motley," just out, speaks of Tom Appleton as "a famous talker and wit, who has spilled more good things on the wasteful air of conversation than would carry a 'diner-out,' through half a dozen London seasons, and waked up somewhat after the usual flowering of the muse of authorship to find himself a very agreeable and cordially-welcomed writer."

—A country editor makes out the following bill of complaints: "Editing a newspaper is a pleasant thing. If it contains too much political matter, people won't have it; if it contains too little, they won't have it. If the type is too large, it don't contain enough reading matter; if the type is too small, they can't read it. If we have a few jokes, folks say we are nothing but rattle-heads; if we omit jokes they say we are old fossils; if we publish original matter, they blame us for not giving them original selections; if we publish original selections, folks say we are too lazy for giving them what they have read in some other paper. If we give a man a complimentary notice, we are censured for being partial; if we do not, all hands say we are a hog. If we speak well of any act, folks say we dare not do otherwise; if we stay in our office and attend to our business, folks say we are too proud to mingle with our fellows. If we do not pay bills promptly, folks say we are not to be trusted; if we do pay promptly, then they say we stole the money."

News and Notes.

A call was issued on Wednesday by the Secretary of the Treasury for $10,996,100, being the rest and residue of the bonds outstanding of the acts of Mch. 3d, 1865, not included in previous calls.

A true bill has been found by the grand jury against Samuel R. Ludlam for setting fire to the Ocean house at Cape May on the 9th of November, by which a large amount of property was destroyed. Ludlam owned the hotel.

Jack Kehoe, the Molly Maguire, was hung at Pottsville, Pa., on the 18th inst.

Bayard Taylor died in Berlin on Thursday.

Patrick Rourke and his five children were buried to death in their house at Cohoes, N. Y., Wednesday night.

A singular feature connected with the flood at Westfield, Mass., was that in the house occupied by Frank Ash, which was carried a quarter of a mile by the current, not a dish was spilled from the shelves or broken, although a stove was smashed. The house is a large double-tenement, and now stands on Mosley Park meadow. It's owner don't know what to do with it, for the cost of moving it back will be as much as the building is worth.

The Boston & Albany express train, which has been equipped with a 42-inch wheel, is proving a great saving as well as convenience to the company. The engineer says that ten per cent of his coal is saved because of the easier draft; and that the cars run faster and with less journal-friction on account of the diminished number of revolutions of the wheel.

A lion in Stanley's menagerie in Lowell, Mass., got out of his cage on Wednesday, and killed and partially devoured a bear. Much alarm was felt lest the brute might get into the street, but he was safely caged.

A Burlington, (Vt.) University student, who learned how to make nitro-glycerine in the class-room, recently got hold of quite a quantity, and, placing it near the college buildings, began blazing away at it with a revolver. Fortunately for him and the institution his aim was poor.

For thirty years or more the family of Mr. A. Sawtelle of Augusta, Me., have drawn water from a well in their cellar. The well was forty feet deep, and the water therein never failed. The other night, during the severe storm and gale, the bottom of the well dropped out. During the night they heard a big noise in the cellar, resembling a miniature earthquake. The next morning the cellar was visited, and lo, the well had vanished! It must have sunk to a considerable depth as the pump was nearly buried out of sight. A portion of the underpinning of the house was undermined, and will have to be rebuilt.

At Bastrop, Texas, recently, just after witnessing an execution, J. Fowler shot Joe Hemphill dead during a dispute. At Crawford, in the same State, a few days ago, John Meadows shot his sister's husband, Elijah Lane, dead, to settle a family feud.

Another Ocean Disaster.

The steamer Byzantin, from Marseilles for Constantinople, was sunk by a collision on Thursday and 150 lives lost.

Old Time Chronicles, No. 175.

BY UNCLE JOSEPH.

A number of distinguished men were connected with the civil government in this State half a century ago and more. Also with the Bar and other professions. The year 1822, fifty-six years ago, will be taken as a specimen of some others about that period.

Samuel Bell of Chester was Governor. That was the fourth and last year he was in that office. So popular was he, that at his first election in 1819, when William Hale received 8,600 of the 10,500 cast against him, after that there was no opposing candidate. In 1822 he had 22,934 votes and there were 1,046 scattering. A like unanimity for a series of years has not occurred since. The approaches to it were in 1834, when William Badger was elected, there having been a thousand or two scattering votes, and in 1837 when Isaac Hill was chosen, a similar number of scattering votes having been cast.

Among those that went out of office with the expiration of the year for which they had been chosen, the first Wednesday of June, 1822, was John Bell of the Council. He had been in that office five years and was afterwards Governor. There went out also Samuel Dinsmore, the elder, later likewise Governor. Of the Senate, Arthur Livermore's term expired. He was later Chief Justice of the Court of Common Pleas. Isaac Hill was also Senator and the year following. He was later Governor. So two of the Council and one of the Senate in 1821 were afterward Governors.

But now for 1822 particularly. Samuel Bell was Governor. Portsmouth, then the largest town as to population in the State was exceedingly well represented in the several branches. Hunking Penhallow was Coussellor, Langley Boardman, Senator; and the Representatives were T. W. Penhallow, John N. Sherburn, David C. Foster, Eastbrook Evans and John Bowles.

Ministers were often chosen members of the Legislature. That year Rev. H. D. Buzzell of Weare was in the Senate; Rev. Thomas Perkins of New Hampton, Rev. E. Knowlton of Pittsfield, and Rev. Moses Bean of Candia in the House.

Jonathan Haney of Sutton was President of the Senate, and Charles Woodman of Dover Speaker of the House. Greenland had no representative that year. It was not common for towns to fail in sending in those times. The only other one that year, I think, was Canaan. Ezekiel Webster of Boscawen was a member, also John Chadwick of Middleton. Mr. Webster was brother to Daniel Webster, and Mr. Chadwick was afterward High Sheriff of Strafford county. Rev. Thomas Bedee of Wilton was Chaplain. The number of Representatives was 210. The session continued thirty days.

The Secretary of State was Samuel Sparhawk; Treasurer, William Pickering.

Jeremiah Mason was one of the lawyers in Portsmouth, also Ichabod Bartlett, who was on Gov. Bell's military staff. Levi Woodbury was a resident of Portsmouth, but at that time he was one of the Judges of the Court, and the following year Governor.

Timothy Upham of Portsmouth was Major General in the State militia, and Edward J. Lang of the same place Brigadier General. The Postmaster of Portsmouth was Jonathan Payson, and of Greenland John Bailey.

The churches of Portsmouth were not large as to membership. North church, Rev. Israel Putnam, pastor, members 138; Old South, Rev. N. Parker, 104; St. John's, Episcopal, Rev. E. Burrows, 90; Universalist, Rev. Sebastian Streeter, 45. There were Methodists, Baptists and Sandemanians in the town.

New Hampshire Items.

J. Plummer Pierce of Jaffrey, an enterprising farmer, was thrown from his carriage on the 10th inst., and kicked in the head by his horse. He is probably fatally injured.

A correspondent writes from Colebrook: The temperance meetings under the leadership of Major M. T. Holden of Providence, R. I., closed last Friday evening, after 600 signatures had been obtained to the total abstinence pledge, as the result of eleven evenings' work. Both hotel keepers having signed the pledge, Colebrook rejoices in something never before known in that town—temperance hotels. Major Holden has shown himself to be an able, earnest and efficient speaker, one of the ablest on the platform; he has a faculty of winning the boys which can't be resisted.

John Taylor of Nashua died on Saturday, the 14th inst., at the age of seventy-one years. Mr. Taylor had resided in Nashua since 1726. He was deputy sheriff of Hillsborough county eighteen years, a member of the city councils, and held other offices of public trust. He was engaged in mercantile business until within the past few years. A wife and two daughters survive him. His funeral was attended on Tuesday afternoon by Rev. J. K. Aldrich, pastor of the Elm street church, of which the deceased was a member for more than forty years.

At a meeting of the Governor and Council, Wednesday, Charles G. Conner was nominated special justice of the police court at Exeter, in the place of Geo. E. Lane, resigned. George Morrison was nominated for justice, and Dexter L. Hawkins for special justice of the police court at Bath. Levi F. Harlen of Salem, sentenced to the State prison two years ago for arson, has been pardoned. A petition was presented for the commutation of the sentence of John Q. Pinkham, who was sentenced to be hanged, March 14th, for the murder of Mrs. Berry at New Durham. The defence at the time of the trial was insanity, and the ground of the petition is limited responsibility. Arguments in favor of commutation were made by James A. Edgerly of Great Falls and George E. Cochran of Farmington. Attorney-General Tappan appeared for the State. Dr. Bancroft of the State Asylum for the Insane also appeared, and stated that he considered Pinkham of feeble mind and of limited responsibility. The case will probably not be settled at present.

Outdoor Exercise for Girls.

Girls, as well as boys, should have their outdoor pleasures. It is expected that girls will be less rough in their play, but they will obey the instincts of their different natures, and breathe the same air as their less gentle brothers. I don't care how often your daughter may be called boyish, or how often she may deserve the appellation of "Tomboy," she is developing health and strength and general fitness for duties of mature life. If a few idiots who either cannot understand the needs of childhood or are envious of young blood, choose to call her names, they will not make her any the less a lady. The day when the skeleton with pallid cheeks and feeble step was considered genteel is past. There are too many young graves filled by that Juggernaut of fashion to make the style permanent.—Exchange.

Prize fighters shew each other marked attention.

—A five-cent cigar, with a good draught and an enterprising youth attached to the tail end of it, will load the immediate atmosphere with a fragrance that discounts a boot factory that burns its own scraps.

We pointed out yesterday that the cardinal difficulty in the way of electric lighting is its cost. This has been demonstrated by the experiments. One or two bits of evidence pointing the same way come to hand now from points nearer home. A large factory near Boston having contemplated lighting its shops by electricity, obtained an estimate of the expense, and found that it would cost the company about $500 per annum more than gas. The prevailing opinion as to the experiment hereabouts is that the electric light cannot be used to advantage in any small locality in the city; except on such open spaces as the Public Garden and streets adjacent, where numerous gas lights are necessary. Some figures have been made on this matter. The annual cost of gas at the Public Garden is now about $2400. It will cost much more to prepare the "plant" (machinery, house, etc.,) for change to electricity. Estimating the value of material taken out of service, and deducting that from the costs of a change, there would remain a balance of more than $500 against the electric light. And then again the expense of keeping the light in running order would be about $400 per annum more than that of the present system; rather an unfavorable showing for the new invention. Future improvement may cheapen and simplify the process, but until it does, gas will assuredly hold its place as our cheapest and best illuminator.—Boston Traveller, 18th.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure for consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive, and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send, free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and using, in German, French, or English. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. W. Sherar, 149 Powers' Block, Rochester, New York. ljan1

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

CONSUMERS should bear in mind that the incomparable "Royal" is now the only Baking Powder in the market made from pure Grape Cream Tartar, imported exclusively for this powder direct from the wine-growing district of France. An old experienced housekeeper writes that, although she has to pay a few pennies more for the "Royal," finds that it goes so much further and works so much better, that it is economy to use it. Another says she uses the powder in puddings, cakes, and all sorts of pastry, without eggs. An old lady writes that it makes the only biscuit her dyspeptic husband can eat. This is because the best and most wholesome materials are used. THE CITY.

There was fair skating on the millponds Thursday, the north pond being the best, having the largest amount of surface frozen and the ice being smoother and fairer than that on the south pond.

At the late meeting of the Strafford District Medical Society, at Dover, Dr. Samuel C. Whittier of this city was chosen as one of the councillors for the ensuing year, and Dr. John W. Parsons as a delegate to the convention of the American Medical Association.

Mr. Charles E. Dixon, senior member of the firm of C. E. & J. E. Dixon, jewellers and dealers in silver ware, etc., died Thursday forenoon of consumption, after an illness of some months. Mr. Dixon was a worthy citizen in every respect, and all who know him were included in his circle of friends.

There will be an entertainment in the Methodist Episcopal church this (Friday) evening under the auspices of the Ladies' Circle, commencing at 7:30 o'clock,—to consist of select readings by Miss Nellie Chesley and Miss Nellie Giddings; singing by the choir, and also by a quartette of male voices and by Miss Grace Varrell. Admission ten cents, children five cents. The public are invited.

The Weekly notices the disposition made of the marine who some time ago assaulted Capt. Marden of the ferry steamer Emerald and insulted two marine officers, and adds: "All right, no doubt; but what has been done to the drunken officer who disgraced himself and the service, and outraged private decency on our streets, some months ago? Is the law for privates only?" Well, yes; criminal law is, to a considerable extent. The ruffianly "gentleman" was "allowed to resign."

The statement that Rev. Willis Hadley, late pastor of the Congregational church at Rye, was "requested by a committee representing the church to resign," is pronounced untrue. We are informed on reliable authority that Mr. Hadley some time ago notified his church that he should preach his farewell sermon on the last Sunday in November, and that he resigned entirely of his own accord. Mr. Hadley preached in the Court street Christian church in this city on Sunday, 15th inst., and his sermon was highly appreciated by the congregation.

The heads of and employes in the several departments at the navy yard, with the generous liberality which has always shown itself among them when occasion arose demanding its exercise, have contributed the handsome sum of $175 for the benefit of young Horn, who was injured at the yard on Friday, the 13th inst. An advisory committee, consisting of George L. Parks, Tobey E. Burke and Eben L. Brackett, has been appointed by the contributors to the fund to disburse it in such manner and at such times as they may deem will be most to young Horn's benefit. Mr. John H. Locke is treasurer of the fund.

The Chronicle caught time by the forelock when it published and we copied the officers of the Portsmouth Athenæum for the next year, as the annual meeting is not to be held until January first.—Times, 11th.

That's all right; we notified them of what they are going to do when the time gets here, that's all.

Madame Adelaide Phillips was entertained at the elegant residence of Mrs. Albert Jones during her visit in this city. —Times, 18th.

If by "Madame Adelaide Phillips" is meant Miss Phillipps, our neighbor caught fact by the forelock somewhat rudely when it published the foregoing item, as Miss Phillipps put up at the Rockingham house on her arrival in this city, and except to attend the opera did not leave it until the company departed for the train next morning.

The ship Jean Ingelow, built at this port in 1871 by William F. Fernald, and owned by Capt. J. Gilman Moses, Moses H. Goodrich, Thomas E. Call, Isaiah Wilson and others of this city, is now over two hundred days out on the passage from Cardiff to Singapore with a cargo of coal, and grave fears for her safety are entertained. Her tonnage was 1076, and she sailed under command of Capt. George S. Tanton of this city, Mr. Horace Clark being the first officer. Capt. Tanton, we are informed, married an English lady just before starting on his last trip, and his bride accompanied him on the voyage.

Mr. Thomas Quinn, who was injured some two or three years since on Vaughan street and has a suit still unsettled against the city for damages, fell on the sidewalk on Atkinson street, Wednesday evening, and broke his hip.

THE VICINITY.

George F. Palmer, aged sixty-one years, a prominent citizen of Rochester, dropped dead at his residence Tuesday evening, the 17th inst. He was known as the inventor of valuable mill machinery.

John Bridges, a tramp who stole a pair of shoes from a store door in Biddeford and got sent to jail for thirty days, expressed his regret that he hadn't been sent to the workhouse for three months instead.

Samuel Staples and wife of Seabrook, while riding to Newburyport on Wednesday, 18th inst., collided with a heavy team in Salisbury, throwing Mr. Staples heavily to the ground, badly cutting his head and injuring his spine.

Francis Rourke, of Biddeford, who was fined $10 and costs some days ago for aiding and abetting the liquor traffic, (helping to smash a lot of jugs and bottles in a drinking place, when the officers were raiding it,) got into trouble as a dealer himself on the 17th inst., when the deputy sheriffs made a raid on his place, and captured a quantity of liquor and him too. He was fined $50 and costs, and in default of payment was locked up.

The Dover Enquirer thus alludes to the appearance of a favorite young vocalist of Portsmouth in an "old folks concert" in that city: "Miss Edith Wendell, although this was her first appearance in Dover, produced a decided sensation. She has a charming voice of great compass, good quality, and under perfect control. Many of her tones were remarkable for their delicateness and sweetness, and she must have been gratified with her flattering reception, as each of her pieces was loudly encored. She is but seventeen years of age, and certainly has a brilliant future in prospect.

The Biddeford Times gives "the other side of the story" about the kidnapping case in which Mrs. John Marshall of Saco abducted three of her children from the custody of their father at Lewiston, the parents being divorced. It seems that the mother went to Lewiston to see the children, and found them dirty, ragged and covered with vermin; and she determined to take them with her to Saco and clean them, but says she had no idea of keeping them, as she is too poor to do so. The father visited Saco and procured the services of City Marshal Dearing, and together the two men met Mrs. Marshall on the street; she told them the children were at her house, and that she was going out with her last fifty cents to buy some cloth to make underclothing for them. The men then went to her house and found the little ones in bed, with what clothing they had in the wash. Their backs were all raw where they had rubbed themselves. Under the circumstances Marshal Dearing refused to let John Marshall have the children until they had been clothed. The father is said to be well off, but has shamefully neglected his children.

G. A. R.

At the last regular meeting of Storer Encampment, Post No. 1, Grand Army of the Republic, of this city, held on Wednesday evening, the 18th inst., the following officers were elected for the ensuing term:

James R. Morrison, Commander;
George E. Hodgdon, Senior Vice Commander;
William H. Smith, Junior Vice Commander;
John H. Locke, Quartermaster;
John W. Parsons, Surgeon;
Alfred M. Lang, Chaplain;
James E. Ford, Adjutant;
John Moore, officer of the Day;
John P. Tibbetts, Officer of the Guard;
Daniel J. Vaughan, Representative.

The members of the organization propose to bring the Post up to a standard that shall be second to no other in the State; much interest is manifested by the members, and by ex-soldiers and sailors who are not yet enrolled. At the meeting Wednesday evening, seven applications for membership were filed.

A special meeting will be held the first Tuesday in January for the purpose of initiation, and to make arrangements for holding one of the camp-fires which have proved so popular in other places.

A CHRISTMAS DINNER.

Arrangements are being made by those who interest themselves in such matters of benevolence, to provide on Christmas day a dinner for the poor children of this city,—those who from various causes are not connected with any church or Sabbath school. The number, it is said, will not exceed one hundred and fifty, and possibly not over one hundred and twenty-five will accept the proffered feast.

To provide funds for this dinner (which is to be given in Mechanics' hall at two o'clock on Christmas day) the lecture by Rev. Mr. Pitblado in Music hall on Sunday evening last was given, and had it not been for the bad weather fifty dollars would have been netted to the friends of the poor children. As it was, however, a goodly sum was realized, as the following report of the Treasurer will show:

RECEIPTS.

591 Tickets sold	$59.10
Cash donated	2.40
Total	$61.50

EXPENSES.

Paid Proprietors Music hall	$25.00
George W. Guppy, printing	5.00
John K. A. Hanson	1.00
Total	$31.00

Net receipts $30.50.

The publishers of the Times and Chronicle generously gave the whole amount of their advertising, and Mr. Guppy in addition to this deducted from his bill (for printing tickets and handbills) fifty per cent, which fact is worthy of special mention—although from the newspapers above alluded to, such instances of liberality are not exceptional. They have our thanks in this matter.

C. W. GARDNER, Treasurer.

We are requested to suggest to those who are desirious of contributing cooked or uncooked food of any kind, that it will be properly appropriated if left at the mission rooms (over the 99 cent store) at any time before Tuesday of next week. Meats are most desired.

JUST SO.

The following is from the daily National Hotel Reporter of Chicago, of date Dec. 14th: "The Rockingham House, at Portsmouth, N. H., is justly celebrated as one of the very best hotels in the eastern States. It is a tall, commanding brick structure, standing back from the street, and presents a very attractive appearance from the outside. The interior is even more elegant. The rotunda, dining hall, reading room and billiard room are models of elegance and comfort, all being elaborately decorated and superbly furnished. The billiard room and exchange is the finest room of the kind east of New York, and excites universal admiration. The guests' apartments are large and airy, and are better and more expensively furnished than the rooms of almost any hotel that could be named, outside of the larger cities of the country. The Rockingham is owned by Hon. Frank Jones, the present member of Congress from the Portsmouth district, and one of the most enterprising and progressive men in New Hampshire. The proprietor is Mr. Frank W. Hilton, well-known throughout New England as one of the best hotel men and most genial gentlemen that ever shook hands with a weary traveler. The hotel does an excellent business at all seasons, and in the summer is always crowded. Portsmouth is a charming place, full of historic interest, and its close proximity to the celebrated Isles of Shoals and other noted seaside resorts makes it one of the most desirable places of abode in hot weather than can be found in the east."

PATERSON, N. J., April 17, 1877.

DEVOE MANUFACTURING CO.

Gentlemen:—I take great pleasure in sending this unsolicited recommendation of your Kerosene Oil.

At the great fire in this place, which destroyed Norwood's Paint and Oil establishment, and other buildings, on the 13th inst., your Oil stood one of most severe tests that Oil could be put to; for four [4] hours the Oil was in the hottest part of the fire, and such a fire as only Varnish, Turpentine, Oils and Paints can make, and in all that time there was no explosion of your Oil, and the cans containing the Oil were in very near the same condition after the fire as before.

I take great pleasure in recommending this Oil, as in my opinion it is the safest Oil for sale in the market. I remain, very respectfully,

JOHN R. REGNER,
Chief of Fire Department.

FLOUR.

100 bbls. T. HARRISON'S ST. LOUIS FLOUR

— FOR SALE BY —

H. F. GERRISH.

Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, in his lecture on "the wastes and burdens of society," claims "man's natural life to be 89 years, and as the average life is but 33 years, there must be a waste of 47 years." There is much of truth in this statement. If a man be unfortunate in business, it is attributed to the violation of some commercial law. Now, if a person be taken off in the prime of life, ought it not to be attributed to the violation of some physiological law? If people only knew better, they would live better and longer; but how can they profit by that which they know not of? The only popular work that meets this great want is Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. In it the great problems of disease and health are fully discussed. The work contains over 900 pages and 250 colored plates and wood-cuts. Price, $1.50 (post paid.) Address the author, R. V. Pierce, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.

—Sixteen pounds, fourteen ounces, was the weight of the child born last Thursday night, of which Mr. Carpenter, head waiter at the Narragansett hotel, is the father. The doctor thinks this is the largest child ever born in Providence, and he is probably right.—Providence Press.

—It was a very honest old Dutch judge who listened for several hours to the arguments of counsel and then said: "Dis case has been ferry ably argued on both sides, and dare have peen some ferry nice points of law brought up. I shall dake dree days to gonsider these points, but I shall eventually decide for de plaintiff."

—"I don't believe in old adages," said a backwoods colonel to a stranger. "There isn't one of 'em that won't be just as true if you turn it end for end." "What do you say to the old proverb, One man's meat's another man's poison?" asked the stranger. "Oh," said the colonel, stepping up to the bar, "when I comes to pizen, that's reg'lar anywhere. What's yourn?"

—Henry M. Stanley lectured at Cambridge on the "Dark Continent," and encountered a howling host of undergraduates, whom he dressed down by remarking that nothing he had heard since he left the interior of Africa reminded the native from Mtesa's country so much of the shouts and shrieks of the cannibals as did the cries of the young gentlemen of Cambridge university.

PENNSYLVANIA
RAILROAD.
GREAT THROUGH LINE
AND
UNITED STATES MAIL ROUTE
The attention of the travelling public is respectfully invited to some of the merits of this great highway, in the confident assertion and belief that no other line can offer equal inducements as a route of through travel. In
Construction AND Equipment
THE
PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD
stands confessedly at the head of American railways. The track is double the entire length of the line, of steel rails laid on heavy oak ties, which are embedded in a foundation of rock ballast eighteen inches in depth. All bridges are of iron or stone, and built upon the most approved plans. Its passenger cars, while eminently safe and substantial, are at the same time models of comfort and elegance.
The Safety Appliances
in use on this line well illustrates the far-seeing and liberal policy of its management, in accordance with which the utility only of an improvement and not its cost has been the question of consideration. Among many may be noticed
THE BLOCK SYSTEM OF SAFETY SIGNALS,
JANNEY COUPLER, BUFFER AND PLATFORM,
THE WHARTON PATENT SWITCH,
AND THE
WESTINGHOUSE AIR-BRAKE,
forming in conjunction with a perfect double track and well-kept roadway, a combination of safeguards against accidents which have rendered them practically impossible.
Pullman Palace Cars
Are run on all Express Trains
From New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington,
To Chicago, Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, and St. Louis,
WITHOUT CHANGE,
and to all principal points in the far West and South with but one change of cars. Connections are made in Union Depots, and are assured to all important points.
The Scenery
OF THE
PENNSYLVANIA ROUTE
is admitted to be unsurpassed in the world for grandeur, beauty and variety. Superior refreshment facilities are provided. Employees are courteous and attentive, and it is an inevitable result that a trip by the Pennsylvania Railroad must form

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY
By its great and thorough blood-purifying properties, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures all Humors, from the worst Scrofula to a common Blotch, Pimple, or Eruption. Mercurial disease, Mineral Poisons, and their effects, are eradicated, and vigorous health and a sound constitution established. Erysipelas, Salt-rheum, Fever Sores, Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood, are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and life-giving medicine.
Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Ross Rash, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, White Swellings, Goitre or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands.
If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated, have sallow color of skin, or yellowish-brown spots on face or body, frequent headache or dizziness, bad taste in mouth, internal heat or chills alternated with hot flashes, low spirits, and gloomy forebodings, irregular appetite, and bowels costive, you are suffering from Torpid Liver, or "Biliousness." In many cases of "Liver Complaint" only part of these symptoms are experienced. As a remedy for all such cases, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has no equal, as it directs perfect and radical cures.
For the cure of Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, and the early stages of Consumption, it has astonished the medical fraternity, and eminent physicians pronounce it the greatest medical discovery of the age. While it vitalizes the errored blood, it strengthens the system and purifies the blood. Sold by druggists.
R. V. PIERCE, M. D., Prop'r, World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets
SIZE OF PELLETS.
"THE LITTLE GIANT" CATHARTIC.
No use of taking the large, repulsive, nauseous pills, compounded of clean, crude, and bulky ingredients. These Pellets are scarcely larger than mustard seeds. Being entirely vegetable, no particular care is required while using them. They operate without disturbance to the constitution, diet, or occupation. For Jaundice, Headache, Constipation, Impure Blood, Pain in the Shoulder, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations from the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Pain in region of Kidneys, Internal Fever, Bloated feeling about Stomach, Rush of Blood to Head, take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. In conjunction of the remedial power of these Purgative Pellets over so great a variety of diseases, it may be said that their action upon the animal economy is universal, not a gland or tissue escaping their curative impress. Nor does not impair the properties of these Pellets. They are sugar-coated and inclosed in glass bottles, their virtues being thereby preserved unimpaired for any length of time, in any climate, so that they are always fresh and reliable. This is not the case with pills put up in cheap wooden or pasteboard boxes. For all diseases where a Laxative, Alterative, or Purgative, is indicated, these little Pellets will give the most perfect satisfaction. Sold by druggists.
R. V. PIERCE, M. D., Prop'r, World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

CATARRH
SYMPTOMS.—Frequent headache, discharge falling into throat, sometimes profuse, watery, thick mucous, purulent, offensive, etc. In others, a dryness, dry, watery, weak, or inflamed eyes, stopping up, or obstruction, of the nasal passages, relieving in one instance, and coughing to clear the throat, ulcerations, scabs from ulcers, voice altered, nasal twang, offensive breath, impaired or total deprivation of sense of smell and taste, dizziness, mental depression, loss of appetite, constipation, enlarged tonsils, tickling cough, etc. Only a few of these symptoms are likely to be present in any case at one time.
DR. SAGE'S CATARRH REMEDY
produces radical cures of the worst cases of Catarrh, no matter of how long standing. The liquid remedy may be snuffed, or better applied by the use of Dr. Patten's Douche. This is the only form of instrument yet invented with which fluid medicine can be carried HIGH UP and PERFECTLY APPLIED to all parts of the affected nasal passages, and the chambers or cavities communicating therewith, in which sores and ulcers frequently exist, and from which the catarrhal discharge proceeds. Hence its use is pleasant and easily understood, from directions accompanying each instrument. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures recent attacks of "Cold in the Head" by a few applications. It is mild and pleasant to use, containing no strong or caustic drugs or poisons. Catarrh Remedy and Douche sold by druggists.

Hibernation of Yellow Fever.

As heat fosters, so cold suppresses the disease. A mere touch of frost, however, is not enough to destroy it; there must be cold enough to make ice. "In New York and the vicinity the fever poison has generally remained active until the last days of October, and frequently as late as the middle or last of November," according to recent reports of the New York Board of Health. Even the winter, while it checks, by no means always extirpates, the poison. It lies latent during the winter and when warm weather comes again it completes its work, taking it up at the point where it left off the previous year. "Not only does yellow fellow hibernate during its migrations," says Dr. Nott, "but it will half do its work during one autumn in cities, resume and finish it the the next season; 1842-43 was an example of this in Mobile; 1857-58 in New Orleans. Many similar examples might be adduced." In the former instance, adds Dr. Nott, the yellow fever "commenced in Spanish alley, in the southern part of the city, and took six weeks to overrun one-half of the town, or all that part south of Dauphin street, which divides the town into two nearly equal parts. The next year the disease commenced in the northern extreme, and swept all the town left untouched the previous year. Each year it took its half of the town more deliberately than the army-worm would eat through a cotton field. * * * As remarked by Dr. Warren Stone, of New Orleans, it will often travel, like a tax-collector, from house to house along a street for two or three weeks before it diverges." So constant is this gradual progression that when the disease is prevailing in one part of a town the resident of another part can retire with safety long after the first appearance of the epidemic. In New York, during the epidemic of 1822, its measured progress was about forty feet per day.—Harper's.

—Flowers are now so regularly a part of "pulpit preparation," that a flower-stand is adopted as a regular piece in the sets of pulpit furniture advertised by the manufacturers.

—Nine years ago Miss Emma Abbot sang in a hotel parlor at Fort Wayne, Ind., and took up a collection after the performance, from which she secured $18. Last week she sang in the same city to the largest audience that ever assembled in the place.

DEVOE MANUFACTURING CO.

Gentlemen:—I take great pleasure in sending this unsolicited recommendation of your Kerosene Oil.

At the great fire in this place, which destroyed Norwood's Paint and Oil establishment, and other buildings, on the 15th inst., your Oil stood one of most severe tests that Oil could be put to; for four [4] hours the Oil was in the hottest part of the fire, and such fire as only Varnish, Turpentine, Oils and Paints can make, and in all that time there was no explosion of your Oil, and the cans containing the Oil were in very near the same condition after the fire as before.

I take great pleasure in recommending this Oil, as in my opinion it is the best Oil for sale in the market. I remain, very respectfully,

Chief of Fire Department.

The New Circuit Judge.

Hon. John Lowell, who has been appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate as Judge of the Circuit Court for the first judicial circuit, is the senior District Judge of this circuit, which comprises the districts of Rhode Island, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Maine. Judge Lowell, soon after entering upon the duties of District Judge in Massachusetts shew an aptitude for the position. A well-read lawyer, he soon became a judge whose opinions were read throughout the country, and cited as the leading law upon admiralty. In this department of law he was excelled by none of his contemporaries upon the bench of the district courts of the United States. When the recently-repealed bankrupt law went into operation Judge Lowell found plenty of scope for his judicial talents. He is an industrious man, in court or in his law chambers every day. In the Massachusetts District there were more bankrupt cases than in any other district, not excepting the southern district of New York or Pennsylvania. Cases went into this court and were disposed of. In some States compositions or arrangements kept many cases from being adjudicated. Here, as in the admiralty side of the court, Judge Lowell became to no little degree famous. The test of the ability with which these duties have been discharged, is to be seen in the amount of work accomplished, the number of cases adjudicated, and the acquiescence in the decrees of the District Court.

During all the time Judge Lowell has presided in the District Court he has very constantly sat as a judge in the Circuit Court of the Massachusetts District, where is the great bulk of the business of the Circuit Court of this First Circuit. Indeed, it is safe to say that full three-quarters of the business of the court is transacted in the Massachusetts district. In patent causes, in which the most frequent and intricate questions arise, Judge Lowell is not without considerable experience, and since the death of Judge Shepley the bar of this court, as with one voice, has expressed the desire for Judge Lowell's appointment to the circuit judgeship. It seems that the President has taken ample time to consider the question, and the result will be gratifying to every one who has business in this court, in the fact that a judge confessedly the best qualified in point of legal education, experience, industry and taste for the labors of the office, which are unceasing, has been selected. Judge Lowell will probably make his first official appearance at the Circuit Court to be held in this city on the eighth of May next.

"Mrs. Merriam's Scholars"

Is the title of a new story by Edward Everett Hale, one of the "Ten times one is ten" series. It is so long since we had seen anything of the kind from the pen of Mr. Hale that we had begun to believe that he was devoting himself to the ministry; but here he seems to be at his old work of book-making. This one of Mrs. Merriam's scholars goes to Georgetown, D. C., to teach the negro children to read, and her experience is told in the easy manner in which so many of the author's productions abound.

Mr. Hale tells us that, when he gives us the like story of the three school companions to the heroine of this book the series will be complete. The ends will be gathered up, all the characters will doubtless be happily taken care of; the good will be rewarded and the bad be disposed according to the fate for such persons made and provided,—and the author will then doubtless find new subjects to write about. The present volume contains 269 pages, and is published by Roberts Brothers of Boston, who have heretofore issued so many publications of Mr. Hale's writings. It is for sale by all the booksellers at $1 a copy, and will be mailed post free by the publishers upon receipt of that price, as will be any other of the writings of this well-known author.

News and Notes.

Wm. Westlake, an engineer in a boiler shop at East Boston, was instantly killed on Friday by being caught in a belt.

Formal complaint has been made against the members of the Bridgeport (Conn.) Sabbath Association who bought cigars on Sunday to get evidence against Sunday dealers, and they also will be arrested for violating the law.

Michael Berrigan, aged fourteen years, and Joseph Kerr, Western Union messenger boys, were knocked down in New Haven, Conn., on Thursday by a team driven by Dennis H. Ward, and Berrigan was almost instantly killed, while Kerr was somewhat injured.

One of the largest manufacturing firms in Providence had a note of $5000 in bank, and last Saturday a member of the firm went to the bank with a check to take up the note. The cashier wanted the check properly certified. The member of the firm went to another bank and got $5000 in national bills which he tendered in payment, but the cashier refused to take them. Then the member of the firm went out and got 5000 silver dollars, weighing 300 pounds, took them to the bank and laid them upon the counter. The note was immediately forthcoming, and the cashier concluded that he'd got the worst of the argument.

Raymond Osgood and his sister Ellen were hanged in Liberty county, Ga., on Thursday, for the murder of Sam Gouldin.

John McIndree, his wife and one of three children were killed at Plainwell, Mich., Thursday, by the sleigh in which they were riding being struck by a railroad train.

Mrs. Frank M. Murphy, of Evansville, Ind., on Thursday discovered the body of her husband in the dissecting room of the Medical college at that place. The body was buried on the Sunday previous, and was partially dissected when found by the widow.

M. Masserna, formerly editor of the Courrier des Etats Unis, who is acquainted with all the facts, in a recent essay upon the Mexican empire declares that Maximilian was a pitifully weak and frivolous man; that he was given up to the consideration of petty details of etiquette and liveries; that he hated affairs of State, and had a horror of work; that he drank to excess, was vacillating and capricious, in short, the architect of his own ruin. Carlotta, he shews, had lost her mind before her husband's trouble began. The real tragedy was putting these two incapables on such a throne as that of Mexico.

Sidney Dane of Lawrence, Mass., aged sixteen years, while cleaning a loaded Remington revolver, Thursday, accidentally shot himself, the ball passing through the lower part of the chest. He is not expected to live.

Philip Goldman, boot and shoe dealer of Chicago, has failed. Liabilities $211,000; assets $25,000, mostly made up of open accounts. Maine and Massachusetts shoe manufactures lose heavily by this failure.

Chester W. Searles, United States mail agent from Newport to St. Albans, Vt., has been arrested and placed under $1500 bonds to appear at the county court to answer to the charge of criminal intercourse with Mrs. S. W. Palmer, a milliner of Richford. He waived examination, and Mrs. Palmer, it is said, has turned State's evidence.

A Hallowell, Me., chap of twenty-one, and his girl, aged sixteen, visited Augusta on a recent Sunday afternoon to get married, but finding all the churches holding communion services they entered one and took seats among the communicants. Just as the bread was placed in the hands of the deacons, however, the couple got nervous and advanced down the aisle hand in hand to the minister, the young man remarking: "We walked up from Hallowell to be hitched; can you do the job?" The minister said he would hitch them after the service was over, and they retired to his study, where the ceremony was performed later, and they started for home on foot.

Naval Matters.

Commander Francis M. Bunce is ordered to hold himself in readiness to relieve Commander Robert F. Bradford in com-mand of the Marion.

The people of New London, Conn., have sent a petition to Congress with 259 signers, asking for an appropriation to continue improvements at the New London navy yard.

Hon. Frank Jones has introduced in Congress a bill granting a pension to William W. Murdock, formerly a seaman, who claims to have been injured by the discharge of a cannon at this navy yard many years ago. Mr. Briggs has introduced a bill granting an increase of pension to Chas. H. Ordway.

Mr. Morse of Boston has introduced a bill in Congress granting a pension to the widow of the late Constructor Samuel M. Pook. The same Representative has introduced a bill fixing the relative rank of civil engineers of the navy, which is now before the House committee on naval affairs.

New Hampshire Items.

Mrs. Charles L. Aiken of Franklin has been taken to the Concord Insane Asylum. Insanity was immediately caused by the recent shocking death of her sister in Lowell, by a board from a building falling on her head.

Twenty-five female operatives in Manchester mills, occuping rooms near the depot, have been caught stealing wood from the Concord railroad, and will probably be arraigned before the police court. The wood is all prepared for stoves, and has been disappearing in large quantities since the cold weather set in.

Paper Carpets.

A paper carpet is now made in England, designed to imitate parquet flooring, the paper being printed in patterns to represent different woods, from photographs, so that the resemblance is perfect. The floor is first prepared by being made perfectly level, and the crevices filled up with plaster of Paris; over the surface as thus prepared, hessian is stretched, and on this first lining paper and then patterned paper is pasted, the whole being finished with a coating of a peculiar kind of varnish, described as wonderfully hard, and wear-resisting. This kind of carpeting can be kept perfectly clean with great ease, and though the wear of paper carpeting may be thought problematical, the inventor states that he has had rooms covered with it for some sixteen months, without showing any appreciable signs of wear.

—Photographing bridal parties — immediately after the ceremony—has come to be quite a custom in New York and Boston.

—Father of adored one—"then it comes to this, sir; you have no fortune, you have lost your appointment, you have no prospect of another, and you come to ask of me my daughter's hand—and fortune?" "No! suppose we put it this way: I am unembarrassed by wealth, am free from the cares of business, and my future is irradiated by hope; therefore this is the crisis when I can best devote myself to your daughter, and enjoy that affluence with which you will crown our love."

—Some years since there arrived at the Revere house, in this city, a newly-wedded pair from Bangor. They took the best room in the house, and had a private table, and spared no expense. On the morning of the third day the groom ordered the trunks taken down and marked "Fifth avenue hotel, New York," at the same time asking the row boy to bring up his bill. He got it soon after, and started for the office. "Is this bill right?" he asked. "Yes, sir, all right," answered the cashier, glancing over the items, and running up the figures; "yes, sir, $91.25, that's exactly right." "Very well," said the groom; "if that's your figure, here's the money. I've no fault to find, but you'd better mark those trunks for Bangor."—Boston Transcript.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

CONSUMERS should bear in mind that the incomparable "Royal" is now the only Baking Powder in the market made from pure Grape Cream Tartar, imported exclusively for this powder direct from the wine-growing district of France. An old experienced housekeeper writes this, although she has to pay a few cents more for the "Royal," finds that it goes so much further and works so much better, that it is economy to use it. Another says she uses the powder in puddings, cakes, and all sorts of pastry, without eggs. An old lady writes that it makes the only biscuit her dyspeptic husband can eat. This is because the best and most wholesome materials are used. Approved by the New York Board of Health, and by such eminent chemists as Dr. MOTT, New York; Dr. HAYES, Boston; Prof. GENTH, Philadelphia, etc. Sold in tin cans only. dtsept30 79

THE CITY.

The Concord & Portsmouth railroad dividend will be paid at William H. Hackett's office on Saturday, the 28th inst.

We are under obligation to Hon. Frank Jones for important public documents. Mr. Jones has returned for the holidays, which he will spend with his family at the Rockingham.

The Times of Friday says: "Orders were received yesterday from the signal bureau, transferring the signal apparatus in this city to Mr. George H. Nutter, vice J. Dwight Rundlett, resigned."

If you have any doubt to the kind of a Christmas present to bestow, order a ton of coal at C. E. Walker & Company's for some poor friend. They have a fine kind that comes two thousand pounds to the ton.

Lieut. Comdr. George H. Wadleigh, U. S. N., who is stationed at this navy yard, will occupy the Warner house on Daniel street as a winter residence. Lieut. Comdr. Wadleigh is a son of Geo. Wadleigh, Esq., formerly editor of the Dover Enquirer.

It is stated that the late George M. Marsh, after small bequests to his relatives has left the bulk of his estate to establish an Episcopal church at the "west end." The precise spot is not indicated in the will, nor is any provision made by a devise of any land for the purpose of erecting a church edifice. The will has as yet not been admitted to probate.

The treasurer of the fund for the poor children's Christmas dinner hastens to add the names of the Journal and Miller's Weekly (the former giving the whole and the latter one-half of the bill for advertising) to the list of liberal newspapers in advertising charity entertainments. The special duties of the officer alluded to did not bring him in contact with the foregoing newspaper managers, and therefore he was not made aware of their generous habits. ***

This evening, at Music hall, Felch & Gilbert's Jollities will present the musical extravaganza "Sparks," with which they have made so much fun in other places, and which is endorsed by the press as being entertaining and laughable in the extreme, and without any taint of indelicacy. There will be some really good singing, too, Messrs. Felch and Gilbert being well known opera singers. Admission 50 and 35 cents, with no charge for reserved seats. See advertisement.

Miss Sarah C. Bailey, who has so satisfactorily filled the position of principal assistant in the High school, terminates her duties to-day, having resigned to accept a more permanent engagement of a different nature. Miss Bailey is succeeded by Miss Kate Hooper, who has taught in this school, with continued approbation of the teacher and the committee. We are sorry to lose Miss Bailey from Portsmouth, where she has done so much for the education of the pupils of the High school, but "man proposes"—that is sometimes he does, and then oft times we lose a teacher, but some fortunate man becomes the gainer.

The report that Mrs. Mary Barrett died of starvation is untrue. She was well known in many families in this city, as for twenty years or more she has been employed in washing clothes and assisting in the general routine of housework. Mrs. Barrett with the savings of her industry bought a house on the corner of Jefferson and Mast streets, and had some money besides. She was at work on Monday and complained on reaching home of being unwell. Her sickness, pneumonia, was sudden and fatal, and her family and friends regret the necessity of being obliged to refute the statement as published in the Times.

THE VICINITY.

A branch of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is to be formed in the vicinity of Cape Neddick, Me.

Mr. Nathaniel Smith, of Kennebunkport, aged about seventy-four, fell from his hay loft last Friday, dislocating one elbow joint and fracturing the bone of the arm above the elbow.

Lieutenant-Colonel J. C. Duane, United States Engineers, while retaining temporarily his present duties on the coast of New England as engineer of the 1st lighthouse district, is ordered by the Secretary of the Treasury for duty as engineer of the 3d district.

Great destitution among the basket and charcoal makers near Mt. Agamenticus, in York, is reported, and appeal to the charity of Portsmouth is earnestly made for food and clothing. Articles sent to the city missionary's room will be carefully distributed.

A lyceum course was inaugurated in North Hampton on the evening of the 18th inst., Rev. George M. Adams of Holliston, Mass., formerly of this city, giving the initial lecture; subject, "Winter on the Nile." Dr. J. H. Gallinger of Concord gives the second lecture on Tuesday evening of next week, on "The Religion of Health."

The Dover Democrat goes for the so-called "private club rooms" of that city in lively style, asserting that there are a number of them, and that they are neither more nor less than dens where young men meet to drink and gamble and practise gross immorality. The Democrat's text was a case in the police court, where a young man named John Adams was held in $200 to appear at the supreme court to answer to a charge of improper dealings with one Theresa Kearney, in one of these club rooms.

Our correspondent at York, Me., noticing an item in the GAZETTE concerning a stereopticon exhibition given in Boston by one Mr. E. Sands, of Saco, says: "If this 'Mr. Sands, of Saco,' is the same 'E. Sands of Saco' who visited this place a few years since, with his lecture and stereoscopic views, we should be glad to see him again, as there are some small bills that he forgot to settle—and although he exhibited at the Marshall house last summer he forgot to call on his creditors. I know he owes a bill of about six dollars for printing; I am one of his victims, and until he 'squares the yards by the lifts and braces' I shall take no pride in reading puffs of such a man."

CITY COUNCILS.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, Thursday evening:

Another claim against the city was presented by Charles H. Sides growing out of the accident near the Eastern railroad crossing, many months ago, by which his daughter was thrown from a carriage and sustained a broken arm. Damages set at $3000.

Voted to pay John J. Pickering one-half the expense of laying the sidewalk in front of his residence on Middle street.

The subject of dividing the room in the Cabot street school-house was referred to the committee on school-houses to report.

A petition of J. B. Locke and others was presented, for the laying of a drain from the culvert on Stark street to the culvert crossing Woodbury street. Referred to the committee on drains to report.

Miss Annie Noble asked permission to encumber State street to repair building; granted.

The following letter was read:

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Dec. 18, 1878.

To the Hon. Board of Mayor and Aldermen,—Gentlemen: I wish to present to our city, through your honorable body, the view of our town painted by J. S. Blunt in 1830, and now hanging in the Mayor's room. The conditions of its acceptance are that the city shall keep it always in good order, and that it shall be hung in the Mayor's room. Yours truly,

WILLIAM H. SISE, Mayor.

The gift was accepted and a vote of thanks extended to the Mayor.

MASONIC.

At the annual conclave of DeWitt Clinton Commandry, Knights Templar, officers were elected as follows:

William P. Walker, E. C.;
Charles W. Gardner, G.;
John H. Cheever, C. G.;
John Christie, P.;
Charles W. Norton, S. W.;
Calvin Page, J. W.

Davenport Council, No. 5, Royal and Select Masters, elected the following officers on Thursday evening, Dec. 18th:

Thomas E. O. Marvin, M. I. G. M.;
John R. Holbrook, R. I. G. M.;
William P. Walker, I. G. M.;
Benjamin F. Webster, G. T.;
Joseph R. Curtis, G. R.;
Harry G. Tanton, C. of G.;
Charles W. Norton, Con. of C.;
William B. Randall, G. S.

THE ROCKINGHAM COURSE.

The following "local" was written for our use by the editor of the Pittsfield (Mass.) Eagle; and as he probably knew that our compositors prefer reprint copy to manuscript—that is when both are "leaded"—he very kindly printed it in his own paper first, so that all we had to do was to clip it out with our scissors:

"The appearance of the Boston Museum Company will be indeed a rare occasion, giving our people an opportunity to enjoy one of Boston's choicest notions, just exactly as the Hubbites themselves enjoy it. This company is no chance combination, but the growth of more than a quarter of a century under most careful and skillful guidance; and besides the rare histrionic talent of its leading members it has the advantage of their high personal character. We do not wish to place the personal before the professional merits of the company, but we do think it much to be able to say that any father may take his daughter wherever the Boston Museum Company play, with perfect confidence that nothing there will call a blush to her cheek. But we must not forget to say that, after all, the veteran Warren, from whose impersonations a large portion of the playgoers of New England have formed their notions of the great characters in English comedy, is the peculiar attraction of the evening. It will not be very many years before the fact of having seen the great New England comedian play, will be in itself a social distinction, or at least an enviable memory. The pleasure of such an evening's entertainment does not pass away with the hour, but it is a fund of enjoyment which pays a liberal interest for years."

The first entertainment in the Rockingham Course at Music hall will be given by this company on Friday evening next, when the comedy "Partners for life" and the laughable farce "The inquisitive darkey" will be presented. The purchaser of a course ticket secures the seat designated, for each and all of the five entertainments of the course—a convenience which should not be lost sight of; and every one who has a favorite seat which it is desired to secure for any particular one of the entertainments, will see the propriety of getting a course ticket with the number of the coveted seat on it, at once. Sale of tickets commences at Preston's at nine o'clock this morning. See advertisement.

BOARD OF INSTRUCTION.

A special meeting of the Board of Instruction was held Friday forenoon; present the Mayor, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Knight, and Messrs. May, Knight, Gardner, Hackett, Hoyt, Sherburne, Wendell, Vaughan, Pender and Locke.

A communication from Charles E. Buzzell and most of the teachers in the public schools relative to the Christmas vacation, was read and accepted. The petition asked for a week's additional vacation for the year, and on this Mrs. Knight moved that the Christmas vacation be increased. The subject was debated by Dr. May and others. Motion was then made that the petitioners have leave to withdraw, and after discussion the motion prevailed by a vote of eight to two.

Sunday bills were ordered to be paid.

The City Clerk sent a communication informing the Board that the funds appropriated for the use of schools are exhausted; referred to a committee consisting of Messrs. Pender and Gardner.

A communication from the Secretary of the Board of Education of Chicago in relation to the reform in English spelling, was read and laid on the table until next meeting.

Adjourned.

A GRAND RUNAWAY.

There was a comical runaway in this city on Friday, when three ox-teams belonging to Hon. Frank Jones, and employed in hauling manure from Stoddard Brothers' stable on Fleet street to Mr. Jones' farm at Gravelly Ridge, from some unknown cause stampeded through Fleet, Hanover and Vaughan streets, causing no little consternation along their route. Two of the teams had each four oxen attached, the third team having three yoke. One cart was being loaded when the bovine frolic commenced, and when the oxen attached to it started off up Fleet street the other two teams, that had been heading toward Congress street, turned around and raced after their mates. They were all stopped in front of Mr. William S. Hadley's residence, the only damage done worth mentioning being the smashing of the fence at Mr. William P. Walker's house, and a slight breaking of one of the carts. One of the oxen had his feet cut, probably by the corks of his mate. Had the runaway occurred at a time when there were many teams on the streets it might have been a serious affair. To persons who have never seen oxen under any other circumstances than moving slowly and sedately along the street the notion of such stolid-looking creatures running away may appear absurd to the last degree; but they can run away at a lively rate when they set out, and when they do it is as well for all opposition to get off the track until they have got tired of the fun, when they will settle into a walk of their own accord.

CAPT. JOSIAH SNOW.

Capt. Josiah Snow of Boston died suddenly at five o'clock Thursday morning, in that city. The cause of his death was heart disease, from which he was an hereditary sufferer, his five sisters having all succumbed to the same malady. Captain Snow was born in Greenland, and was fifty-one years of age at the time of his demise. He followed the sea from early youth, and rose rapidly by the force of talent, industry and faithfulness to be a master mariner. He was for many years one of the old merchant captains sailing out of Boston, and made three voyages around the world in command of a Boston merchantman, in the palmy days of American commerce before the war played havoc with it. He consequently had a large experience as a seaman, and when the war broke out was one of the first to leave the commercial and enter the national navy. He was appointed to the command of a gunboat on the Mississippi, and served with honor in that and other localities throughout the rebellion. He saw much hard service and severe fighting, though he was lucky enough to escape unhurt. He shared in the taking of New Orleans, commanding the boat in which General Butler went by the forts. At another time he had General Sherman as a passenger, at a critical period in the operations of that commander, who was his warm friend to the last. After the war closed Captain Snow was appointed special inspector at the port of Boston, which position he held at the time of his death. He received this appointment in the civil service at the late Senator Sumner's earnest solicitation. Personally he was a genial, whole-souled man, of a cheery temperament, and was universally liked by his colleagues and subordinates. Captain Snow leaves a widow, but no children.

Cakes and Jumbles

MADE BY MACHINERY!

Having purchased the "HOLMES JUMBLE AND CAKE MACHINE," with the exclusive right of the New England States, I now propose to place in every first-class Grocery a variety of rich Cake Goods in addition to the 144 kinds of Crackers and Biscuit now manufactured by me, at a price that will enable them to be used freely, and which is far below what the same class of goods can be made for by hand as at present. At the same time they will be found much superior, being uniform, and much lighter and more delicate than can possibly be produced by hand.

The following are some of the varieties now produced by the machine:

Confectioner's Jumbles,	Sugar Plum Drops,
Cinnamon "	Variegated "
Marble Top "	Drop Pound Cake,
Spice "	Kisses,
Fruit "	Vanilla Cakes,

Almond Drops,	Lady Fingers,
Fruit "	Sponge Drop Cakes,
Cocoanut "	Half Fingers,

I propose to place in every Store a Sample Box, and a trial of them will prove all this advertisement calls for. If your Grocer has not already these goods in stock, ask him to order from the Sole Mart in the New England States. tf1

—Sam recently got married, and told his wife that she might retain all the change which dropped on the floor out of his pockets. What was his astonishment, on Monday morning, to find no money in his pants. He has since ascertained that his wife hangs his pants upside down.—Lynn Reporter.

— About this time the young lady of the country learns through a series of deep, dark plottings that her young man wears number four boots. The same young man will be sorry that he prevaricated, when he tries to thrust his number seven feet into a beautifully worked pair of number four Christmas slippers.—Rockland Courier.

Cart-Loads of Medicinal Rubbish

Are swallowed by invalids, and their physical troubles thus kept alive for years, when that peerless tonic stimulant and corrective, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters would speedily set the disordered and worn out mechanism of the system in active and healthful operation again. It has been demonstrated over and over again that the requirements of the sick are answered far better by the Bitters than by a majority of the miscalled remedies of the pharmacopœia. The stomach is strengthened, the liver regulated, the bowels put in proper order, the blood enriched and purified, and the nervous system rendered tranquil and vigorous by this inestimable family medicine and safeguard against disease, which is, moreover, a most agreeable and effective appetizer, and a cordial peculiarly adapted to the wants of the aged and infirm, delicate females, and convalescing patients. It is, besides, immensely popular as an antidote to malaria.

Consumption Cured.

Croaking is not confined to the Frog Ponds. At this season almost everybody is hoarse. The bleating of distressed lungs is heard everywhere. Why is this, when Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar will cure any cough, cold or hoarseness in 48 hours? Sold by all Druggists. tjan1

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 minute.

Lung complaints, bronchitis, coughs, asthma, sore throat, catarrhal cough, croup, etc., cured by Adamson's Botanic Balsam. Price 25cts.

CRISTADORO'S HAIR DYE

No other is recognized in the world of fashion by either sex. Its swift operation, the ease with which it is applied, the remarkable naturalness of the browns and blacks it imparts, its exemption from all unpleasant odor or caustic ingredients, and its general effect on the hair and skin, are the good and sufficient causes of its unprecedented popularity. Manufactured by J. CRISTADORO, No. 23 William St., New York. Sold by all Druggists. Applied by all Hair Dressers. tjan15

PENNSYLVANIA

RAILROAD.

GREAT THROUGH LINE

AND

UNITED STATES MAIL ROUTE

The attention of the travelling public is respectfully invited to some of the merits of this great highway, in the confident assertion and belief that no other line can offer equal inducements as a route of through travel. In

Construction AND Equipment

THE

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

stands confessedly at the head of American railways. The track is double the entire length of the line, of steel rails laid on heavy oak ties, which are embedded in a foundation of rock ballast eighteen inches in depth. All bridges are of iron or stone, and built upon the most approved plans. Its passenger cars, while eminently safe and substantial, are at the same time models of comfort and elegance.

The Safety Appliances

in use on this line well illustrates the far-seeing and liberal policy of its management, in accordance with which the utility only of an improvement and not its cost has been the question of consideration. Among many may be noticed

THE BLOCK SYSTEM OF SAFETY SIGNALS,

JANNEY COUPLER, BUFFER AND PLATFORM,

THE WHARTON PATENT SWITCH,

AND THE

WESTINGHOUSE AIR-BRAKE,

forming in conjunction with a perfect double track and ballasted roadbed, a combination of safeguards against accidents which have rendered them practically impossible.

Are run on all Express Trains

To Chicago, Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, and St. Louis,

WITHOUT CHANGE,

and to all principal points in the far West and South with but one change of cars. Connections are made in Union Depots, and are assured to all important points.

The Scenery

OF THE

PENNSYLVANIA ROUTE

is admitted to be unsurpassed in the world for grandeur, beauty and variety. Superior refreshment facilities are provided. Employees are courteous and attentive, and it is an inevitable result that a trip by the Pennsylvania Railroad must form

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY

By its great and thorough blood-purifying properties, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures all Humors, from the worst Scrofula to a common Blotch, Pimple, or Eruption. Mercurial disease, Mercury, Potash, and other medicines, are eradicated, and vigorous health and a sound constitution established. Erysipelas, Salt-rheum, Fever Sores, Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood, are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine.

Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Boils, Rash, Itch, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, White Swellings, Goitre or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands.

If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated, have sallow color of skin, or yellowish-brown spots on face or body, frequent headache or dizziness, bad taste in mouth, internal heat or chills alternated with hot flashes, low spirits, and gloomy foreboding, loss of appetite, and tongue coated, you are suffering from Torpid Liver, or "Biliousness." In nine cases of "Liver Complaint" only part of these symptoms are experienced. As a remedy for all such cases, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has no equal, as it effects perfect and radical cures.

In the cure of Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, and the early stages of Consumption, it has astonished the medical faculty, and, when combined with Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, it cures the worst cases of Scrofula, even when the lungs are supposed to be diseased beyond the reach of medicine. Sold by druggists.

R. V. PIERCE, M.D., Prop'r, World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets

SIZE OF PELLETS.

THE "LITTLE GIANT" CATHARTIC.

No use of taking the large, repulsive, nauseous pills, composed of cheap, crude, and bulky ingredients. These Pellets are scarcely larger than mustard seeds. Being entirely vegetable, no particular care is required while using them. They operate without disturbance to the constitution, diet, or occupation. For Jaundice, Headache, Constipation, Impure Blood, Pain in the Shoulders, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations from the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious attacks, Pain in regions of Kidneys, Internal Fever, Bloated feeling about Stomach, Rush of Blood to Head, take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. In explanation of the remedial power of these Purgative Pellets over so great a variety of diseases, it may be said that their action upon the animal economy is universal, not a gland or tissue escaping the extensive impress. Also does not impair the properties of these Pellets. They are sugar-coated and inclosed in glass bottles, their virtues being thereby preserved unimpaired for any length of time, in any climate, so that they are always fresh and reliable. This is not the case with pills put up in cheap wooden or pasteboard boxes. For all diseases where a Laxative, Alterative, or Purgative, is indicated, these little Pellets will give the most perfect satisfaction. Sold by druggists.

CATARRH

SYMPTOMS.—Frequent headache, discharge falling into throat, sometimes profuse, watery, thick mucous, purulent, fetid, offensive, etc. In others, a dryness, dry, watery, weak, or inflamed eyes, stopping up, or obstruction, of the nasal passages, ringing in ears, deafness, hawking and coughing to clear the throat, incrustations, scabs from ulcers, voice altered, nasal twang, offensive breath, impaired or total deprivation of sense of smell and taste, dizziness, mental depression, loss of appetite, indigestion, enlarged tonsils, tickling cough, etc. Only a few of these symptoms are likely to be present in any case at one time.

DR. SAGE'S CATARRH REMEDY

produces radical cures of the worst cases of Catarrh, no matter of how long standing. The liquid remedy may be applied, or better applied by the use of Dr. PIERCE'S Douche. This is the only form of instrument yet invented with which fluid medicine can be carried HIGH UP and PERFECTLY APPLIED to all parts of the affected nasal passages, and the chambers or cavities communicating therewith, in which sores and ulcers frequently exist, and from which the catarrhal discharge originally proceeds. Its use is pleasant and easily understood, from directions accompanying each instrument. Dr. SAGE'S Catarrh Remedy cures recent attacks of "Cold in the Head" by a few applications; it is mild and pleasant to use, containing no strong or caustic drugs or poisons. Catarrh Remedy, 50 cts. Douche, $1, sold by druggists.

Daily Chronicle.

The Bodley's on Wheels.

There can be no doubt that The Bodleys on Wheels will have a great run. It contains so much of interesting matter and so little nonsense that every one, old and young, can but be delighted with it. Its historical account of Paul Revere; the visit to Salem, where we see Hawthorne's and Prescott's birthplace, and the custom house where Hawthorne by the appreciative kindness of his friend Frank Pierce undertook to assist in the collection of the revenue; Marblehead and its quaint scenes; Cape Ann; Newburyport, where the ship launches without her bowsprit stepped; the Merrimack river; Whittier's former home; and the sea shore, with its yarns and salt aroma, all are delightful. Indeed the book so abounds from the title page to the cherub with its "golden hair and rosy lips" in the most attractive poetry, the most engaging stories and life-like illustrations, that the entire household, where it finds a place on Christmas day, will in turn enjoy it over and over again.

But high above the feature of the book which will permit it to take the lead in productions of this kind for its pleasing character, is the historic taste it will develope in the young mind, the appreciation it will call forth for the old places the Bodleys visit, the cultivation of a relish for the poetry of the celebrities to whom the juvenile reader is introduced. In fine, the blending of the substantial with the beautiful, the patriotic with the entertaining, will make it a most instructive and healthful as well as pleasing and entertaining book for all its readers. The chorus

"Ranzo boy, oh Ranzo!"

Carries us back to the days when the old-fashioned tars pulled and hauled on board ships at our wharves—vessels which sailed in and out of our harbor, not the helpless hulks of to-day, handled by the tug and carried despite wind and tide up and down the river,—but when the old Portsmouth ships sailed up to town laden with cargoes on owner's account, that supplied the country for miles distant, and when the anchor, before the days of donkey engines, came up to the long "oh, heave oh," and the bluejackets warped the ships in, with a line around the capstan, to the chorus quoted in the Bodleys. But the world moves. This excellent work is published by Houghton, Osgood & Co., of Boston, in small quarto. It has seventy-seven illustrations, and is sold by all the booksellers at $1.50. It is well worth the price asked.

—A Melrose, Mass., wife recently locked her husband up in the hen-house and administered a horsewhipping to him, because, in her mind, he used altogether too much tobacco.

New Hampshire Items.

Fred Pillsbury, of the firm of Clement & Pillsbury of Warren, went Thursday night to get some money out of a drawer where he had placed $600 for safe keeping, and was astonished to find that the mice had gnawed most of it into fragments, as well as valuable notes, which were in the same drawer. Most of the money can be redeemed, except about $100.

Mrs. Darius Swain of Warren fell, Friday evening, through a trap door into the cellar, breaking her knee pan and receiving other severe injuries.

Twenty-one mill girls in Manchester were on Friday fined one dollar each and costs for stealing wood from the Concord railroad. The whole amounted to $120, but the costs were suspended during good behavior.

Naval Matters.

Naval Constructor Philip Hichborn and First-Lieutenant George B. Haycock, U. S. M. C., have been assigned to duty at the naval academy.

The U. S. S. Portsmouth, Lieut. Comdr. Crowninshield, with a cargo of returned exhibits from the Paris Exposition, was anchored at the Brooklyn navy yard on Saturday.

It is stated that young Braden, who passed the best examination for midshipmen on the British schoolship, but who will not be made midshipman in the British navy because he refuses to renounce his allegiance to the United States, is to be provided for by our Secretary of the Navy.

Enterprising Thief.

A remarkable case of kleptomania has been developed at Springfield, Mass. James Donahue, formerly a blacksmith at the Boston & Albany railroad shops, was detected one Sunday night in a robbery of washtubs containing clothes put to soak, and on reaching his premises, the officers discovered an astonishing mass of miscellaneous stolen matter. There were six trunks packed full of underwear of every description, but especially of linen, and a harvest of women's night dresses, some of very elegant patterns. Forty dresses were seized, upward of fifty umbrellas, Brussels carpets, clothes lines, door mats, two bushels of stockings, four grindstones, door knobs, carpenters' tools and innumerable other articles. The plunder made three dray loads. Donahue was a sergeant in the British army, and, running away from his regiment in Canada, enlisted in the Massachusetts Tenth, where he served with credit. As Donahue has no use whatever for most of his stealings, and has money in the bank, it is thought he must be insane.

News and Notes.

A merchant ship has gone from Montevideo to the place where the barque Devonshire was seized, to load guano; the Argentine ironclad Andes and two gunboats went with her, and the ironclad Plata and two more gunboats followed. The Chilian ironclads Cochrane, Blanc, Escaledo and Checabuco have left for the same point.

Raymond Osgood and his sister Ellen were not hanged in Liberty county, Ga., on Friday as reported, as they broke jail on the previous night, and escaped. Simon and James Osgood, confined for complicity in the same crime, escaped at the same time.

Washington Ivers, a colored man, murdered his wife, Ann Ivers, at Cape Girardeau, Mo., Thursday evening, and then shot himself dead. Family trouble was the cause.

The jury in the case of James E. Whalen against Gen. Sheridan, on trial in the United States Circuit Court in New York for the last three weeks, brought in a verdict for the defendant Friday evening. The suit was for the recovery of $400,000 for the seizure of the Killona plantation, St. Charles parish, La., in August, 1867, and the ejectment of Whalen, by a military order of General Sheridan, who was then military governor of New Orleans. A motion will be made for a new trial.

Fifteen divorces were granted by the supreme court in Augusta, Me., at its recent session.

Mr. Frederick G. White of Gloucester, Mass., while cutting wood, got his axe entangled in a clothes line. The axe came down across his face, laying open the cheek bone, and inflicting, it is feared, a fatal wound.

The carriage builders in Amesbury and Merrimac, Mass., are creditors of West, the bankrupt, to $40,000 or more. The Powow River bank holds some $11,000. A broker in Merrimac is a large creditor, one manufacturer is ruined and others are losers.

The old family carriage of Daniel Webster is now owned by Mr. L. Beach, Jr., of Lawrence, Mass., who bought it of Ashburton Webster, grandson of the statesman. It is a fine establishment, compact and cosy, affording a greater degree of comfort than most modern carriages.

A man, supposed to be a tramp, was run over and killed Thursday night on the Central Vermont railroad, between Hartland and North Hartland, by the midnight passenger train from New York. The man was lying on the track not more than fifty feet ahead of the engine when first seen by Engineer Alexander. The entire train passed over the body, mangling it beyond identification. The remains were placed on the train and taken back to Hartland.

Ten $100 bills were recently found quilted into the fold of a dress belonging to the late Mrs. Robert Dixon of Norton, Mass., just as it was about to be immersed in a wash-tub.

Congressman Beverly Douglass, of Virginia, was taken dangerously ill on Saturday. Congressman Williams, of Michigan, who was stricken with apoplexy early in the week, died on Saturday morning.

Delfosse, the Belgian minister to the United States, and Miss Harriette A. Dehon of Boston, were privately married in that city Saturday morning, to the disgust of a large audience assembled in Trinity church to see the wedding, which had been announced to take place there.

Mrs. Thorndike, on trial last week at Rockland for the murder of Mrs. Honora Sullivan, was found guilty of murder in the first degree.

It is understood that the official correspondence for the admission of Newfoundland into the Dominion will commence in January, but the preliminary private correspondence has already taken place. It is said a railroad across the Island is to be the Dominion bonus.

The publishers of the Atlantic Monthly have prepared for their subscribers an admirable life-size portrait of Hon. James Russel Lowell. It is uniform with the Atlantic portraits of Longfellow, Bryant, and Whittier, issued in previous years. It is far the best portrait ever made of Mr. Lowell, and as Mr. George William Curtis says: "The expression is most characteristic, and those who have hitherto known the poetry and not the poet, will like the poetry all the more now that they have seen the poet in so true a likeness." The portrait is also warmly commended by E. P. Whipple, Charles Dudley Warner, Ralph Waldo Emerson, and other friends of Mr. Lowell. It is not on sale, but is furnished to subscribers of the Atlantic for one dollar by the publishers, Messrs Houghton, Osgood & Co., of Boston.

The panic in California mining shares is no new invention. Everybody who watches the Pacific coast speculators, knows they are the most unscrupulous in the world, and sees perfectly plainly how entirely at their mercy the common public are. The wonder is that the people buy the stocks. They must be blind, indeed, not to know from the direct evidence of their own senses that they do not sell at all upon their merits, and their prices are driven up and down at the caprice of the managers. No outsider knows what the true condition of the mines ever is. There is nothing to steer by but rumor. Men make their living in San Francisco selling "points" from the mines, which means repeating rumors. On these rumors the stocks go up till they are sold out to fools. Then mining ceases. The vein gives out. New timbering has to be done. Down goes the price. The directors buy back for a song the shares they sold at high figures, and work begins again. This sort of thing keeps going all the time. Suicide and lunacy mark the ebb and flow of prices. Beggars become rich, and the rich become beggars. Honest industry blushes at the slowness of its gait. Clerks steal to speculate, and the whole moral atmosphere is tainted. This is one of the phases of the joint-stock arrangement of combining capital that will have to be altered some day, some way. It is one of the blots upon modern life.—Hartford Courant.

Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, in his lecture on "the wastes and burdens of society," claims "man's natural life to be 80 years, and as the average life is but 33 years, there must be a waste of 47 years." There is much of truth in this statement. If a man be unfortunate in business, it is attributed to the violation of some commercial law. Now, if a person be taken off in the prime of life, ought it not to be attributed to the violation of some physiological law? If people only knew better, they would live better and longer; but how can they profit by that which they know not of? The only popular work that meets this great want is Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. In it the great problems of disease and health are fully discussed. The work contains over 900 pages and 250 colored plates and wood-cuts. Price, $1.50 (post paid.) Address the author, R. V. Pierce, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure for consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive, and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send, free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and using, in German, French, or English. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. W. Sherar, 149 Powers' Block, Rochester, New York. tjan1

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure.
CONSUMERS should bear in mind that the incomparable "Royal" is now the only Baking Powder in the market made from pure Grape Cream Tartar, imported exclusively for this powder direct from the wine-growing district of France. An old experienced housekeeper writes that, although she has to pay a few cents more for the "Royal," finds that it goes so much further and works so much better, that it is economy to use it. Another says she uses the powder in puddings, cakes, and all sorts of pastry, without eggs. An old lady writes that it makes the only biscuit her dyspeptic husband can eat. This is because the best and most wholesome materials are used. Approved by the New York Board of Health, and by such eminent chemists as Dr. MOTT, New York; Dr. HAYES, Boston; Prof. GENTH, Philadelphia, etc. Sold in tin cans only. dtsep16 T9

PATERSON, N. J., April 17, 1877.
DEVOE MANUFACTURING CO.
Gentlemen:—I take great pleasure in sending this unsolicited recommendation of your Kerosene Oil.
At the great fire in this place, which destroyed Norwood's Hotel and Oil establishment, and other buildings, on the 13th inst., your Oil stood one of most severe tests that Oil could be put to; for four [4] hours the Oil was in the hottest part of the fire, and such a fire as only Varnish, Turpentine, Oils and Paints can make, and, in all that time there was no explosion of your Oil, and the cans containing the Oil were in very near the same condition after the fire as before.
I take great pleasure in recommending this Oil, as in my opinion it is the safest Oil for sale in the market. I remain, very respectfully,
JOHN E. REGNER,
Chief of Fire Department.

E. G. PIERCE, JR., P. M.

THE CITY.

The Pilgrims were a fruitful topic of discourse on Sunday.

The attempt to get up a big snow storm on Saturday night was, as far as this region was concerned, a "signal" failure.

The creditors of John A. Swett & Co., of this city, are to hold a meeting at the New England house in Boston at one o'clock to-day.

Mr. Wm. Conn advertises Vermont turkeys and geese for sale at lowest market rates, at his store in the Journal building, opposite the post-office.

The ship Paul Jones, of this port, Capt. Gerrish, was at Manila on the 4th ult., loading for New York. She made the run from Shanghai to Manila in eleven days.

The Eastern railroad company has paid to the treasurer of the Eastern railroad in New Hampshire the sum fixed upon in settlement of the controversy between the corporations, and a dividend upon the stock of the latter road may be expected soon after New Year's.

Hon. Frank Jones of this city, George E. B. Jackson, Esq., of Portland, president of the Maine Central railroad, and Edward W. Hooper, treasurer of Harvard college, have been selected as trustees for the mortgage bonds of the Portsmouth, Great Falls & Conway railroad. The new bonds will be issued as soon as they are signed by the trustees.

As Mr. Charles E. Senter was going to his home at about ten o'clock Saturday night, when near the junction of Washington and Pleasant streets he was assaulted by an unknown man who struck him and knocked him off the sidewalk into the middle of the street. Mr. Senter very sensibly lifted up his voice at once, and Mr. J. Edward Colcord came to the door of his house with a lamp, when the cowardly assailant decamped. What the rascal's object was, unless it was robbery, we cannot imagine, for Mr. Mr. Senter has certainly never deserved any person's enmity.

A letter sent from Washington about the 10th of December by Hon. Frank Jones, addressed to Lieut. Nathaniel J. Coffin of this city, and a copy of the Congressional Record sent about the same time, have never been received by the latter, who believes they were "feloniously abstracted from the post office, as was also in all probability his request to Gov. Prescott for an examination before a New Hampshire board of surgeons, to prove how much he had suffered from wounds and the time he had lost on account of the same." Lieut. Coffin is keenly indignant, and expecting a letter containing money he has hastened to write for it not to be forwarded by mail.

There was a genuine rush at Preston's, Saturday morning, when the sale of tickets for the Rockingham Course of entertainment commenced. About three hundred and fifty chairs were taken up before the day ended, but there are plenty of good seats left yet—in fact there are no poor seats in Music hall, so that all the seats left are good ones; but the indications are that there will be no chairs at all unengaged by the time the first entertainment is given, so if the reader proposes to attend the course the proper thing to do is to secure a ticket at once. The sale of evening tickets for the opening night will begin at Preston's on Thursday; reserved seats 75 and 50 cents; admission 35 cents.

Felch & Gilbert's Jollitics had but a small audience at Music hall Saturday evening, at their presentation of the musical extravaganza "Sparks." One reason for the small attendance was no doubt the weather, which was about as unfavorable as it could well be; and the heavy rush for tickets to the Rockingham Course, Saturday morning, probably interfered much with the patronage of "Sparks." Messrs. Gilbert and Felch are known as good actors and singers; Miss Lillian Brown, who on this occasion made her first appearance in this city, is a very pleasing actress, has a good voice which she manages nicely, and gave a recitation equal to anything we have heard in that line for a long time.

On Saturday forenoon two horses attached to a cart loaded with hay and owned by Mr. Lewis DeRochemont of Newington, when near the Eastern depot took fright at the whistle of a locomotive, and started off on a run, first colliding with a team owned by Mr. Frank Paul of Gravelly Ridge, and afterward with Mr. Rufus K. Oxford's store wagon, breaking an axle of the latter and scattering things about generally. They next ran the cart against the fence of the Godfrey house on Vaughan street, and pretty effectually demolished that structure. They were stopped by Mr. Eugene Foote, the flagman at the Vaughan street railroad crossing, who jumped upon the pole of the wagon. The eleven o'clock train had just passed.

Prof. S. S. Smith gives notice that he has started a class in dancing (course of twenty lessons) in Mechanics' hall, and is teaching the latest styles of waltz as well as plain and fancy dances. Terms, gentlemen $2.50, ladies $1.50, for the course. Next lesson this (Monday) evening, at 7:30 o'clock. Private lessons given at reasonable rates.

We are requested to state that an item in the last issue of the Portsmouth Journal relative to the time of holding the Christmas Festival of the South Parish Sunday School is incorrect. The Festival will be held on Christmas night, in Franklin hall.

THE VICINITY.

Aaron McKenney of Saco was one hundred and one years old on Saturday, Dec. 21st.

Frank H. Pearson, only son of Samuel M. Pearson of Stratham, was terribly scalded a few days since by upsetting a kettle of boiling water over himself.

The coroner's inquest at Seabrook concerning the death of Joseph P. Jones on the morning of December 8th, was concluded on Saturday, and the cause of his sudden decease is as much of a mystery as ever. There has been no evidence produced before the coroner tending to implicate any person, as having caused Jones' death.

As George Eaton of South Seabrook, a young man about eighteen years of age, was building a fire early Thursday morning preparatory to going to his work in a shoe manufactory, he fell on the stove in a fit, and before he could be rescued by those who heard his struggles his hands and arms were so badly burned that he will be unable to work again for several weeks.

Lieut. W. S. Edgerly of the Seventh United States Cavalry, headquarters at Fort A. Lincoln, Dacotah, arrived at the house of his father, Hon. J. B. Edgerly, in Farmington, on a furlough, on Thursday. Lieut. Edgerly commanded a company under Gen. Reno at the time Gen. Custer was slaughtered, and was promoted for gallant services.

The venerable and venerated Dr. William Perry, of Exeter, on Friday received the calls and congratulations of numerous friends, the occasion being the 90th anniversary of his birth-day. The old gentlemen appeared in good health and excellent spirits. Dr. Perry graduated at Harvard in 1811, and went down the Hudson river in the first steamboat on that great thoroughfare.

A Rye correspondent writes: "The friends of Rev. Willis E. Hadley, pastor of the Congregational church of Rye, regret deeply that he is about to leave. We know him to be an earnest, zealous worker, and a kind and pleasant friend. He has been greatly misjudged and wronged by those he has not happened to suit—and we wonder who could please them? They are old-fashioned and prejudiced, and many have been only too eager to misconstrue the slightest word or action of the pastor. His sermons are striking and interesting, and such as all can apply to themselves; but as to their being pointedly personal it is a calumny. We think those who have circulated these reports of him are to say the least devoid of good feeling or politeness, and we follow him with our best wishes, hoping in his next parish he will be as well loved as he deserves."

MR. MARSH'S WILL.

The will of the late George M. Marsh is published. It makes some small bequests to his immediate relatives, and places all the rest of his estate in the hands of trustees for the following purpose:

To purchase a suitable lot of land in the westerly part of the city of Portsmouth, N. H., and to build thereon a stone or brick church, to be called Christ church and to be used solely for the worship of Almighty God, Father, Son and Holy Ghost, according to the doctrines and discipline of the Protestant Episcopal church in the United States of America, and for no other purpose whatever. And in case after the building of said church and having it finished with suitable baptismal font, bibles and prayer books, silver christening basin and communion service, organ on the right hand of the chancel, and bell, there should be a remainder, the said remainder shall be paid over to the wardens and vestry of said church, to be safely invested by them, and the annual interest to be given to the poor of said parish. And it is my wish that the house, No. 68 State street, be the parsonage of said church. And in case the said church should ever be used otherwise than for the purpose within named, then the whole property shall revert to my sister, Mehitable M. Blunt, and my brother, Matthew S. Marsh, to have and to hold, to them and their children and their heirs and assigns forever. And it is my desire that the parishioners of said church shall for at least the term of five years defray the expenses of said church by voluntary contributions, and the seats be free.

Of what particular benefit it will be to the Episcopal society to have another house of worship in this city we cannot see; there are not enough Episcopalians in Portsmouth to run two churches, and the proposed new one can hardly be decently filled except by drawing the worshipers from St. John's.

IVAH N. RUGG.

Mr. Ivah N. Rugg died very suddenly at his residence, No. 11 Elm street, at half-past three o'clock Saturday afternoon, probably of heart disease. He had been slightly unwell for a couple of days, but was out of the house Saturday forenoon; he was left sitting in a chair by the housekeeper, who was absent a few minutes and on returning found him on the floor; aid was called, but he breathed his last in a few moments. He was born in Windham, Vt., in 1804, walked to this city from Concord in 1828, and has lived here ever since. In 1831 or '32 he built the house in which he ever afterward lived and in which he died. He was for about forty-five years sexton of the Middle street church, giving up the position some years ago. For fifty years (with the exception of one period of eight years) he had a shop in the north mill, where he made boxes, plugs for shipbuilders, etc.

POLICE COURT.

SATURDAY, Dec. 21; Batchelder, J.

Howell C. Russell was complained of for selling liquor, but was discharged on this complaint. The same, on a charge of keeping liquor for sale, was held in $200 for trial at the supreme court.

"TUALOOLOO."

"What's them?" demanded a friend, earnestly if ungrammatically, as he shoved under our nose a paper containing a dozen pellets each halfthe size of a pea, Saturday morning.

"Beet seed," we replied, promptly recognizing the article presented for our inspection; "seed of the turnip beet, most likely, judging from the size of it."

"Beet seed!" repeated our friend, indignantly, "beet seed! Yes; dead-beat seed. Them's some that Comanche George, that great Texas ranger and scout, 's been sellin' 'round town for a dollar a paper—'bout half-a-dozen of 'em in a paper. I knowed they was beet seed when I asked you, for I went down to Seavey's seed store and asked, and they told me what they was—and what's more, that's where Comanche George got 'em; he bought two ounces of 'em there, at five cents an ounce."

"You don't mean to say that he sold the seeds of the common turnip beet to sensible people at the rate of two dollars a dozen?" we queried.

"Yes," said our friend, "that's somewhere about the price he asked—and got. Lots of folks bought 'em—he called 'em the 'tualooloo' seed—'most all the navy officers, and the bank folks and all the big bugs—all of 'em bought the seeds of the rare and beautiful and fragrant 'tualooloo' plant! I believe he sold some other kind o' seed at first as the 'tualooloo,' till he run out of it—most likely 'twasn't worth any more than this beet seed, though."

And our friend stormed out of the office in a state of high wrath over the doings of the great tualooloo merchant, Comanche George.

This incident recalls to mind the expose of "Comanche George Anderson, scout," of Sherman, Texas, made by the New York Sun some time ago, and recently republished in the Times of this city, in which the writer shows how the gallant Texan bought okra seeds in large quantities of Young & Elliott, seedsmen, of New York city, and peddled them out as the "coccatel," taking in the editors of the Tribune, the World, the Commercial Advertiser, and the Sun itself. The seeds cost Comanche George five cents a paper, each paper containing over a hundred and fifty seeds, and he sold them under their new name of "coccatel" at twenty-five cents apiece! He played the same game in Philadelphia previously, and cleared (as he said) $1000 by retailing under a high sounding name some common seeds that he bought at a central seed-store. We wonder if Comanche George, of Sherman, Texas, of "tualooloo" beet-seed fame, is identical with "Comanche George Anderson, scout, of Sherman, Texas," who sold so many noted people in New York by selling them "coccatel" okra?

Our Comanche George when last heard from was in Exeter—and we believe he was selling the seed of some rare plant.

THE VACATIONS.

Mr. Editor: In the report (in your issue of the 21st) of the special meeting of the Board of Instruction, held in accordance with the petition of the grammar masters and teachers of the various schools, it is stated: "The petition asked for a week's additional vacation for the year;" this was an error on the part of your reporter, as the petition neither by spirit nor letter implied such idea. The petition was drawn by the masters after consultation and careful consideration with a view to the best interests of the schools only, and asked not "for a week's additional vacation for the year," but that the schools close, as has been the custom since 1873, for two weeks at Christmas, not reducing in the least the total number of school weeks in the year. We trouble you with this communication, only that the public may understand the exact position we occupy in this matter. CHARLES E. BUZZELL.

U. S. COMMISSIONER'S COURT.

Hackett, Commissioner.

Arthur M. Johnson of Newton was arraigned on Saturday charged with being a retail dealer in liquors without paying the special tax required. Johnson denied the charge, and said it was instigated by jealous neighbors. The case was continued until Saturday next.

B. P. SHILLABER'S NEW BOOK.

Editor of Chronicle: While reading on a recent evening, for at least the twentieth time, Mr. Shillaber's poem at the first return of the Sons of Portsmouth, and thinking of the heartfelt enjoyment it afforded all of us who can recall the time, and the enthusiastic delight with which it was received; it occurred to me that it could not fail to gratify him in return, as well as give pleasure to ourselves, if a large addition was made to the sale of his new work here at his birthplace in this holiday season, besides those that have already found their way to the firesides of our residents. I think we cannot do less than give it the substantial reception and appreciation it has had, and so well deserves, at Boston and elsewhere,—and where is not the author both known and loved? To say the least there is no one who went from his and our birthplace in his youth, to whose pen we have owed more of pleasure. Who is there among us that for the greater portion of their life does not remember the dear old lady, "Mrs. Partington," and fancy seeing her peering through her antique glasses? perchance remembers the story she had to tell, in years gone by, of the accident that befell a man, who, "like St. Paul," was "on his way to Damariscotta;" and of her asking, on reading in her weekly paper, of a schooner having "had her jibboom carried away in the night," what else was to be expected if people "would leave such things out-of-doors after dark?" Let us make it to her, indeed, "a merry Christmas and a Happy New Year," as well as give ourselves or others, in laughing over her book, pleasure in doing so. B.

[Note. The book referred to, "Ike Partington, or the adventures of a human boy and his friends," is full of the quaint human and kindly sympathy which always appeared in Mrs. Partington's writings, and is a choice present for Christmas. Lee & Shepherd, Boston, publishers; for sale at the bookstores at $1.25 a copy.—Ed.]

A Magician's Bonanza.

A strolling sleight-of-hand man struck Silverton, Col., some months ago. The news spread that he was in town. The miners immediately "hired a hall" for him. Dozens of willing hands quickly stocked it with rude benches. An extempore stage was erected. Lights were arranged around the large room, and the bewildered necromancer was introduced to this hurriedly-constructed theatre amid loud and prolonged cheering. An honest miner took the door, and announced that he had none of those new-fangled arrangements called tickets, with coupons on them, but all who wanted to see fun must plank down a dollar and a half. Many handed him a two dollar bill and some a five, and would take no change.

The hall was crowded, and the Wizard of the West changed coin from one dish to another, drew untold wonders from a hat, and performed other stale tricks, amidst shouts and yells of applause. The easy and familiar manner with which he handled cards won their unbounded admiration, and when he allowed a miner to fire a revolver at him and then caught the ball in his teeth the crowd unanimously voted him "a boss," and were with much difficulty prevented from practising on him with their pistols at once. They gave him the whole proceeds, wouldn't take a cent for the hall, and, besides, paid his board bill at the hotel.

The grand jury at Richmond, Va., on Thursday indicted one Vaughn for stuffing a ballot-box at Petersburg at the last election by throwing sixty-five ballots into a pile of ballots from his sleeve. Several other cases of the like nature are being investigated.

—A slip of one's foot may be recovered, but of the tongue, perhaps never.

—Small gentleman appears in a huge hat which engulfs him to the shoulders. His wife—"But that hat doesn't fit you, my love." He—"That's what I told the man, but he showed me his gold medal, the only one awarded for hats, and what could I do?"

PENNSYLVANIA

RAILROAD.

GREAT THROUGH LINE

AND

UNITED STATES MAIL ROUTE

The attention of the travelling public is respectfully invited to some of the merits of this great highway, in the confident assertion and belief that no other line can offer equal inducements as a route of through travel. In

Construction AND Equipment

THE

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

stands confessedly at the head of American railways. The track is double the entire length of the line, of steel rails laid on heavy oak ties, which are embedded in a foundation of rock ballast eighteen inches in depth. All bridges are of iron or stone, and built upon the most approved plans. Its passenger cars, while eminently safe and substantial, are at the same time models of comfort and elegance.

The Safety Appliances

in use on this line well illustrates the far-seeing and liberal policy of its management, in accordance with which the safety only of an improvement and not its cost has been the question of consideration. Among many may be noticed

THE BLOCK SYSTEM OF SAFETY SIGNALS,

JANNEY COUPLER, BUFFER AND PLATFORM,

THE WHARTON PATENT SWITCH,

AND THE

WESTINGHOUSE AIR-BRAKE,

forming in conjunction with a perfect double track and road-bed a combination of safeguards against accidents which have rendered them practically impossible.

Pullman Palace Cars

Are run on all Express Trains

From New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington,

To Chicago, Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, and St. Louis,

WITHOUT CHANGE,

and to all principal points in the far West and South with but one change of cars. Connections are made in Union Depots, and are assured to all important points.

The Scenery

OF THE

PENNSYLVANIA ROUTE

is admitted to be unsurpassed in the world for grandeur, beauty and variety. Superior refreshment facilities are provided. Employees are courteous and attentive, and it is an inevitable result that a trip by the Pennsylvania Railroad is unalloyed

ANTI-FAT

ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT is the great remedy for Corpulency. It is purely vegetable and perfectly harmless. It acts on the food in the stomach, preventing its conversion into fat. Taken according to directions, it will reduce a fat person from 3 to 5 pounds a week.

In placing this remedy before the public as a positive cure for obesity, we do so knowing its ability to cure, as attested by hundreds of testimonials, of which the following from a lady in Columbus, Ohio, is a sample: "Gentlemen: Your Anti-Fat was duly received. I took it according to directions and it reduced me five pounds. I was so elated over the result that I immediately sent to ACKERMAN'S drug-store for the second bottle." Another, a physician, writing for a patient from Providence, R. I., says: "Four bottles have reduced her weight from 192 pounds to 122 pounds, and there is a general improvement in health." A gentleman writing from Boston, says: "Without special change or attention to diet, two bottles of Allan's Anti-Fat reduced me four and one-quarter pounds." The well-known Wholesale Druggists, SMITH, DOLLITTLE & SMITH, of Boston, Mass., write as follows: "Allan's Anti-Fat has reduced a lady in our city seven pounds in three weeks." A gentleman in St. Louis writes: "Allan's Anti-Fat reduced me twelve pounds in three weeks, and altogether I have lost twenty-five pounds since commencing its use." Messrs. TOWER & PETTEGROVE, Wholesale Druggists, of Buffalo, N. Y., write: "To Four Thousand Odd of ALLAN'S ANTI-FATS mentioned,—The following report is from the lady who used Allan's Anti-Fat: "I (the Anti-Fat) had the desired effect, reducing the fat from two to five pounds a week until I had lost twenty-five pounds. I hope never to regain what I have lost." Anti-Fat is an unrivalled blood-purifier. It promotes digestion, curing dyspepsia, and is also a potent remedy for rheumatism. Sold by druggists. BOTANIC MEDICINE CO., PROPRS, Buffalo, N.Y.

WOMAN

By an immense practice at the World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, having treated many thousand cases of these diseases peculiar to woman, I have been enabled to perfect a most potent and positive remedy for these diseases.

To designate this natural specific, I have named it

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

The term, however, is but a feeble expression of my high appreciation of its value, based upon personal observation. I have, while witnessing the positive results in the special diseases incident to the organism of woman, singled it out as the climax or crowning gem of my medical career. On its merits, as a positive, safe, and natural remedy for this class of diseases, and one that will, at all times and under all circumstances, act kindly, I am willing to stake my reputation as a physician; and so confident am I that it will not disappoint the most sanguine expectations of a single intelligent lady who uses it, for any of the ailments for which I recommend it, that I offer and sell it under a POSITIVE GUARANTEE. (For conditions, see pamphlet wrapping bottle.)

The following are among those diseases in which my Favorite Prescription has worked cures, as if by magic, and with a certainty near before attained by any medicine: Leucorrhœa, Excessive Flowing, Painful Menstruation, Suppression when from unnatural causes, Irregularities, Weak Back, Prolapsus, or Falling of the Uterus, Anteversion and Retroversion, Bearing-down Sensation, Internal Heat, Nervous Depression, Debility, Despondency, Irritability, Hysteria, Chronic Congestion, Inflammation and Ulceration of the Uterus, Impotency, Barrenness, or Sterility, and Female Weakness. I do not extol this medicine as a "cure-all," but it admirably fills a dispensary of purposes, being a most perfect specific in all chronic diseases of the sexual system of woman. It will not disappoint, nor will it do harm, in any state or condition.

Those who desire further information on these subjects can obtain it in THE PEOPLE'S COMMON SENSE MEDICAL ADVISER, a book of over 900 pages, sent, post-paid, on receipt of price, $1.50. It treats fully of those diseases peculiar to females, and gives much valuable advice in regard to the management of these affections.

Favorite Prescription sold by Druggists.

Butler & Laighton,

No. 1 MARKET SQ.

The Riders of the Green Baldric.

A Romance of Feudal Times.

The traveller of to-day would find the country of which I write vastly different, in appearance and in condition, from what it was in those times long ago.

Louis XI. was King of France, but king only in name. The great feudal lords of the province were sovereign princes, holding government in their own right.

The kings of Christendom themselves were little else than robbers on a large scale.

It was a dull, lowery day, the seventeenth of August, in the year of our Lord Fourteen Hundred Fifty-eight, at Alsdorf, which was then within the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg, and the summer residence of the grand duke.

On this dismal August day the Grand Duke John stood in the outer court of his castle, the gates of which were thrown wide open, looking upon a number of children who were at play upon the velvety sward. Three of them were children of his own — two boys and a girl—and three others were children of one his foresters, Galen Picard by name. Of the duke's children Isabella was the oldest, having seen eight years. Leon was the next, aged six years; and the youngest was Alfred, aged four. The children of the forester were two girls and a boy, and very nearly of the same ages, respectively, as their titled mates. The boys had been foster-brothers, the wife of the forester having nursed them both.

On this present occasion the children were engaged in sport, and the duke's face brightened as their gleesome shouts and laughter reached him. By and by the two foster-brothers, seeing him, ran towards him.

"Ha, my little heroes!" he cried, as the boys came up, "where are your quarter-staves? I haven't seen you exercise for a long time."

With a whoop and a bound the lads dashed away, and very soon returned with the staves — two sticks of tough ash, wrought very nearly into the form of broad-swords; and at a signal from the duke they took position, and went at the sword exercise, showing very plainly, ere a dozen passes had been made, that they had eagerly pursued the sport, and that they had been blessed with the teaching of a thorough master.

John of Luxembourg was not the only witness of the boyish passage at arms. In the doorway of a lodge close at hand stood a woman, the mother of Leon Picard, and she called a companion to witness.

"Tell me, Mignon," the mother said, "are they not brave boys?"

"Indeed they are, Barbara, and were it not for the clothes who could tell which was the lord's son?"

"Who, indeed!" exclaimed Barbara Picard. "If my own Leon had on the fine velvet and the gold which the other Leon wears, he would be every bit as grand."

"Foolish woman," said a voice behind her, "outward apparel cannot make a hero. Look. See your Leon's weapon flying through the air."

She turned, and beheld the duke's secretary, Zeta Bethtoni, who, besides attending to his master's literary wants, acted as tutor to the children.

As might be gathered from the exclamation of the scribe the playful combat between the two boys had resulted in perching victory upon the banner of Luxembourg. The duke regarded his son proudly, and then turned with smiling face to the forester's son.

"My little hero," he said, "your effort just put forth shows to me that you are worthy to own a sword, and you shall have one; and you shall go to Bittburg to-morrow and select one for yourself; and my own Leon and our good Bethtoni shall go with you. Ah! here comes Bethtoni. I see Mistress Picard yonder, and the other children are running towards her. Do you join them."

Suddenly the tramp of horses was heard, and Bethtoni rushed forward to close the main barbican.

"Did you not see the advancing troop, my lord?" he asked of the duke.

"I saw a few horsemen ride out from the wood."

"And marked you not who led them?"

"I saw a knight in black armor."

"Oh, John of Luxembourg, if you knew all that I know you would be arming. Those are the Black Riders of Gravelot, and he at their head is Maillotin du Bac!"

"Du Bac!" cried John, with a convulsive start. "The Black Riders! They have joined the Count de Charolais."

"Aye,—and for that reason they are here! Can you not understand? The count means, if possible, to possess himself of Luxembourg. I received a hint to that effect from a wayfaring monk not an hour since, and was on my way to you with the intelligence but now, little thinking the enemy was so near."

The duke saw his danger, and hastened into the keep to arm himself.

The Black Riders of Gravelot Castle had long been the terror of the whole country. Originally marshalled by a Bohemian knight-errant, Sir Raoul of Langwolf, they had grown from a score to a troop of full two hundred, and not only did they attack castles and villages for purpose of plunder, but they had more than once successfully turned their arms against incorporated cities. Lately this lawless force had accepted service under the Count de Charolais, and John of Luxembourg knew very well that they would not thus appear upon his domain without direction from their lord and master.

By the time the leader of the Black Riders had reached the outer gate the approaches to the castle had been secured, and its forces mustered to the number of five-and-sixty. Of the enemy — if enemies they were—there were full two hundred, all strong men, and well armed; and when they had drawn up before the outer barbican their herald sounded a blast upon his trumpet, which call the grand duke answered in person. His secretary and the chief of his officers sought to dissuade him from exposing himself, but he would not listen.

He mounted one of the smaller towers in advance of the main tower of the barbican, in one of the most exposed positions he could have selected, and demanded to know upon what errand the troop had come.

"We hold not conference with your castle walls between us," answered the black knight, whose voice, and whose whole bearing and stalwart presence, John recognized as belonging to Raoul de Langwolf. "Throw open your gates and you shall quickly know our pleasure. If you put us to the labor of forcing our way it shall be worse for those who else may not suffer."

At this juncture a second knight rode up and spoke with the Bohemian. He was cased in plate armor, with his visor closed, but Zeta Bethtoni, who had come to his master's side, recognized him.

"Ha!" the Secretary cried, clutching the duke's arm, "that is the fiend incarnate. It is Burgundy's butcher, Maillotin du Bac! He would not be here if Charles had not planned bloody work. I fear my lord—Down! Down!"

But the note of alarm came too late. A tall, broad-shouldered archer had advanced with Maillotin du Bac, who, at a sign from the latter, raised his heavy bow, with a long, steel-barbed, finely-feathered arrow adjusted to the string, and drew to the very arrow's head. John of Luxembourg stood with his visor raised, and his whole face exposed. He heard Bethtoni's cry, and saw the stout archer of the black baldric, but he was too late to avoid the fatal shaft. As an echo to the warning came the vengeful twang of the bowstring, and the steel point, with its following barbs, entered the duke's right eye, crashing through the bone of the orbit, and burying itself deep in the brain. He fell back dead into Bethtoni's arms.

The secretary bore the body down to the pavement below, where he was just in season to meet a score of the Black Riders who had gained entrance.

It was not enough that the grand duke should die. Charles had decreed and ordered that the whole household should be put to the sword; and his devoted henchman, Maillotin du Bac, was the man to obey. The number of the grand duke's children was known, and Du Bac saw the terrible order executed. Where he had found the Prince Leon, whom he at once recognized by his tell-tale garb, he had found another boy of nearly the same age, and him he was about to slay, in spite of the tears and prayers of the poor mother who clung to him, when the Black Knight of Bohemia came up.

"What is all this?" Do Langwolf demanded, as he approached.

"Oh, good sir!—noble knight!—he is my boy!—my own Leon! Oh, spare him! spare him!"

"Pshaw! let the brat live," said the Black chief.

"But this little viper is as spiteful as a tiger," returned Du Bac. "Zounds! he came near knocking one of my men over with a club. Look at him. Look at his eyes. He don't ask for life. I tell you he must die. If he lives, he will live to give us trouble."

"No," persisted the Bohemian. "John of Luxembourg and all his family are dead, and that fills the measure. Here, my good woman, take your boy, and when he is grown old enough to bear arms, let him come to me, and I will give him service."

Maillotin du Bac chafed angrily, and would have cut the boy down had not the Black Knight declared it to have become a personal matter.

"Strike the poor forester's boy," said he, "and you strike me!"

And so the life of the boy was saved; and Du Bac muttered, as he turned away:

"I tell you that boy will give us trouble!"

And his words were prophetic.

Eight years had passed since the massacre of Alsdorf, and the prince who had instigated that wicked work still plotted and fought for power. He had not yet come to the ducal throne of Burgundy, though the event was not far distant. Philip the Good still lived, and reigned in name, but Charles the Bold, his son and heir, was the responsible prince and arbitrator.

It was early in the day—a day of late autumn—clear, bright, and beautiful. The air was crisp and bracing. Upon a broad plain at the foot of the slope upon which stood the town of Mont-l'Hery, was marshalled an army under the banner of Louis of France. The distance from Paris was not more than five leagues.

Little more than a good bow-shot distant, with an insignificant tributary of the Essonne between them, lay another army, spread over a greater territory, and displaying various banners. A final effort was to be made to hurl Louis from his throne. His own brother, the Duke of Berry, was at the head of the insurgent force, aided by Charles of Burgundy.

It was a dubious prospect for King Louis. The coalition against him was strong, and led by veteran chieftains; but he did not falter. It was evident that the main battle was to be fought upon his right. Against that wing on the opposite side were marshalled the forces of Burgundy and the Low Countries, under Charles the Bold, and to meet them Louis had appointed his well-tried, faithful henchman, knight and baron, Sir John St. Hubert.

In a low-roofed cot, close by where rested the right wing of the royal forces, sat two generals engaged in looking over a roughly-drawn map. They were the barons, John St. Hubert and Odin Lavalette. St. Hubert was a man of fifty, tall and muscular, and cased in armor, only his head being bare; Lavalette was his lieutenant, to whom Sir John was giving directions for the coming battle. While they thus conferred a door was noiselessly opened, and a youth entered unannounced.

"Ah, Leon!" cried St. Hubert, as the youth approached, "you have come just in time. Have you examined the fords below us?"

"Not only that, my lord," answered the boy, "but I have discovered the disposition of the enemy beyond."

The youth then hurried away, and when he had gone, and the door had been closed behind him, said Lavalette:

"Sir John, I wish you would tell me exactly who that boy is."

"If you will keep the story to yourself I will give it to you. Do you call to mind—it is now a little more than eight years past—the fearful tragedy of Alsdorf Castle? The boy Leon was a brand plucked from that burning. He is a wonderful boy. Ah! I think the lad is coming. Remember,—I have told you this in confidence. You will not speak of it to another."

Lavalette gave the promise required, and directly afterwards Leon entered, accompanied by Sir Andrew Neville.

St. Hubert very soon made the English knight comprehend what was required of him, and when he had gone the old general turned to Leon, the two being at that moment alone.

"Hark! Ha! there sounds Clermont's trumpet! My dear boy, here is a packet. If I come from the field this day alive, you will return it to me; if I fall, it is yours."

"I pledge my word, my lord," returned the boy, taking the packet. Directly afterwards Sir John and his devoted protege were in their saddles, and at a word from his chief the latter dashed away to marshal the forces of St. Hubert.

While they were surveying the field a messenger came dashing up from the king, eager and breathless.

"My lord," he said, addressing the Baron St. Hubert, "the enemy have brought up from Chartres ten large cannon, and have already made arrangements to place them on yonder height. His majesty says you must clear that hill and capture these mighty engines!"

Sir Hubert comprehended the whole in a moment. A glance at the eminence in question, which was a small hill, well wooded, close upon their right flank, told him that the opening of cannon upon them in that place would be fatal; and he as readily understood the intent of the king. The enemy were moving up the heavy ordnance, believing the presence thereof was not suspected by their adversaries, and a sudden and well-directed dash was only required to change the bearing of the whole thing.

"Tell the king his order shall be obeyed.'

So spoke the baron; and now to do the work. He could not lead the charge up that hill in person, for he must look to his main army, which had sufficient work before them. In this dilemma he resolved to send Leon to make the important charge. The thing was quickly decided in his own mind, and as quickly conveyed to our hero, and the baron then said:

"Here is my truncheon. It will be a sufficient badge of authority with those who are to obey. Be careful, my boy! Be brave, but be circumspect.—God bless and keep you!—There, away!"

Drawing his sword and waving it above his head, Leon dashed away to the head of the stalwart foresters, who had been set apart as a reserve force.

These men were the immediate retainers and tenants of St. Hubert; about two hundred and fifty in number; armed with swords and pikes, these last being formidable weapons, with shafts twelve feet in length, and heads of steel, heavy and sharp. Every man of them had known Leon from his prattling boyhood, and had come to love him for his goodness and truth, as well as for his prowess and bravery. He first exhibited to them the golden truncheon of the baron, and then, in few words, told them what he had been ordered to do.

"My brave, true hearts," he concluded, "if we capture those guns we save the day. The king looks to us, and is anxious. Will you follow me?"

The shout of assent made the welkin ring.

Leon, with keen glance and close calculation, had marked the movements on the hill, and was spurring forward at the top of his speed. At the foot of the hill, with not more than three hundred yards between himself and the advanced guard of the enemy, he turned and gave the order for the sweeping to the right and left of the rear divisions. His order was instantly repeated to the chiefs of division, and in a few moments more the foresters were completely enveloping the hill. Onward and upward swept the youthful leader, bearing his light target to keep the flying arrows from his throat, while his followers pressed close to his tracks.

Upon the summit of the hill the Bourbonnais and Spaniards, to the number of full five hundred, were working with all their might. The chief was none other than Jean II., the Duke de Bourbon. Three hundred archers and pikemen were arranged to resist the attacking column, while the rest worked at the cannon. Three of the huge pieces had been placed in position and loaded, and the duke, with his own hand, was prepared to discharge the first, when the shock came. A crowd of his own men had been driven before the muzzle of the gun he was about to fire, when he dropped the match-stock and sprang to the front. But a single glance told him he was too late.

Like a thunderbolt dashed young Leon upon the pikemen of Bourbonnais, turning aside the weapons that were aimed at him, and striking down two men in his course. And his orders were obeyed to the very letter. So promptly had the leaders of the second and third divisions come up as they had been directed, that the enemy was struck on all hands at the same instant, and panic seizing them at once, they fled pell mell. Leon did not make any pursuit, but set at work to turn the cannon against those who had brought them upon the field.

Three of the guns were already loaded, and the matches lighted, and as soon as they could be trained upon the Duke of Berry's flank they were discharged. The moral effect of the enormous pieces of ordnance was of greater moment than the physical. Consternation and awe resulted in fear; and fear begat demoralization and flight.

Leon piled the battery until he had driven the Allies beyond reach of his projectiles, and then he thought of his guardian. It was now past noon, and the battle had raged furiously all the time. Ever and anon our hero had taken a view of the field below him, and he knew very nearly how the battle was going. The royal forces were surely gaining; and as soon as he felt justified in leaving the captured hill, he made arrangements to rejoin his chief. Leaving half the troop to guard the ordnance, under command of his most trusty lieutenant, he summoned the remainder to follow him to the plain where the conflict was raging. He had seen that the forces of Sir Hubert were closely engaged with those of Burgundy, and he knew that every arm was needed. He spurred on at the top of his speed—for his horse had been resting for several hours—and he reached the scene of battle none too soon. Even as he came up he found the Barons St. Hubert and Lavalette on foot, side by side, opposed to a superior number, fighting for life.

"A Leon to the rescue!" he shouted, and a stout Burgundian axman went down beneath a well-directed blow of his trenchant blade.

"A Leon to the rescue!" was the battle cry of those who had followed him, and in a few moments the Burgundians were broken and routed.

Our hero had reined up his panting steed by his guardian's side, and was upon the point of addressing him when a look of terror suddenly convulsed the good baron's face, and he cried out to his protege to beware!

Leon had time to turn his head, and to avoid the blow aimed at him. It was Maillotin du Bac whom he saw, standing in his stirrups, and aiming at him a javelin. With a quick, powerful jerk of the rein he drew back his horse, and the javelin grazed his throat and struck St. Hubert, who was in the act of mounting a horse that he had at that moment caught by the bridle. The baron's helm had been shattered, and the furiously hurled barb striking where the plates were broken, felled him to the earth. In a moment Leon was upon his feet, and by his dear guardian's side; and, at the same moment he heard the loud summons:

"John St. Hubert, knight and baron, yield thee my prisoner!"

It was Maillotin du Bac.

"He yields not yet, vain braggart!" shouted Leon, and, as he spoke, he stood above the prostrate knight, with sword and buckler in hand, his feet planted one upon either side of the revered and beloved form. Erect he bore himself, the fire of his eyes flashing through the interstices of the looped visor, and every cord and muscle sprung to the work of protecting the sacred charge.

"Ha!" shouted Du Bac, when he saw the youth thus standing astride the fallen baron, "is it thou, my hero? I' faith, I'll take the pair of you, but punish you first for your insolence. What think you of the weight of the blade?"

Evidently the future Provost of Burgundy, to become butcher-in-chief of Charles the Bold, thought to cleave the skull of the reptuesome youth from crown to chin; but he struck at one who was quick to see and quick to act. Without changing his position of body to the variation of a hair, Leon threw up his left arm, with his circular target affixed thereto, and the slightly conic surface, highly tempered and polished, turned aside the descending blade as though it had been a lath of wood.

Du Bac raised his sword a second time. The above we publish as a specimen chapter; but the continuation of this story will be found only in the N. Y. Ledger. The Army and Navy Journal, New York, is prompt to recognize the importance to its constituency of the bill to reorganize the army, just reported by the joint committee of Congress. The bill is a document of 724 sections or 294 octavo pages, and to make room for it, the Journal issues a double number, thirty two pages in all. Whether the bill is passed or not, it is of great interest to army men and their friends, as a codification of existing army laws, accompanied with propositions for change not less than revolutionary in their effect on the service. With the bill the Journal gives a letter from General Sherman, giving his opinion of the proposed reorganization, also a review of the bill with comments on the different sections, and a list of officers it will throw out of the service on account of age, etc. It is a valuable number of an excellent paper.

Miss Annie L. Elliott, a young lady of Marlboro', Mass., died last week from eating lemon peel, pieces of which were found undigested in her stomach.

Edward Donovan, the young rough who murdered his brother-in-law, John H. Fox, in South Boston some time ago, on Sunday gave himself up to the police.

On Tuesday night, 12th inst., a New York lady stopping at the Tremont house, Boston, was assailed in her room by an unknown man who had pried open the door; the ruffian choked the lady to prevent an alarm, chloroformed her, and stole $130 from her trunk. On Saturday night Mrs. George W. Whiting, of Boston Highlands, was chloroformed by two burglars, who stole $30 in money, but left valuable jewelry untouched.

Beverly Douglass, member of Congress from Virginia, died Sunday.

Carpenter George E. Anderson, attached to the training ship Minnesota, is granted two weeks leave of absence from December 23d.

An old couple in Bristol county, Mass., had an interesting breach of promise case tried last week. The jury, like the quondam lovers, could not agree.

President Hayes, it is said, will appoint Oliver Wendell Holmes, Jr., of Boston, District Judge to succeed Judge Lowell, promoted to the Circuit Judgship.

New Hampshire Items.

The Orphans' Home at Concord has just received from the estate of the late Miss Helen Ferguson of Stamford, Conn., a gift of $1500, the income to be used from year to year for the purposes of the Home.

Mrs. Enos D. Barney, aged fifty-seven years, the wife of a prominent grocer at Manchester, attempted suicide by hanging on Friday of last week. She was cut down by her daughter before the attempt on her life had been carried out, and will probably recover, although she was badly strangled when her daughter discovered her in the cellar. She had been suffering from ill-health for a long time, which caused a depression of spirits that led to the attempt at suicide.

Political.

Congress has adjourned over the holidays without giving Tilden and reform a chance to "vindicate" himself in the cipher despatch matter.

The Louisville Courier-Journal, democratic, published in the democratic stronghold of Kentucky, remarks of Texas, another democratic fortress: "People who think Kentucky is some on the kill don't read the Texas papers. We absolutely get ashamed of ourselves when we read the bloody specials to the Galveston News."

If any person has a spare copy of the report of the Potter fraud committee on the cipher despatches, he will confer a great favor by sending it to this office. We are anxious to print it in full.

Law in Louisiana.

The New Orleans Picayune, democratic, announces the disappearance and supposed murder of Lott Clark and Bill White, colored men, near Caledonia, fifty miles below Shreveport, while on their way to New Orleans, where they were summoned to appear before the United States grand jury as witnesses in election troubles. When the steamer Danube arrived at Caledonia a constable named Jeff Cole—a democrat, of course—presented a warrant for the arrest of the two men, took them off the boat and started in the direction of Shreveport. When they arrived at Brand's plantation a mob took the prisoners from the constable, and nothing more has been heard of them. They are supposed to have been killed.

This is a good democratic testimony as to the propriety of the republicans in the Senate insisting that the investigation of the southern election frauds shall be held with closed doors. The men who did not scruple to commit murder "in the interests in the party" before election, will not scruple to murder witnesses of their crimes after election in order to screen themselves. And this Louisiana affair is a warning to all southern republicans of what they may expect if they offer to give evidence of democratic scoundrelism. The south must be kept solid.

Saturday's Storm.

A number of wrecks are reported as the effect of the blow of Saturday. Schooner J. G. Drew went ashore on the Outer Brewster, below Boston, and will be a total loss; she had a cargo of coal. Brig Helen and schooner J. M. Merselas, coal laden, in trying to make Provincetown harbor, both went ashore; the schooner filled with water and the brig was driven high up on the beach. Schooner Planet, lumber laden, at anchor in Provincetown harbor, lost both anchors and drove ashore, hitting a building and damaging it badly, and losing her bowsprit. The schooner Waterloo, coal laden, in trying to make Gloucester harbor went on Piper's rocks, and bilged; crew saved. Schooner Emma C. Babcock dragged her anchors in Gloucester harbor, went ashore on Long beach, and will be a total loss. Schooner Rosina, of Machias, coal laden, went ashore on Halibut point at Pigeon cove, Mass., and is a total loss. Schooner Ancola, with 1700 bushels of potatoes, bound for New York, went on Fort rocks at Marblehead, Mass., and was totally wrecked. Schooner James A. Potter, of Thomastown, with yellow pine from Pensacola for Boston, was wrecked near Sag Harbor, L. I., and one man lost; the rest of the crew were rescued by the life-saving men from Station No. 10; vessel a total loss; cargo will probably be saved.

A Resumption Incident.

A well-preserved old gentleman entered the Sub-Treasury building on Wednesday and presented thirty-five $1000 called bonds for redemption. After the usual formalities had been gone through with and the necessary papers signed, the clerk placed upon the counter seven bags containing $5000 each in gold coin. The old gentleman gasped out:—

"Wha—wha—what's this?"

"Your $35,000, sir," was the reply.

"But I don't want gold. Give me legal tenders. I am 74 years of age, and I can't carry those about with me," said the old gentleman, struggling to lift one bag.

"We have no authority to pay legal tenders, sir. We are redeeming called bonds in gold."

The old gentleman expostulated, but in vain. He hurried to the Gallatin National bank and begged President Tappen to get him out of his scrape. Mr. Tappen explained that all he could do would be to receive the gold on deposit and allow him to draw a check against it. The old gentleman was delighted. He said he did not care what the arrangement was so that he could obtain greenbacks instead of the gold. The bank's porter was sent after the bags, the deposit was made, the check drawn, and the old gentleman went on his way rejoicing.—New York Times.

DEVOE'S BRILLIANT OIL!

Just received and for sale at reduced price by

Chas. E. Laighton & Son.

DEVOE'S BRILLIANT OIL

1st. Is absolutely safe.
2d. Gives a powerful, brilliant white light.
3d. Does not smoke, nor smell, nor crust the wick.
4th. Is the most economical oil, because it gives the most light in proportion to its price.

We give the following letter to show the absolute freedom of Devoe's Brilliant Oil from any inflammable vapor, and as a curious incident:

PATERSON, N. J., April 17, 1877.

DEVOE MANUFACTURING CO.

Gentlemen:—I take great pleasure in sending this unsolicited recommendation of your Kerosene Oil.

At the great fire in this place, which destroyed Norwood's Paint and Oil establishment, and other buildings, on the 13th inst., your Oil stood one of most severe tests that Oil could be put to; for four [4] hours the Oil was in the hottest part of the fire, and such a fire as only Varnish, Turpentine, Oils and Paints can make, and in all that time there was no explosion of your Oil, and the cans containing the Oil were in very near the same condition after the fire as before.

I take great pleasure in recommending this Oil, as in my opinion it is the safest Oil for sale in the market. I remain, very respectfully,

JOHN E. REGNER,
Chief of Fire Department.

THE CITY.

E. F. Sise & Co. have put up a new engine at their wood wharf, for sawing wood.

The large quantity of timber and lumber on Steamboat wharf is for the new malt house at the Jones brewery.

Schooner E. R. Anderson, has been chartered by Cyrus L. Brown and others, and is loading with 3000 barrels of apples for Baltimore.

The Sunday school connected with St. John's Episcopal church will hold their Christmas Festival at Franklin hall on Thursday evening.

The schooner Albert Clarence, of 101.16 tons register, hailing from Wellfleet, Mass., about half of her being owned in this city, has been sold to parties in Portland.

Any one desiring to furnish eatables for the Christmas dinner in Mechanics' hall, may leave their contributions at the hall at any time after half past eight o'clock on Wednesday morning.

Dr. William R. Preston advertises elegant goods suitable for holiday presents. The class of goods he keeps is well known; and we have no hesitation in saying that no better cologne is made than Preston's.

The streets on Monday had a gala-day look. Everybody and everybody's children were out, and Market square was lined with out-of-town teams. Judging from appearances Christmas trade must have been good. There was a small show of poultry.

The three-masted schooner Emma C. Babcock, Train master, bound from Perth Amboy, N. J., for this port with coal, made a harbor at Gloucester, Mass., to escape the storm of Saturday. During the night she dragged her anchors and went ashore on Long beach, and it was expected would become a total loss. The captain's wife and child, and all the crew got safely ashore.

A new schooner is to be added to our fishing fleet next season. Mr. William B. Keen, of Malden, Mass., has contracted with Mr. Chas. H. Thompson of Kennebunkport, Me., to build one of the fine, fast-sailing vessels for which he is noted, to be finished early in the spring. She will be sixty-two feet long on deck, with eighteen feet breadth of beam and six and a half feet depth of hold, and will spread eight hundred and fifty yards of canvas. Her frame is to be of the best seasoned white oak, and her out-board planking of the same material; the cabin is to be finished in black walnut and ash, and she is to be a first-class vessel in every respect. Mr. Keen feels confident that he will be able to show one of the deservedly-praised vessels which Mr. Thompson knows so well how to build, and which have gained for him a widespread reputation along the coast. The vessel when finished will be placed in charge of the Becker brothers of Newcastle.

THE VICINITY.

Rev. A. S. Palmer devotes this week to gospel temperance work at Kittery point.

Bishop Foster is expected to consecrate the new Methodist Episcopal church edifice at Saco, on Wednesday, January 15th. The church has been remodelled at a cost of about $9000.

The schooner Emma Hotchkiss, of and from Boston for Belfast, dragged her anchors in the lower harbor on the night of the 21st inst., and went ashore near Fort McClary. She came off Sunday morning, and was beached near Frisbee's wharf at Kittery point, leaking badly. She was light.

Mr. Granville C. Spinney, of Kittery, has taken the shop owned by Nicholas Spinney and formerly occupied by Almon H. Jenness of this city, near Kittery depot, and opened it as a smithy and carriage shop. The building has been enlarged so as to fit it for doing new work, as well as repairing, cattle shoeing and general jobbing.

At a meeting of the ladies of the Free Baptist sewing circle of Kittery, Me., the following vote was passed: "Resolved, that the thanks of this society be tendered to Messrs. George B. French, N. F. Mathes, Esq., and Dr. Wm. R. Preston, of Portsmouth, for their donations in aid of the fair recently held by the society; also to Joseph L. Marden, Esq., of Kittery, for many acts of kindness received at his hands."

Rev. Mr. Ferry, the Methodist Episcopal clergyman of Seabrook, having recently preached a sermon in which total abstinence from intoxicants was advocated, and using or dealing in them denounced in no ambiguous terms, one of his congregation, who does considerable of a trade in cider, after church told the preacher that if he gave such sermons as that his salary wouldn't be paid. The minister answered that he considered temperance to be a part of religion, and he intended to keep preaching it, salary or no salary.

Mrs Sally Fowler, of South Seabrook, who died last April, left her property in that town to Mr. Reese Owen, and the rest of her estate, which was located in Massachusetts, to Tilton seminary, after several small legacies and all just claims should be paid from it. Since then bills amounting to over $2700 have been put in against the estate, one man making a claim for $1700, as compensation for services extending over some thirty years or more; and Charles M. Lamprey of Hampton has been appointed by the probate court commissioner to examine these claims. From present appearances Tilton seminary will not be largely puffed up with the wealth it will receive from Mrs. Fowler's estate.

POLICE COURT.

MONDAY, Dec. 23; Batchelder, J.

John Flynn and John Gould, two "simple drunks," were sent to Brentwood for not having $9.90 each.

William Nolan, an able-bodied, lazy fellow who has been trying several little dodges to get sent to Brentwood for the winter, was arraigned as a vagrant. He got "sent up" rather more than he expected—six months, and to work out $8.-04 costs. This will secure a home for Mr. Nolan until after haying time next year, when all he desired was a place to stop and plenty to eat until spring opens. "The best laid schemes o' mice and men gang aft agley."

RYE LETTER.

RYE, Dec. 21st.

The revival meeting on Wednesday evening was fully attended. Rev. Messrs. Jones and Hadley conducted the meeting; Rev. John A. Goss of Portsmouth and Rev. Mr. Brown of Campton were present and made remarks; there was singing by the congregation, and a number of lay exhortations. Six persons arose for prayer—some of them persons who had been converted before, and had backslidden.

Thursday evening the Young People's meeting was held, and was well attended. The singing was under direction of Charles W. Rand, with organ accompaniment by Miss Vienna Leavitt. Rev. Willis E. Hadley and Rev. Mr. Jones offered prayer, and the latter then read the 4th chapter of Proverbs. Mr. Hadley followed with some remarks, and several exhortations were made and hymns sung.

No revival meeting was held Friday evening, on account of the meeting of the Reform Club at the town hall. Mr. C. P. Hodgdon of Lynn, Mass., addressed the club on the miseries of intemperance and the happiness of a life of total abstinence, and was frequently applauded. The fellowing were elected officers for the ensuing term: Charles E. Sleeper, president; Horace Mace, Herbert F. Philbrick, vice presidents; John E. Leavitt, secretary; Miss Florence Marden, treasurer; Herbert Morris Perkins and Fred Philbrick, doorkeepers. The club is in a flourishing condition.

About one o'clock Thursday morning a small cottage at the bathing beach, known as Cate's cottage, was burned, it is supposed by an incendiary fire. It was owned, it is said, by Mr. L. V. Newell of Portsmouth.

On Thursday Mrs. J. W. Garland fell from the top to the bottom of the cellar stairs in her house, but though somewhat bruised fortunately escaped any serious injury.

Saturday evening quite a snow storm set in, but it soon turned to rain, which was accompanied by a driving wind; between eleven and twelve o'clock the blow was very heavy, but all was cleared up before morning.

On the 11th inst. Mr. Sheridan Jenness, a well-off farmer of this town, was robbed of $17 in a North street saloon in Boston; he reported his loss to the police, and two girls were arrested for the theft, examined in the municipal court, and bound over in $600 each for trial at a higher court.

The ladies of the Congregational church are to have a Christmas tree at the church on Christmas eve. SCRIBE.

—A young man from the country was in town yesterday, and entered a photograph gallery to have his picture taken. After seating him, the operator told him to assume a pleasant expression. "Think of something cheerful," he said; "think of your girl." A terrible scowl took possession of the young man's face, and jumping up he exclaimed, "Think of the deuce! She went home with another fellow last night, and she can go to thunder, for me!" He evidently thought of her, but the pleased expression was not forthcoming.—Norristown Herald.

Cart-Loads of Medicinal Rubbish

Are swallowed by invalids, and their physical troubles thus kept alive for years, when that peerless tonic stimulant and corrective, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters would speedily set the disordered and worn out mechanism of the system in active and healthful operation again. It has been demonstrated over and over again that the requirements of the sick are answered far better by the Bitters than by a majority of the miscalled remedies of the pharmacopœia. The stomach is strengthened, the liver regulated, the bowels put in proper order, the blood enriched and purified, and the nervous system rendered tranquil and vigorous by this inestimable family medicine and safeguard against disease, which is, moreover, a most agreeable and effective appetizer, and a cordial peculiarly adapted to the wants of the aged and infirm, delicate females, and convalescing patients. It is, besides, immensely popular as an antidote to malaria.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure for consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive, and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send, free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and using, in German, French, or English. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. W. Sherar, 149 Powers' Block, Rochester, New York. tjan1

PENNSYLVANIA
RAILROAD.
GREAT THROUGH LINE
AND
UNITED STATES MAIL ROUTE
The attention of the travelling public is respectfully invited to some of the merits of this great highway, in the confident assertion and belief that no other line can offer equal inducements as a route of through travel. In
Construction AND Equipment
THE
PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD
stands confessedly at the head of American railways. The track is double the entire length of the line, of steel rails laid on heavy oak ties, which are imbedded in a foundation of rock ballast eighteen inches in depth. All bridges are of iron or stone, and built upon the most approved plans. Its passenger cars, while unusually safe and substantial, are at the same time models of comfort and elegance.
The Safety Appliances
in use on this line well illustrates the far-seeing and liberal policy of its management, in accordance with which the utility only of an improvement and not its cost has been the question of consideration. Among many may be noticed
THE BLOCK SYSTEM OF SAFETY SIGNALS,
JANNEY COUPLER, BUFFER AND PLATFORM,
THE WHARTON PATENT SWITCH,
AND THE
WESTINGHOUSE AIR-BRAKE,
forming in conjunction with a perfect double track and road-bed a combination of safeguards against accidents which have rendered them practically impossible.
Pullman Palace Cars
Are run on all Express Trains
From New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington,
To Chicago, Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, and St. Louis,
WITHOUT CHANGE,
and to all principal points in the far West and South with but one change of cars. Connections are made in Union Depots, and are assured to all important points.
The Scenery
OF THE
PENNSYLVANIA ROUTE
is admitted to be unsurpassed in the world for grandeur, beauty and variety. Superior refreshment facilities are provided. Employees are courteous and attentive, and as an inevitable result that a trip by the Pennsylvania Railroad must form
A PLEASING AND MEMORABLE EXPERIENCE.

ANTI-FAT

ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT is the great remedy for Corpulency. It is purely vegetable and perfectly harmless. It acts on the food in the stomach, preventing its conversion into fat. Taken according to directions, it will reduce a fat person from 3 to 5 pounds a week.
In placing this remedy before the public as a positive cure for obesity, we do so knowing its ability to cure, as attested by hundreds of testimonials, of which the following from a lady in Columbus, Ohio, is a sample: "Gentlemen:—Your Anti-Fat was duly received. I took it according to directions, and it reduced me five pounds. I was so elated over the result that I immediately sent to ACKERMAN'S drug-store for the second bottle." Another, a physician, writing for a patient from Providence, R. I., says, "Four bottles have reduced her weight from 199 pounds to 122 pounds, and there is a general improvement in health." A German nobleman writing from Boston, says: "Without special change or attention to diet, I was bottles of Allan's Anti-Fat and one-quarter pounds." The well-known Wholesale Druggists, SMITH, DOLLITTLE & SMITH, of Boston, Mass., write as follows: "Allan's Anti-Fat has reduced a lady in our city seven pounds in three weeks." A gentleman in St. Louis writes: "Allan's Anti-Fat reduced me twelve pounds in three weeks. Four bottles have lost twenty-four pounds since commencing its use." Messrs. POWELL & FLIMPTON, Wholesale Druggists, of Buffalo, N.Y., write: "To THE PROPRIETORS OF ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT: Gentlemen—The following report is from the lady who used Allan's Anti-Fat. 'If the Anti-Fat had the desired effect, reducing the fat from two to five pounds a week until I had lost twenty-five pounds.' I hope never to regain what I have lost." Anti-Fat is an unerrring blood-purifier. It promotes digestion, curing dyspepsia, and is also a potent remedy for rheumatism. Sold by druggists. Pamphlet on Obesity sent on receipt of stamp.
BUTTANIC MEDICINE CO., Proprs, Buffalo, N.Y.

WOMAN
By an immense practice at the World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, having treated many thousand cases of those diseases peculiar to woman, I have been enabled to perfect a most potent and positive remedy for these diseases.
To designate this natural specific, I have named it
Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription
The term, however, is but a feeble expression of my high appreciation of its virtues, based upon personal observation. I have, while witnessing its positive results in the special diseases included in the organism of woman, singled it out as the climax or crowning grace of my medical career, and offer it as a positive, safe, and efficient remedy for the class of diseases, and one that will, at all times and under all circumstances, act kindly. I am willing to stake my reputation as a physician, and so confident am I that it will not disappoint the most sanguine expectations of a single invalid lady who uses it for any of the ailments for which I recommend it, that I offer and sell it under A POSITIVE GUARANTEE. (For conditions, see pamphlet wrapping bottle.)
The following are among those diseases in which my Favorite Prescription has worked cures, as if by magic, and with a certainty never before attained by any medicinal preparation: Excessive Flowing, Painful Monthly Periods, Suppressions When from unnatural causes, Irregularities, Weak Back, Prolapsus, or Falling of the Uterus, Anteversion and Retroversion, Bearing-down Sensations, Internal Heat, Nervous Depression, Debility, Despondency, Threatened Miscarriage, Chronic Congestion, Inflammation and Ulceration of the Uterus, and given mucy, Barrenness, or Sterility, and Female Weakness. I do not extol this medicine as a "cure-all," but it admirably fulfills a singleness of purpose, being a most perfect specific in all chronic diseases of the sexual system of woman. It will not disappoint, nor will it do harm, in any state or condition.
Those who desire further information on these subjects can obtain it in THE PEOPLE'S COMMON SENSE MEDICAL ADVISER, a book of 1000 pages, sent, post-paid, on receipt of $1.50. It treats minutely of those diseases peculiar to females, and gives many valuable advice in regard to the management of those affections.
Favorite Prescription sold by Druggists.

[Written for this paper.]

HOW A RICH MERCHANT LEARNED TO MAKE HAPPIER THE CHRISTMAS-TIME.

It wanted but two days of Christmas, and as Abel Morgan rested in the most luxurious of chairs at his bachelor quarters in a high-class boarding-house of New York, a little girl, of half a dozen summers, in rich and tasteful attire, that showed she was of those who live luxuriously, entered his presence and laying before him a small but elegant volume, pointed out to him one of the richly colored pictures with which it was illustrated. Scarcely had she done so, when the musical voice of her youthful mother, in gentle tones, called her away, but in her departure leaving the book upon the table where she had laid it. It was Dickens' "Christmas Carol," the first and best of all his Christmas stories, and though the grey-haired man who has been introduced to the reader was not much given to light literature, or at that time of his life to much of any reading but what he found in the business columns of the daily newspapers, there was something novel and attractive in the little book before him that won his attention until the tea-hour drew him to the table. When he returned to his room the book was gone, but sending his servant for his carriage he was driven to a store in Broadway where the choicest and freshest foreign literature was to be found, and where he was able to secure the last copy for sale in the city of the book he sought. The price was half a guinea, yet so attracted was he by what he had read of its contents, as well as the general elegance of the little gem of art in cardinal red silk and gold,* he freely paid it, though well aware that the book in another form, within a very few hours would be sold in the streets for a New York sixpence. Eleven o'clock found him still absorbed in its contents, as many a one has been since then, nor was it until the city clocks pealed forth the hour of midnight, that, when the tale came to a close, he retired to his lonely couch to dream of the scenes that seemed in the morning to have been re-enacted before him as he slept.

Millionaires were not as plentiful then as in later years, yet few could count their gold with Abel Morgan, or number with him the richly-freighted ships among the commerce of New York, that bore the starry flag into every sea and every clime. Among those who had known him long, none there were who dreamed of the poverty of his early years, or the struggles through which he had passed at that time of his life in winning his way to the wealth they fancied he regarded as the sole end, aim and purpose of existence. He did not forget the past in his history even amid the busiest marts of trade, or when leading in conclaves of men concerned like himself in enterprises in which scores of millions were involved. Many a time did he think of the poverty of his childhood, when, with his widowed mother, they had toiled for the potatoes and meal, that, many a day, had formed their only food, and the hours he had spent in the woods, often far from their poor home, gathering the fuel that served to cook their simple fare, and keep them from freezing when winter came; and then his hard life, when his mother had gone to rest, with never a kind word to cheer him, while he served the hardest and most exacting of employers, working early and late, as a drudge upon a farm, until he could no longer endure it, and made his way on foot, thro' many a mile of dusty road, to the great city, where a penny roll and a drink at a pump served him as his first meal. A hard life it was, too, subsisting upon the simplest food, and lodging at night where he could find shelter, until able to procure for himself a suit of clothes in which to apply for a place in a merchant's warehouse, where a boy was advertised for as wanted, and bring into use the good school education he had the ambition to acquire even amid the poverty of his past years. The same untiring perseverance carried him onward, until, when in his early manhood he had taken a place among the prosperous merchants of New York, it seemed to others as if he possessed the power, like Midas, to transmute all he touched into gold.

It can scarcely be a matter of surprise if the prosperous man who forms the subject of this sketch, in looking back upon the rough way he had come in the journey of life, with never a helping hand extended to him, came to feel that he owed the world but little; that he had been the architect, solely, of his own fortunes; and that, after what he had known of it, poverty was the greatest evil, and wealth the chief good in life. One of his experiences, that might well have added to this feeling, was that the merchant, a man of large wealth, whom he had served for seven long years, never showed the slightest appreciation of his faithful and able services, and, as if annoyed at their loss, grudgingly granted his request that he might refer to him when seeking to better his condition elsewhere than in his employ.

While there was a seeming chilliness about him that was, it may be said, more fancied than real, and not a few who regarded him at the age of fifty as little else than a human iceberg, yet was he never uncourteous if not as social of manner as he might have been; and it may be added, that no one asked his aid individually, or in the name of any of the noble charities with which the city of his adoption abounds, who went away empty-handed. He was about the last man, he would very likely himself have thought, upon whom a tale of fiction could have made much impression; yet could he not forget the scenes portrayed in that which had absorbed his attention so far into the night; as they came back to him in fancy wherever he might be on the day that followed, the thought presented itself that there might be, perchance, in the little volume, a lesson for him that he had failed, before, to learn; that there was, perhaps, a faithful one, like Scrooge's clerk, Bob Cratchett, in the story, to whom, in paying him his salary alone, he had failed to do his whole duty. His private office being in another portion of his warehouses than that where his numerous clerks were gathered, it was rarely that he saw any of them besides the manager; but on the day preceding Christmas, he appeared among them, and if saying but little except to exchange a word here and there among the older class, as he passed from desk to desk, a kindly air there was about him which left an impression upon all that they were regarded by him as something above the elevating machinery of his warehouses, or that which propelled his ships to distant lands,—a feeling in which the world too well knows all employers, however faithfully they may be served, do not share. On returning to his office, he sent for the manager, accompanied by the request that he would bring with him a list of the clerks and their several salaries, and when coming to the name of David Goodall, he asked how it was that while he had served the house for thirty years, and was still as industriously employed at his desk as any other, his salary was much less than that of some who had held their positions scarce a third of that term. The man he addressed was not accustomed to be asked the why and the wherefore of things in matters over which he had control, still less in such a tone as came from his employer in doing so, and a look of embarrassment to not a little extent accompanied his reply that the clerk referred to was "getting old," and needed assistance sometimes when his work was heaviest; and that he had accordingly reduced his salary sufficient to pay that of the younger clerk who assisted him. "Who is the young man at Goodall's desk?" the merchant then asked. "He is a son of my brother William," was the answer that came to him. "And so," rejoined the merchant, "to give a place to your brother's son, you have reduced to little above a bare pittance the well-earned salary of a faithful man who has spent the best years of his life in my service; taking the great liberty of doing so without my knowing it. Restore to him on the next pay-day his salary, with the addition of that out of which I have no hesitation in saying he has been shamefully wronged; and hereafter I wish you to regard him as one of my personal friends, not as a man, simply, whose labor I purchase. In future, while any one in my employ does his duty so far as he is able, you are not to regard 'getting older' as any reason for holding him in less regard than formerly, or for a reduction of his salary; and if sickness or misfortune should render assistance desirable to any, whatever their age, I wish you to make it at once known to me."

On the evening of the same day, it being Christmas eve, Abel Morgan alighted from his carriage at the door of the plainest of dwellings in one of the old cross-town streets of the city, and on inquiring if it was the residence of David Goodall, was shown to a second-floor room, the furnishing of which, though neat and well ordered, had evidently seen long service. Reclining in a chair that might serve as a couch by night as well as a place of rest by day, was a girl of four or five and twenty, fair as a lily, with eyes of ethereal blue, and hair that in its silken texture and golden hue, might have graced a seraph; and as she responded in a soft low tone to the kindly expressed "good evening" of the visitor, the opening on a cot was followed by the entrance of David Goodall, accompanied by a silvery-haired lady, whose resemblance to the fair invalid, for such she was, gave evidence of the relationship of mother and daughter between them. If a surprised man existed at that moment in New York, it was the old accountant at the sight of his employer in his humble home; and yet his heart had been gladdened that day by a warm clasp of a hand, a few kind words, and the sight of a face he had seen but once in the two preceding years; and he had carried to his home, on that Christmas eve, a feeling of assurance that in his downhill of life he was not regarded by him he had served so long and well as one who had outlived his usefulness, like a worn-out horse turned out to die.

No words were needed by the merchant, as he glanced around while conversing with those about him, or when drawn to an adjoining room by the light of a fire that was burning uptown, to tell him that if there was not absolute poverty, it was with the worthy family at least a struggle to eke out the little means the head of the household, through the wrongdoing of another, was able to furnish for their support; he saw it, too, in the worn but well-brushed garments of the former, and in the threadbare overcoat he had donned when an errand for his daughter to a neighboring druggist's took him from home; and not less did he become aware, ere taking his departure, that the house and neighborhood where they dwelt were not suited for those as intelligent and refined as they. It was yet early in the evening, and in taking his leave, he invited his clerk to accompany him home in his carriage, where he drew from him a reluctant detail of how much deprivation had come to him and his family by the reduction in his salary that had once afforded them all life's comforts; how that they had been compelled to leave their pleasant dwelling in a far different neighborhood from that where he had found them; that a long sickness had reduced his only child from once perfect health to an almost helpless invalid; and that to aid in paying doctors' bills, they had been compelled to part even with the piano and music that had been to them in the saddest of times such a source of pleasure.

Whatever it may have been that was said to him that night by his employer ere sending him home again in his carriage, that drew tears to his eyes, and sobs, but not of sorrow, from his heart, need not be told; suffice it to say that it was to David Goodall the happiest Christmas eve he had known for many a year; happy at the time, and better still in the consciousness that he and the loved ones at home would never more want anything for their comfort as long as they should live.

It was a happy Christmas-time, too, to Abel Morgan, and while regretting that he had not sooner learned the lesson the little book had taught him, he took to himself the consolation that it was more from want of thought than want of heart that he had not done so; and resolved that none should say in the future, whether he was living or dead, that he had been an unfaithful steward of the wealth bestowed on him by an ever-kind Providence; and well did he keep his word, as many could testify who were the recipients of his bounty. He resolved, too, to read on every Christmas eve as long as he should live, the little volume that had taught him the secret of making happier alike to himself and others, the Christmas time. JOHN H. BOWLES.

News and Notes.

The weather is very severe to the westward of New England, the thermometer being below zero in many places, and the snow two or three feet deep. Much interruption to railroad travel has taken place.

Schooner Charlie Bell, Capt. Knox, was wrecked on Thumb Cap island, at the mouth of Damariscotta river, Me., Saturday night, and three men were drowned.

The State Department at Washington has received from the United States Consul-General at London a paper picked up in a bottle in South Esk river, Scotland, dated Oct. 21st, and purporting to be a list of the then surviving officers and men of the "American steamer Edgar H.," which was then in dire distress, waterlogged, having been in collision with a large vessel; two of the crew dead; no assistance; boats damaged." We believe there is no such steamer as the one referred to, and suppose the paper must be the practical joke of some real funny fellow.

New Hampshire Items.

The securities of the Concord savings bank, of which W. W. Storrs was the defaulting treasurer, were sold at auction in Concord on the 24th inst. They embraced stocks, railroad bonds, and county, city and town bonds, and brought prices near to market quotations.

A committee of experts, employed by the city of Keene to examine the Manchester & Keene railroad, before paying over a gratuity voted some time ago, report that the road-bed is too narrow in places, that the trestles are badly supported, and that $65,000 must be expended before the road is completed and safe for the running of trains at a low rate of speed.

John Lovejoy, an employe at the iron foundry in Nashua, met with a frightful accident Saturday evening, the 21st inst. He was at work with his ladle pouring molten iron into the flasks, when accidentally the handle struck a post, spilling the melted iron against his leg. It passed through his pants into his boot in its course, burning and frying the flesh in a sickening manner. As soon as possible the boot was removed, when it was found that the weight of iron which had chilled inside of the boot was four pounds. The wounded limb was a horrible sight, the flesh and cords of the leg being badly burned.

Something for the New Year.

The world renowned success of Hostetter's Bitters, and their continued popularity for a quarter of a century as a stomachic, is scarcely more wonderful than the welcome that greets the annual appearance of Hostetter's Almanac. This valuable medical treatise is published by Hostetter & Smith, Pittsburgh, Pa., under their own immediate supervision, employing 80 hands in that department. Ten cylinder printing presses, 8 folding machines, 5 job presses, &c., are running about eleven months in the year on this work, and the issue of same for 1879 will not be less than ten millions, printed in the English, German, French, Welch, Norwegian, Swedish, Holland, Bohemian and Spanish languages. Refer to a copy of it for valuable and interesting reading concerning health testimonials as to the efficacy of Hostetter's Bitters, amusement, varied information, astronomical calculations and chronological items, &c., which can be depended on for 1879 and can be obtained free of cost, from druggists and general country dealers in all parts of the country.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure for consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive, and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send, free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and using, in German, French, or English. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. W. Sherar, 149 Powers' Block, Rochester, New York. (jan1

A Successful Distribution.

The success attendant upon the recent grand extraordinary distribution of the Louisiana State Lottery, at New Orleans, is still the subject of editorial comment and commendation of the press throughout the country. Generals G. T. Beauregard and Jubal A. Early superintended in person all the operations, and the fairness of these distributions causes many persons to invest who frequently are liberally rewarded for their action. Those who believe the old truism, nothing venture, nothing have, should read the scheme for the 14th of January drawing in another column, and send two dollars to M. A. Dauphin, P. O. Box 692, New Orleans, La., and try their fortune.

A single pail of water in season has saved many a splendid block—one bottle of Adamson's Cough Balsam may save a life if taken in time. It cures coughs, colds, croup, &c.

Croaking is not confined to the Frog Ponds. At this season almost everybody is hoarse. The bleating of distressed lungs is heard everywhere. Why is this, when Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar will cure any cough, cold or hoarseness in 48 hours? Sold by all Druggists. (jan1

The U. S. Signal Service.

Gradually, the wild and ungovernable forces of nature are, through science, made of use to man. Following in the wake of the ingenious inventions for the use of steam and electricity, comes the organization of the U. S. Signal Service. Is it not wonderful that a system could be originated and perfected whereby an operator can accurately predict the weather of a distant locality? And yet experience proves our "storm signals" to be reliable. Equally great are the advances made in the science of medicine. Step by step, uncertainties and doubts have yielded to absolute certainty. The discoveries of Harvey and Jenner have been succeeded by the Golden Medical Discovery of Dr. R. V. Pierce. No longer need people despair because some physician has pronounced the lungs unsound. Hundreds of testimonials are on file in the office of Dr. Pierce from those who had abandoned all hope, and had been given up to die by physicians and friends. Incipient consumption, bronchitis, and scrofulous tumors, speedily, surely, and permanently, yield to the healing influences of the Discovery. If the bowels be constipated, use Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. For full particulars, see Pierce's Memorandum Book, given away by all druggists.

We give the following letter to show the absolute freedom of Devoe's Brilliant Oil from any inflammable vapor, and as a curious incident:

PATERSON, N. J., April 17, 1877.

DEVOE MANUFACTURING CO.

Gentlemen:—I take great pleasure in sending this unsolicited recommendation of your Kerosene Oil.

At the great fire in this place, which destroyed Norwood's Paint and Oil establishment, and other buildings, on the 12th inst., your Oil stood one of most severe tests that Oil could be put to; for four [4] hours the Oil was in the hottest part of the fire, and when free as only Varnish, Turpentine, Oils and Paints can make, and in all that time there was no explosion of your Oil, and the cans containing the Oil were in very near the same condition after the fire as before.

I take great pleasure in recommending this Oil, as in my opinion it is the safest Oil for sale in the market. I remain, very respectfully,

JOHN E. REGNER,
Chief of Fire Department.

THE NEW YORK TIMES

For 1879.

ESTABLISHED 1851.

The position of the foremost republican newspaper in the United States will be sustained by The New York Times by the same policy in virtue of which the position has been attained.

The Times will continue to place fidelity in the interests of the Republican Party above the pursuit of personal aims or private ambition, and will steadfastly insist that the usefulness of any party must be measured by the extent of its devotion to the honor and welfare of the country. In the future, as in the past, the attitude of The Times will be that of independence within the Republican Party. The maintenance of the national credit, the purification of the public service; the advocacy of all serviceable projects of fiscal reform; rigid economy in public expenditures; opposition to subsidies and corporate jobbery in all its forms, and the preservation of equal rights to all citizens, North and South, will be the salient points of the policy of The Times.

The Times will continue to be distinguished as an enterprising, accurate, and carefully edited newspaper. The acknowledged excellence and fulness of its correspondence by mail and telegraph, from all parts of the world, will be adequately maintained, and its facilities for collecting domestic and foreign news will be expanded to meet the increasing demands of our time.

In the sphere of literary and artistic criticism, of social, and general discussion, The Times will address itself, as heretofore, to the appreciation of the educated and intelligent classes of the American people. It will be lively without being sensational, aggressive without being coarse; at all times it will strive to be fearless and independent in the championship of the right. No theories subversive of the principles on which the sacredness of family ties, and the existence of society rest, will be promulgated in its columns.

The Times rejects all advertisements of lotteries, of quacks and medical pretenders, and of all other agencies by which the insidious poison of vice is disseminated throughout society. It will be in the future, as in the past, a newspaper especially adapted for family reading.

The Weekly Times, containing selected editorials on topics of national and general interest from the columns of the daily issue, as well as a concise summary of political, social, and foreign news, besides other features which recommend it to all classes of readers, is a paper admirably fitted to circulate in every portion of the United States. It will be the aim of its conductors to use every means, not only to maintain its well-earned supremacy, but to make its popularity still more decided.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

CONSUMERS should bear in mind that the incomparable "Royal" is now the only Baking Powder in the market made from pure Grape Cream Tartar, imported exclusively for this powder direct from the wine-growing district of France. As old experienced housekeeper writes that, although she has to pay a few cents less more for the "Royal," finds that it goes so much further and works so much better, that it is economy to use it. Another says she uses the powder in puddings, cakes, and all sorts of pastry without eggs. An old lady writes that it makes the only biscuit her dyspeptic husband can eat. This is because the best and most wholesome materials are used. Approved by the New York Board of Health, and by such eminent chemists as Dr. MOTT, New York; Dr. HAYES, Boston; Prof. GENTH, Philadelphia, etc. Sold in tin cans only. dtsept1079

THE CITY.

Christmas. Give somebody something.

To-day being Christmas no paper will be issued from this office to-morrow.

Mr. Benjamin F. Patrick, general passenger agent of the Eastern railroad company, has resigned that position.

About half the people in town are ailing with an epidemic complaint which seems to be a mixture of cold on the lungs, catarrh in the head, sore throat and epizootic. It is a most contemptible ailment.

The Methodist Society had their Christmas tree in their church on Tuesday evening (Christmas eve). There was a Christmas tree at the Children's Home on Court street on the same evening, when numerous suitable presents were given to the little inmates of the Home.

A young man who was skating on the north millpond on Monday, the 23d inst., considerably suprised two young ladies who were in his company. He was skating backward, holding one of the young ladies by each hand, when he suddenly disappeared through an air hole in the ice. Fortunately the water was only up to his shoulders, and he scrambled out without much difficulty, but very wet.

Miss Edith Wendell, assisted by Mrs. Flora E. Barry, contralto, Miss Hattie B. Chester, reader, Mr. Wm. H. Hunt, basso and humorous vocalist, Mr. E. A. Tilton, accompanist, and Reinewald & Taylor's orchestra, will give a concert at Music hall on Thursday evening, Jan. 2d. Tickets to all parts of the house, at thirty-five cents each, are for sale at Preston's, Thacher's, Rundlett's and Goodrich's stores: these tickets can be exchanged at Preston's on and after Monday, Dec. 30th, for reserved seat coupons.

Sagamore Lodge, No. 2 58, Knights of Honor, on the evening of Dec. 23d elected the following officers for the ensuing term: Dictator, Charles H. Marston; Vice Dictator, O. M. Knight; Assistant Dictator, A. M. Lang; Treasurer, George E. Hodgdon; Financial Reporter, Daniel J. Vaughan; Reporter, C. B. Mason; Chaplain, D. L. Randall; Guide, H. D. Marston; Guardian, Charles H. Shaw; Sentinel, T. E. O. Marvin; Trustees, E. G. Pierce, Jr., Washington Freeman, R. H. Perkins; Representative to Grand Lodge, George A. Perkins; Alternate, E. H. Leslie.

The pupils of the High school met their teachers with the kindest of Christmas greetings, Tuesday morning. The upper room was beautifully and tastefully decorated with evergreen, and the teachers' desks well covered with bouquets and sundry packages, whose contents were a mystery to all except the "knowing ones." After devotional exercises, the teachers proceeded to open the packages bearing their respective names. Mr. Clarke's contained a large and beautiful pair of panel pictures, and Miss Bailey's an elegant photograph album marked with her initials. Miss Hooper received a volume of poetry, Miss Magraw a pair of elegant busts, "Clytie" and "Apollo Belvedere," and Miss Giddings a volume of poetry. Each of the teachers received an elegant bouquet, as well as did also Miss Flora Lydston, a graduate of last year, who has been giving her services to the school, and whose work has been so good as to call forth the warmest commendation of all interested.

The Exeter Gazette of a recent date says: "Collector Howard has seized several cases of choice liquors on board the United States steamship Guard. Some of the cases were directed to prominent naval officers." That item appeared in the Boston papers about Dec. 11th, and is incorrect in that there is no United States steamship Guard, that vessel being a sailing craft, and that there was no seizure of liquors on board of her at all. She did bring some cases of choice liquors from South America, but her commander on arriving in Hampton roads notified the Secretary of the Treasury of their presence and their owners' desire to pay duty thereon. The vessel was then ordered to this naval station, and on arriving outside the harbor the captain came up to the city and notified the collector of the presence of the liquor, and was informed by Mr. Howard that a letter of instructions regarding it had been received by him from the Secretary of the Treasury. The cases were transferred to the custom house for storage under the direction of a customs officer, and released when the duties were paid; and there was nothing resembling a "seizure" in the case at all, nor any suspicion of any underhand attempt by the naval officers to cheat the revenue.

THE VICINITY.

Thomas S. Libby's wool-pulling building at Saco was burned on Thursday night of last week. Insured.

The late John T. Gibbs of Dover, the well known newspaper publisher, left most of his property, amounting to about $11,000, to J. B. Page, job printer, and his will is to be contested.

Mr. Joshua Bragdon, of York, recently lost a quite valuable horse by some disease. About a year ago Mr. Bragdon lost another horse; and it is said that his horses always die, though they are always well fed and cared for.

A young couple in North Hampton, who were united in hymeneal bonds on Thanksgiving day, have made the alarming discovery that the knot was illegally tied, the officiating clergyman being a resident of another State. Now they are going to Maine to try it over again.

A young man in Rye received a circular offering him an agency from a lottery jewelry firm in New York, a member of the firm claiming to be a cousin of the young man. On the strength of this claim of relationship he sent $5 for tickets, and now mourns over his gullibility.

Schooner S. H. Pool, of and from Wiscasset, Me., for Saco, with 50,000 feet of lumber, was totally wrecked on Stage island at the mouth of Saco river during the gale of Saturday night. She was anchored under Wood island from Thursday to Saturday evening, when she attempted to work into the Pool, but struck as stated. She registered eighty-two tons, and carried four men, all of whom were saved. Vessel insured.

POLICE COURT.

TUESDAY, Dec. 24; Batchelder, J.

John Burns, for indulging in profanity in the public street, was sent to Brentwood to stop $7.90 worth.

John White and James Brannigan, vagrants, were let off on condition of leaving the city immediately, which they promised to do, having heard of the dose given Nolan the previous day. These "vag" bummers don't want to be sent anywhere for six months, now; what they want is three months in jail or at Brentwood, and to be ordered to pay costs, which would keep them comfortably housed and well fed until about the middle of May, when the weather will be all right for vagabondizing again.

CITY COUNCILS.

A special meeting of the Board of Mayor and Aldermen was held Tuesday forenoon, in reference to the deficiency in the school fund. As the Aldermen have no power without the concurrence of the Common Council to make an appropriation, the Mayor signified his desire to become personally responsible until the new bill is passed, for an amount sufficient to pay the salaries now due of the teachers.

A ROUGH TRIP.

On Wednesday, the 18th inst., the fishing schooner Mary S. Hontvet, Hontvet master, started out on her first trip for the season, to Jaffrey's, thirty miles to the southeast of Whale's-back. Arriving on the fishing ground they set their trawls, thirty-six tubs, which if stretched in a straight line, end to end, would extend a distance of twelve miles or more. Hardly were the trawls down when the indications of a storm became so threatening that the crew commenced to haul their gear, and succeeded in securing twenty-two tubs before night and bad weather compelled them to give up hauling. Capt. Hontvet deemed it advisable to lay at anchor where they were, which they did, riding out the gale of Thursday and Friday. Saturday morning the wind abated, and the crew worked all day to draw the fourteen trawls that remained down, and though the wind again breezed up and the sea was very heavy, they finally saved nearly all their gear, getting ten thousand pounds of fish and losing only about three hundred hooks. At half-past seven o'clock Saturday evening, the wind being then blowing a heavy gale and the snow falling thickly, the schooner filled away for the harbor, making the run in, thirty miles, in two hours and a half. Running up the river, she dropped anchor in the Rollins dock, and though only about twenty feet from the wharf it took the crew two hours to get her properly moored, the wind blowing so heavily they could hardly move her against it. Considering the labor and danger of regaining the trawls in the heavy sea and increasing gale, and the difficulty of navigating a vessel up the river without accident on a dark night and in a blinding snowstorm, Capt. Hontvet has a right to feel a bit proud over the cruise, which throughout was one which required that all hands should possess courage, skill and endurance, and that the skipper should not only be confident of his own ability, but have good reason for that confidence.

THE DINNER

At Mechanics' hall at two o'clock today for the poor children, will be attended by the Mayor, who will preside. Plenty of substantial food will be given the little ones, and at the close of the dinner a pretty chromo will be given each child to carry home as a souvenir of the occasion. It should be understood that this entertainment will not conflict with any charities that may have been intended by any church or Sabbath school organization in the city, as the beneficiaries of this dinner are those who are not connected with the Sunday schools, and are therefore unprovided for in the direction of Christmas rememberances. The response to requests for food have been very prompt and generous, so that the tables will be abundantly supplied. Dr. Goodall will have a band of six pieces of music to accompany the singers of the carols and enliven the scene, which will no doubt add greatly to the enjoyment of the dinner by the little guests.

Services will be held at the South Parish church to-day, at the usual hour of morning worship; sermon by the pastor; all are welcome. The festival for the Sunday school of the South Parish will be held at Franklin hall this evening at half-past six o'clock. All the members of the Parish are admitted without tickets. Refreshments may be sent to the hall any time during the day.

DIED.

DIXON. In this city, Dec. 19th, Mr. Charles E. Dixon, aged 47 years.

HAVING REMOVED to the new and spacious store No. 6 Pleasant street, near Post Office, and intending to keep a larger assortment of goods in my line, including Artists' Materials, I have deemed it advisable to give my whole attention to business in the store, and have secured the services of Mr. CHAS. R. SARGENT, a Competent and Reliable Tuner, who has been connected for the last ten years with prominent Music Houses in Boston and other places. I would therefore give notice that all orders for Tuning and Repairing Pianos, left at my store, will be promptly and faithfully attended to on the first of each month by Mr. Sargent, and perfect satisfaction guaranteed.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.
GREAT THROUGH LINE
AND
UNITED STATES MAIL ROUTE
The attention of the travelling public is respectfully invited to some of the merits of this great highway, in the confident assertion and belief that no other line can offer equal inducements as a route of through travel. In
Construction AND Equipment
THE
PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD
stands confessedly at the head of American railways. The track is double the entire length of the line, of steel rails laid on heavy oak ties, which are embedded in a foundation of rock ballast eighteen inches in depth. All bridges are of iron or stone, and built upon the most approved plans. Its passenger cars, while unlikely safe and substantial, are at the same time models of comfort and elegance.
The Safety Appliances
in use on this line well illustrates the far-seeing and liberal policy of its management, in accordance with which the utility only of an improvement and not its cost has been the question of consideration. Among many may be noticed
THE BLOCK SYSTEM OF SAFETY SIGNALS,
JANNEY COUPLER, BUFFER AND PLATFORM,
THE WHARTON PATENT SWITCH,
AND THE
WESTINGHOUSE AIR-BRAKE,
forming in conjunction with a perfect double track and road-bed, a combination of safeguards against accidents which have rendered them practically impossible.

OF THE

ANTI-FAT

ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT is the great remedy for Corpulency. It is purely vegetable and perfectly harmless. It acts on the food in the stomach, preventing its conversion into fat. Taken according to directions, it will reduce a fat person from 8 to 15 pounds per month.
In placing this remedy before the public as a positive cure for obesity, we do so knowing its ability to cure, as attested by hundreds of testimonials, of which the following from a lady in Columbus, Ohio, is a sample: "Gentlemen—Your Anti-Fat was duly received. I took it according to directions and it reduced me five pounds. I was advised over the result that I immediately sent to ACKERMAN'S drug-store for the second bottle." Another, a physician, writing for a patient from Providence, R. I., says: "Your last order have reduced her weight from 190 pounds to 135 pounds, and there is a general improvement in health." A gentleman writing from Boston, says: "Without special change or attention to diet, two bottles of Allan's Anti-Fat reduced my weight nine entire pounds." The well-known Wholesale Druggists, SMITH, DOOLITTLE & SMITH, of Boston, Mass., write as follows: "Allan's Anti-Fat has reduced a lady in our city seven pounds in three weeks." A gentleman in St. Louis writes: "Allan's Anti-Fat reduced me twelve pounds in three weeks, and whatever I have lost recently has gained since commencing its use." Messrs. POWERS & FLETCHER, Wholesale Druggists, of Buffalo, N. Y., write: TO THE PROPRIETORS OF ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT: Gentlemen.—The following report is from the lady who used Allan's Anti-Fat. "It (the Anti-Fat) had the desired effect, reducing the fat from two to five pounds a week until I had lost twenty-five pounds. I hope never to regain what I have lost." Anti-Fat is an unexcelled blood-purifier. It promotes digestion, curing dyspepsia, and is also a potent remedy for rheumatism. Sold by druggists. Pamphlet on Obesity sent on receipt of stamp.
BOTANIC MEDICINE CO., PROP'RS, Buffalo, N.Y.

WOMAN

By an immense practice at the World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, having treated many thousand cases of those diseases peculiar to woman, I have been enabled to perfect a most potent and positive remedy for those diseases.
To designate this natural specific, I have named it
Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription
The term, however, is but a feeble expression of its peculiar virtues, as it imparts unbounded personal observation. I have, while witnessing its positive results in the special diseases incident to the organism of woman, singled it out as the climax or crowning gem of my medical practice, as the most positive, safe, and effectual remedy for this class of diseases, and one that will, at all times and under all circumstances, act kindly, I am willing to stake my reputation as a physician, and so confident am I that it will not disappoint the most sanguine expectations of a single invalid lady who uses it for any of the diseases for which I recommend it, I offer and sell it under A POSITIVE GUARANTEE (For conditions, see pamphlet wrapping bottle.)
The following are among those diseases in which my Favorite Prescription has worked cures, as if by magic, and with a certainty never before attained by any medicine: Leucorrhœa, Excessive Flowing, Painful Monthly Periods, Suppression when from unnatural causes, Irregularities, Weak Back, Prolapsus, or Falling of the Uterus, Anteversion and Retroversion, Bearing-down Sensations, Internal Heat, Nervous Depression, Debility, Despondency, Threatened Miscarriage, Chronic Congestion, Inflammation and Ulceration of the Uterus, Impotency, Barrenness, or Sterility, and Female Weakness. I do not extol this medicine as a "cure-all," but it admirably fulfils a single class of purposes, being a most perfect specific in all chronic diseases of the sexual system of woman. It will not disappoint, nor will it do harm, in any state or condition.
Those who desire further information on these subjects can obtain it in THE PEOPLE'S COMMON SENSE MEDICAL ADVISER, a book of 1000 pages, sent, post-paid, on receipt of $1.50. It treats minutely of those diseases peculiar to Females, and gives many valuable advices. Address, as above, the management of those affections.
Favorite Prescription sold by Druggists.

New Hampshire Items.

The General Laws of New Hampshire, being a revision of the laws of the State under a commission consisting of Messrs. J. E. Sargent, L. W. Barton and Joseph F. Wiggin, have appeared in the shape of a book of eight hundred pages, printed by John B. Clark, State Printer. The copyright has been disposed of to Josiah B. Sanborn of Concord, after a thousand copies have been issued for the use of the State. The commission have devoted much time in the preparation of the index, the marginal notes, headings, etc. This book comes at a season that will enable every one who has anything to do with the law to turn over a new leaf on New Year's day.

Ex-Gov. E. A. Straw has tendered her resignation as clerk and agent of the Amoskeag Manufacturing Company of Manchester, which position he has held for more than twenty-five years. Gov. Straw has been intimately associated with the growth and prosperity not only of the Amoskeag Company but of the city, and his retirement will be a source of deep regret to the entire community.

Mrs. Catherine Fulton of Hillsboro was smothered to death Tuesday morning, Dec. 24th. Smoke was seen issuing from her house at an early hour, and two men forcing an entrance found her unconscious in her bed. From the appearance of the room it was evident that the bed had accidentally taken fire, and it is probable that Mrs. Fulton supposed that she had extinguished it, but the woollen bedding continued smoking.

Mrs. Eunice Davis of Rumney recently left two small children alone in a room for a few minutes, during which the younger, three years old, fell into the fire and was burned so badly that death ensued in a few hours.

Miss Eliza Smith of Laconia, who died recently, left a bequest of $3000 to the Unitarian society of that town.

A child of Peter Douglass of Goffstown, five years old, fell into a tub of boiling water recently and was so badly scalded that it died the next day.

At a town meeting held in Lancaster it was voted by a large majority to exempt from taxation for five years any hotel that might be built, costing not less than $10,000.

Something for the New Year.

The world renowned success of Hostetter's Bitters, and their continued popularity for a quarter of a century as a stomachic, is scarcely more wonderful than the welcome that greets the annual appearance of Hostetter's Almanac. This valuable medical treatise is published by Hostetter & Smith, Pittsburgh, Pa., under their own immediate supervision, employing 80 hands in that department. Ten cylinder printing presses, 8 folding machines, 3 job presses, &c., are running about eleven months in the year on this work, and the issue of same for 1879 will not be less than ten millions, printed in the English, German, French, Welch, Norwegian, Swedish, Holland, Bohemian and Spanish languages. Refer to a copy of it for valuable and interesting reading concerning health testimonials as to the efficacy of Hostetter's Bitters, amusement, varied information, astronomical calculations and chronological items, &c., which can be depended on for 1879 and can be obtained free of cost, from druggists and general country dealers in all parts of the country.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure for consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive, and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send, free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and using, in German, French, or English. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. W. Sherar, 149 Powers' Block, Rochester, New York. tjan1

A single pail of water in season has saved many a splendid block—one bottle of Adamson's Cough Balsam may save a life if taken in time. It cures coughs, colds, croup, &c.

Croaking is not confined to the Frog Ponds. At this season almost everybody is hoarse. The bleating of distressed lungs is heard everywhere. Why is this, when Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar will cure any cough, cold or hoarseness in 48 hours? Sold by all Druggists. tjan1

Its swift operation, the ease with which it is applied, the remarkable naturalness of the browns and blacks it imparts, its exemption from all unpleasant odor or caustic ingredients, and its general effect on the hair and skin, are the good and sufficient causes of its unprecedented popularity. Portsmouth Chronicle

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 27, 1878.

The Louisiana Bulldozers.

The advices from Louisiana indicate that the whole machinery of the State courts is being prostituted to the protection of those democrats who before the election showed their zeal for "the good of the party" by murdering or driving off republicans. A late despatch from New Orleans says that Hornsbury, who testified before the United States grand jury as to his being warned away from his home in Nachitoches before the election by orders of the Democratic Central Committee, has been arrested by order of a District Court to await an order from the State authorities for removal to Nachitoches, and is refused bail by the State Judge.

The democratic New Orleans Picayune says that in West Feliciana parish, a few days ago, a negro named Cole disappeared, and subsequently the headless body of the negro was found in a cistern. No developments were made at the inquest respecting the parties who committed the deed. This Cole was a prominent colored republican, and since the election had spoken with very indiscreet plainness concerning the violence and fraud of the democratic leaders.

The democratic New Orleans Times says that witnesses are coming every day from the parishes to lay before the grand jury the story of their grievances. United States Deputy Marshal V. A. Barrow, J. Earnest Breda, and his brother, a physician, A. P. Breda, who are residents of Natchitoches, have arrived in the city. They say they were ordered to leave, and did leave Natchitoches, on the 22d of September last; that the Mayor of Natchitoches, an uncle of J. Earnest Breda, came to them and asked them to surrender; they refused. They were then given two hours to leave the town, being told that unless they went their dwelling would be attacked by 400 or 500 men, and they would not be spared. They concluded to leave, and have not been back to Natchitoches since. Mr. Breda is a native of the parish of Natchitoches.

News and Notes.

The arrest of Mail Agent Chester W. Searles for adultery with Mrs. Stephen W. Palmer, a Richford, Vt., milliner, the woman charging the crime upon Mr. Searles, is generally considered a blackmailing scheme on her part and that of her husband, Mr. Palmer having attempted to frighten Mr. Searles into a money settlement before the charge was publicly brought.

Capt. James Eads, of Mississippi jetties fame, has been indicted by the grand jury at St. Louis on a charge of dishonesty as a director of the wrecked Bank of Missouri. The bank holds notes of its former directors to the amount of $1,860,000, none of which can be realized.

Michael Bockley, aged fifty years, of Newburyport, was drowned in the Merrimack Tuesday night, Dec. 24th, while intoxicated. The body was found Wednesday. Deceased had been a section hand in the Bartlett mills for twenty years, and leaves a wife and several children.

The Globe Theatre of Boston has passed into the possession of the owners of the land upon which it is built. It will be leased in the course of a few weeks.

A bill will be introduced in Congress after the recess to increase the value of the standard silver dollar, and make it exchangeable for gold coin, etc. It provides that a silver dollar of the United States shall contain 480 grains, 900 fine, and be impressed with the same devices and legends as the trade-dollar heretofore coined, except that the word "one" shall be substituted for the word "trade," and the figures "480" for "420."

The steamship State of Louisiana, from Glasgow for New York, ran ashore on Dec. 23d while entering Lough Loree on the Irish coast. Passengers and crew saved; vessel a total wreck.

Stephen D. Richards, arrested for the murder of Mrs. Harelson and her three children in Kearney county, Nebraska, confesses to having murdered nine persons in the past three years.

Schooner New Dominion, from Three Sisters, N. S., for St. John, N. B., with a crew of four men and forty passengers, is missing.

At Macon, Texas, Tom Doran and Louis Temple fought with pistols. Doran killed Temple. The latter's father pursued Doran, shooting him twice fatally, then stabbed the body eleven times, and cut the throat from ear to ear.

Four horse-thieves were lynched at Corsing, Arkansas, Dec. 23d.

At Marshall, Texas, a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree has been returned against Abe Rothschild for killing his mistress, Bessie Moore, at a hotel about a year ago. The young woman was coaxed away from her husband in a northern State by Rothschild, who murdered her when he got tired of her.

George H. Brown met John H. Jenks on the street in Pawtucket, R. I., Christmas day, and after bidding him a good morning drew a revolver and fired twice. Brown was provoked to the murder by the discovery of criminal intimacy between his wife and Jenks, which the woman had confessed. Both were young, neither being thirty years old.

The irrepressible conflict between the school-mistress and the big boy has broken out for the season of 1878-9 at Standbridge, Quebec, where he attacked her with a clasp knife and she had to fly for her life. The school-mistress at Walden, Vt., practices revolver shooting at recess.

A woman got drunk while cooking at Portsmouth, Va., and fell head foremost into a tub of water near the stove. Her head was drowned and the remainder of her burned to death, her clothes taking fire.

A resident of Vinton, Ia., returned for several years his property for assessment at from $6000 to $7000. Now he is dead, and his administrator swears that the estate is worth $110,000, so the county brings suit for $24,250 back taxes.

The Thomaston, Me., Herald relates a case of attempted poisoning at Tenant's Harbor. Caddie Wall, a fifteen years old girl, conceived a girlish affection for a young man who did not reciprocate, but preferred Caddie's cousin. Meeting her cousin at a party the jealous Caddie gave her a dose of sugar of lead for candy. The girl will not die, however.

Extreme cold and very heavy snows were reported in the region of the great lakes and the northwest, on Christmas and the previous day. The cities were almost, and many of the railroads quite, blockaded with snow, from the Hudson to the Mississippi. St. Louis was frozen up, and the river covered with ice a foot thick.

The U. S. Signal Service.

Gradually, the wild and ungovernable forces of nature are, through science, made of use to man. Following in the wake of the ingenious inventions for the use of steam and electricity, comes the organization of the U. S. Signal Service. Is it not wonderful that a system could be originated and perfected whereby an operator can accurately predict the weather of a distant locality? And yet experience proves our "storm signals" to be reliable. Equally great are the advances made in the science of medicine. Step by step, uncertainties and doubts have yielded to absolute certainty. The discoveries of Harvey and Jamer have been succeeded by the Golden Medical Discovery of Dr. R. V. Pierce. No longer need people despair because some physician has pronounced the lungs unsound. Hundreds of testimonials are on file in the office of Dr. Pierce from those who had abandoned all hope, and had been given up to die by physicians and friends. Incipient consumption, bronchitis, and scrofulous tumors, speedily, surely, and permanently, yield to the healing influences of the Discovery. If the bowels be constipated, use Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. For full particulars, see Pierce's Memorandum Book, given away by all druggists.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

CONSUMERS should bear in mind that the incomparable "Royal" is now the only Baking Powder in the market made from pure Grape Cream Tartar, imported exclusively for this powder direct from the wine-growing district of France. An old experienced housekeeper writes that, although she has to pay a few cents more for the "Royal," finds that it goes so much further and works so much better, that it is economy to use it. Another says she uses the powder in puddings, cakes, and all sorts of pastry, without eggs. An old lady writes that it makes the only biscuit her dyspeptic husband can eat. This is because the best and most wholesome materials are used. Approved by the New York Board of Health, and by such eminent chemists as Dr. MOTT, New York; Dr. HAYES, Boston; Prof. GENTH, Philadelphia, etc. Sold in tin cans only.

THE CITY.

On account of the annual meeting of Portsmouth Grange occurring on Christmas, the election of officers was postponed to Tuesday evening, Dec. 31st.

The big doll which for a week before Christmas attracted so much attention in the window of Stackpole's store on Market street was drawn on Christmas eve by Mrs. Wm. Shutelworth. Each purchaser of a dollar's worth of goods received a ticket in the drawing.

At about half-past two o'clock, Thursday afternoon, fire was discovered in the upper story of the oakum house at the navy yard; there was some excitement, but the burning bundles were pitched out of the windows in a hurry, and the fire was extinguished without any serious damage being done.

The Boston Post, commenting on Comanche George's sales in this city and vicinity of "tualooloo" seeds, asks, "what's in a name?" The Post probably thinks a turnip-beet by any other name would taste as good; but then it don't consider the great difference in price occasioned by the change of name of the seed.

To-night, in Music hall, the Boston Museum Company will give the dramatic entertainment of the season. "Partners for life" and "The inquisitive darkey" will be presented. A few reserved seat tickets, at 75 and 50 cents for the evening, may still be secured at Preston's; admission tickets will be for sale at the office of the hall, at 35 cents each.

A brilliant private party was given on Monday evening of this week at Miss Morgan's school, by Miss Wadleigh, a young lady from the South who is a pupil there. The floral decorations, furnished by Mrs. S. E. Pearson, were pronounced by those who saw them to be superior in beauty and tasteful arrangement to anything in that line ever before seen in this city.

Miss May Belle Sherman, of Portland, on Tuesday, 24th, undertook to walk fifty miles inside of eleven hours—said to be one hour less than the same distance was ever walked in by any lady in the world—and did it, too. She completed the distance in ten hours and fifty-two minutes from the start, having rested one hour and thirty-seven minutes, leaving her actual walking time nine hours and fifteen minutes. This remarkable feat was performed in Franklin hall, in this city.

We return thanks to the friend who sends us a diminutive envelope containing a pellet of beet-seed divided into six pieces, and endorsed "Tulula, N. M." This package we are informed was purchased of "Comanche George," and we presume the "N. M." stands for New Mexico. At the time we wrote our "Tualooloo" item we were ignorant of the correct Texan method of spelling beet-seed. By the way, it is a remarkable fact that not a single person can be found in the city who purchased any of this seed from Comanche George.

On Thursday forenoon a horse standing in the shafts of a job-wagon near the North church slipped and fell, creating quite an excitement. He evidently thought that if he got up he might fall down again, while if he laid still he was in no danger of falling, so he wouldn't get up. Men pulled his tail and lifted on his head, but he would only rise as far as he was raised, and as soon as the men let him go he comfortably nestled himself down on the frozen ground again. At last he was pried into an upright position with skids, and trotted off all right.

THE VICINITY.

George F. Farrar, who keeps a fish market in Rochester, was knocked down and robbed of $70 or $80 on Christmas evening by some unknown person. Mr. Farrer was on the street, and some one came up behind him and struck him on the head with a club. He was unable to sit up on Thursday.

Mrs. David Fogg was burned to death in her house at North Hampton on Christmas day. Her husband was in the barn, and hearing her scream for help, rushed in and found her completely enveloped in flames, her clothing having caught from the stove. She lived only a short time. Mrs. Fogg was seventy-three years of age.

From residents in the vicinity of Wells comes a report that a boat containing the dead body of a man, evidently a sailor, was picked up between Bald Head Cliff and Wells beach on Wednesday, Dec. 25th. The man, who was short in stature, was evidently frozen to death and had probably been dead some time. Only one oar was found in the boat.

The dead body of an unknown man was found in Woburn, Mass., Christmas day, in a swamp some distance from the road, frozen into the mud, and evidently there for a very long time. It is believed to be the body of a man named Thyng, of Exeter, who has been missing since a year ago last October, at which time he hired a barn in Woburn for the storage of sumac which he intended gathering in the swamps.

CHRISTMAS.

The prisoners at the jail were furnished with a good dinner of chicken, pudding, etc., by Sheriff Kent, and were allowed tobacco after it.

A lot of young fellows on the north millpond indulged in some rare sport, beating each other with clubs; several of their number had their heads cut or their noses swelled up, or both; one had his cheek laid open by a kick from a skate while he was prostrate on the ice, he having been knocked over by a crack on the crown from a club; and one had to be carried home, having been disabled by a heavy blow across the small of the back. The querest part of it all, as the story is told us, is that the young men were neither drunken nor angry.

The Christmas festival of the South Parish Sunday school was held in Franklin hall on the evening of Christmas day; and that of the Sunday school of the St. John's church at the same place on Thursday evening.

THE CHRISTMAS DINNER

For the poor children in Mechanics' hall was a very pleasant occasion. Ninety-eight sat down to the tables, and the same number evidently went away satisfied. Forty children were by reason of colds and sickness prevented from coming, but were served on the following day with the same amount of food as would have fallen to their share had they been present at the tables. There were no tedious ceremonies to tax the patience of the little ones and cause them to be restless and ill-behaved, and so the conduct of every child was exceptionally good and worthy of remark. The public was very generous, every one who contributed doing so without waiting for personal solicitation. The following list includes (we believe) all who aided the affair by donations of money or food:

Mrs. Gov. Goodwin, Mrs. Dr. Preston, Mrs. M. H. Wentworth, Mrs. Peter Jenness, Mrs. A. L. Jones, Mrs. J. J. Pickering, Mrs. A. W. Haven, Mrs. L. Perkins, Mrs. J. G. Harvey, Mrs. C. M. Blatchford, Mrs. N. F. Mathes, Mrs. C. W. Brewster, Mrs. Isaac Dow, Miss Pearson, Miss Hannah Cutts, Miss Etta Conn, Miss Sarah Foster, Miss Lydia Nutter, Wm. Simes, T. E. O. Marvin, C. W. Gardner, C. E. Myers, John H. Slater, Dr. Goodall, Josiah G. Hadley, John S. Rand, W. L. Philbrick, Albert Shedd, W. H. Sise, Lamprey children, J. H. Bowles, Henry A. Yeaton, S. W. Cole, Moses Brothers, C. H. Hayes & Son, E. D. Coffin, City Farm, John Johnson, C. H. Jey, John E. Roberts, J. Horace Kent, John T. French.

Several ladies volunteered to cook whatever raw food might be sent, and the following are those who helped in that direction:

Mrs. A. J. Beck, Mrs. Lear, Mrs. Dow, Mrs. Burgess, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Watts, Mrs. Neil, Mrs. Pierce.

Mr. W. K. Pierce lent very valuable assistance in the kitchen department as a carver of the meats.

Messrs. John S. Treat, John Johnson and Dearborn & Magee kindly loaned their several teams for the collection and distribution of food.

It may possibly interest the reader to know what kind and amount of food was appropriated, and we therefore subjoin a list:

Five turkeys, seven chickens, three hams, two spareribs, three pieces roast beef, three bushels apples, one bushel and a half of corn made into corn balls, nine pounds butter, one piece roast mutton, 12 pounds corned beef, 53 pies, 46 loaves bread, pudding, 300 buns, 43 tarts, 133 oranges, half-peck cranberries with sugar, four cans milk and a lot of assorted candy.

Miss Fannie Mathes presided over the table-waiting department, being assisted by sixteen young and affable lady waitresses, while Mrs. Joseph G. Harvey, with eight female assistants, superintended the the cook-room, or, more properly, the kitchen.

At the conclusion of the dinner, Dr. Goodall with a quartette of singers gave two carols, which pleased the children very much, after which their pleasure was heightened by the presentation to each child of a pretty chromo, the contribution of an estimable and philanthropic lady.

The invitation given to the public to drop in and witness the novel spectacle of 100 hungry children at dinner, was responded to by a goodly number. Nearly all the ministers of the churches were present, and quite a number of citizens, including Col. Thomas E. O. Marvin.

The Treasurer acknowledges the additional sum of three dollars, making the net cash receipts $34.50. Some of this is still unused, but will be devoted to the supplying of necessary articles of comfort from time to time to these same poor children, and there is nothing at present to lead us to think that our resources will be greater than our needs in this direction.

MUSIC HALL.

We learn that the rear portion of the orchestra in Music hall is to be taken out, and also the front row of seats in the parquette; and before the opera in the Rockingham Course of Entertainments is given the orchestra will be widened and lengthened that it may accomodate a larger number of orchestral performers, and the rear will be so constructed that the concourse of sweet sounds will be better heard in the auditorium.

A superb square grand piano from the celebrated establishment of Henry F. Miller, No. 611 Washington street, Boston, has been purchased by Capt. Frank W. Hilton, and will be kept in Music hall ready for use in concerts, etc. The instrument will be under the constant charge of a competent pianist, and being in the hall ready for use will prove an additional convenience to this well appointed place of amusement.

WINTER FISHING.

We have already given an account of the trip of the fishing schooner Mary S. Montvet to Jaffrey's bank from this port on the 8th of December, and its result. Another vessel that left the same day for the same grounds was the Velocipede, Capt. Thomas Jamieson, which arrived out at about the same time as the Mary S. Montvet. After getting their trawls stretched the wind came on to blow from the northwest, and efforts were made by the Velocipede's crew to recover their gear; but after getting in about one-eight of it the gale had so freshened that they were obliged to cut and pull for the schooner. The vessel laid at anchor throughout Wednesday night, but on Thursday morning she broke adrift, when sail was put on her and effort made to beat into the harbor, which was accomplished after forty-eight hours hard work, the crew suffering intensely from cold and exposure. Soon after making sail the jib-stay and jib were carried away; the foresail was then reefed, and the foremast secured as well as possible under the circumstances, but soon after this the foresail was split and the head of the foremast sprung under the eyes of the rigging; and to add to the trouble a sea broke loose the chain-box, which was lashed on deck, and driving it over the lee side carried away a pipe which left a hole eight inches in diameter exposed for the water to rush into, which at one time threatened to sink the vessel. The schooner arrived in the lower harbor late Friday night, with her crew completely exhausted. Capt. Jamieson has concluded to lay up for the rest of the winter, as it is too late to refit, and the damage to the vessel would necessitate a larger outlay than the probable success of the winter fishery would warrant. The loss of gear, amounting to about 20,000 hooks, falls heavily on the captain and crew, who are an industrious set of men.

CITY COUNCILS.

In the Board of Mayor and Aldermen, Thursday evening:

The hearing on the proposed new highway from Banfield road to the house of Edward W. Clough occupied nearly the whole of the evening, Mr. Harriman appearing for the petitioner and Mr. Hatch for the Eastern railroad company. The matter was postponed for a week.

A message was received from the Common Council that they had passed an ordinance by a two-thirds vote under suspension of the rules, authorizing the Mayor to negotiate a temporary loan of not more than $2500 for the support of the public schools. The ordinance was passed by the Board of Mayor and Aldermen.

Notice was given of a claim by Thomas Quinn for damages on account of injuries received from a fall on the sidewalk.

Bill of the Chief Engineer and Fire Department were ordered to be paid.

EXAMINATION OF TEACHERS.

Eleven young ladies presented themselves on Thursday morning at the High school building, for examination for positions as teachers in our public schools. They registered in the following order: Carrie A. Craig, Nellie G. Ham, Emma L. Hayes, Lizzie M. Flagg, Clara E. Whidden, Flora Lydston, Ida F. Blaisdell, Annie L. Ricker, Mary A. Moulton, Helen E. Mitchell, Hannah B. Pray.

Printed questions were submitted in arithmetic, grammar, geography, history, physiology, and in the theory and practise of schools. The examination was conducted under the direction of the committee on examination of teachers from the Board of Instruction, who took the written answers, and after a revision will report the names of applicants subject to future appointments, as vacancies may from time to time occur.

A COUNTER MOVE.

The old policy holders in the Mutual Life Insurance Company, of New York, have prepared a protest against the new departure of this company in allowing a rebate of thirty per cent. upon new business for the first two years. It has been largely signed in other places, and a copy of the paper is at the office of William H. Hackett, in this city, where such of the members of the company, (whom a learned Judge once put it, "facetiously denominated the assured,) as disapprove the plan inaugurated by the directors are invited to call this week and sign it.

TURNED UP AGAIN.

Some time ago a drunken fellow in Dover attempted to cross the street near the New Hampshire house when a number of teams were passing, and managed to blunder directly in front of a team driven by Mr. Wm. Chandler of this city. The result was that the drunken fellow was first knocked down and then picked up by Mr. Chandler, who though in no wise to blame for the accident procured a physician and cared for the man at his own expense. The fellow on getting sober gave the name of a respected citizen of Kittery Point—much to the latter's disgust—and left for parts unknown. Recently Mr. David E. D. Frost, of Dover, who was keeping a sort of a general lookout over the house and property of some relatives in Rollinsford who had gone away on a visit, on looking into the house one morning found that somebody had been there since he had been gone, killed, dressed and cooked chickens in the house, and occupied one of the beds. Procuring a revolver Mr. Frost laid low for the unknown visitor, who before morning opened a window and proceeded to crawl in, but was saluted by a shot from the revolver, which caused him to tumble back out of the window and run off in the darkness, making a terrible bellowing. A day or two later a fellow who had run away from the York or Eliot poor farm turned up again, with a bullet wound through one of his arms. He was interviewed, and it came out that he was the fellow who got in the way of Mr. Frost's revolver, and also that he was the same fellow who was run over by the Portsmouth team before referred to, and who excited so much sympathy and received such considerable material aid at that time.

PATERSON, N. J., April 17, 1877.
DEVOE MANUFACTURING CO.
Gentlemen:—I take great pleasure in sending this unsolicited recommendation of your Kerosene Oil.
At the great fire in this place, which destroyed Norwood's Paint and Oil establishment, and other buildings, on the 13th inst., your Oil stood one of most severe tests that Oil could be put to; for four [4] hours the Oil was in the hottest part of the fire, and such a fire as only Varnish, Turpentine, Oils and Paints can make, and in all that time there was no explosion of your Oil, and the cans containing the Oil were in very near the same condition after the fire as before.
I take great pleasure in recommending this Oil, as in my opinion it is the safest Oil for sale in the market. I remain, very respectfully,
JOHN E. REGNER,
Chief of Fire Department.

Naval Matters.

Admiral Hoff died in Washington Dec. 24th, at the residence of his son, Lieut.-Commander Hoff, of congestion of the brain. He was 69 years of age. His widow is the youngest daughter of the late Commodore Bainbridge.

The U. S. S. Ticonderoga, Commo. Shufeldt, arrived at Madeira Dec. 25th.

The following is the text of the bill introduced into Congress by Mr. Leopold Morse, fixing the relative rank of civil engineers of the navy: "That on and after the passage of this act the civil engineers of the United States navy shall have the following relative rank: Two, that of captain; three that of commander; and the rest that of lieutenant commander."

An official at the Maine State House, who saw a couple of suspicious characters peering into the windows of an Augusta bank the other day, and hanging about the door, called a policeman and told him to watch the men, as he was morally certain they were bank robbers. The suspected parties proved to be Ex-Gov. Sprague of Rhode Island, and his agent.

Ezra Wilson, a confectioner of Boston, sixty years old, on the night of Dec. 24th shot his wife dead in his store, and then committed suicide, the dead bodies being found Christmas morning. The woman was Wilson's second wife; they had been married but about five months, and had been living apart for two months of that time.

—A man in Hartford has been annoyed by tramps for several months past. The other day he had a ton of coal dumped in his front yard, and since then not a single vagrant has appeared for a meal.

THE
PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD
stands confessedly at the head of American railways. The track is double the entire length of the line, of steel rails laid on heavy oak ties, which are embedded in a foundation of rock ballast eighteen inches in depth. All bridges are of iron or stone, and built upon the most approved plans. Its passenger cars, while eminently safe and substantial, are at the same time models of comfort and elegance.
The Safety Appliances
in use on this line well illustrates the far-seeing and liberal policy of its management, in accordance with which the utility only of an improvement and not its cost has been the question of consideration. Among many may be noticed
THE BLOCK SYSTEM OF SAFETY SIGNALS,
JANNEY COUPLER, BUFFER AND PLATFORM,
THE WHARTON PATENT SWITCH,
AND THE
WESTINGHOUSE AIR-BRAKE,
forming in conjunction with a perfect double track and ballasted construction of safeguards against accidents which have rendered them practically impossible.

ANTI-FAT

ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT is the great remedy for Corpulency. It is purely vegetable and perfectly harmless. It acts on the food in the stomach, preventing its conversion into fat. Takes according to directions, it will reduce a fat person from 8 to 5 pounds a week. In placing this remedy before the public it is a positive cure for obesity, we do so knowing its ability to cure, as attested by hundreds of testimonials, of which the following from a lady in Columbus, Ohio, is a sample: "Gentlemen—Your Anti-Fat was duly received. I took it according to directions and it reduced me five pounds. I was so elated over the result that I immediately sent to ACKERMAN'S drug-store for the second bottle." Another, a physician, writing for a patient from Providence, R. I., says: "Four bottles have reduced her weight from 199 pounds to 152 pounds, and there is a general improvement in health." A gentleman writing from Boston, says: "Without special change or attention to diet, two bottles of Allan's Anti-Fat reduced me four and one-quarter pounds." The well-known Wholesale Druggists, SMITH, DOCLITTLE & SMITH, of Boston, Mass., write as follows: "Allan's Anti-Fat has reduced a lady in our city seven pounds in three weeks." A gentleman in St. Louis writes: "Allan's Anti-Fat reduced me twelve pounds in three weeks, and altogether I have lost twenty-five pounds since commencing its use." Messrs. FORSELL & PLIMPTON, Wholesale Druggists, of Buffalo, N. Y., write TO THE PROPRIETORS OF ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT: Gentlemen—The following report is from a lady who used Allan's Anti-Fat. "It (the Anti-Fat) had the desired effect, reducing the fat from two to five pounds a week until I had lost twenty-five pounds. I hope never to regain what I have lost." Anti-Fat is an unexcelled blood-purifier. It promotes digestion, curing dyspepsia, and is also a potent remedy for rheumatism. Sold by druggists. Pamphlet on Obesity sent on receipt of stamp.
BOTANIC MEDICINE CO., PROP'RS, Buffalo, N.Y.

WOMAN
By an immense practice at the World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, having treated many thousand cases of those diseases peculiar to woman, I have been enabled to perfect a most potent and positive remedy for these diseases.
To designate this natural specific, I have named it
Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription
The term, however, is but a feeble expression of my high appreciation of its value, based upon personal observation. I have, while witnessing its positive results in the special diseases peculiar to the organism of woman, singled it out as the climax or crowning gem of my medical career. On its merits as a positive, safe, and effectual remedy for this class of diseases, and on that with all times and under all circumstances, act kindly, I am willing to stake my reputation as a physician; and am so confident and I that it will not disappoint the most sanguine expectations as a single invalid has yet known, I offer any of the ailments for which I recommend it, that I offer and sell it under A POSITIVE GUARANTEE. (For conditions, see pamphlet wrapping bottle.)
The following are among those diseases in which my Favorite Prescription has worked cures, as if by magic, and with a certainty never before attained by any medicine: Leucorrhœa, Excessive Flowing, Painful Monthly Periods, Suppressions when from unnatural causes, Irregularities, Weak Back, Prolapsus, or Falling of the Uterus, Anteversion and Retroversion, Bearing-down Sensations, Internal Heat, Nervous Depression, Debility, Dependency, Threatened Miscarriage, Chronic Congestion, Inflammation and Ulceration of the Uterus, Impotency, Barrenness, or Sterility, and Female Weakness. I do not extol this medicine as a "cure-all," but it admirably fulfills a singleness of purpose, being a most perfect specific in all chronic diseases of the sexual system of woman. It will not disappoint, nor will it do harm, in any state or condition.
Those who desire further information on these subjects can obtain it in THE PEOPLE'S COMMON SENSE Medical Adviser, a book of 1008 pages, sent, post-paid, on receipt of $1.50. It treats minutely of those diseases peculiar to females, and gives much valuable advice in regard to the management of those affections.
Favorite Prescription sold by Druggists.

Chronicle Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 24th.

The recess finds Washington pretty spare in members of Congress, although not in politicians and expectant office seekers. The number of persons about the Capital having no visible means of support, and yet dressing well and living highly is wonderful to behold. But the present Christmas holiday season, I think, will test the adhesiveness of many of the old stagers, for there is a very apparent decline in the luxuriousness that characterized this class in former years. Leading politicians and statesmen have discovered that they are of no use, and the jobbers are not as liberal towards them as they used to be. It may be one of the compensations of these hard times that a very useless and exclusively ornamental class of hummers can be squeezed out of the public view.

Three very important subjects, which it was hoped might be disposed of before the holidays, have been put over for early consideration in January, namely, the Geneva award bill, the Edmunds electoral bill, and the Texas Pacific railroad bill. The first mentioned is in a condition which promises only a long and acrimonious debate, the differences arising from the claims of the insurance companies and the individual losers by the Confederate cruisers; and nobody dare to predict its fate. The second has passed the Senate but will be subjected to great opposition in the House, and many predict its defeat through the inability of the two Houses to agree. The Texas Pacific bill, which has been shorn of all appearance or reality of a subsidy, and calls only for the limited guarantee of interest on the construction bonds, and demands of the company the amplest security for this guarantee, will come to a vote in the Senate early in January. The bill has gained many friends in an unexpected quarter lately, from the fact that the trans-continental trade has been so hampered and oppressed by the present monopoly as to demand a competing line; and the managers of the Texas Pacific, which is chartered from Marshall, Texas, to San Diego, on the California coast, are confident of early success. There is a great pressure brought to bear by the people of southern California in its behalf.

In order that there may be no mistake about the Blaine investigating committee, since many erroneous reports have been made, I restate its composition here. It is, Teller, of Colorado, (chairman,) Cameron, of Wisconsin, Kirkwood, of Iowa, McMillan, of Minnesota, Hoar, of Massachusetts, (republicans;) Bayard, of Delaware, Wallace, of Pennsylvania, Garland, of Arkansas, and Bailey, of Tennessee, (democrats.) The committee will have a formal meeting on Thursday, and their present programme is to start at once for South Carolina. They will sit in Charleston and give the democrats a chance to explain relative to the tissue ballots, and then in Columbia to hear the alleged complaints of bulldozing and violence in Sumter county. The committee to go there will probably be Teller, Cameron, Kirkwood, Bailey and Garland, an admirable committee, in which both sides will have confidence. What will be done after that is not decided, but it is expected this sub-committee will finish its work in about ten days, and then return to Washington, to give place to another sub-committee on affairs in Louisiana. Messrs McMillan, Hoar, Bayard and Wallace have gone home for the holidays, and will not enter upon the work until the reassembling of Congress, probably.

The department clerks are happy, for it is established that from Tuesday, December 24th, until the 31st, each day is to be a half holiday, and Christmas and New Year's days are their's without stint. It may as well be so, for the holiday season is as demoralizing on the departments as on Congress. As Christmas comes but once a year, perhaps Uncle Sam ought not to begrudge the time. KNOX.

Portsmouth Chronicle

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1878.

The Brig Somers.

The once famous—or infamous—mutiny and execution on board the United States gun-brig Somers was recently brought once more to public notice by the death of one of the actors in that gloomy tragedy, and several newspapers—this one among them—published communications or editorials on the subject, or extracts from the evidence offered at the court-martial of Mackenzie, the brig's commander. A little later we published a communication from "Viator," condemning the whipping-post as barbarous and inhuman, and referring to the Somers mutiny as a legitimate result of the once common flogging in the navy. An expression in "Viator's" article called forth the following:

While fully in accord with all that the writer has to say, and honoring the memory of Commodore Stockton for his agency in breaking up the barbarity of whipping in the United States navy, I fail to see, after having recently read the trial, where "Viator" got the idea of the "three promising young men hanged on board the Somers,"—the only "young man," Spencer, who got up the mutiny, giving "promise" simply of being hanged at some time on the land if not on the sea,—the others being men of mature years, one of whom had been an old offender. JUSTIN.

The question as to whether Mackenzie and his officers were or were not justified in hanging Spencer and his mates, is one of those that will never be settled otherwise than by each individual for himself. We have no doubt that the three men who were put to death were scoundrels, and richly deserved their fate, and that it was an excellent thing to do to kill them; but that there was the most remote necessity, so far as the safety of the vessel and her officers was concerned, for the good work being done when and in the manner it was, to us always did and always will appear ridiculous to the very last degree. With the three ringleaders in irons and with abundant force to put in irons as many more as he liked, and backed by the numerous officers of a man-of-war and the tremendous moral power of supreme legal authority, the commander of the Somers, if in any degree fitted for his position, was in no more danger of losing his life or his vessel from the Spencer mutiny than from lightning coming up from Davy Jones' locker. The talk about the three mutineers being unjustly put to death, very probably is twaddle; the talk about the "heroism" of Mackenzie and his officers in putting them to death, most certainly is twaddle, and of the most absurd brand.

News and Notes.

The steamship Emily B. Souder, which left New York for St. Domingo Dec. 8th, is reported lost with all hands except two. The New York agents of the vessel do not believe the report.

The Portland Argus says: "Mrs. Williams, wife of the man murdered by Prescott, was a short time ago taken to the almshouse, being insane. Having been left alone by her attendant, she tied a cloud and sheet together, and lowered herself from the third story window, a distance of ten feet, which was the length of the rope, and then dropped the remaining distance, some twenty feet, striking on the frozen ground. She was taken into the house, and it is thought her injuries will prove fatal."

Frank Blanco shot Michael Mullen's head to pieces at Martin's Ferry, O., while Mullen was rocking the cradle of his sister's child. The boys are about a dozen years old, and it is supposed that the shooting was accidental.

The Awards at the Paris Exposition of 1878 are simply another tribute to the inventive and mechanical genius of America, which has been so often acknowledged the world over. Besides the lavish encomiums bestowed on labor-saving machinery in the line of agriculture, manufactures and the commercial arts, nigh praise has been conceded the mechanics who through this improved machinery are enabled to compete successfully with the cheap labor of older countries throughout the globe. The patent laws of the United States, by their liberality and fostering care, doubtless tend greatly to the extraordinary development of American inventions; and the vast needs and enormous resources of our wide domain are not only additional stimuli to, but the sources from which, meritorious inventions are almost sure to reap an adequate reward. However, in the multiplicity of active minds seeking to obtain the same end in producing cheaper and better articles by aid of new processes or machinery, there is liable to be a frequent conflict of claims, and the inventor finds it of great advantage to place his invention before the Patent Office through a solicitor who is thoroughly conversant with all the working details of the office and is of experience in presenting such claims. The name of R. H. Eddy, 76 State street, Boston, is a "house-hold word" throughout New England as a leading and success solicitor of patents; one who has had long pratice, is familiar with the patent laws and their technicalities in this and foreign counties, and most competent to advise inventors in regard to American and European patents, trademarks, designs, reissues, etc.

A young German on Christmas evening went through a New York train on its arrival at Newark, N. J., apparently searching for some one. He appeared disappointed, went to the depot platform, and blew his brains out.

At four o'clock Christmas morning four masked robbers broke into the house of William Marsh at Glendale, L. I., beat Mr. Marsh senseless with pistols and clubs, almost smothered his wife to silence her cries, and then robbed the house. Mr. Marsh will die of his injuries.

Mrs. Conners, of Fall River, Mass., was attacked and severely bitten and scratched by a cat, supposed to be mad, about three weeks ago. She died Christmas afternoon, and physicians pronounce it an unmistakable case of hydrophobia.

The Louisville Courier-Journal announces the re-opening of the court in Breathitt county, Kentucky, and that four arrests have been made by the State troops. A dozen or twenty murders were committed by the opposing desperadoes before the State guard got on the ground.

The house of John O'Brien, two miles from Dublin, Ontario, was burned Christmas night. Mrs. O'Brien, son and daughter, perished in the flames, Mr. O'Brien and several other members of the family had to walk over a mile to the nearest house through a furious storm, and all were badly frozen. Mr. O'Brien will probably die.

All the compositors in the New York World office were discharged in a batch, Thursday night, and non-union men put in their places. A strong force of police was on hand, and no disorder occurred.

A horrible story of the ravages of small-pox comes from Brazil. It is said that in one city there are 600 deaths daily, and in north Brazil the distress of the people is appalling, and they are devouring carrion and corpses.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

CONSUMERS should bear in mind that the incomparable "Royal" is now the only Baking Powder in the market made from pure Grape Cream Tartar, imported exclusively for this powder direct from the wine-growing district of France. An old experienced housekeeper writes that, although she has to pay a few cents more for the "Royal," finds that it goes so much further and works so much better, that it is economy to use it. Another says she uses the powder in puddings, cakes, and all sorts of pastry, without eggs. An old lady writes that it makes the only biscuit her dyspeptic husband can eat. This is because the best and most wholesome materials are used. Approved by the New York Board of Health, and by such eminent chemists as Dr. MOTT, New York; Dr. HAYES, Boston; Prof. GENTH, Philadelphia, etc. Sold in tin cans only. dtwp1079

THE CITY.

The Concord & Portsmouth railroad dividend will be paid at William H. Hackett's office on Saturday, the 28th inst.

The U. S. S. Ticonderoga, Commodore Shufeldt, arrived at Manila on Christmas day.—Times.

According to this the Ticonderoga has undoubtedly made the best time to Manila ever made by any vessel of any nation on any trip.

A friend accuses us of leaving out of the list of ingredients which make up the present epidemic one of the most important ones, viz: whooping cough. At the time we wrote the item descriptive of the distemper we hadn't got so far along as the whooping cough stage of it.

The Portland Press of Friday says: "James H. Driscoll of this city proposes to attempt the feat of walking 400 miles in 130 hours January 6th, at Portsmouth, N. H. During the walk Miss May Belle Sherman will appear on the track twice, walking twenty-five miles each time."

In our account of the children's dinner on Christmas day we omitted to mention the following names: C. Dwight Hanscom & Co., for use of crockery; Appleton Tredick, for knives and forks loaned; John P. Sweetser, for use of stoves for kitchen; and Kearsarge Engine Company, No. 3, for use of furniture.

Prof. Pollard's troupe of Jubilee Singers will give a concert at Franklin hall this evening, and sacred concerts on Sunday afternoon and evening at the same place; the proceeds to go towards the completion of a colored church in Portland, Me. The admission has been placed at 15 cts. on Sunday, so that all can attend.

On Monday afternoon, the 23d inst., the gravel train engaged in filling in the north millpond at the Creek frightened a horse attached to a wagon containing two men from Stratham. The horse started on a run, and struck the wagon against the fence in front of Mr. Harry J. Freeman's house, throwing both men out, one of them going completely over the fence. The animal kept on down street until in front of Ex-Gov. Goodwin's house, where the driver of a job-wagon jumped from his team, seized the reins of the runaway, and succeeded in stopping him after being dragged several rods. One of the men thrown out of the team was badly cut on the head and leg.

Purchasers of "tulula" seed—that is, if there are any such persons, which we very much doubt, as we know there are none in Portsmouth—can console themselves by reading a Kittery correspondent's account of how he purchased some rare seeds awhile ago, and the result; and also by perusing "B. P. S.'s" recital (in another column) of how Chelsea invested in seeds, and what came of it. By the way, we are willing to wager as large a sum as it is proper for a good citizen and strictly moral man to bet, that the genial Ben himself was one of those who ornamented their front gardens with the rare plants he refers to. And he in return may suspect that we were of the purchasers of "tulula;" but we didn't buy our tulula seed—it was given to us. Fact is, everybody who procured tulula seed had it given to 'em,—everybody in Portsmouth, we mean.

THE VICINITY.

Solomon True fell from a staging at old Orchard on Friday and broke his arm.

Rev. S. P. Merrill of Waterville, Me., has been tendered a unanimous call by the Adams street Baptist society of Biddeford.

The dead body found in Woburn, Mass., and at first supposed to be that of an Exeter man named Thyng, has been identified as that of Joseph H. Pendleton of East Somerville, Mass., who wandered away from his home August 10th, 1877, being then in the last stages of consumption. Only his bones and portions of his clothing were found.

The Biddeford Times reports many people laid up with colds in that city and Saco, and says the trouble "is increasing rather than diminishing in number of cases. Men are taken with it and obliged to leave their stores, women their usual daily employment and children their schools. Large numbers of operatives are out of the mills sick. Several schools are closed on account of this distemper among the children." This epidemic of colds is undoubtedly the same complaint that is prevailing in this city.

SAD AFFAIR.

At a few minutes before ten o'clock Friday evening, as Mr. John Gerrish was on his way home he observed that the lights were burning in the grocery store of Mr. Charles C. Akerman, on the corner of Penhallow and State streets. Trying the door he found it open, and walked in, calling Mr. Akerman by name; receiving no response he looked around, and discovered Mr. Akerman hanging by the neck, dead. The unfortunate man had taken a strap made of inch-and-a-half rope, doubled it into a noose which he placed around his neck so that the doubling came under his chin, and fastened the other end of the strap to a broom-rack attached to the ceiling. The police were at once notified and the body taken down, but life had been some time extinct.

The suicide was a determined one, as when found the knees of the body were almost touching the floor, the legs being doubled under. Mr. Akerman's books were posted up to date, and appearances indicated that he left work on his books to take his life.

The cause of the act was undoubtedly insanity. We are informed that the deceased has been for some months under Dr. Hall's care, and that he has at times been very depressed in mind; the doctor had advised his patient to go to the Asylum at Concord and place himself under the care of Dr. Bancroft, and at one time Mr. Akerman had almost decided to do so, but thinking he was improving he finally concluded to remain at home awhile longer.

The deceased was a worthy young man, of excellent personal habits and unblemished reputation. He belonged to the Masons, the Knights Templar, and we believe to the Odd Fellows.

ANOTHER SEED SPECULATION.

A prominent citizen of Kittery, moved thereto by reading of the recent sales of "tulula" beet seed at six seeds for a dollar, tells us a little story as follows: "I was going across the navy yard bridge one evening a year or so ago, and at the Kittery end of it was a nicely-dressed, glib-talking young man, with the seeds of some outlandished-named plant for sale, at ten cents a paper. The seeds had only to be put into a wet sponge and hung up in a warm room to grow luxuriantly, and fill the apartment with the most heavenly perfume. He had a spongeful of it growing as a specimen, and it not only looked very pretty but smelled delicious. I bought two papers of the seed, (for the fellow said the plant would grow well in pots, and I wanted to secure a lot of that choice perfume,) and about every one of the navy yard workmen took from one to half a dozen papers. The luxuriant growth promised did indeed come from the seeds that I planted, but the 'perfume' was rather the other way, if anything; and after awhile I discovered that I had paid twenty cents for a half-teaspoonful of the seed of the common field rag-weed! All the other was like it. Who the seed-merchant was we never found out, as he took care not to return."

THE OPENING

Of the Rockingham Course of Entertainments by the Boston Museum Company, Friday evening, was a decided success; the company it is needless to say is first-class, and the audience was one of the largest yet gathered in Music hall.

The comedy "Partners for life" is a modern English play by the author of "Our boys" and other highly successful pieces. The scene is laid at the country mansion of a prosperous English merchant, Horace Mervyn, who in his youth has married (or thinks he has married) a woman who was really at the time another man's wife; this secret is known to Muggles, his servant, who uses it to rule his master. Tom Gilroy, who if he marries without Mervyn's consent loses his inheritance; Fanny Smith, Tom's secretly wedded wife, from whom he has previously been separated five years, and with whom Mervyn is in love, or thinks himself to be; Emily Mervyn, a niece of old Mervyn's, and Earnest, her cousin, both greatly in love and desperately jealous of each other; and an elderly maiden sister of Mervyn's, Miss Priscilla, are the principal characters, and all are at Mervyn's home either as regular inmates or visitors, during the play. There are many good situations and considerable bright dialogue in the piece, notwithstanding which we feel constrained to say that it was the excellent acting rather than the merit of the play itself which made it so satisfactory to the audience, and that with a merely average company it would have been almost flat; but with Mr. Warren as Muggles, Henry Crisp (well-named) as Tom Gilroy, Miss Annie Clarke as Fanny Smith, Miss Ciara Irving as Emily Mervyn, J. Burrows as Horace Mervyn, Mrs. J. R. Vincent as Miss Priscilla, Mr. J. A. Smith as Ernest, and the minor parts thoroughly well taken, the piece had to go, and be bright and pleasing, and that is just what it did and was.

The after-piece, "The inquisitive darkey," was a bright little trifle, Mr. Dupius (Mr. J. A. Smith,) Cecile, his jealous wife (Mrs. Fred. Williams, (Thomas, the darkey servant (Mr. J. H. Ring,) Valore, a duelist in hiding, (Mr. J. Burrows,) and Angelica, Valore's sweetheart, (Miss Ciara Irving,) making lots of fun out of it for the audience.

The entertainment was an excellent one from beginning to end, and the pleasure of the audience—the best yet seen in Music hall, all things considered—was expressed very liberally, considering that it was a Portsmouth audience.

"TUALOOLOO."

Mr. Editor:—I was amused to learn that any one in our good old town should have mistaken beet seed for whatever else. It shows that the most cautious people may be caught off their guard, at times, but we may set it down as a fact that they will not be caught so again, unless they yield to the temptation, in this or other form, with their eyes open, or it occur as a fatality, as my Brother Bob put a case wherein he was victimized. Speaking of a certain individual, he said: "He swindled Jo. P——, and Capt. G——, and me—and he will do it again." We had a specimen of the seed fraud practised on us here* a year since. A fellow went about, with the catalogue of a nationally popular seed-house, with one gorgeous flower displayed, that a year before had been imported, the seeds of which then sold for a dollar a paper, and he was now prepared to sell them for the ridiculously low price of twenty-five cents! He was good-looking, well-dressed, with a most seductive tongue, and an apparent candor that overcame all suspicion; therefore the new seeds found a ready market. Front yards were specially prepared for the choice production, to the disgust of the hens that were kept in seclusion. There were two varieties, the seeds of which were a little different, and as the contrast would be a beautiful feature of the efflorescence, both were invested in. In due time the tender leaves put forth, and every care was exerted to insure perfection. Neighbors discussed their possibilities on their doorsteps, and "hope told the flattron tale." There certainly was a wide difference between the plants; one broadened out as it were a tulip leaf, the other spindled, but both were luxuriant. The flowers, however, were very slow in forming, the broad leaf taking up the larger part of the parterre, until it occurred to one that he would take a leaf of each to a florist and have him determine its character. The expert looked at them, and, with a very unsympathizing grin, said: "Very good things in their way, sir; that's broccoli and that's fennel." The angry amateur returned home, threw his rare plants into the street, and turned his hens in to destroy all traces of them. His example was speedily followed by all the victims except an enthusiastic maiden lady, who watched the plants tenderly till autumn, and then abandoned her hope with the belief that the soil about her premises was too rich for flowers. Fennel seed at a dollar a bushel, sold in the form of rare seeds half a teaspoonful for a quarter, rather beats the beet seed as an investment. I tell this as a solace for those among you who were duped, as we derive, naturally, a grain of comfort from comparison of our own failures and follies with those of others, as Captain Bob did when he sold his gold for nine per cent. premium, just before it ran up to 182. It consoled him, he said, to think that some "dashed fools in this town sold for four."

Another interesting and very successful fraud was practised here just before the last-named, a description of which may serve to put your readers upon their sagacity. A man came round with a new mode for preserving flowers, by means of which flowers from the garden could be preserved for an indefinite period, and bouquets for bridals or funerals rendered unliable to decay, their bloom retained until the next season might induce a change. But for graves!—ah, that was the thing; and how the mourners would be comforted by seeing the bright blooming memorials waving above the graves of their deceased friends! He knew how it was himself. He was a soldier of twenty battles for the republic, and could show honorable scars, if his auditors wished to see them; and how gratifying it was to him to sell this art by which his old companions in arms might be honored. He had hundreds of names of those who had tried it—and the price was only fifty cents! His eloquence was searching—to the very innermost of the old portmonnaie—and the price was paid. The prescription was a combination of cheap things, respectively, but making a respectable aggregate—a pint of alcohol being the principal—which were duly bought and formed a muddy mass, proving death to the flowers in a short time. The alcohol evaporated, and their graves could have been dug in the filthy remainder. The soldier said he would be round in a day or two to see how "it worked," but as he has never appeared, it is supposed he must have died of some of his many wounds.

But, however we may smile at credulity like that described, no one has immunity from imposition. For myself I confess a constant liability to be humbugged, and recently, when one of my name fell into the hands of a confidence operator in New York, and it was supposed to be me, I disclaimed the distinction on the ground that my namesake was shrewd enough to escape, whereas, had it been me, I should most certainly have been taken in. For three times I was asked, I dare say by the same individual, during a year, for enough money to eke out the fare to Portsmouth—a claim in the name of Portsmouth I could not refuse—and he would, undoubtedly, have done it again, had he not got tripped somewhere by offended justice, as was probably the case.

But, to go back to the beginning, for one to the "manner born," of Portsmouth, not to know beet seed is about as queer as it would be for a Beverly man not to know beans, and therefore my "lungs did crow like chanticleer" to read your account of it, and I could not refrain from this extended letter, the "moral of which is in the application of it."

Your old townsman, B. P. S.

Something for the New Year.

The world renowned success of Hostetter's Bitters, and their continued popularity for a quarter of a century as a stomachic, is scarcely more wonderful than the welcome that greets the annual appearance of Hostetter's Almanac. This valuable medical treatise is published by Hostetter & Smith, Pittsburgh, Pa., under their own immediate supervision, employing 80 hands in that department. Ten cylinder printing presses, 8 folding machines, 5 job presses, &c., are running about eleven months in the year on this work, and the issue of same for 1879 will not be less than ten millions, printed in the English, German, French, Welsh, Norwegian, Swedish, Holland, Bohemian and Spanish languages. Refer to a copy of it for valuable and interesting reading concerning health testimonials as to the efficacy of Hostetter's Bitters, amusement, varied information, astronomical calculations and chronological items, &c., which can be depended on for 1879 and can be obtained free of cost, from druggists and general country dealers in all parts of the country.

Consumption Cured.

Actuated by this motive, and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send, free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and using, in German, French, or English. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. W. Sherar, 149 Powers' Block, Rochester, New York. tjan1

DEVOE MANUFACTURING CO.

Gentlemen:—I take great pleasure in sending this unsolicited recommendation of your Kerosene Oil.

At the great fire in this place, which destroyed Norwood's Paint and Oil establishment, and other buildings, on the 13th inst., your Oil stood one of most severe tests that Oil could be put to; for four [4] hours the Oil was in the hottest part of the fire, and such a fire as only Varnish, Turpentine, Oils and Paints can make, and in all that time there was no explosion of your Oil, and the cans containing the Oil were in very near the same condition after the fire as before.

I take great pleasure in recommending this Oil, as in my opinion it is the safest Oil for sale in the market. I remain, very respectfully,

JOHN E. REGNER,
Chief of Fire Department.

THE NEW HAMPSHIRE GAZETTE

Established 1756.

The Gazette is published every Thursday, and sent to Subscribers at the low price of $1.50 per year, paid in advance, or $2 at the end of the year.

It contains full accounts of all of importance that transpires in Portsmouth and its vicinity, and a condensed summary of NEWS, foreign and domestic; editorials upon current topics; New Hampshire items; carefully prepared marine news, containing reports of vessels owned at this port, or officered by men from Portsmouth or its neighborhood; and is just the paper for residents desiring to be posted on all that takes place at home, while to those living in the vicinity of Portsmouth, or to former residents who retain their interest in the "old home by the sea," it is the best means of keeping informed of what transpires in this city.

— THE —
NEW HAMPSHIRE GAZETTE
Contains more original matter
Than any other paper of its size in the State, the editors working more with their pens than with their scissors.

TO ADVERTISERS
THE N. H. GAZETTE
Presents an excellent opportunity for a WEEKLY INVITATION TO CUSTOMERS, at a reasonable rate, and all those who desire to reach patrons in Rockingham and York counties will find it an economical medium. THE GAZETTE is in many instances the only paper taken by families, and it is read to a large extent in localities whence is derived much of the trade of Portsmouth, a fact which our merchants should not fail to bear in mind.

Construction AND Equipment
THE
PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD
stands confessedly at the head of American railways. The track is double the entire length of the line, of steel rails laid on heavy oak ties, which are embedded in a foundation of rock ballast eighteen inches in depth. All bridges are of iron or stone, and built upon the most approved plans. Its passenger cars, while eminently safe and substantial, are at the same time models of comfort and elegance.
The Safety Appliances
in use on this line well illustrates the far-seeing and liberal policy of its management, in accordance with which the utility only of an improvement and not its cost has been the question of consideration. Among many may be noticed
THE BLOCK SYSTEM OF SAFETY SIGNALS,
JANNEY COUPLER, BUFFER AND PLATFORM,
THE WHARTON PATENT SWITCH,
AND THE
WESTINGHOUSE AIR-BRAKE,
forming in conjunction with a perfect double track and road-bed, a combination of safeguards against accidents which have rendered them practically impossible.

ANTI-FAT

ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT is the great remedy for Corpulency. It is purely vegetable and perfectly harmless. It acts on the food in the stomach, preventing its conversion into fat. Taken according to directions, it will reduce a fat person from 2 to 5 pounds a week.
In placing this remedy before the public as a positive cure for obesity, we do so knowing its claims to be true, as attested by hundreds of testimonials, of which the following from a lady in Columbus, Ohio, is a sample: "Gentlemen—Your Anti-Fat was duly received. I took it according to directions and it reduced me five pounds. I was so elated over the result that I immediately sent to ACKERMAN'S drug-store for the second bottle." Another, a physician, writing for a patient from Providence, R. I., says: "Four bottles have reduced her weight from 195 pounds to 132 pounds, and she says a general improvement in health." A gentleman writing from Boston, Mass., says: "Without any other attention to diet, two bottles of Allan's Anti-Fat reduced me four and one-quarter pounds." The well-known Wholesale Druggists, SMITH, DOLLITTLE & SMITH, of Boston, Mass., write as follows: "Allan's Anti-Fat has reduced a lady in our city seven pounds in three weeks." A gentleman in St. Louis writes: "Allan's Anti-Fat reduced me twelve pounds in three weeks, and altogether I have lost twenty-five pounds since commencing its use." Messrs. WOODWARD & CLAYTON, Wholesale Druggists, of Buffalo, N. Y., write: "TO THE PROPRIETORS OF ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT: Gentlemen,—The following report is from the lady who used Allan's Anti-Fat. 'Dear Sir: Your Anti-Fat has the desired effect, reducing the fat from two to five pounds a week until I had lost twenty-five pounds. I hope never to regain what I have lost.' Anti-Fat is an unexcelled blood-purifier. It promotes digestion, curing dyspepsia, and is also a potent remedy for rheumatism. Sold by druggists. Pamphlet on Obesity sent on receipt of stamp.
BOTANIC MEDICINE CO., PROPRS, Buffalo, N.Y.

WOMAN
By an immense practice at the World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, having treated many thousand cases of those diseases peculiar to woman, I have been enabled to perfect a most potent and positive remedy for these diseases.
To designate this natural specific, I have named it
Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription
The term, however, is but a feeble expression of my high appreciation of its value, based upon personal observation. I have, while witnessing the positive results in the special diseases incident to the organism of woman, singled it out as the chief or crowning gem of my medical career. On its merits, as a positive, safe, and efficient remedy for this class of diseases, and one that will, at all times and under all circumstances, act kindly, I am willing to stake my reputation as a physician; and so confident am I that it will not disappoint the most sanguine expectations of a single invalid, I am prepared to refer any of the ailments for which I recommend it, that I offer and sell it under A POSITIVE GUARANTEE. (For conditions, see pamphlet wrapping bottle.)
The following are among those diseases in which my Favorite Prescription has worked cures, as if by magic, and with a certainty never before attained by any medicine: Leucorrhœa, Excessive Flowing, Painful Monthly Periods, Suppressions when from unnatural causes, Irregularities, Weak Back, Prolapsus, or Falling of the Uterus, Anteversion and Retroversion, Bearing-down Sensations, Internal Heat, Nervous Depression, Debility, Despondency, Threatened Miscarriage, Chronic Congestion, Inflammation and Ulceration of the Uterus, Impotency, Barrenness, or Sterility, and Female Weakness. I do not extol this medicine as a "cure-all," but it admirably fulfills a diagnosis of purpose, being a most perfect specific in all chronic diseases of the sexual system of woman. It will not disappoint, nor will it do harm, in any state or condition.
Those who desire further information on these subjects can obtain in THE PEOPLE'S COMMON SENSE MEDICAL ADVISER, a book of over 300 pages, sent, post-paid, on receipt of $1.50. It treats minutely of those diseases peculiar to Females, and gives much valuable advice in regard to the management of those affections.
Favorite Prescription sold by Druggists.

THE SABBATH.

Fresh glides the brook and blows the gale,
Yet yonder halts the quiet mill;
The whirling wheel, the rushing sail,
How motionless and still!

Six days of toil, poor child of Cain,
Thy strength the slave of want may be;
The seventh thy limbs escape the chain—
A God hath made thee free!

Ah! tender was the law that gave
This holy respite to thy breast,
To bear ath the gale, to watch the wind,
And know the wheel may rest!

But where the waves the gentlest glide,
What image charms to light thine eyes?
The spire reflected on the tide
Invites thee to the skies.

To teach the soul its noblest worth,
The rest from material toil is given;
Go snatch the brief reprieve from earth,
And pass—a guest to heaven.

They tell thee, in their dreaming school,
Of power from old dominion buried,
When rich and poor, with juster rule,
Shall share the alt red world.

Alas! since time itself began,
That fable hath but fooled the hour;
Each age that ripens power in man,
But subjects man to power.

Yet every day in seven, at least,
One origin republic shall be known,
Man's world awhile has sure y ceased,
When God proclaims his own!

Six days may rich divide the poor,
O Dives, from thy banquet hall;
The seventh the Father opes His door,
And holds His feast for all.

The Vitality of a Lie.

Somebody has revived the old story about Baron Humboldt's having described Mr. Bayard Taylor as a man who had travelled more and seen less than any other person he had ever heard of. The repetition of this story at this particular time curiously illustrates the vitality of a lie if it be only malicious and witty. Baron Humboldt never said anything of the kind. He took some pains to assure Mr. Taylor and to assure many others that he had never thought or said this or anything resembling it, and had never heard of it until it came to him from America. He emphasized afterward his cordial regard for Mr. Taylor, and one of the best descriptions we have of his later days is to be found in the account given by Mr. Taylor of his last visit to the Baron. So much for the facts. Now for the origin of the story. A month or two before it first saw the light in an American newspaper a rather seedy New York writer addressed a note to Mr. Taylor requesting from him the gift of a complete set of his works. This amounted at that time (even at wholesale rates) to a request for a gift of $40 or $50; and Mr. Taylor, whose means were then limited, and who knew no sort of claim which the applicant had upon him for such a courtesy, declined. The applicant was enraged, and boasted that he would pay Mr. Taylor for what he conceived to be an affront. Within a fortnight he coined this story and set it afloat. The man has long been dead, and there is no occasion for listening his dirty trick now to his gravestone; but the facts have been so well known for many years that it is surpl ing to see the old calumny coming up again.

The U. S. Signal Service.

Gradually, the wild and ungovernable forces of n ture are, through science, made of use to man. Following in the wake of the ingenious inventions for the use of steam and electricity, comes the organization of the U. S. Signal Service. Is it not wonderful that a system could be originated and perfected whereby an operator can accurately predict the weather of a distant locality? And yet experience proves our "storm signals" to be reliable. Equally great are the advances made in the science of medicine. Step by step, uncertainties and doubts have yielded to absolute certainty. The discoveries of Harvey and Jenner have been succeeded by the Golden Medical Discovery of Dr. R. V. Pierce. No longer need people despair because some physician has pronounced the lungs unsound. Hundreds of testimonials are on file in the office of Dr. Pierce from those who had abandoned all hope, and had been given up to die by physicians and friends. Incipient consumption, bronchitis, and scrofulous tumors, speedily, surely, and permanently, yield to the healing influences of the Discovery. If the bowels be constipated, use Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. For full particulars, see Pierce's Memorandum Book, given away by all druggists.

—It is sometimes a good thing for people to see themselves as other see them. A daily paper published in Japan, and in the interests of Japanese conservatism, wants to know whether the general adulteration of food, which prevails in Christian countries, is the legitimate result of their religion, or only incidental? Whether all our bank defaulters belong to the church, and if so, whether an honest paganism hasn't a little the advantage? Whether a Christianity that allows rum to be sold at every street corner and licenses gambling houses is any better than a heathenism which simply tolerates these things and asks no impertinent questions? It would puzzle some professing Christians, as well as those whose practices are thus mirrored forth, to give satisfactory answers to such questions as these.

—At a breakfast recently given in New York, to the bridesmaids and ushers who were to serve at a coming wedding, satin cornucopias strung with little cords and tassels were laid by each guest's plate. The cotton wool with which they were filled contained a pearl ring for the bridemaids and a scarf pin for each usher.

Portsmouth Chronicle

MONDAY, DECEMBER 30, 1878.

A Safe Prediction.

The democratic papers publish the following item of Washington news:

It is stated by friends of Mr. Tilden that he will be one of the first witnesses called before the Potter committee when the House instructs it to investigate the cipher telegrams, and that he fully expects to be wholly exonerated from all charges of wrong-doing in connection with the electoral count in 1876-7. He may appear voluntarily.

It is quite safe to predict that anything whatever is likely to take place "when the House instructs" the Potter fraud committee to investigate the cipher despatches, for the House, being democratic, does not dare give any such instructions. The sudden and overpowering indifference of the "democratic House" to investigations is ludicrous enough, when contrasted with the eager zeal displayed at the last session; but at the former period the democrats hoped that an investigation conducted by a partisan committee that would "investigate" only one side of any question—such a committee as they provided for—would unearth some republican villainies while discreetly concealing any democratic scoundrelism that might inadvertently be stumbled upon, whereas now it is certain that any stirring up of the cipher despatch business will put Tilden and reform in even a worse position (if possible) than the Tribune's expose has already placed him. Tilden "may appear voluntarily"—but he won't.

A Fitting Representative.

The investigating committee appointed to examine into the charges against Congressman Acklen of Louisiana have issued a report stating that they consider the charges proven. The worst of the charges against Acklen was that he seduced a young girl by the most infamous means, and when she was about to become a mother forced her to marry one of his political strikers, who received $300 for giving the wretched girl his name, and deserted her as soon as the ceremony was performed, leaving the girl to become an outcast. Acklen was elected to a seat in the present Congress by the democratic members of that body, having been badly defeated at the polls; he was elected to a seat in the next Congress by the nearly unanimous vote of his district, the democrats by the most infamous crimes having entirely crushed out the republican vote. Mr. Acklen is a fitting representative of the white-league bulldozers of Louisiana, as Massacre C. Butler and Wade Hampton are of the rifle-club assassins and tissue-ballot politicians of South Carolina.

News and Notes.

The steamship Emily B. Souder, reported lost, had a crew of twenty-nine men, and nine passengers. A large British steamship is missing—the Glamergan, with tea from China for New York via Suez canal and Gibraltar, which latter place she left Nov. 27th, not having been heard of since.

Hoffman Beach, the messenger of the Importers & Traders bank of New York, on Friday lost a package of exchanges amounting to $160,000, while on his way to the Clearing House with it.

William H. M. Smallman, of San Francisco, has entered a suit for $200,000 damages against John W. Mackey, the bonanza king, for unlawful intimacy with Smallman's wife.

From Mexico it is reported that the national troops and a body of insurgents under Lerma, a chieftain of the clerical party, have had a fight at Tepic, in which the clericals were completely overthrown, eighty of their number being hung up at once, and the rest allowed to go to their homes.

Small results are expected this year from Arctic exploration, notwithstanding the favorable predictions of some sanguine Arctic navigators. The solid ice reported by the Nares expedition continues, and all attempts to find an open polar sea have failed. The Swedish polar expedition is reported in trouble.

Dr. Schliemann's deeper digging in the ruins of Homer's Troy, has brought to light a double-edged and arrow-shaped steel dagger, one and two-thirds inches long. This is the first article of iron found either at Troy or Mycenae. If a genuine relic, this steel dagger will prick the theory of the succession of the stone, bronze and iron ages.

Two of the men of the schooner Anita of New York, from Ciudad Bolivar, now at Newport, R. I., allege that they have been inhumanly treated by their captain. They state that a colored seaman died on the voyage from the effects of ill treatment at the hands of the captain, who directed the crew to throw him overboard before he was dead. This they refused to do and he was allowed to die on the deck.

A disgraceful row occurred at Crab Orchard, Ky., Thursday night, in which Stewart Meyers and two Carson brothers were the chief actors, an old grudge bringing them together. Firing commenced, and both sides were re-enforced, and some forty shot were exchanged. Shot-guns and pistols were used. Meyers' shoulder was literally shot to pieces, and Dave Carson was seriously wounded. Half a dozen others were more or less hurt, and it is feared that the trouble is not over.

Gov. McCreary of Kentucky, having received by special messenger the papers showing that James W. Linden had been duly elected Judge of Breathitt county, has issued and forwarded his commission. Now Judge Linden will proceed to send all his opponents to jail, and the opponents will proceed to liberate the prisoners and kill the judge, after the custom of Breathitt county.

Mr. Schulte, a wealthy gentleman of South Norwalk, Conn., was brutally murdered at an early hour Friday evening, it is believed by tramps who were informed that Schulte carried a large sum of money on his person and had concealed in his house nearly $50,000, and was in the habit of having large sums so concealed in preference to placing them in bank vaults. The murder was committed near his residence, and his servant, William Buckholz, was also attacked at the same time. The murdered man's head was cut open with a hatchet, and a small wound apparently made with a knife, was found under his left ear.

A young man, name unknown, was killed by a train Friday morning at Hoosac Junction, Mass. The body was literally cut in pieces, and the remains are at that station awaiting recognition.

The friends of "Red" Leary, the supposed robber of the Northampton (Mass.) bank, are making desperate efforts to prevent the scoundrel's extradition from New York to Massachusetts. They have plenty of money and of course able counsel, and so far they have managed to keep their friend with them.

Charles Fitch Skinner has been arrested at Brooklyn, Conn., on a charge of bigamy. Under the name of Charles Fitch the fellow had sojourned in Worcester, Mass., been received as guest into many of the best families, and taken a prominent part in religious matters. It seems he has four wives living, having married his last one recently at South Canterbury, Conn.

In the case of Maria L. Ford vs. the city of Biddeford, tried at the January term of court and carried up on exceptions, the full bench has overruled the exceptions and motion. The plaintiff at the January court was awarded $1200 damages.

Stephen Shumway, an old and well-known citizen of Worcester, Mass., attempted suicide by hanging himself in his barn Friday morning. He was discovered and cut down before life was extinct, but at last accounts was unconscious and will probably die. He was a widower, and was to have been married Thursday evening, but was disappointed, which circumstance was the probable cause of his rash attempt.

Frank McAlvery was fatally shot by Robert Clayton at Veazie, Me., near Bangor, Friday night, while McAlvery and another fellow were trying to break into a disreputable house kept by one Silas Hartshorn, Clayton being inside.

Naval Matters.

Surgeon Thomas Hiland is detached as a member of the medical examining board, and placed on waiting orders.

Asst. Engr. Robert W. Galt is detached from the Plymouth, and placed on waiting orders.

Passed Asst. Paymaster George A. Deering is granted fifteen days leave of absence from the Talinpoosa, from Dec. 21st.

New Hampshire Items.

Ex-Gov. Onslow Stearns was reported to be dying at Concord on Saturday noon.

The four pulpits in Hinsdale are occupied by four men whose aggregate weight is 900 pounds.

Katie Reagan of Manchester, nine years old, while attempting to assist an old woman in lighting her pipe, set her clothes on fire. The frightened child ran into the street, increasing the flames. She died the same evening in consequence of her injuries.

Charles Worthen of Ashland was terribly injured Thursday by a large circular saw, near which he was standing. The saw was revolving at full speed, when he slipped and fell upon it, and his right arm, side and leg were fearfully mangled. Both his arm and leg will have to be amputated.

At a meeting of the Governor and Council, Friday, Jeremiah Colbath, a convict in the State prison, was pardoned. Consideration of the case of Pickham, the murderer, awaiting execution, for whom a petition for commutation of sentence has been presented, was postponed till the next meeting.

Pork is lower than ever before in the history of the State. In Manchester the best round hogs sell for five cents per pound, and in the country they can be bought for half a cent less. A man was in Enfield the other day with a dressed hog which he tried in vain to sell for three and a half cents, and was obliged to carry it home.

—"Punch and Judy" is a contraction from Pontius and Judas. It is a relic of an old "miracle play," in which the actors were Pontius Pilate and Judas Iscariot.

—Just imagine the feelings of the man who the first day out, comes face to face on the deck of a European steamer, with the creditor whom he has successfully dodged for the past nine months!

—When you feel disgusted with life think of poor W. V. Taylor, of Whitehall, New York, who has received three hundred letters from ladies proposing matrimony, these epistles being the result of an announcement that Mr. Taylor will fall heir to $100,000 if he marries within a year's time. Imagine the feeling of this individual.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

CONSUMERS should bear in mind that the incomparable "Royal" is now the only Baking Powder tin the market made from pure Grape Cream Tartar, imported exclusively for this powder direct from the wine-growing district of France. An old experienced Housekeeper writes that, although she has to pay a few cents more for the "Royal," finds that it goes so much further and works so much better, that it is economy to use it. Another says she uses the powder in puddings, cakes, and all sorts of pastry, without eggs. An old lady writes that it makes the only biscuit her dyspeptic husband can eat. This is because the best and most wholesome materials are used. Approved by the New York Board of Health, and by such eminent chemists as Dr. MOTT, New York; Dr. HAYES, Boston; Prof. GENTH, Philadelphia, etc. Sold in tin cans only. dtwpt1079

THE CITY.

Storer Encampment, Post One, G. A. R., of this city, was visited on Friday evening by Department Commander Richards, who is making an official tour of inspection through the State.

No letter, note or message of any kind has been found among the papers of Mr. Charles C. Akerman giving any explanation of the cause of his suicide, or indicating that he contemplated the act.

A number of friends of Mr. George H. Nutter, night operator at the Western Union telegraph office in this city, presented that gentleman with a very handsome silver cake-basket as a Christmas gift.

We clip from the San Francisco Commercial News of Dec. 17th the following: "Captain Marcy, of the ship Wm. H. Marcy, rescued an Oakland boy, named Peter Janson, from drowning last Friday. The boy had drifted from Berkeley in a small skiff which capsized just before the Marcy's boat reached him."

The sale of tickets for the grand concert next Thursday evening commences at Preston's this morning. The programme will include some entirely new pieces; duetts by Miss Wendell and the celebrated contralto Mrs. Barry will be given, and solos by each; and Mr. Wm. H. Hunt, basso and humorous vocalist, who comes recommended in almost extravagant terms, will give some choice characterizations.—all together, with readings by Miss Hattie B. Carter, furnishing such an evening's amusement as is not often offered. See advertisement.

THE VICINITY.

The young son of Col. Daniel Hall, of Dover, was reported very sick with pneumonia, Saturday evening, and not expected to live.

Mr. Joseph Witham, of Gerrish's island, had his foot badly crushed at the navy yard on Saturday afternoon, by a boat which was being turned over. One of his toes had to be amputated, but the surgeon hopes to save the rest.

A double house and barn in South Sanford, York county, Me., owned and occupied by Stephen and Joel Moulton, were burned last week, the fire catching in the barn. Loss about $6000; insured in a local company at South Berwick.

Mr. M. G. Palmer, Rev. I. Luce and Gen. Neal Dow will visit Washington in a few days to extend a formal invitation to President Hayes to preside over a temperance mass convention at Old Orchard next summer. The invitation will include Mrs. Hayes.

Some unknown poultry merchant drove a thriving business in Berwick one night recently; John Goodrich lost four turkeys, and would probably have lost more but for the racket made by his dog; Ezra Goodrich lost sixteen turkeys and forty hens; and a Mr. Grant lost about forty fowls.

On Christmas night, in Rochester, the barn of a Mr. Hammett was set on fire and burned to the ground, the dwelling being saved only by hard labor. On Thursday a man named Furbush was arrested on suspicion of being the criminal, and sent to jail in default of bail for his appearance at a higher court.

At East Orange, N. J., a barn was burned, and with it two young men named Thacher, aged twenty-one and fifteen years, on Friday last. The same day a small building attached to the Irving house in New London, Conn., was burned, and a watchman named Bela Selton, sixty-eight years old, was burned to death.

The Swampscott savings bank at Exeter, of which Joseph Janvrin is president and Francis Hilliard treasurer, last week had its deposits cut down twenty per cent by Judge Lewis W. Clark, the bank commissioners having found that course necessary. The Union Five Cents savings bank of Exeter, William B. Morrill president and George E. Lane treasurer, is all right so far as is known.

We are informed that one Shaw, a married man of Kittery over thirty years of age, having been charged by a girl of fourteen years with the paternity of her illegitimate child, has cleared out of the town. Our informant says that the neighbors are so incensed against him that they vow it he comes back they will tar and feather him, ride him on a rail, and in other ways forcibly express their disapprobation of his conduct.

Frank R. Field of Saco, "champion of York county" in the walking line, has been challenged by Joan Maugher to walk twenty-five miles in City hall, Biddeford. Field replies that he will "walk Maugher a match for twenty-five miles for such sum as he may be pleased to name, at such time and place as Field shall name, provided he first show himself a walkist by beating, in public, Field's time of the 25th of December."

An important case wherein Mr. Robinson of Brookfield seeks to recover damages from the town of Wakefield for injuries incurred, as is alleged, by being upset and falling into the water through a defect in a highway, was recently tried at Wolfeboro Junction before Hons. Isaac W. Smith, A. F. Stevens and Albert R. Hatch, referees. The trial occupied part of three days, and the arguments are to be made next week at Dover. Joshua G. Hall and C. K. Sanborn were of counsel for the pltff., and Frank Hobbs for the town.

Farmers in Epping and other towns in Rockingham county are excited at finding out that they have been swindled by "lightning-rod agents" who pursuaded them last summer to have their buildings protected at a merely nominal rate, the agents only asking them to sign agreements to pay a small annual interest on the actual cost. Now the farmers find that they signed regularly drawn notes, which have come back for collection through the banks, and the swindled signers (who say the lightning-rods are good for nothing anyway) have combined to resist payment by all legal means. If those Epping farmers "took the papers" and read them carefully they would know that if they wanted to catch a swindler they would only have to trap any travelling lightning-rod agent.

As a Portsmouth gentleman was passing an old house in the upper part of Kittery, near the York line, some days since, he was surprised to see a large squirrel come out through a hole in the roof with an ear of corn in his mouth, running over the ridgepole with it and making his way to the ground by means of a shed roof at the rear. In a few moments the bushy-tailed plunderer was followed by another, who also carried off with apparent ease a fair-sized ear of corn. The squirrels were of the grey kind, and probably mates; and they may be yet transferring ears of corn from the loft to their store in some hollow tree, for the gentleman who witnessed their performances thought that if the occupants of the house (for it is occupied by well-to-do farmers) were too shiftless or too close-fisted to patch up the roof of their dwelling, it was not his place to mount guard over the holes in it to keep squirrels out.

DIVIDENDS.

The dividend of three per cent on the Portland, Saco & Portsmouth railroad will be paid Jan. 10th.

The Eastern railroad in New Hampshire will pay a dividend of three and a half per cent on the 8th of January, being its first dividend since July, 1873. The Traveller's stock article says: "The road is now leased to the Eastern in Massachusetts for sixty years, at four and a half per cent per annum; the present dividend is partly in the nature of an extra." The amount paid will be $17,238, on a capital stock of $492,500.

The coupons on city of Portsmouth (Portsmouth & Dover railroad loan) bonds will be paid at the Hide and Leather national bank in Boston, Jan. 1st.

City of Dover 6's of 1883 (railroad loan) sold in Boston on Saturday at $106.75.

ALMOST A FIRE.

John H. Kenney of Dover, who it will be remembered was arrested at Epping some time since for breaking into and stealing articles from one of the cottages at the camp-meeting grounds there, and who was lodged in jail in this city to await trial, attempted to burn the jail on the afternoon of Saturday. Col. Kent was detained at home later than usual that afternoon, and just as he was about leaving heard Cora Frazer, (the "female horse-thief") crying out that there was a lot of smoke in the hall, and on investigation found that the old wooden jail was on fire between the partitions. A line of hose was quickly led from the force-pump in the kitchen to the attic, a stream of water put down between the partitions, and the fire extinguished without an alarm being given, rendering it unnecessary for the sheriff to apply the irons which he had placed ready so as to secure the prisoners in case the fire got the upper hand. It was found that Kenney had stuffed cotton rags through a small hole in the partition and set them on fire, and the fire had made considerable headway when it was discovered. Application was made a week ago to have Kenney removed to the insane asylum at Concord, but no answer had been received, and on Friday Sheriff Kent took him from the stone jail and placed him in the wooden part where he could have better accommodations. On being questioned he at first said he might have set it accidentally, but when closely pressed acknowledged how he did it.

U. S. COMMISSIONER'S COURT.

Hackett, Commissioner.

Arthur M. Johnson, who was previously complained of for being a retail dealer in liquors at Newton, the case being continued, appeared Saturday forenoon and was held in $200 for his appearance at the May term of the Circuit Court. He was committed for want of sureties, to Exeter jail. U. S. Att'y Hall for the government.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

Alpha Council, No. 38, Royal Arcanum, held its annual meeting on Christmas night and elected the following officers for the ensuing term:

Regent, Oliver M. Knight.
Vice Regent, Morris C. Foye.
Orator, Joseph F. Berry.
Secretary, J. S. Pfeiffer.
Collector, A. C. Hoyt.
Treasurer, Samuel C. Whittier.
Chaplain, Stephen W. Clarke.
Guide, Edward B. Prime.
Warden, Joseph B. Gardiner.
Sentinel, Frank W. Hilton.
Trustees, Joseph H. Gardiner, Elbridge G. Pierce, Jr., Stephen W. Clarke.
Representative to Grand Council, Stephen W. Clarke.
Alternate, R. H. Perkins.
Retiring Regent, R. H. Perkins.

FIRE AT DOVER.

At about half-past four o'clock Saturday morning fire was discovered in the cloth stored in the cloth-room of the bleachery of the Cocheco Print Works at Dover, and owing to a very imperfect alarm it was half an hour before any water was put on, so the fire had a chance to make good headway. The bleachery was separated from the other buildings by thick walls and iron doors, which saved them from destruction, though the contents of the room next the bleachery were somewhat injured by water. All the machinery in the bleachery was ruined, some of it having been very costly; the fire worked up through to the upper loft and burned off the big trusses, which were the main support of the floors and machinery below, and then roof, floors, machinery and everything fell with a crash. The fall of the roof and timbers cracked, twisted and tumbled down considerable portions of the brick walls. There were in the cloth-room, where the fire originated, somewhere from 4000 to 5000 cuts of cloth, most of which was ruined. The total loss is estimated all the way from $30,000 to $75,000, which is fully covered by insurance. The worst phase of the case is that it will probably cause the Print Works to stop entirely for several months, throwing out of work about 425 poor people in the middle of the winter! How the fire occurred, if not incendiary, cannot be guessed, as no fire is ever used in the cloth room, and spontaneous combustion could not take place in dry, clean cloth which is always being changed about.

[Written for this paper.]

WHO WAS ZERVIAH STANDLY?

The story related on page 117 of Brewster's Rambles, of Zerviah Standly, the wife of Wm. Parker, being a runaway daughter of an Earl of Derby, is merely an absurdity.

The letters U and V were formerly written and printed interchangeably and indifferently one for the other. This explains the origin of the different modes in which Zerbiah, the name of one of the sisters of David, was formerly written in wills and other documents in the Bay State and, perhaps, elsewhere. The following modes of spelling and writing it are found, viz.: Zeruiah, Zervinh, Servinh, Sirviah and Zurviah.

Mathew Standly, or Stanly, in his will dated Feb. 24, 1685-6, and proved in the court of the county of Suffolk the same year, named among others Abigail and Sirviah, two of his daughters, which were the names of the sisters of David, King of Israel. Standly's two daughters, of course, had Old Testament names.

Now it is not known to a certainty that Standly's daughter Sirviah was the wife of our Wm. Parker, though that is probable enough. It appears, however, from other similiar writings that Zerviah, or Sirviah, was a common family name in the families of the Bay State Standlys, and so some other Zerviah, or Sirviah, Standly may have been Parker's wife.

From the foregoing it appears altogether probable, in fact, that there is scarcely room for doubt, that the wife of our Wm. Parker was born in the Bay State. All the Earls of Derby were loyalists and churchmen, and, therefore, any person may safely enough take his corporal oath that no Earl of Derby ever gave an Old Testament name to any of his children. The conclusion from the above is irresistable that our Parker's wife was not a daughter of any Earl of Derby.

The families of the well to do Bay State puritans generally kept at hand a small volume which contained all, or nearly all the Old Testament names, which was printed for the purpose, from which they were accustomed to select, when a child was born, a suitable name for it. Copies of this book are still (1878) to be found in some of the Bay State farm houses. †

Something for the New Year.

The world renowned success of Hostetter's Bitters, and their continued popularity for a quarter of a century as a stomachic, is scarcely more wonderful than the welcome that greets the annual appearance of Hostetter's Almanac. This valuable medical treatise is published by Hostetter & Smith, Pittsburgh, Pa., under their own immediate supervision, employing 80 hands in that department. Ten cylinder printing presses, 8 folding machines, 5 job presses, &c., are running about eleven months in the year on this work, and the issue of same for 1879 will not be less than ten millions, printed in the English, German, French, Welch, Norwegian, Swedish, Holland, Bohemian and Spanish languages. Refer to a copy of it for valuable and interesting reading concerning health testimonials as to the efficacy of Hostetter's Bitters, amusement, varied information, astronomical calculations and chronological items, &c., which can be depended on for 1879 and can be obtained free of cost, from druggists and general country dealers in all parts of the country.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure for consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive, and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send, free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and using, in German, French, or English. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. W. Sherar, 149 Powers' Block, Rochester, New York. tjan1

PATERSON, N. J., April 17, 1877.

DEVOE MANUFACTURING CO.

Gentlemen:—I take great pleasure in sending this unsolicited recommendation of your Kerosene Oil.

At the great fire in this place, which destroyed Norwood's Paint and Oil establishment, and other buildings, on the 13th inst., your Oil stood one of most severe tests that Oil could be put to; for four [4] hours the Oil was in the hottest part of the fire, and such a fire as only Varnish, Turpentine, Oils and Paints can make, and in all that time there was no explosion of your Oil, and the cans containing the Oil were in very near the same condition after the fire as before.

I take great pleasure in recommending this Oil, as in my opinion it is the safest Oil for sale in the market. I remain, very respectfully,

JOHN E. REGNER,
Chief of Fire Department.

Cakes and Jumbles

ETC., ETC.

MADE BY MACHINERY!

Having purchased the "HOLMES JUMBLE AND CAKE MACHINE," with the exclusive right of the New England States, I now propose to place in every first-class Grocery a variety of rich Cake Goods in addition to the 144 kinds of Crackers and Biscuit now manufactured by me, at a price that will enable them to be sold freely, and which is far below what the same class of goods can be made for by hand as at present. At the same time they will be found much superior, being uniform, and much lighter and more delicate than can possibly be produced by hand.

The following are some of the varieties now produced by the machine:

Confectioner's Jumbles,	Sugar Plum Drops,
Cinnamon " Marble Top	Variegated " Drop Pound Cake,
Spice "	Kisses,
Fruit "	Vanilla Cakes,
Common "	Spice "
Almond Maccarons,	M laises Drop Cakes,
Cocoanut "	Cinnamon Wafers,
Almond Drops,	Lady Fingers,
Fruit "	Sponge Drop Cakes,
Cocoanut "	Half Fingers,
Chocolate "	Spice "

I propose to place in every Store a Sample Box, and a trial of them will prove all this advertisement calls for. If your Grocer has not already these goods in stock, ask him to order from the Sole Mart in the New England States.

Political.

A woman in Waterproof, Louisiana, writing to a northern anti-slavery man, declares that the atrocities practiced by the democrats about election time exceed in horror those of the Bashi-Bazouks in Bulgaria. This is pretty strong language, but the lady says it can be proved.

The Washington Post, (Bourbon democratic,) observes that in Darke county, Ohio, a gang of desperadoes are keeping up a pretty thoroughly established reign of terror, and that murder is a favorite amusement, and that masked gangs ride about the country shooting down peaceful citizens. It asks Mr. Blaine if he will ask for a northern outrage committee. It may be remarked in the same connection that Darke county has a democratic majority ranging from 1000 to 2000, and that Ohio has a democratic State government. Perhaps the Ohio democracy would object to such a committee.

A New Orleans despatch says that all the witnesses who were aboard of the Steamer Danube on their way to New Orleans to testify to democratic election frauds and murders before the grand jury would have been taken from the boat if it had not been for the determination of the chief mate, who refused to deliver up any one unless a warrant was produced for the arrest. A warrant for the arrest of only three was shown. One was not found, and the other two, Clark and White, were taken. A person who was on the steamer at the time, and a witness to the whole of these disgraceful proceedings, states that when the order for the arrest of Clark and White was shown to the prisoners, one of the men making the arrest remarked: "Here is your death warrant, you scoundrels."

It contains full accounts of all of importance that transpires in Portsmouth and its vicinity, and a condensed summary of NEWS, foreign and domestic; editorials upon current topics; New Hampshire items; carefully prepared marine news, containing reports of vessels owned at this port or offered by men from Portsmouth or its neighborhood; and is just the paper for residents desiring to be posted on all that takes place at home, while to those living in the vicinity of Portsmouth, or to former residents who retain their interest in the "old home by the sea," it is the best means of keeping informed of what transpires in this city.

PENNSYLVANIA

RAILROAD.

GREAT THROUGH LINE

AND

UNITED STATES MAIL ROUTE

The attention of the traveling public is respectfully invited to some of the merits of this great highway, in the confident assertion and belief that no other line can offer equal inducements as a route of through travel. In

Construction AND Equipment

THE

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

stands confessedly at the head of American railways. The track is double the entire length of the line, of steel rails laid on heavy oak ties, which are embedded in a foundation of rock ballast eighteen inches in depth. All bridges are of iron or stone, and built upon the most approved plans. Its passenger cars, while eminently safe and substantial, are at the same time models of comfort and elegance.

The Safety Appliances

in use on this line well illustrates the far-seeing and liberal policy of its management, in accordance with which the utility of any improvement and not its cost has been the question of consideration. Among many may be noticed

THE BLOCK SYSTEM OF SAFETY SIGNALS,

JANNEY COUPLER, BUFFER AND PLATFORM,

THE WHARTON PATENT SWITCH,

AND THE

WESTINGHOUSE AIR-BRAKE,

forming in conjunction with a perfect double track and road-bed combination of safeguards against accidents which have rendered them practically impossible.

Pullman Palace Cars

Are run on all Express Trains

From New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington,

To Chicago, Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, and St. Louis,

WITHOUT CHANGE,

and to all principal points in the far West and South with but one change of cars. Connections are made in Union Depots, and are assured to all important points.

The Scenery

OF THE

PENNSYLVANIA ROUTE

is admitted to be unsurpassed in the world for grandeur, beauty and variety. Superior refreshment facilities are provided. Employees are courteous and attentive, and it is an inevitable result that a trip by the Pennsylvania Railroad must form a PLEASING AND MEMORABLE EXPERIENCE.

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY

By its great and thorough Blood-purifying properties, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures all Humors, from the worst Scrofula to a common Pimple, or Eruption, including Herpetic Diseases, Mineral Poisons, and their effects, are eradicated, and vigorous health and a sound constitution established. Erysipelas, Salt-rheum, Fever Sores, Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful, purifying and invigorating medicine.

Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Rose Rash, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, White Swellings, Goitre or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands.

If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated, have sallow color of skin, or yellowish-brown spots on face or body, frequent headache or dizziness, bad taste in mouth, internal heat or chills alternated with hot flashes, low spirits, and gloomy forebodings, irregular appetite, and tongue coated, you are suffering from Torpid Liver, or "Biliousness." In many cases of "Liver Complaint" one or more of these symptoms are experienced. As a remedy for all such cases, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has no equal, as it effects perfect and radical cures.

In the cure of Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, and the early stages of Consumption, it stands without a rival, the medical faculty, and eminent physicians pronounce it the greatest medical discovery of the age. While it cures the severest Coughs, it strengthens the system and purifies the blood. Sold by druggists.

R. V. PIERCE, M. D., Proprietor, World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets

SIZE OF PELLETS.

THE "LITTLE GIANT" CATHARTIC.

No use of taking the large, repulsive, nauseous pills, composed of chalk, gritty and bulky ingredients. These Pellets are scarcely larger than mustard seeds. Being entirely vegetable, no particular care is required with taking them. They operate without disturbance to the constitution, diet, or occupation. For Jaundice, Headache, Constipation, Impure Blood, Pain in the Shoulders, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations from the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious attacks, Pain in region of Kidneys, Internal Fever, Bloated feeling about Stomach, Rush of Blood to Head, take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. In explanation of the remedial power of these Purgative Pellets over so great a variety of diseases, it may be said that their action upon the animal economy is universal, not a gland or tissue escaping their sanative impress. Age does not impair the powerful energies of these Pellets. They are sugar-coated and inclosed in glass bottles, thereby retaining thereby preserved unimpaired for any length of time, in any climate, so that they are always fresh and reliable. This is not the case with pills put up in cheap wooden or pasteboard boxes. For all diseases where a Laxative, Alterative, or Purgative, is indicated, these little Pellets will give the most perfect satisfaction. Sold by druggists.

R. V. PIERCE, M. D., Proprietor, World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

CATARRH

SYMPTOMS.—Frequent headache, discharge falling into throat, sometimes profuse, watery, thick mucous, purulent, offensive, etc. In others, a dryness, dry, watery, weak, or inflamed eyes, stopping up, or obstruction, of the nasal passages, ringing in ears, deafness, hawking and coughing to clear the throat, uncertain sense of smell and taste, voice altered, nasal twang, offensive breath, impaired or total deprivation of sense of smell and taste, wakefulness, mental depression, loss of appetite, indigestion, enlarged tonsils, tickling cough, etc. Only a few of these symptoms are likely to be present in any case at one time.

DR. SAGE'S CATARRH REMEDY

produces radical cures of the worst cases of Catarrh, no matter of how long standing. The liquid compound may be snuffed, or better applied by the use of Dr. PIERCE'S Douche. This is the only form of instrument yet invented with which fluid medicine can be carried HIGH UP and PERFECTLY APPLIED to all parts of the affected nasal passages, and the chambers or cavities communicating therewith, in which sores are most frequently found. In this way the catarrhal discharge generally proceeds. Its use is pleasant and easily understood, from directions accompanying each instrument. Dr. SAGE'S Catarrh Remedy cures recent attacks of "Cold in the Head" by a few applications. It is mild and pleasant to use, containing no strong or caustic drugs or potions. Catarrh Remedy and Douche sold by druggists. R. V. PIERCE, M. D., Prop'r, World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

Daily Chronicle.

A Choice Work.

The Family Library of British Poetry, from Chaucer to the present time, 1350-1878; edited by James T. Fields and Edwin P. Whipple. The excellent chronological arrangement of English poetry gives us just what is needed; a Family Library without any selections which could not properly be read in the domestic circle. The editors have had no easy task in thus presenting the best results of the British poets of five centuries. For those whose means or inclinations do not permit the purchase of poetical works of various authors, to a large extent, here may be found choice extracts from every poet of Britain that has in these long years attained celebrity as a writer of verses. With this work in the family every one can acquire a proper knowledge of the poetry that has delighted the readers in the past and to-day takes the highest rank in the estimation of appreciative minds. There is enjoyment in this book for every one, old and young, grave and gay, practical or poetical.

It may seem to some of our readers that it must have been an easy task for such a poet as Mr. Fields with his knowledge of literary men and his familiarity with the tastes of readers, and Mr. Whipple with his abundant experience as a critic, to have made this compilation from the writings of between four and five hundred authors, but there never was a better opportunity for the exercise of correct taste, showing a proper knowledge of the subject, and at the same time performing the delicate editorial duty of determining what to omit, as well as deciding what should appear. The editors have done a great work. They have rendered a valuable aid in thus producing a volume both educational and entertaining, not a book of a thousand pages with extracts from writers gathered here and there, with a purpose simply to please the idler, but one designed to fill an important place in every family library. We have not the space to particularize upon the selections; the fitness of the editors for their work is a guaranty of the manner in which it has been performed. Opposite the title page is a fine engraving of Chaucer, to whom many of our readers were so happily introduced by Mr. Albee in his recent lecture, while a dozen fine heliotype portraits of Spenser, Shakespere, Milton, Scott, Byron, Tennyson, etc., appear at chronological intervals.

The publishers, Messrs. Houghton, Osgood & Co., of Boston, have well done their part toward making this an attractive volume, the mechanical execution being in keeping with the character of the book.

If any of our readers have any hesitation as to the kind of holiday present they ought to make, their doubts will be removed upon an examination of this work, which needs but to be seen to become appreciated by every one whose taste inclines them to the best and most refining in literature.

The number of Littell's Living Age for the week ending Jan'y 4th begins its one hundred and fortieth volume. In this volume George MacDonald's new and increasingly interesting serial story, "Sir Gibbie," will be continued from week to week until completed; a new serial, "The Bride's Pass," by Sarah Tytler, whose previous stories attracted so much attention in The Living Age, will be begun in January; a serial story, "The Romance of Calcot House," by Katharine S. Macquoid, author of "Patty," etc., is announced to appear early in the new year; choice short stories, for which The Living Age has become noted, including translations from the French, etc., will continue a feature of the magazine; and, through the year, the leading foreign authors will be represented in this department of the periodical. In science, politics, theology and general literature, articles are mentioned as forthcoming from the foremost thinkers, investigators and writers. In short, with the recent great impetus given to foreign periodical literature, The Living Age promises to be richer than ever in the work of the ablest minds of the time, and will give their productions with a completeness not elsewhere attempted. The begining of a new year is a favorable time for the begining of a subscription; and the publishers still present to new subscribers for 1879, the six numbers of 1878 containing the first part of Macdonald's "Sir Gibbie." Littell & Gay, Boston, Publishers.

At Paterson, N. J., Saturday morning, a tremendous explosion of nitro-glycerine occurred, killing three men, the only persons near the building where this dangerous explosive was manufactured.

Portsmouth Chronicle

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 31, 1878.

Should the Naval Vessels of the United States be Common Carriers?

After so much effort at obtaining a subsidy for a line of steamers to Brazil, it seems as if it were proper for the head of the Navy to enforce the regulations contained in the articles for the government of the Navy, which prohibits every person connected with the Navy from importing in a public vessel under any pretence, any article which is liable to the payment of duty, and which also prohibits any person from taking, receiving or permitting to be received on board of the vessel to which he is attached any goods or merchandise for freight without authority from the President or the Secretary of the Navy. The last ship of the Navy which arrived at this port brought from fifteen to twenty casks of wine for various persons, some as far off as St. Louis, others resident on Beacon street, Boston. Some of these were for officials of the United States, other were for private citizens.

The Treasury department was notified of the intended importation and when the vessel went to Norfolk on her way home, the grape juice was not landed, but came to Portsmouth. The eyes of the importers who pay duties were upon the officials of the Treasury, and the wine had to be seized. Now we do not suppose that these wines were imported with the intention of the consignees to sell them, but were for consumption and division among friends. True, they could be sent in a freighting ship, but there is something in a sea voyage that gives an additional bouquet to certain wines, and the peculiar motion of a government vessel and the steady long roll of a man-of-war in the opinion of not a few connoisseurs causes an improvement of the flavor better enjoyed than described. Besides, the delays in the Custom House in New York, when goods are not permitted to go out of bond until the duties are paid, are proverbial. The result is, Portsmouth as a port for the receipt of wine, whether in Virginia or in New Hampshire, is preferred to New York. Of course the Secretary of the Navy permitted the goods to come as freight, and this is one way to head off the results of a niggardly appropriation for the expenditures of the Navy, an expedient worthy of our Ex-Secretary who is preparing to inform Congress upon the intricacies of his administration.

At any rate the Collector was obliged to seize the wine, and under the ordinary process the wine would have been condemned and sold. But the owners had too much influence to permit them to suffer in the ordinary mode prescribed in such cases and they brought to bear upon the Treasury Department the same powers that had managed to obtain the permit for their choice Madeira to be freighted to our shores, and the Secretary at once ordered the wine to be given up upon payment of a fine equivalent to and in lieu of duties, so that the pure juice of the grape if it pays any freight pays a low one, and the same duty which a wine importer would pay who honestly enters his goods.

The custom is one likely to be fraught with evil. It is time the Secretary of the Navy put a stop to the practice of competing with lines of steamers ready to carry freight from foreign ports whose cargoes would regularly enter at the Custom House and pay proper duties. If one set of men have the right to have their wines come into the country in naval vessels, why not serve every one alike?

If it is proper to import by such ships, it is equally proper to export or ship coastwise, merchandise. If a member of the executive branch of the government that expends the funds of the country can freight in this way, why not a member of the legislative branch from which is appropriated the funds necessary to float the ships of the Navy. In fine, it is just as proper to permit Frank Jones to load the Tallapoosa with ate destined for Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk as to allow the Guard to bring in wine for different parts of the country. The importers of the country and the owners of vessels should not be interfered with by the government in the exercise of their business unless under some more especial legislative enactments than are contained in the present statutes.

Onslow Stearns.

Ex-Gov. Onslow Stearns died in Concord at half-past eight o'clock Sunday night, of Bright's disease. He was a native of Billerica, Mass. His father was a farmer, and he was to a large extent self educated. He married a Miss Holbrook of Nashua, who with a son and four daughters survives him. He has all his life been concerned in railroad matters, and for forty years has been one of the most prominent railroad men in New Hampshire. He built (as contractor) the Nashua & Lowell railroad in 1838, and afterward became its superintendent. In 1845-48 he was agent for the corporators of the Northern railroad, from Concord to White River Junction, was superintendent of it until 1851, and since then to the time of his death its president. In 1866 he took charge of the Fall River railroad in Massachusetts, and under his management the Old Colony property was brought to a profitable basis. He was elected governor of New Hampshire by the republicans in 1869, and re-elected in 1870. He is best known as governor by the reduction of nearly $800,000 in the State debt during his administration, and his making the State prison a source of revenue instead of heavy loss. In religion he was an earnest Unitarian, and he was a liberal benefactor of that church. He leaves a large fortune, estimated at over $1,000,000.

Free Trade in Ships.

At the present time, when certain persons are clamoring at and in Congress about the value of "free trade in ships" as a panacea for the depression in American shipping interests, the British shipowners by (the only persons who would be benefited the admission to American registry of foreign-built ships) are complaining bitterly that British shipping is idle all over the world, though England enjoys free trade in ships to the extreme. Every quarter of the commercial world has the same record to give of depression in the ocean carrying trade unparalleled by any experience. We cut from a Bristol, Eng., ship-owner's speech, as printed in the British Maritime Journal, the following showing of the deplorable state of the British carrying trade: "In no part of the world is any shipping concern, unless it be some small obscure company in possession of a specialty, making a profit, while our ports are crowded with sound vessels, which nevertheless, cannot be sent on a voyage wherein the receipts promise to equal the expenses. We have not only beaten the foreigner out of the carrying trade of the world, but have cut our own throats in the bargain. And that pungent way of putting the matter might serve for a general account of much British trade. Last month more than 50,000 tons of shipping were lying idle in Bombay. In Calcutta, ships had been lying twelve months, during which time there has been from 80,000 to 100,000 tons disengaged and constantly pressing on the market, with freights averaging about one-half the paying rate. The China seas and the straits are full of ships. In Australia, a friend has had a ship waiting for three months for a chance to load. In San Francisco, there were in July 100,000 tons lying in port. The explanation of the present condition of the shipping trade is no new or intricate story. Free trade increased the volume of exchange in the world—in other words the volume of the carrying trade of the world—so immensely in proportion to the then existing supply of shipping, that high profits were the rule for many years. Ship-building was actively stimulated and all the arts connected with it were energetically spurred on. The history of the building of iron ships is the history of a constant series of discoveries and inventions, involving a rapidly progressive facility of production, and leading by changes of form and new systems of management, to such a reduction of cost and extension of accommodation as would have seemed, only a year or two before each improvement, to be fabulous and incredible. Hence a perpetual temptation to fresh tonnage; and hence two millions pounds sterling of shipping are lying idle in the Indian ports at this moment." Of what benefit, we ask, would it be to the American vessel-owner who already cannot find remunerative employment for his ships, to allow the British vessel-owner to put his idle ships under our flag and take away what is still left to us of the carrying trade? for that is all it would amount to.

News and Notes.

Phillips Brooks makes bold to say that the doctrine of the Trinity will prove small and thin in the presence of God, when we approach the throne.

Philadelphia does not mean to be behind New York, and has a remarkable will case.

Buffalo Bill is reported to have made $135,000 on the stage, most of which is invested in cattle.

The cadets at Annapolis are to be allowed to smoke. For those who do not use the weed there will be nothing in the curriculum requiring its being learned, as the youngsters are apt enough to find it out themselves.

A woman in Brooklyn has undertaken to walk 2700 quarter-miles in 2700 quarter-hours, with the condition that each quarter of a mile should be begun with each quarter of an hour. If such energetic self-denial could be exerted for some good purpose, what a large amount of good might be accomplished.

George C. Rand, formerly senior member of the widely-known printing firm of Rand & Avery of Boston, died at Newton Centre, Mass., Sunday evening, aged fifty-nine years.

Gen. Butler has spent much time in New York in trying the case against Gen. Sheridan, wherein damages were sought for an alleged illegal dispossession of the owner of a plantation. Gen. Butler, it is said, does not "take" as a lawyer in New York. Certainly he does not take a verdict in this case. But why this great reformer could continuously neglect his duties as a Representative in Congress all the time since the present session began does not appear. The only certain thing about it is, that the business of Congress has not been completed speedier or better for many a day than when Mr. Butler was absent.

The steamship Emily B. Souder, previously reported lost with thirty-six lives, only two men being saved, foundered when two days out from New York, in the great gale of Dec. 10th. The two men saved floated on a life-raft for two days before being picked up by the schooner Abbott Devereaux, from Boston.

A sharp game was successfully played in New York Saturday by a curbstone broker, who swindled Field & James, brokers, out of $30,000 in 4 1-2 per cent. bonds. He ordered the bonds purchased for him, and when they were handed to him showed a check which he said he wished to have certified, and stepping out with the bonds in his possession has not been seen since.

The manufactory of the Emerson Piano company, on the corner of Albany and Wareham streets, Boston, was burned to the ground Saturday evening, together with a large amount of stock in various stages of manufacture. The loss was about $65,000. The property was well insured.

The pocket-book lost by the messenger of the Importer's and Traders' bank of New York on Friday has been returned by mail, minus $7739. The letter containing the securities, etc., was put in the post office at seven o'clock Friday evening, but there is no clue to the sender, and the bank officers appear quite satisfied.

We have received No. 1 of Vol. 1 of the United Service a quarterly review devoted primarily to the interests of the army and navy of the United States, but at the same time giving articles of such general interest as to interest the general reader. L. R. Hamersly & Co., No. 1510 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, publishers; terms $2.50 a year; single number seventy-five cents. The contents of the first number include "Our navy," by Admiral David D. Porter, U. S. N.; "Polar colonization and the preliminary Artic expidition of 1877-78," by Capt. H. W. Howgate, U. S. A.; "Conversions of cannon," by Commodore E. Simpson, U. S. N.; "Reminiscent of the 'New Ironsides' off Charleston," by Capt. Geo. E. Belknap, U. S. N.; "The wreck of the Huron," by Asst. Eng. E. T. Warburton, U. S. N.; "The naval brigade and the marine batallions in the labor strikes of 1877," (1st paper,) by Lieut. Henry C. Cochrane, U. S. M. C.; and other articles, historical and scientific, etc. The new quarterly takes a position hitherto unoccupied, and if the promise of the initial number is made good the publication will at once become an institution of permanence and value.

The U. S. S. Enterprise arrived at Gibralter Dec. 27th, and the Wyoming arrived at Villa Franche on the 26th.

Oscar E. Jones' store near the depot in Farmington was burned Sunday morning. Loss $3000; insured $250. A storehouse belonging to Jones was also burned, and goods belonging to Samuel Berry destroyed; loss $1000; insured $500. Also goods worth $500 belonging to Frank Ham; uninsured. Incendiary.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

CONSUMERS should bear in mind that the incomparable "Royal" is now the only Baking Powder in the market made from pure Grape Cream Tartar, imported exclusively for this powder direct from the wine-growing district of France. An old experienced housekeeper writes this, although she has to pay a few cents more for the "Royal," finds that it goes so much further and works so much better, that it is economy to use it. Another says she uses the powder in puddings, cakes, and all sorts of pastry, without eggs. An old lady writes that it makes the only biscuit her dyspeptic husband can eat. This is because the best and most wholesome materials are used. Approved by the New York Board of Health, and by such eminent chemists as Dr. MOTT, New York; Dr. HAYES, Boston; Prof. GENTH, Philadelphia, etc. Sold in tin cans only. dtsept1079

THE CITY.

Rev. Mr. Hubbell will give a reception on New Year's evening at his residence, No. 23 Court street, to the members of his parish.

The assignee of the Ten Cents Savings bank announces a second dividend of twenty per cent, payable now. See advertisement.

The smelters on Great Bay are doing well just now. They averaged from twenty-five to thirty pounds of fish each, on Saturday.

It is stated that the New York Tea and Flour Store has effected a settlement with its creditors, who agree to accept the offer of twenty cents on a dollar.—Times.

The schooner Grace Choate, Capt. White, and the Harp, Capt. Smith, have arrived at this port from Eastport with frozen herring for bait for the winter-fishing fleet's use.

At the regular meeting of New Hampshire Lodge, No. 17, I. O. O. F., held on Christmas night, the following officers were elected for the ensuing term: N. G., Charles G. Locke; V. G., Arthur F. Pfeiffer; R. S., Thornton Betton; Treasurer, John M. Clark.

No. 83 of Leavitt's Farmers' Almanac, by Wm. B. Leavitt, nephew and pupil of Dudley Leavitt, published by Edson C. Eastman of Concord, contains the usual court announcements, rates of postage, etc., that the farmers of New Hampshire have for years depended on this little work to tell them of. For sale at the bookstores; price ten cents.

The members of Osgood Lodge of Odd Fellows will be entertained at half past six o'clock on Friday evening next, in Pythian hall, at a supper given by the ladies, who cordially invite the brethren and their families, and request all contributions of articles for the tables to be sent in to the hall as soon as possible after one o'clock Friday afternoon.

Piscataqua Lodge of Odd Fellows at the meeting Monday evening reconsidered the vote passed a few weeks ago to occupy the new hall, and voted by a large majority to indefinitely postpone the subject, and to notify the sister lodges of this action. Officers were elected as follows: N. G., Langdon M. Perkins; V. G., Ira W. Brock. The other officers are the same as for the present term.

Coal dropped fifty cents on a ton—from $6.00 to $5.50—in this city on Monday, owing no doubt to the collapse of the combination among the great coal mining companies. Coal at $5.50 a ton is very nice for the consumer; but at that price it means that somebody—either the miner, the railroad man or the sailor who depends on the transportation of coal for his livelihood, or some other worker—has got to go hungry. Coal cannot be laid down in this market at that price, and give everybody engaged in its production a living.

Mr. J. Q. Maynard, who it will be remembered was in this city about two years ago with the finest stereopticon exhibition (the "Centennial") ever shown here, opens in Franklin hall on Wednesday evening of this week with splendid views of the Paris Exposition, the city and suburbs of Paris, Switzerland, Germany and the Rhine, Rome and the cities of Italy, statuary, celebrated paintings, etc. The price of tickets is: admission, ten cents! reserved seats, fifteen cents. The exhibition continues through the week, afternoons and evenings.

The tickets for Miss Wendell's concert Thursday evening went off lively on Monday, as they should, for the entertainment offered will be superior, a duet by Miss Wendell and Mrs. Flora E. Barry being alone worth more than the price of admission, not to mention solos by each of these ladies. Mr. Wm. H. Hunt, basso and humorous vocalist, will sing "The bashful man" and "Father Malloy," and will read "Over the hills to the poor house." The reading by Miss Hattie B. Carter, of the selection entitled "Charles Edward at Versailles on the anniversary of Culloden," has been received everywhere with enthusiasm.

ART ON THE MERRIMACK.

The Manchester Art Association has recently given its annual winter exhibition. The Mirror devotes considerable space in description of the various contributions. Among them is "a very handsome portrait strikingly bold in execution, from the brush of Miss Mary E. B. Miller of Portsmouth. She possesses," says the Mirror, "a good knowledge of art, as what she does clearly reveals."

The critic adds: "Close by, in the same high atmosphere of excellence, hung two Italian paintings which were purchased abroad by Ex-Gov. Smyth." This, we infer, must be "high art." The usual furor for painting China plates, etc., seems to have had its run in Manchester, as elsewhere.

JOHN PEARSON.

Deacon John Pearson died in Newburyport on Tuesday of last week, aged ninety years and five months. He was born in that town, but when a young man came to Portsmouth (about 1814) and established himself on Church-hill as a baker, where for some seventeen years he did a very extensive business, a large four-story building being entirely occupied by him. This city was then a great commercial centre, and West Indiamen, sealers, Mediterranean traders and others furnished a large demand for his goods, exclusive of his local trade. About 1830 he removed to Exeter, and soon after to Portland. In the latter city his abolition proclivities caused him to incur the ire of the great public, not yet prepared for the revolution which came so long after. In the church at Portland, at the monthly concert of prayer, he always lifted up his supplications for the slaves of the south and their masters; this of course provoked much discussion, but as Mr. Pearson, with all his obstinacy in the course he deemed right, always prayed for the slaveholder instead of denouncing him, the good people of the church finally concluded to stand his prayers as best they might, and gave up trying to stop him. In Newburyport, his place of business was several times set on fire on account of his temperance utterances, for he was as outspoken on temperance as on slavery. He was proverbial for his kindness to the poor, and his home was for years known as "the minister' shotel." He entertained the celebrated Dr. King, the persecuted missionary to Greece, to whom he sent a message asking him to make the "minister's hotel" his home during his sickness. Mr. Pearson was in early life a Congregationalist, but later united with the Calvinistic Baptists; at the time of his death he was a deacon of the Advent church. He gave up business about 1850.

DIPHTHERIA.

An exchange says: It has been discovered that the prevalence of diphtheria in New York is directly caused by sanitary defects in the plumbing and ventilation of houses. The board of health had a thorough examination made of the surroundings of one locality, where the most malignant cases have occurred, and it was discovered that the houses are built over an old cemetery, and the sewer pipes of the dwellings empty into a sewer which passes through the cemetery. Thus the subjects were literary poisoned. The board ordered the causes removed and the disease was promptly checked in that vicinity. This is the way to meet the outbreak of any disease in cities, but it is better far to remove the causes before the produce the disease.

The result of carelessness in the laying of sewer pipes and the ommission to use proper traps and like precautionary measures, is seen in the prevalence of diphtheria and typhoid, when often the cause is unsuspected. The importance of having all sewer pipes properly guarded cannot be everestimated. The patent sink-trap as sold in this vicinity by Mr. Lewis B. Marden, agent for the inventor and manufacturer, H. W. Clapp of Concord, is a sure preventative of gases from drains coming into houses, and is becoming in quite general use in this locality.

POLICE COURT.

MONDAY, Dec. 30; Batchelder, J.

Charles Stockbridge paid $3 fine and $6.90 costs, for having been drunk.

William DeCourcey was up on a complaint of insult, but was discharged, the magistrate ruling that the evidence did not sustain the complaint. Mr. DeCourcey, it seems, being a married man, met a young woman on the street Sunday evening and invited her to accompany him to a concert or meeting of some kind in Franklin hall. This proposal the young woman declined with wrath, and caused the complaint to be lodged. Probably the judge is right in his construction of of the law—we presume he knows more about the law than we do—and that for a married man to accost on the street a woman not his wife, and ask her to go to a place of public entertainment with him, is not "insulting" her within the meaning of the statute, however much she may feel insulted and annoyed; but we should think the publication of the aforesaid married man's proceedings would have a tendency to make things lively for him at home.

THE VICINITY.

Epping has voted, one hundred and ten to ninety-one, to prohibit the sale of lager beer.

The Biddeford Charitable Association held its annual meeting on Wednesday evening of last week, elected officers, and found it had $300 in the treasury.

Rev. H. J. White, for some time back pastor of the Free Baptist church in Biddeford, on Sunday last preached his farewell sermon, having accepted a call from the Free Baptists of Bath. Mr. White will commence his labors in Bath next Sunday.

Something for the New Year.

The world renowned success of Hostetter's Bitters, and their continued popularity for a quarter of a century as a stomachic, is scarcely more wonderful than the welcome that greets the annual appearance of Hostetter's Almanac. This valuable medical treatise is published by Hostetter & Smith, Pittsburgh, Pa., under their own immediate supervision, employing 80 hands in that department. Ten cylinder printing presses, 8 folding machines, 5 job presses, &c., are running about eleven months in the year on this work, and the issue of same for 1879 will not be less than ten millions, printed in the English, German, French, Welch, Norwegian, Swedish, Holland, Bohemian and Spanish languages. Refer to a copy of it for valuable and interesting reading concerning health testimonials as to the efficacy of Hostetter's Bitters, amusement, varied information, astronomical calculations and chronological items, &c., which can be depended on for 1879 and can be obtained free of cost, from druggists and general country dealers in all parts of the country.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure for consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive, and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send, free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and using, in German, French, or English. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. W. Sherar, 149 Powers' Block, Rochester, New York. tjan1

A single pail of water in season has saved many a splendid block—one bottle of Adamson's Cough Balsam may save a life if taken in time. It cures coughs, colds, croup, &c.

CRISTADORO'S HAIR DYE

No other is recognized in the world of fashion by either sex. Its swift operation, the ease with which it is applied, the remarkable naturalness of the browns and blacks it imparts, its exemption from all unpleasant odor or caustic ingredient, and its general effect on the hair and skin, are the good and sufficient causes of its unprecedented popularity. Manufactured by J. CRISTADORO, No. 23 William St., New York. Sold by all Druggists. Applied by all Hair Dressers. tjan15

DEVOE'S BRILLIANT OIL

1st. Is absolutely safe.
2d. Gives a powerful, brilliant white light.
3d. Does not smoke, nor smell, nor crust the wick.
4th. Is the most economical oil, because it gives the most light in proportion to its price.

We give the following letter to show the absolute freedom of Devoe's Brilliant Oil from any inflammable vapor, and as a curious incident:

PATERSON, N. J., April 17, 1877.

DEVOE MANUFACTURING CO.

Gentlemen:—I take great pleasure in sending this unsolicited recommendation of your Kerosene Oil.

At the great fire in this place, which destroyed Norwood's Paint and Oil establishment, and other buildings, on the 13th inst., your Oil stood one of most severe tests that Oil could be put to; for four [4] hours the Oil was in the hottest part of the fire, and such a fire as only Varnish, Turpentine, Oils and Paints can make, and in all that time there was no explosion of your Oil, and the cans containing the Oil were in very near the same condition after the fire as before.

I take great pleasure in recommending this Oil, as in my opinion it is the safest Oil for sale in the market. I remain, very respectfully,

JOHN E. REGNER,
Chief of Fire Department.

MADE BY MACHINERY!

Having purchased the "HOLMES JUMBLE AND CAKE MACHINE," with the exclusive right of the New England States, I now propose to place in every first-class Grocery a variety of rich Cake Goods in addition to the 144 kinds of Crackers and Biscuit now manufactured by me, at a price that will enable them to be used freely, and which is far below what the same class of goods can be made for by hand as at present. At the same time they will be found much superior, being uniform, and much lighter and more delicate than can possibly be produced by hand.

The following are some of the varieties now produced by the machine:

Confectioner's Jumbles,	Sugar Plum Drops,
Cinnamon " " Marble Top	Variegated " Drop Pound Cake,

I propose to place in every Store a Sample Box, and a trial of them will prove all the advertisement calls for. If your Grocer has not already these goods in stock, ask him to order from the Sole Mart in the New England States. tf1

Gradually, the wild and ungovernable forces of nature are, through science, made of use to man. Following in the wake of the ingenious inventions for the use of steam and electricity, comes the organization of the U. S. Signal Service. Is it not wonderful that a system could be originated and perfected whereby an operator can accurately predict the weather of a distant locality? And yet experience proves our "storm signals" to be reliable. Equally great are the advances made in the science of medicine. Step by step, uncertainties and doubts have yielded to absolute certainty. The discoveries of Harvey and Jenner have been succeeded by the Golden Medical Discovery of Dr. R. V. Pierce. No longer need people despair because some physician has pronounced the lungs unsound. Hundreds of testimonials are on file in the office of Dr. Pierce from those who had abandoned all hope, and had been given up to die by physicians and friends. Incipient consumption, bronchitis, and scrofulous tumors, speedily, surely, and permanently, yield to the healing influences of this Discovery. If the bowels be constipated, use Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. For full particulars, see Pierce's Memorandum Book, given away by all druggists.

—"George," said a school-mistress to one of her unruly scholars, "why is it you behave so badly? When you first came to school you were obedient, submissive, and willing to learn; now you are just the contrary." "Well, to tell the truth, marm," said George, "I was not much acquainted then."

—Mrs. Grace Brittain is a New Jersey matron whose one hundred and three years are thoroughly authenticated. She was nearly three years old when Washington made his famous crossing of the Delaware, and she took part in the centennial observance of that event. Her maiden name was Bellis. At the recent social commemoration of her hundred and third birthday, she entered heartily into the family festivities, kept time to the music, gave the guests many pleasant reminiscences of her long and peaceful life, and laughed heartily with the local editor at the idea of "putting her in the newspaper." Mrs. Brittain was born in Hunterdon county, where she still lives.

Frank Tillotson of St. Johnsbury, Vt., had an offer while in Salt Lake City recently of five wives and a good situation on the railroad, provided he would give a tenth of his receipts to the church. He was not afraid of the railroad, but the offer as a whole frightened him, and he started for the east as soon as possible after it was made.

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY

By its great and thorough Blood-purifying properties, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures all Humors, from the worst Scrofula to a common Blotch, Pimple, or Eruption. Mercurial Disease, Mineral Poisons, and their effects, are eradicated, and perfect health and a sound constitution established. Erysipelas, Salt-rheum, Fever Sores, Scaly Skin, Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood, are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine.

Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Rose Rash, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, White Swellings, Goitre or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands.

If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated, have sallow color of skin, or yellowish-brown spots on face or body, frequent headache or dizziness, bad taste in mouth, internal heat or chills alternated with hot flashes, low spirits, and gloomy forebodings, irregular appetite, and tongue coated, you are suffering from Torpid Liver, or "Biliousness." In many cases of "Liver Complaint" only part of these symptoms are experienced. As a remedy for all such cases, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has no equals, as it effects perfect and radical cures.

In its cure of Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, and the early stages of Consumption, it has astonished the medical faculty, and eminent physicians pronounce it the greatest medical discovery of the age. While it cures obstinate Coughs, it strengthens the system and purifies the blood, as will be proved by a trial.

R. V. PIERCE, M. D., Proprr. World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets

SIZE OF PELLETS.

THE "LITTLE GIANT" CATHARTIC.

No use of taking the large, repulsive, nauseous pills, composed of chalk, crude, and bulky ingredients. These Pellets are scarcely larger than mustard seeds.

Being entirely vegetable, no particular care is required while using them. They operate without disturbance to the constitution, diet, or occupation. For Jaundice, Headache, Constipation, Impure Blood, Pain in the Shoulders, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations from the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious attacks, Pain in region of Kidneys, Internal Fever, Bloated feeling about Stomach, Rush of Blood to Head, take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. In exploration of the remedial power of these Purgative Pellets over so great a variety of diseases, it may be said that their action upon the animal economy is universal, not a gland or tissue escapes the sanative impress. Age does not impair the properties of these Pellets. They are sugar-coated and enclosed in glass bottles, their virtues being thereby preserved unimpaired for any length of time, in any climate, so that they are equally fresh and reliable. This is not the case with pills put up in cheap wooden or pasteboard boxes. For all diseases where a Laxative, Alterative, or Purgative, is indicated, these little Pellets will give the most perfect satisfaction. Sold by druggists.

DR. SAGE'S CATARRH REMEDY

Produces radical cures of the worst cases of Catarrh, however long standing. The liquid or powder may be snuffed, or better applied by the use of Dr. PIERCE'S Douche. This is the only form of treatment yet invented with which fluid medicine can be carried up into the nasal passages, and to all parts of the affected nasal passages, and the chambers or cavities communicating therewith, in which sores and ulcers frequently exist, and from which the catarrhal discharge proceeds. Its use is pleasant and easily understood, from directions accompanying each instrument. Dr. SAGE'S Catarrh Remedy cures most attacks of "Cold in the Head" by a few applications. It is mild and pleasant to use, containing no Snuff or caustic drugs or poisons. Catarrh Remedy and Douche sold by druggists.
